I went outside anyway, and I chatted with some neighbors. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-Its with iced tea. CIO

I took the two Ezonics web cams which did not have good resolution off the Gigabyte bedroom computer and the Northgate Syntax computer, and I put them on the shelf on the sideboard where I store the vitamins. I moved the Intel web cam to bedroom Gigabyte computer, and it recognized it plug and play. I installed the two WebCam Instant web cams on the Epox and Northgate computer. I installed their drivers. I installed the software only on the XP Professional partition on the Epox computer. I backed up both systems to the Bytecc external hard drive, and the Epox also to the second internal hard drive. I put the Creative CDs and information on top of the plastic box on the sideboard in the bedroom beneath the CD case. I watered the plants, and I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I told a neighbor who sits outside a bit about the red wolf. I will now steam two Nathan's hotdogs, and I will eat them on hotdog buns with ketchup and Dijon mustard with two ears of steamed corn on the cob with butter and a half cup of steamed baby carrots with olive oil and a glass of iced tea. I usually steam a large group of items for 15 minutes in a pot on the stove with an inch of water and steamer tray and with lid. For smaller amounts of vegetables, one can put an inch of water in a plastic microwave pot with lid and steam the vegetables on a few vegetables cycles in the GE microwave oven. CIO

Note: <888> 05/29/08 Thursday 11:50 P.M. I emailed my notes list about the Red Wolf. The way I figure it, the Red Wolf could have been around for a while. It looks closer to 80 pounds or more, and it looks like it has been eating quite well in this area. Maybe it did not bother me before all of the times I was out at night this past winter, since in the cold weather I would go out to check around the building in my red union suit and red terry cloth bathrobe. It would be interesting to know if Red Wolves eat skunks or not, and it might explain what happened to all of the skunks that used to be in this area. I thought the Great Horned owls in the area were eating the skunks.

Note: <888> 05/29/08 Thursday 6:40 P.M. After I ate, I showered, and I cleaned up, which we do not get to do as often anymore with the higher price of energy around here. I then went out, and I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop, and I looked at a big jug to put iced tea in the refrigerator, but I figured it would be too heavy to lift to put in when full, so I did not buy it. They have an old Hospital Scale there for any very heavy people to weigh themselves. I chatted with somebody that looked like Flip Wilson that used to work for the Mafia in New York. He told me people are still drinking too much alcohol down in Fort Lauderdale. Real southern people do not drink much alcohol, but usually drink iced tea. I guess it is the tourists that drink too much alcohol. I then went to my usual Thursday 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by CVS. I had been emailed a coupon for a free package of CVS Back Pack Buddies anti-bacterial wipes with any purchase, but the store did not have it in stock. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and full service premium unleaded gasoline is now $5.019 a gallon. I bought $8 of self service premium for $4.819 a gallon for 1.66 gallons for 27 miles driving since last Thursday odometer reading of 59954 for 16.265 miles per gallon. The way I figure it, somebody could make money selling used expensive gasoline consuming cars from the United States down in Venezuela. I know Alex Kruger and Steve Shook in Venezuela, so maybe we could set them up in the used car business. When I was briefly on Greenwich Avenue, there were a lot more people walking Greenwich Avenue, and it seemed as busy as usual. The parking lot behind CVS was totally filled up too. I then returned home. I helped a neighbor bring up a small marble and brass statue of an angel. I gave the neighbor one of my internet cards. I picked up my mail. I chatted with a relative. I will now eat two steamed Nathan hotdogs with hotdog buns and ketchup and dijon mustard, two ears of steamed corn on the cob with butter, and a half cup of baby carrots with olive oil and a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 05/29/08 Thursday 11:45 A.M. I chatted with a relative. After I straightened up the items underneath the sideboard in the bedroom, I threw out some garbage. I went outside on the east end of the building, and my neighbor was cleaning up her garden pots that somebody had broken. Apparently the local youth are always causing damage to her garden setup over the years. I told the neighbor about the wolf that I saw last Saturday morning at 1 A.M.. I walked around the building, and I told the building custodian about the wolf I saw. I chatted with the grounds attendant watering the plants at the veterans monument flag pole, and I told him about the wolf, and since he is a bow hunter in the area, he knew that they are in the area. I told him about some other wildlife sighting elsewhere over the years. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will eat a baloney and cheese sandwich with a glass of iced tea and a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips. I ate two bowls of goldfish crackers. I went back to bed until 2:30 A.M.. I picked up the mail. I did not go outside in case any wolves were around in the early morning hours. Yesterday, I faxed a copy of my extra energy grant letter to an associate to see I am getting any extra energy assistance. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 5:30 A.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I watched some television. I went outside, and I chatted with a neighbor. I checked the oil on my Audi engine, and it is topped up to the maximum level on the dip stick. It says not to over fill it, or one can have problems with the catalytic converter. When opening the trunk on the Audi, once it is unlocked, one has to lift it up hard to get it to open. I noticed the gas tank flap on one of my neighbor's car was opened. I have a locking gas flap with a central alarm system. I could get a locking gas cap too, but at this point, I don't think I need it. I have a 3 P.M. appointment today. After I go through my email, I will straightened up the various items underneath the sideboard in the bedroom. Three years ago, it cost $50,000 to fill up Wayne's boat in Fort Lauderdale, so it must cost a $100,000 today. There is a lot of Chinese news on television today. I also saw yesterday, they are selling 2,000 Porsches a year in Dubai. CIO

Note: <888> 05/27/08 Tuesday 8:15 A.M. Before going to bed last night, I emailed this note to a couple of individuals and associates.

I received email four days ago from an email pen pal in Grenna, Denmark who works with computers near the Royal Palace in Copenhagen, Denmark. I have not met the individual, but I know he came to America and rode around on a Harley Davidson chopper. I had not heard from the individual in two years. He emailed me that his wife had hidden his cigarettes in a toaster oven and his Bic Lighter in the coffee machine, and when he made coffee the next morning, the coffee machine blew up, and it took several hours to clean up the mess, and he was late for work. What bothers me is not that I had not heard from the individual in two years, but he was suppose to be my Danish coastal observer to let me know if the Russian fleet sailed between Denmark and Sweden. The reason some people still use coastal observers is that satellite photographs can still be faked the way any other images can be. As such, the fact that he emailed me after so long of a time could mean the Russian Fleet or the Wolf Pack as I use to call it has finally sailed out to sea for some sort of military maneuver. Since it is the strongest Navy fleet in the world, it could obviously cause problems anywhere it visited. However, I have not received direct email that it has indeed sailed, but the fact the person was only suppose to email me if it did indeed sail, leads me to believe that it might have indeed sailed. It is my personal viewpoint we do not have to worry about being invaded here in the United States of America, since the country is down the tubes and bankrupt, but some other more prosperous countries might have some sort of problems. It is the nature of all Navies at sea, that they are basically pirates, so from what I know sooner or later, somebody should try to figure out where in the World the Russian Baltic Fleet is, or if it is still at its home ports in the Baltic Sea. Since most people around this country watch www.cnn.com which comes from land locked Atlanta, Georgia, there is not much interest in the media in terms of any potential activity around the oceans of the world. I tried to network with a few associates on matter, but nobody was interested in my insights, since it is not on www.cnn.com .

I just remembered, when two fellows from Tulsa Oklahoma offered a friend of mine Norman, Targon from Lewiston, Maine; $50,000 to kill me on Fort Lauderdale Beach in October 1976, I was somewhat disturbed since my sister Jan and her husband lived in Tulsa and so did Anita Bryant who was in the news then. However, not many people knew I was down there including my family. I did meet Steve Spielberg the month before on the beach when he working as an EMT, and he had a baby lion in his house. He told me he knew Jim Warburg here in Greenwich, from working as a volunteer in at the Y.M.C.A. in Cambridge, Mass. Also at the same time Glen Schewtz was managing the Marlin Beach Hotel in Fort Lauderdale on the beach, which I did not go to. He was number 1 in my class of 1968 at the Taft School in Watertown, Connecticut, and he went to Harvard also. He was best friend with Ariel Manager at Taft, and Ariel's father was the rabbi in Greenwich. Also from what I know the Kravis brother's from Tulsa were in Fort Lauderdale, and they now have a house in Greenwich. It would seem to me that possibly some rich jews tried to have me killed down there until Wiley Middleton showed up on the scene. At the time Gerald Ford was still President.

Also besides Norman Targon, Brian Hebbs from Cheshire, Connecticut who grew up around the Yale Campus was also on the scene. Also at the same time the King of Norway was visiting Fort Lauderdale.

Any ideas let me know.

Mike Scott

End of email:

In summary at the time, my brother in law in Tulsa, Oklahoma was an assistant District Attorney, so maybe people did not like me because of his job. The Christian Fundamentalists were active in Fort Lauderdale at the time. My father had dealings with

Dr. Armand Hammer and the White House with a project to do with coal degasification. Dr. Hammer's son lived in Tulsa. I went to Taft and Lake Forest College with members of the Getty family from Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Forbes boat was moored at Pier 66 at the time, and my family has had dealings with the Forbes. I saw Joe MacDonald in Fort Lauderdale at the time, and I knew him in Manhattan. The sail boat the Black Hawk was moored at Bahia Mar, and I knew the owner. Also at the time, the economy was in economic recession, and there were a lot of desperate people. A friend of my mother's boat was also moored at Bahia Mar. Whatever the case if Norman told me the truth, which I think he did, more than likely somebody down in Fort Lauderdale, Florida at the time did not like me, and tried to have me done in. Whether it was true they were from Tulsa or not, it still opened to debate. However, Fort Lauderdale has a lot of people with drug and alcohol problems, so more than likely the judgment of some of the people down there was impaired. However, the threat down there lead me to leading a low key lifestyle in which I was hiding out a great deal of the time, and I gradually became homeless after a while, which was not the way I was use to living, and it makes it hard to stay organize when one is threatened and somewhat homeless. Also the Cherokee Indians are from the Oklahoma area, so maybe the do not like a distant relative of Winfield Scott. Also Wayne Huizenga whose family had a beach house near my mother's family in Holland, Michigan was active in the garbage business down there, so possibly there were problems with the local Mafia.

I woke up at 6 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. The reason some people still use coastal observers is that satellite photographs can still be faked the way any other image can be. As such, the fact that he emailed me after so long of a time could means the Russian Fleet or the Wolf Pack as I use to call it has finally sailed out to sea for some sort of military maneuver. Since it is the strongest Navy fleet in the world, it could obviously cause problems any where it visited. However, I have not received direct email that it has indeed sailed, but the fact the person was only suppose to email me if it did indeed sail, leads me to believe that it might have indeed sailed. It is my personal viewpoint we do not have to worry about being invaded here in the United States of America, since the country is down the tubes and bankrupt, but some other more prosperous countries might have some sort of problems. It is the nature of all Navies at sea, that they are basically pirates, so from what I know sooner or later, somebody should try to figure out where in the World the Russian Baltic Fleet is, or if it is still at its home ports in the Baltic Sea. Since most people around this country watch www.cnn.com which comes from land locked Atlanta, Georgia, there is not much interest in the media in terms of any potential activity around the oceans of the world. I tried to network with a few associates on matter, but nobody was interested in my insights, since it is not on www.cnn.com . The Greenwich Time has this story Coyote attacks spark fear - Greenwich Time . However, I know what a Coyote looks like, since I use to see them all of the time in Richard Van Marter's back yard of his former house by Knapp Tree in Wilton, Connecticut. What I saw looked more like a timber wolf, and it walked like a timber wolf. Richard says there can be mixed breed timber wolves and coyotes. Whatever, the case I would rather not deal with it, if it decided to hang around. Wolves usually run in packs, so it would a lone wolf, if it were a timber wolf. I walked around our building, and I called up a few associates to tell them what I saw. CIO

I chatted with a relative. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I chatted with neighbors. There is a new U.S.A. flag out back by the little league baseball field, and it is active this weekend. I went downtown, and I chatted with a regular walker. I wore my passport pouch for the first time, and the regular walker liked it, and said he could use one to wear with his kilt, so I sold it to him for $13. Note: <888> 05/25/08 Sunday 10:10 A.M.. I finished configuring both partitions on the Epox computer with the ATI Radion 9600 video card. The computer now has a 3.4 rating, since the ATI video card it faster. The good news is Clone mode between the 20 inch Dell monitor and the Sony television works just fine. One uses the Catalyst Control Center to activate it. I have the Hauppauge receiver set up on it, and it also works with the Digital Cable box. Thus if I ever figure out how to use the Hauppauge Remote Control, I can use it with the Vista Ultimate Media Center or I can used the remote control mouse to control Sony Screen content. In other words, I can also use the Windows Media Player to watch video content on the Sony television. I disconnected the audio line that lead to the Sony television speakers, since it gave static, but the Epox computer speakers are more than good enough along with the Panasonic Digital headphones. I did a Vista Complete PC backup of both partitions to the second hard drive, and I am now backing it up to the Bytecc external hard drive. I will now eat a baloney and cheese sandwich with a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle low fat potato chips with a glass of iced tea. CIO

I stopped by the ATM machine at the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then returned back to my car. I returned home about 12:30 A.M.. I put away my purchases. I put the XP 2600 processor on the right center shelf on the side board in the bedroom. I tested the Hauppauge receiving unit on the TV card on the Epox computer, and it worked. I configured it, and I connected the cables to the Sony TV to the video card. However, when I tried setting up the Media Center with it, the PNY GeForceFX 5200 video card would not work in clone mode with the Sony television as a monitor. I decided to switch the FIC server ATI Radeon 9600 video card into the Epox computer, and the PNY GeForceFX 5200 PCI video card into the FIC server. I have the hardware switch around, and I have done a backup to both internal and the external hard drives on the FIC server. I restored the backup before reconfiguring, since the server can get corrupted. I still have to configure the Epox computer with the ATI video card and the Vista Ultimate Media Center. I had to take the Sterling telephone modem card out of the FIC server, which I do not use. CIO

However, I was told when I called up their stables in North Terrytown, New York about 10 years ago, the family had sold out to the Company, which would imply they are not too heavily involved with Exxon anymore, and more than likely they are more heavily involved in banking, since we do know J.P. I put a couple of tablespoons of olive oil and a few pads of butter in a six inch diameter stick proof frying pan on a small burner on medium high electric burner heat, and once the fat began to bubble, I put in the salmon pattie. I am just finishing backing up the Northgate Syntax computer to the Bytecc external hard drive with Vista Server 2008 beta backup. I did an additional backup instead of deleting the old backup, since it is only about a 15 gigabyte backup. I sat out at various locations. There seems to be the normal amount of activity for this time of year. We have six major constructions projects going on Greenwich Avenue. The Guild Antiques building on the west side of lower Greenwich Avenue is in the process of being torn down. At the middle of Greenwich Avenue on the East side, the GAP building is being torn down to build a new department store. Further up Greenwich Avenue on the East side at Armagone Place, the location of the old Deli, they are building a four store office building adjacent to Pickwick Plaza. Across from that they are putting in a new jewelry store in a building that they gutted and restored. And of course just north of the Greenwich Police station just east of Greenwich Avenue, they are building a new police and public safety building. Also at Greenwich Avenue and East Elm street on the Northeast corner, they are gutting the lower story of the building to build a new bank. The movie theatre across the street from Richards is now closed, so they will probably do something with that soon. I then returned home, and I put away my purchases. I have to remember to buy some hot dog rolls, since I have a lot of hot dogs frozen in the freezer. I am backing up the Epox computer to the Bytecc external hard drive. Note: <888> 05/23/08 Friday 10:35 A.M.. After I reinstalled the Hauppauge HVR1600 drivers and programs on the Epox computer, I also installed the HP1018 laser printer drivers on both partitions. I moved the Terk High Definition antenna from on top of the FIC monitors to on top of the Sony television with the Terk antenna pointed to the Southwest. I do not know how to set it up on the Hauppauge TV program, but I was able to set it up on the Microsoft Windows Media Center, and the Media Center is able to get 8 of the 28 high definition channels available in this area. My apartment is in on an enclosed side of the building so the south and west sides of the antenna reception area are blocked by the adjacent structure of the building. I vacuumed the apartment. Huntington Hartford, A. & P. Heir, Dies at 97 - New York Times CIO

Note: <888> 05/21/08 Wednesday 3:30 A.M.. If one uses a lot of devices on a home built computer <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> , such as my primary Vista computer, one also needs a more powerful power supply, and if you noticed I use a 750 Watt Power Supply that I bought for half price for $100 Newegg.com - Powertek PowerTek750W F5-Series ATX12V 750W Power Supply 100 - 240 V - Power Supplies . Earlier, I also took the coaxial cable off of the Northgate Syntax computer, since it had come out of its socket, and I replaced it with a similar cable that I repaired with a new coaxial connector, so the generic Hauppauge TV card works just fine on it too. Earlier, I also tried uninstalling the Hauppauge HVR drivers and software on both partitions on the Epox computer to do a cleaner install, and although the uninstall and reinstall worked on the Vista Ultimate partition, I was not able to get the XP Professional SP3 partition to reinstall the drivers, so I did a 1% low level format of the first hard drive with the Seagate hard drive utilities, and I restored my Vista Complete PC backup of both partitions that I made on this past Sunday night after configuring it, so it is back to the way it was before my attempt. The reason I did it was that the Epox computer froze after the Vista Complete PC backup had completed on Sunday night, so it leads me to believe that there is some sort of problem with the Hauppauge HVR 1600 TV card and the Nvidia video drivers on the GeForce 5600 and 6200 video cards, so that is possibly what was causing my primary Vista computer to give me the blue screen crash for the last 15 months it was installed in it. There are no mentions in the tech notes about any such problems, so it is hard to tell. The Hauppauge HVR 1600 card was specifically designed for Vista Ultimate and released at the same time, and the Nvidia video cards were very common at the same time. I even went to the Microsoft Office 2007 launch in Hauppauge, Long Island in February 2007, and it was at the Hyatt Hotel there near Cablevision's headquarters, so somebody must know something, they are not telling us. The did give me a free copy of Office 2007 Professional for attending the conference, and that is the only time I have been on Long Island in about the last ten years or more, beside a couple of times going to Kennedy airport to go to Florida. CIO

Note: <888> 05/21/08 Wednesday 2:50 A.M.. I forgot to mention, the last time I was at the Stop and Shop last Thursday, I gave my calling card or retirement card to a distant in law of the Rockefeller family whom I was told to keep an eye on when he was 14 years old out swimming at Conyers Farm back in 1975, when his older brother took off on a motorcycle trip to California with a former neighbor of mine. Thus by elementary math today, he would be 47 years old, so more than likely he has managed to keep an eye out for himself over the years, since I was always not around. I woke up at 9 A.M. yesterday. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed. I woke up at 2:30 P.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I took the Hauppauge generic TV card out of the Bedroom Gigabyte computer, and I put the Leadtek XP Expert TV card in the Gigabyte Bedroom Computer and configured it. I also changed the cable leading to it, but there still is a static line on Channel 3. To improve my overall coaxial system, I ran the A/B switch out cable by the living room entertainment system with a short good quality cable to a good gold two splitter, and then I used two good quality short coaxial cables to connect two different gold four splitters, and from there the TVs and Computers are connected up to the eight connections. There is a generic two splitter in the bedroom that connects the JVC videotape machine connected to the Orion television and also splits off to the bedroom Gigabyte computer, so possibly it is a weak signal through that two splitter. However, all of the other computers and televisions have clear signals in Analog and Digital. I also installed the older year 2000 Dell 19 inch monitor on the bedroom Gigabyte computer, and I put the 1998 CompUSA 19 inch monitor which seems to be getting weaker brightness but cost about $430 in 1998, so I keep it, and I put it in the bedroom window on the right side with the NASA and Lindbergh pictures sitting on top of it held in by a large pink paper clip. I removed the video and power cables from it, and I put them underneath my living room desk with the other spare cables. I did an XP Professional ASR backup of the bedroom Gigabyte computer C: drive to both the D: drive and the Maxtor 80 gigabyte external hard drive. I chatted with two relatives. I ate the last of the cold eye round of beef with Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce and horse radish along with steamed broccoli crowns and baby carrots with olive oil, and I made up a batch of <http://www.geocities.com/mikelscott/mlsrice.htm> , and I refrigerated half in a Rubbermaid container, and I ate the other half of the steamed rice with dinner along with a glass of iced tea. Earlier I also made up a batch of Formula Two <http://mikelouisscott.com/icetea.htm> , which I have refrigerated. I used two more Ocean Spray cranberry 64 ounce jugs, so I now have the iced tea in six of them, and I am no long using the older Tropicana jugs that had tea stains on their clear plastic sides. I also threw out the garbage earlier, and I noticed earlier this evening there was a full moon with a clearing sky. I heard about a half dozen jets arriving this evening, so maybe people are returning from down south. Earlier I chatted with two relatives. Not much going on around here, just ordinary Mickey Mouse computer maintenance. I chatted with a software and hardware salesman yesterday afternoon, and he was calling from San Diego. I also chatted with www.frys.com about the charge they have still not charged me for the EGVA PCI GeForce 6200 256 meg. video card. It is about a $67 charge. On older computer systems, if one uses a Nvidia GeForce 6200 AGP and GeForce 6200 PCI video cards, you can run four monitors. One newer systems with two PCI Express slots, you might look at AMD GAME ATI CrossFire™ , but that would be substantially more costly to implement, since one would need a newer computer with the two more expensive video cards. I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 05/20/08 Tuesday 12:40 A.M.. I watched some television. I ate two bowls of whole wheat goldfish crackers. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good morning. CIO

I will now send out my weekly notes a couple days late. However, my overall computer systems and apartment are running better with all of the extra time I am spending at home because of the higher prices of fuel, which are still half the price as in Europe. Some of my neighbors tell the gasoline is slightly cheaper at the gasoline station where Bonjournos grocery store gasoline station at Exit 6 off Interstate 95 at Harvard Street, but it would cost too much for me to drive over there. I think the Stop and Shop chain bought Bonjournos a few years ago. I once chatted with George Bonjournos at Tod's Point, and he looked a lot like former President Bush, Prisoner Number 41. CIO

Note: <888> 05/19/08 Monday 8:05 P.M.. I also showered and cleaned up, before I went to bed this morning. I chatted with a friend in real estate Country Living Associates, Richard Van Marter Wilton, Connecticut, and apparently a lot of people are renting in this area instead of buying with the recent mortgage failures in this area. I will now eat the same dinner as last night. I will then go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 05/19/08 Monday 7:15 P.M.. After the last note, I took the better quality coaxial cable off the four splitter leading to the Epox computer, and I ran it from the Cablevision Digital Cable box to the A/B switch, so the entire television system now has even clearer reception. I used the cable I took off to run from the gold four splitter to the Epox computer. I went to bed about 8 A.M., and I woke up at 1 P.M., when I got another no person telephone call, which tend to be annoying in the daytime, when I am trying to sleep, since frequently I am a night person. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. From www.slickdeals.net, I ordered Adidas Wind Jacket, Men's Clothing, Adidas at Bargain Outfitters in black and extra large for $11.41 less $5 discount coupon code of "SB114", for and $5.99 shipping for $12.40 total. They are now sold out, but for next winter, they still have the Guide Gear Union Suit for $24.97 Guide Gear Regular Crewneck Top, Men's Clothing, Guide Gear at Bargain Outfitters less the $5 off coupon of "SB114" plus shipping. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage, and I chatted with some neighbors. I walked around the building. I chatted with some neighbors. I picked up my mail. The order for Classic Passport Travel Pouch Uncle Sams Army Navy Outfitters for $13.56 in olive drab less 10% with coupon code "100", for $1.36 off for $12.20 with free shipping arrived. It is just the right size for my downtown walking needs on warmer days, when one does not have as many pockets, and its shoulder strap is adjustable for larger people. It is also room enough for a pair of sun glasses, reading glasses, cigarettes and lighter, cell phone, car keys, wallet, and even would have enough room for a digital camera, so once I can afford to go downtown for a walk, I will probably be wearing it on warmer days. Of course in the winter, one has plenty of pockets in winter jackets. I chatted with more neighbors. I chatted with a relative. Apparently people are getting mugged in this country along the interstate highway rest areas for gasoline money, so beware when one travels. I got a $10 survey check from Knowledge Networks. I also got a letter from www.cl-p.com that sounds sort of like a Catch 22 letter. It says that I have qualified for matching Energy assistance to my earlier Energy Assistance grant of $675, since I have kept up on my account payments, but they will not give it to me, if I have a surplus in my account, which I do with the previous mentioned energy assistance grant. I will have to wait for the next billing cycle to see if I have received it or not. I will now make up another patch of passion punch. I will then go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 05/19/08 Monday 6:10 A.M.. I had a busy day. I was up at noon yesterday. The emergency pull cord alarm went off, and one of the neighbors was taken to the hospital, but is suppose to return today. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I sorted through the paper work on my desk and the top drawer of my four drawer file cabinet, and I threw out about 40 pounds of old bills, receipts and other paper work. Thus the right side of the desk is now cleared of the metal file holder with all of the old paper work. I put the empty metal file holder on top of the Dictaphone in front of the file cabinet. I also threw out some shipping boxes, and the empty packaging for mostly TV cable parts from Radio Shark that I had stored on the right side of the Orion television in the bedroom. I put my GE air conditioner maintenance contract in the drawer of the small night stand at the kitchen entrance. It is paid up until September 12, 2008. I chatted with some neighbors, and I saw a wild turkey out by the family units. I walked around the building. I ate the same dinner as last night. I then put the other new Netgear LAN card in the primary Vista computer, so I now have two active LAN cards in it. I received email from Hauppauge RMA that once I email them my address, they will send me a replacement remote control sending unit for the HVR-1600 TV card. I next took out the Leadtek TV card from the Epox computer, and I put in the Hauppauge HVR-1600 without the defective remote control receiving unit. I put the Leadtek TV card in a small box with its remote control and receiver unit on the right side of the hamper in the bedroom. I will probably eventually put it in the Bedroom Gigabyte computer, once I have the 1600 card remote control working. I also moved the remote control mouse from the primary Vista computer to the Epox computer with its remote control on top of it. I had a problem with getting the Epox computer to start up. I went through a lengthy process of checking it out, and now it works fine. All I can figure out is that since its cards are held in by case clips, I might have dislodged the video card by moving near the rear of the Epox computer. I now have all of the cards held in with case screws. Once I got it working, since I had repositioned its USB devices in a different order, I had a problem for a while with the Microsoft wireless mouse, but I eventually trouble shooted that. I installed the drivers and programs on both partitions for the Hauppauge HVR 1600 card, and it works just fine. I put in a better coaxial cable from the card to the primary four splitter, so with the stronger signal, it recognizes channel 3, so I can use the Digital Cable box with the A/B switch with it too. I tried moving the Terk high definition antenna to the right window in the apartment, but I could not get a signal with it, so I moved it back to its original position on the monitors of the FIC server. Possibly the high definition channels are not broadcast in the early morning hours. I have it connected up to the Epox computer with a 25 foot coaxial cable. I installed the updates on the Epox computer, and I just did a Vista Complete PC backup of both partitions from the first hard drive to the second hard drive. While I had the Epox computer opened, I put a new 2032 lithium CMOS battery in it, which I also did when I assembled the Bedroom Gigabyte computer. I also put new AA batteries in the Microsoft wireless mouse on the Epox computer and the Logitech wireless mouse and keyboard on the Bedroom Gigabyte computer. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I think I will eat the last of the baloney and Swiss cheese in a Sandwich with a glass of iced tea and a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle low fat potato chips. I have been so busy, I have not had time to shower and clean up since this past Thursday. CIO

I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage, and I said hello to some neighbors whom were sitting out in the sun. I picked up my mail. The CPU with tracking is USPS - Track & Confirm on the order for eBay Express: Amd Athlon XP 2000+ CPU AXDA2000DUT3C - Description for $13.88 and $9 shipping standard flat rate service for $22.88 total arrived. I took the AMD Duron 1800 out of the Bedroom Gigabyte computer, and I put the AMD Athlon XP 2000+ in it, and it works just fine. I put the AMD Duron 1800 in its safety wrap on the lower left sideboard shelf in the bedroom. I then installed the drivers and program for the Visioneer 7600 USB One Touch scanner for it. I was able to get the XP Professional Updates working by a help link I found BleepingComputer.com -> Updates Do Not Install

After A Repair Of Xp , although my installation is a new install and not a repair. I installed the updates and the Windows Live Messenger. I then did a XP Professional ASR backup from the first hard drive to the second hard drive and then to the Maxtor external hard drive. I also finished configuring the Toshiba laptop computer. I backed it up to the Bytecc external hard drive. In deleting the old backup, I also cleared some old temp files, so I now have 40 gigabytes of space left on the Bytecc external hard drive with its 250 meg. Maxtor hard drive. I chatted with two relatives. I ate two 3/8th inch thick slices of cold eye round with horse radish and Lea and Perrins worcestershire sauce along with a reheated baked potato with butter, and a cup of steamed broccoli crowns and baby carrots with olive oil on them, and a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 05/17/08 Saturday 5:05 A.M.. BBC NEWS | UK | Windsor ready for royal wedding. I am a bit tired, I shut down the Toshiba laptop computer for now, and I will finish configuring it later on today. It is suppose to be sunny around 7 A.M., but from the rain I hear outside that might be doubtful. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good morning. It currently is not very pleasant for arthritis suffers. CIO

Note: <888> 05/17/08 Saturday 4:50 A.M.. Through out the last 24 hours, I ate a 12 ounce box of CVS spiced wafers. It is a tedious process configuring the rather slow Toshiba laptop, but once it is configured, it is not too slow to use, if needed. My primary Vista computer system seems more stable with the Hauppauge HVR1600 TV card removed. However, it might be because I changed the four LCD monitors from 75 MHz to 60 MHz, but I just changed them back to 75 MHz, so I will find out whether that causes any stability problems. With the weaker dollar in the World, there is not much worth looking for in terms of bottom fishing on the internet. I read somewhere I think it was www.cnn.com that the King of Saudi Arabia told President Bush www.whitehouse.gov that there was not enough world demand to pump anymore oil than they are already pumping. Supposedly other factors like speculation and the weak dollar are the cause of increased oil prices not shortages of supply. Of course Greenwich, Connecticut is suppose to have 8,000 experienced volunteers whom are not paid, and if they can no longer afford to volunteer, more than likely this small town will quickly start going to Hell in a Hand Basket. CIO

Note: <888> 05/17/08 Saturday 2:05 A.M.. I chatted with Key West Hotel Resorts & Florida Keys Beach Accommodations - Casa Marina Resort Key West , and they told me they are still busy down there. I reminded them that the new Florida Keys Bridges were built about 30 years ago, and since the steel inside the bridges over salt water tends to corrode, they will probably have to be rebuilt in the next 20 years. At the homepage for www.adobe.com , there is a link for the beta of the Adobe Flash Player 10, so I installed it. I had already uninstalled the Flash Player 9. The Casa Marina homepage is a good place to test the beta of the Adobe Flash Player 10. I can not try the www.cnn.com web site video, since they seem to be busy with the rainy weather on the East Coast. CIO

Note: <888> 05/16/08 Friday 11:50 P.M.. This morning before going to bed, I uninstalled the generic UPS power supply backup, because it was beginning to overheat. Thus I am not using them anymore. I threw it away earlier today, and I took the fuse out, so nobody in the dump can try to use it. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I disconnected the Plantronics headset from the Panasonic telephone at the apartment entrance. I have not been using it, since it has weak sound. I put it underneath the bedroom bed. I move the energy efficient lamp from the Toshiba laptop desk at the apartment entrance, and I put it on top of the bedroom Gigabyte computer. I moved the pineapple lamp from that location to along side the French reproduction chair in the living room. I moved the other energy efficient lamp from that location to on top of the Orion television in the bedroom. I move the right angle brass shell lamp with 15 watt regular bulb to the right side of the Toshiba laptop at the apartment entrance. It gives out enough light to see the LCD display on the Panasonic two line telephone. I had to reconnect the one of the the two telephone lines to the two line phone by the French reproduction chair, since it had come out of its socket. I moved the brass cricket cage from that location to behind the Toshiba laptop. I also put the used and some are still good telephone calling cards by the cricket cage. I think a couple of the AT&T calling cards still have $10 on them unless they have expired. On the Toshiba laptop, I uninstalled some old programs and some that I do not use. I freed up enough space, so I went ahead and installed XP SP3. I now have to install the more recent versions of the smaller programs. The Toshiba laptop is running XP Home with 186 megs. of memory and a 450 MHz processor and about a 5.5 gigabyte hard drive. Still, it still works fine, once it boots up slowly, and one can use it for word processing, email, web browsing, and less intensive software activities. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I watered the plants. I took the 2.5 pound eye round of top round of beef, and I put it on a baking rack in a baking pan, and I seasoned it with ground black pepper, garlic powder, and Italian seasoning generously. I then covered it with Kraft Barbeque sauce. I baked it in the convection over at 325 degrees for 28 minutes. I also baked with it two potatoes that I scrubbed with cold water and a vegetable brush, and I pricked on four sides three times each side with a fork, and I microwaved on one potato cycle first less 2.5 minutes. For the last 7 minutes of the meat and potatoes cooking cycle, I microwaved in a plastic microwave pot with lid and an inch of water a cup of baby carrots and broccoli crowns. I put the steamed vegetables in a bowl with a little bit of olive oil. I put the baked potato on a plate, and I sliced it open with a knife, and I cut diagonal slices inside it, and I added three pads of no salt butter to melt. I cut off two 3/8th inch thick slices of the hot beef, and I put them on the dinner plate with the potato, and the beef juices. I put the rest of the beef in a Rubbermaid container, and I refrigerated it as I did with the other baked potato. I ate the dinner with a glass of iced tea. I chatted with two relatives earlier. When I went out, I also picked up the mail. I had one no person telephone call today. CIO

Note: <888> 05/16/08 Friday 7:40 A.M.. I installed XP SP3 on the XP Professional partition on the Epox computer. I installed some other updates. I had to put another spare coaxial cable on the Epox computer, because the one that I was using had become disconnected from its threaded screw head. I am now rescanning the Leadtek TV card in Vista with the detailed fine tuning. However, for some reason now on the Leadtek TV expert TV card that is now in the Epox computer, it does not recognize channel 3 in any of the three tuner scanning modes, so I can not watch the Digital Cable TV box signal on it.

However, to be realistic, I do not watch that much television, but with the higher prices of fuel and staying home, I might find time to watch more television. I certainly have the facilities. However, generally I do not have that much free time anymore with all of the computer maintenance and other household routines and the other activities around town. I will use Vista Ultimate to back up both operating systems, once I am finished with the maintenance routines on it.

Note: <888> 05/16/08 Friday 3:00 A.M.. I finished configuring the bedroom Gigabyte computer. Since the Microsoft servers are overwhelmed with people trying to download XP SP3, I was not able to install four minor Windows updates and three small Windows Live Programs including the most recent version of Microsoft Messenger. I did an XP Professional ASR backup from the first hard drive to the second hard drive. I then did one to the Maxtor external hard drive. I am just about finished defragmenting the C: drive. I also installed an extra pair of speakers on the Gigabyte bedroom computer, so it now has two pairs of stereo speakers in the window sill behind it. They turn on from the power strip connected to the control panel, and I have the items labeled on the control panel. On the television setup in my apartment, the digital cable television reception through the digital cable box is a lot sharper than the direct analog cable which is a bit fuzzy. Thus it is not my setup, it is the nature of the technology today. I am not sure how much longer the analog signal will be sent out on the Cablevision system, where one does not need a Digital Cable box for 77 of the lowest 125 channels. I have not heard back yet on the RMA on the Hauppauge 1600 card. I did receive email from EVGA that my $40 rebate on the EVGA PCI 256 meg. video card had been approved. Once the bedroom gigabyte computer is defragmented, I will test it out on its speed and general usability and startup, but it seems fast enough for web browsing, email, communications, multimedia, and word processing. One can put the bedroom desk chair sideways to sit more easily at the gigabyte computer at the bedroom desk. If one were a larger person, one could move the chair somewhere out of the way, and sit on the bed. I also used to small OOK nails, and I nailed above the inside apartment door handle the small brass plaque in three different languages saying not to piss off the Poop Deck. I think it came from some sort of sailing vessel. CIO

Note: <888> 05/15/08 Thursday 8:25 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. I emptied the crumbs out of the crumb trays of the toaster. English muffins tend to produce a lot of burnt crumbs in toaster ovens or regular toasters, so one has to be sure to clean them out. On the contest at www.almanac.com a couple of months ago, I guessed that the snow would be melted in their parking lot on May 15, 2008, but from this The Almanac Webcam - The Old Farmer's Almanac, it looks like it melted sooner. I have seen six inches of snow in the New York area in the first week of May 1971, so it was a reasonable guess. We had about eight inches of snow here in Greenwich, Connecticut this winter, but I was told by somebody from Syracuse, New York, when I was in Old Greenwich a couple of weeks ago for a haircut, that Syracuse, New York had six feet of snow this past winter. Of course I have in the past seen a lot of snow in this area. CIO

Note: <888> 05/15/08 Thursday 7:20 P.M.. I woke up at 11:30 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I moved the green and natural oak chair from the bedroom computer desk, and I put it as my primary chair at the dining table. I moved the matching oak chair from the dining table to the bedroom computer desk. It is smaller, so it is easier to get at the bedroom desk. I went out, and I went to my 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop, and I bought a 32 inch by 22 inch maple framed mirror for $15. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought greenish yellow Chiquita bananas for .59 a pound for $1.37, and a eye round of beef roast for $3.59 a pound for $8.66 for $10.03 total. I then used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank at the Stop and Shop plaza. I chatted with one of their staff, and I gave them a calling card. I then returned home. I brought up the groceries and the mirror. I used two OOK hooks, and I hung the mirror on the lower inside of the apartment front door. I moved the small picture of Prince William and Princess Maxima of the Netherlands from above the door light switch to in between the two mirrors on the rear side of the door. I hung the Versailles picture beneath the mirror at the kitchen entrance with two OOK hooks. I moved the mirror from that location to the lower left side of the hallway at the bathroom entrance. I moved the Charles Lindberg print from that location to on top of the Dell monitor in the bedroom window in front o of the NASA shuttle photograph. I made and ate Michael Louis Scott's Pork and Beans with franks , which I ate with a glass of iced tea. I threw out some garbage and the old case for the Dell L1000R computer. It still had its processor, two PC100 128 meg. memory chips, and its CPU cooler and its power supply and motherboard. I chatted with a neighbor. I picked up my mail. I will now work on configuring the bedroom Gigabyte computer. CIO

Note: <888> 05/15/08 Thursday 7:15 A.M.. I finished installing most of the updates including SP3 and Internet Explorer 7 on the Gigabyte bedroom computer. I still have to finish installing some programs and configuring the printers. I shut it down for now. I do not plan to put the Hauppauge 1600 TV card back in the primary Vista computer, once I receive it returned on from an RMA. The primary Vista computer seems to run better without it. I will put the Hauppauge 1600 TV card in the Epox computer. I removed one of the A/B switches from my primary computer setup. It was the one to physically disconnect the Cable TV coaxial cable. I installed it underneath the Sony television hanging from the horse statue. I used some of the splitters and cables from the primary setup, and I now have the A/B switch underneath the Sony TV setup, so when it is on A, all of the TVs and Computer TV cards in the apartment are on the direct analog cable TV line, and when it is on B, they are all fed off the Digital Cable box. Thus on the A switch, the lower 77 channels can be changed on the televisions and computer TV cards. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed until noon. I have a 3 P.M. appointment today. CIO

Note: <888> 05/15/08 Thursday 4:20 A.M.. On the bedroom gigabyte computer, I have the device drivers configured, the firewall, antivirus, and a few programs. I am now installing SP3. I ate the last 1/5th of a 16 ounce jar of peanuts. CIO

Note: <888> 05/15/08 Thursday 1:20 A.M.. After I ate, I decided to do a clean install of XP Professional on the Gigabyte Bedroom computer, and it runs a lot better with a clean install. I did a 1% low level format of both hard drives before doing the installation. I now have to configure it and install the updates. I will connect a TV cable from the bedroom VCR with a splitter to the Hauppauge TV card in the Gigabyte bedroom computer. It will have the content of the Digital Cable box. CIO

Note: <888> 05/14/08 Wednesday 9:55 P.M.. I went outside after the last note. About 5:15 P.M. the computer case arrived. It took about 3 hours to install the hardware, and it works just fine. I only used one case fan, since it came with a large case fan in the rear. I installed the Duron 1800 266 MHz processor. I am now running a XP Professional Repair installation to see if I can repair the existing installation without having to do a clean install. The case fan that I put in it has an aluminum housing, so I was able to install it by using a screw driver to widen its screw holes which were tight to use the existing case fan screws. The system seems to be just fine, and I will know shortly if the XP Professional repair installation works. I chatted with two relatives. I clean up my work area in the bedroom. The existing computer configuration is at <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . I will try to take some time to eat the same dinner as last night. CIO

Note: <888> 05/14/08 Wednesday 2:10 P.M.. I woke up at 9:30 A.M., when I had a no person telephone call. I have had two more no person telephone calls today for a total of three so far. I checked with www.verizon.com , and I could get Caller ID and Caller Intercept for about $14 more a month on my phone bill, which I can not afford. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw out the garbage, and I put my Greenwich Beach automobile sticker on the lower driver's side front window beneath the registration sticker. I chatted with some neighbors. I walked around the building.

I could build the system once I receive the case, and not stick in a processor until I receive the AMD XP Athlon 2000+ processor, or I could go ahead and use the Duron 1.8 266 MHz processor which would be slightly slower, and I could keep the AMD XP Athlon 2000+ processor for a spare part, since it would work in all of my desktop computers if needed for a spare.

Note: <888> 05/14/08 Wednesday 2:50 A.M.. The Hauppauge WinTV-PVR-150MCE TV card on the FIC server does not have a remote control. However, I did connect up the video cable from the Sony TV to the ATI video card on the FIC server, so it could be used with the Sony television showing the media center or whatever is on the server desktop. The FIC server ATI card does work in clone mode. Some day, I could get a Vista Media Center remote control for the FIC server Vista Media Center Remote Controls Newegg.com - Computer Parts, PC Components, Laptop Computers, Digital Cameras and more!, but once I have the Hauppauge 1600 TV unit back, I can use that one on another computer. I email for an RMA from Hauppauge at the link on this page Warranty information on Hauppauge products. CIO

Note: <888> 05/14/08 Wednesday 1:40 A.M.. I installed the Hauppauge WinTV-PVR-150MCE on the FIC server, and I configured it, and it works just fine with the Vista Ultimate Media Center. While, I had the FIC server opened, I took out the Antec CPU cooler that had been installed since September 2006, and I tried to install one of the Modware CPU coolers, but there was not enough clearance. I put in the Thermaltake Silent Cooler CPU cooler that has been used about 20 months on a regular computer and not a server as I recall. I was called up by www.directron.com, and the order for the six CPU coolers was cancelled, since they only had one available. I have some other CPU coolers, but the one that I put in was about the best one that I had that would fit. On the FIC server, the diodes stick up from the motherboard around the CPU cooler, so the new Modware one would not work. I do not have that problem on the Gigabyte motherboards. I had a bottle of Perrier freeze and break in the refrigerator, and I cleaned it up. It is the second .75 liter bottle of Perrier that froze and broke this year, so I guess they freeze easily. When I tried to install the most recent update of the Hauppauge WinTV program on the primary Vista computer, I found out the IR remote control does not work on the Hauppauge 1600 TV card. I tested it on the FIC server to make sure, and the remote control did not work on the FIC server either. I checked the batteries and the connection on the card to no avail. The Hauppauge 1600 TV card has a two year warranty, and since I bought it in February 2007, I will get a RMA from Hauppauge, and send it in for repair. I backed up the FIC server after I had configured it with the new TV card, and I restored the backup before configuring it, so it was a clean copy for installation and backup. My new Greenwich Beach card is good until April 2010. I have to stick the beach sticker in the windshield of my Audi. I chatted with a relative earlier. I had five no person telephone calls today which were annoying. I uninstalled the Hauppauge programs off of the primary Vista computer. When I get the 1600 Hauppauge TV card back from them, I could try installing it in the Epox Vista Computer, and its is close enough to the Sony Television cable box, that the IR feature for the cable box would also work, since the cablebox IR cable would stretch to it probably. I have hardly used the Hauppauge 1600 TV card on the primary Vista computer. I will now make a baloney and cheese sandwich, which I will eat with a glass of iced tea and a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips.

I had to recrimp the coaxial cable leading into the connector on the Hauppauge generic TV card, and it now works, and I reconnected the web cam USB cable that had pulled out. Note: <888> 05/11/08 Sunday 9:55 P.M.. I filled a five quart pot with three quarts of water and a dash of sea salt and a teaspoon of olive oil, and I put it on the large electric burner on high to boil. While doing that, I put a couple of tablespoons of olive oil in a 10 inch stick proof frying pan and a few pads of butter, and then I peeled and diced four cloves of garlic and two medium large onions, and I added them to the frying pan, and I turned it on medium high electric burner heat on the smaller front burner, and once they began to sizzle, I added one eight ounce top round London broil burger cut into half inch chunks, and I seasoned it all with garlic powder, ground black pepper, celery salt, cayenne pepper, paprika, Italian seasoning, and I mixed it all together stirring it until the beef was browned and the onions were blanched. I then added a 26 ounce jar of Francesco Rinaldi traditional tomato sauce and 1.5 tablespoons of Frank's hot sauce, and I mixed it all together, and I covered it. Once the water in the pot was boiling, I added a 16 ounce package of Barilla fettuccini, and I boiled it for 12 minutes on high electric burner heat, and once it was done, I put a colander in another large pot, and I drained the hot water into the pot, and I set the colander of fettuccini on the side. I dumped the pot of hot water down the bathroom sink to clean out the shaving gel scum. While doing that I stirred the tomato sauce mixture frequently, and I then put half the fettuccini in a flat Rubbermaid container, and I put the other half on a large dinner plate with half of the tomato and beef mixture, and I put the other half of the tomato and beef mixture in a Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator, and I added some grated parmesan and Romano cheese mixture on top of the fettuccini and tomato and beef dinner, and I ate it all with a glass of iced tea. As usual after a meal, I cleaned up the kitchen. I chatted with mother again. I hope she had an enjoyable Mother's Day. CIO

Note: <888> 05/11/08 Sunday 7:50 P.M.. I woke up at 8:30 A.M. this morning. I called up mother, and I wished her Happy Mother's Day. Mother seems to be doing just fine, but has a little bit of indigestion. I chatted with a relative. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 11:30 A.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I took the MagDog AGP 64 Meg. video card and the PC2100 DDR 512 meg. memory chip out of the Northgate Syntax computer. I went through my spare parts, and I got out the parts that I need for the Gigabyte Bedroom Backup Computer. I also took the parts out of the Dell L1000R computer that I need for the Gigabyte Bedroom Backup Computer. I put the empty Dell case which still has its Intel 1500 Megabyte processor and two 128 meg. PC100 memory chips on the floor in front of the white bureau in the bedroom. I took the face plate off a defective Sony 3.5 inch floppy drive, and I put it on the good Sony 3.5 inch floppy drive that I took out of the Dell computer. I put all of the Gigabyte Bedroom Backup Computer parts on the chair beneath the living room entertainment center to have available when the processor and the case arrive late on this week. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with one third of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of iced tea and the rest of the pineapple fruit mixture. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the bathroom at the train station. I stopped by Zen stationary, and I bought a Triple Cash scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 1.4 ounce Just for Men Touch of Gray Light brown color for $8.29, but I got it for free, since I had a $9 off coupon that I got in the mail. On the way down Greenwich Avenue, I stopped by CVS again, and I bought four 16 ounce Ajax antibacterial orange dishwashing detergent for .77 each and .18 tax for $3.26 total. I chatted with a former regular night person. I then walked back down Greenwich Avenue, and I put my purchases in the car. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. While downtown, I chatted with mother again on the wireless telephone. I then returned home. I put away my purchases. It is suppose to rain all week. CIO

I chatted with a relative. I went ahead and paid my final www.geico.com automobile insurance payment for July 2008, so the policy is paid up until the new policy is started around October 8, 2008. Thus I will have a little extra money this summer, since I won't have to be paying any automobile insurance policies. I chatted with a relative.

Note: <888> 05/10/08 Saturday 8:20 P.M.. I made and ate the same dinner as last night using the thicker piece of salmon. I did not have spring corn on the cob. I will probably be going up to Maine for the last two weeks of July 2008. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage. I chatted with a neighbor. I picked up my mail. I watched part of www.foxnews.com. They are suppose to have coverage of the www.whitehouse.gov wedding in about 15 minutes, but no cameras are allow in for the private event. Note: <888> 05/10/08 Saturday 5:15 P.M.. If one looks at http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm, about half way down on the page, one can look at my plan for the "Gigabyte Backup Bedroom Computer", and its original parts bought over the years were at a cost of $484.94 not including the software, monitor, and other accessories, so it should be making good use of some spare parts. CIO

Note: <888> 05/10/08 Saturday 3:50 P.M.. I ordered eBay Express: Amd Athlon XP 2000+ CPU AXDA2000DUT3C - Description for $13.88 and $9 shipping standard flat rate service for $22.88 total. With the CPU and case and other spare parts, I should be able to build a replacement for the Dell L1000R computer in the bedroom. I can used the Maddog AGP 64 meg. video card from the Northgate Syntax computer, since it has onboard video. I can use my old Gigabyte motherboard or one of the others. I can used the 512 meg. PC2100 memory from the Northgate Syntax and the spare 256 meg. PC2100 memory. I have a spare floppy drive, case fans, and IDE cables. I have extra CD drives. I do not have a spare DVD drive. I have spare CPU coolers, and I have a 15 meg and 20 meg hard drives in the Dell L1000R, and it also has a SoHo LAN card and a Creative Sound Card. Of course there is already the 19 inch Dell monitor, the Logitech wireless keyboard and wireless mouse, and the Visioneer 4400 scanner in the bedroom along with the network laser printers, and the two local HP DeskJet laser printers, and the Epson Stylus 900 inkjet printer. I have a spare copy of Microsoft Windows XP Professional to install on it, but possibly the old partitions on its hard drive might be recognized by XP, and I will not have to reconfigure it. With 756 megs of memory, it should be faster than the 256 megs. of memory in the Dell L1000R. Thus for $47, I should have another very good backup computer that will be available in the bedroom. There is no point paying more for a faster processor with the slower motherboard and memory. CIO

Note: <888> 05/10/08 Saturday 2:40 P.M.. I ordered Ultra Beige Defender ATX Mid-Tower Case with Front USB Ports and 350-Watt V-Series Power Supply ULT33070 at CompUSA.com for $19.99 and $3.99 shipping for $23.98 total. I will now have a spare computer case in case I want to build another low level computer out of spare parts, but that would cost a bit of money at this point, or possibly I could transfer the Northgate Syntax into a larger case. CIO

Note: <888> 05/10/08 Saturday 2:10 P.M.. I watched some television after the last note. I woke up at 7 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw out some garbage. I chatted with a neighbor. I walked around the building. I read four back issues of www.forbes.com , three back issues of US News & World Report - Breaking News, World News, Business News, and America's Best Colleges - USNews.com , the www.aarp.org news letter, the www.geico.com magazine, and the latest issue of www.pcshopper.com . From Forbes, I found out that www.hsbc.com is the world's largest corporation. Also they make a car in France that runs on compressed air Air Car Factories - The Air Car , but it takes four hours for its electric powered compressor to recharge it up, and it has a distance of 120 miles on a flat surface and top speed of 75 miles per hours, and the compressed air exhaust is good for air conditioning. It would be handy in Key West, Florida where it is flat, and you could fill it up at a dive shop. I chatted with a relative. I went outside briefly. I ate a boloney and cheese sandwich with a glass of iced tea and 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle low fat sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a bowl of the pineapple fruit mixture. I also chatted with a friend. CIO

Note: <888> 05/09/08 Friday 11:45 P.M.. I ate a fifth of a 16 ounce jar of dry roasted peanuts. I am a bit tired from my chores, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will either go to bed or rest for a while. It is suppose to quit raining around 1 A.M.. CIO

Note: <888> 05/09/08 Friday 11:00 P.M.. I woke up at 9 A.M. this morning. Two relatives called me to wish me Happy 50th Birthday. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, two toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I surfed the internet for a while. I went back to bed until 3 P.M.. Another relative called me to wish me Happy Birthday. I put a new dishwashing scrub pad on the dish washing wand, and I also got out a new steel scouring pad. I watered the plants, and I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature, and I also emptied the paper shredder. I ate a bowl of the pineapple fruit mixture with a glass of iced tea. I ran a couple sheets of paper with a few lines of the paper shredder lubricant on them to lubricate the paper shredder. A friend called me up to wish me Happy Birthday. I did two loads of laundry. I also did a third load of laundry with my bed's mattress pad and extra fitted sheet, I keep on the bed along with the sheets that I change. I flipped the mattress over side to side, and I sprayed the top side with Fabreze and Lysol spray to freshen it. When I put away the three loads of laundry, I made up the bed with the clean mattress pad and sheets. I used the Swivel Sweeper to clean the apartment rugs. Earlier I picked up my mail. I chatted with a relative. For dinner, I cut the thin end or a half pound off the piece of one pound filet of salmon, and I put it in a Pyrex pie dish with about a third of an inch of lemon juice. I sprinkled the flesh side with some Old Bay Seasoning, and I put the flesh side down in the lemon juice, and I put two pads on butter on the skin side with a little bit of olive oil. I also microwave a potato on the potato cycle less two minutes. I put the potato with the salmon, and I baked it all in the Farberware convection oven at 325 degrees Fahrenheit for 20 minutes. I also steamed two ears of spring corn and cup of baby carrots and broccoli crowns. I put some butter on the baked potato on the dinner plate with the salmon on the dinner plate flesh side up with a few tablespoons of the cooking juices on it. I put butter on the steamed corn on the cob. I put the other vegetables in a bowl with a little bit of olive oil. I did not eat the skin on the salmon. I ate it all with a glass of iced tea. After I cleaned up the kitchen, I threw out the garbage, because the salmon skin would stink if left in the apartment. I will now do some regular computer work. CIO

Note: <888> 05/06/08 Tuesday 11:25 P.M.. Earlier today, before I went out, I put my winter shirts on the far left of the bedroom closet, and I put my summer shirts on the left center of the closet. Of course, when I go up to Maine this summer, I might need some of my winter shirts, but I can always fish them out. Locally here in Greenwich, Connecticut, a lot of people seem to be walking more, so they do not need me downtown as much exercise walking since more of the local downtown people are walking a little bit more. However, I enjoy walking myself, so probably once I catch up on some of my ordinary maintenance routines, I might make it downtown for an exercise walk, but at current gasoline prices it costs me about $2 round trip every time, I drive downtown, so I do not go downtown as much anymore. However, I will probably have to spend a bit more money on air conditioning this summer, since I tend to need to keep the apartment at about 78 degrees Fahrenheit to keep the computer equipment from over heating. I could turn off the FIC server though, since not many people look at it, but it contains all of my content that I have worked on over these years, so for now I am keeping it going. I chatted with a British resident out of town, and I told them my father Louis Dale Scott use to know the British General, General Norman Ireland Smith who was stationed in Burma during World War II. General Smith gave my father the first Beatles records to come to America, so possibly he was from Liverpool. Therefore there might be some other people in England that have contacts in Burma. However, Australia is a lot closer, so possibly if the Burma government invited in the Australians, they might be able to help out with the typhoon relief. I am a bit tired, so I will now go to bed, and I will wake up a little bit earlier tomorrow.

When I get the new XGA video card for the primary Vista computer, I will be putting the PNY PCI 256 meg. video card in the Epox computer, and the Mad Dog 64 meg. AGP video card in the Northgate Syntax computer, so the Northgate Syntax computer will run even faster. It seems to be running almost as fast as the other computers, since it is not loading as many of the other accessory programs and devices. I put the old 256 meg. PC2100 memory chip inside the new memory chip box, and I put it on the lower right shelf of the sideboard shelf in the bedroom with some other odd memory. I will now do some regular computer work. Note: <888> 05/05/08 Monday 5:45 P.M.. I peeled and diced into half inch to three quarter inch cubic chunks the fresh Del Monte pineapple, and I put the chunks in a metal mixing bowl. I then peeled and diced into half inch cubic chunks the two papaya and put them in the bowl, and then I opened two 11 ounce cans of Madam mandarin oranges, and I put them in the bowl along with the liquid. I then mixed it all together. I then added about three tablespoons of Angostura bitters, and I mixed it all together. I then added about 3/4th of a cup of my passion punch mixture which is one third grape juice, one third cranberry juice, and one third orange juice, and I also added a few tablespoons of bottled lemon juice, and I mixed it all together. I then filled a bowl with a portion to eat sometime soon, and I put the rest of the contents of pineapple fruit mixture in a large Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator to chill. One adds the lemon juice to keep the pineapple from turning brown too soon. I don't add bananas, because they turn soft and brown too soon in the mixture. CIO

Note: <888> 05/05/08 Monday 4:35 P.M.. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage. I chatted with some neighbors. I walked around the building, and I told the building custodian that I had seen on the Bloomberg Business news that Mexico which is the third largest supplier of oil to the United States of America is suppose to run out of domestic oil in five to seven years. I got the information together for my Renter's Rebate, and one needs the rent receipts for 2007 or a statement from the Greenwich Housing Authority for 2007, one's utility bills in particular one's electric bills, which one can get from www.cl-p.com , and ones proof of income which the Social Security Administration sends to one every year. Thus I have it all set for my 3 P.M. appointment tomorrow.

Note: <888> 05/05/08 Monday 2:45 P.M.. I baked two breaded boneless breasts of chicken and two baked large potatoes with steamed broccoli crowns and baby carrots and two small ears of fresh corn. I refrigerated in a flat Rubbermaid container one of the baked boneless breasts of chicken and 1 of the large baked potatoes, and I ate the rest with a cup of steamed vegetables and corn on the cob with a glass of iced tea. I put a few pads of butter on the baked potato and a little bit of olive oil on the steamed vegetables and butter on the corn on the cob. I frozen two of the uncooked chicken breasts, and I have a baked breaded chicken breast and baked potato cooked and ready for tomorrow. I will now throw out the garbage. Not much happening out here in Greenwich, California. CIO

Note: <888> 05/05/08 Monday 12:55 P.M.. April is always the cheapest month for electricity. My electricity bill that I have already paid at www.cl-p.com for the month of April 2008 was $122.09 or 634 KWH or 21 KWH per day for 30 days of usage for the month of April 2008 compared to 834 KWH in April 2007 or 28 KWH a day, thus I have reduced my April electricity usage from last year by about 25%. Of course that means sitting in a dark apartment most of the time. CIO

Note: <888> 05/05/08 Monday 11:10 A.M.. After the last note, I noticed the 650VA Two Outlet 110VAC UPS for $24 that I bought in June 2006, and I was using on the primary Vista computer was overheating, and it was quite hot. I have the same UPS on the primary Vista server, so I removed the one from the primary Vista computer, and I put the one from the primary Vista FIC server on the primary Vista computer. I connected it to the lowest control panel, second switch from the left, and I labeled it "computer". Possibly it started to overheat because it was beneath the keyboard drawer in a cramped area, so it did not get enough ventilation. To be on the safe side, I put the replacement one in front of the keyboard on the floor where it gets plenty of ventilation, but when one sits at the keyboard, one has to straddle it on both sides. I took the fuse out of the defective one, so it can not be used, and I will probably throw it away shortly. I chatted with a relative, and I went to bed about 12:30 A.M.. I woke up at 6 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, two toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up, and I went out, and I chatted with a neighbor. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by the Wachovia Bank on Benedict Place, and I paid my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I noticed they are now using new www.nec.com computers. I then returned home, and I chatted with some neighbors. I have to get my paper work ready to apply for this year's Renter's Rebate. CIO

Note: <888> 05/04/08 Sunday 8:05 P.M.. I went outside, and I chatted with some neighbors. I retrieved the missing can of tuna fish from the Audi. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with a dill pickle slice, and about 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 05/04/08 Sunday 5:50 P.M.. I went out after cleaning up. I found the missing can of tuna fish in the trunk. I forgot it on the driver's side floor in the car when I returned. I picked up my guests at the East Side bound side of the Greenwich Train station. I dropped one of them off at a private gathering. I then drove over to Old Greenwich, and the other guest, and I went to the Greenwich Food Mart. I was wrong, the gasoline at the Exxon station in Old Greenwich is only a dime cheaper than central Greenwich. My guest bought me a roast beef sandwich on a Kaiser roll with mayonnaise, horseradish, and Bermuda onion and a small bag of potato chips. We then drove out to the Southwest Parking area at Tod's Point, and we ate our lunches at one of the picnic benches in the parking area. We then walked around and returned about half the south shore of Tod's Point. I noticed some interesting pieces of drift wood along the south shore. There were about fifty sail boats sailing off Oyster Bay, Long Island. We then stopped by the Southeast concession area, and my guest used the rest room. We then picked up the other guest and another visitor, and I dropped all three of them off at the Greenwich Train station, and I waited for them to catch the 4:12 P.M. train back into Manhattan. I then returned home. My guest put down the passenger side window on the Audi, and it is used so little, it seems not to want to go up right away, but if one runs it up and down a little bit for a short distance, it eventually goes up. I chatted with two other friends. CIO

Note: <888> 05/04/08 Sunday 11:35 A.M.. I showered, and I cleaned up after the last note. I went out, and I threw out some garbage. I emptied the ashtray on the north end of the building. I gave a neighbor a ride over to St. Catherine's in Riverside. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $8 or 1.860 gallons of self service premium gasoline for $4.299 a gallon for 27.9 miles driving since the first of May for odometer reading of 59867 miles at 15 miles per gallon average at higher speeds on the Putnam Avenue instead of Greenwich Avenue. I then went by the Food Emporium, and I bought four pounds of unsalted America's Choice butter for $2.50 each, a package of six boneless breasts of chicken for $8.94, a one pound package of Kraft white singles for $2.50, a golden pineapple for $3.99, two mangoes for .99 each and ten small ears of corn for $2 for $28.41 total. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a loaf of Stop and Shop whole wheat bread for $1.50, buy one get one free of Thomas's whole wheat English muffins for $3 both, a dozen large jumbo eggs expire June 5, 2008 for $2.49, two 59 ounce containers of Simply orange juice with calcium for $3 each, sliced German wondabar baloney for $2.99 a pound for $4.50, sliced Swiss cheese for $5.99 a pound for $5.90, 10 six ounce cans of Bumble Bee solid white albacore tuna fish for $1 each, four 16 ounce boxes of Barilla linguine for $1.25 each, four 26 ounce jars of Barilla roasted garlic tomato sauce for $2 each, a 12 ounce container of Nature's Promise wild flower honey for $3.59, two 48 ounce containers of Quaker old fashioned oatmeal for $4.49, a 12 ounce container of Stop and Shop grated parmesan and Romano cheese for $2.50, a quart jar of Vlassic polish dill pickles for $2, a 33.5 ounce box of Pepperidge Farm whole wheat goldfish crackers for $7.99, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, a pound bag of onions for $1.99, broccoli crowns for $2.99 a pound for $2.31, a bulb of garlic for .30, a 5 pound bag of Russet potatoes for $2.99 for $82.03 total. I put my groceries in the rear of the Audi, and then I brought them home, and I brought them up to the apartment with my folding wire cart that I hang on the bathroom door. I put away my groceries. Somehow, I lost one of the cans of tuna fish. I have to get ready to meet my guest, and I will leave to pick them up after that. CIO

Note: <888> 05/03/08 Saturday 4:35 P.M.. I lowered the refresh rate on all four LCD monitors from 75 MHz to 60 MHz to possibly stabilize the system. Not much happening around here. Since Greenwich, Connecticut is a lot of older people with money who could not be bothered with computers and the public media, more than likely they are pursuing their more expensive luxury recreations as opposed to typing on dirty old keyboards. Once you get big money, computers are something the low paid clerical staff spend their time doing. Of course, since I majored in economics and not computers, I tend to have a larger overall picture of the economic reality here as opposed to the tabloid press vision of reality. Well, on the high end of things, I ate a hamburger with cheese on a bagel with ketchup and steamed broccoli and baby carrots with a little bit of olive oil and a glass of iced tea. Since we live on the coast of America, we always have foreigners visiting around here. I picked up my mail, and I said hello to some neighbors, and I threw out some garbage. TBS is showing one of those ancient computer type movies about the way computer systems were in the old days. Of course the super rich people can afford robots and automated systems

Note: <888> 05/03/08 Saturday 2:20 P.M.. I woke up at 4 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. Happy Birthday to another relative. On my primary computer and FIC server <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> , I have on the primary Vista computer, the EVGA GE Force 6200 AGP video card and the PNY PCI GeForce FX5200 video card. However, occasionally the primary Vista computer crashes, and from what I can tell, it is the two video cards are not totally compatible. I tried exchanging the ATI Radeon 9600 Video card from the FIC server to the primary Vista computer, but after a number different efforts, it will not work, so I return the hardware on both computers back to their original state, and I restored the backups. Possibly this will fix the conflict problem, I ordered FRYS.com | EVGA 6200 Video Card 256 MB, PCI for $59.99 and $6.32 shipping for $66.31 total, and it also has this $40 mail in rebate http://images.frys.com/art/rebates\_pdf/5516940\_060308.pdf , so it will eventually cost me $26.31. Note: <888> 05/02/08 Friday 10:40 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. A neighbor knocked on my door, and the neighbor needed to know where to get American made suspenders. The information is at the bottom of this page Suspenders Accessories from American Workwear - Wick Dry socks, gloves, suspenders, etc. . I guess as food gets more expensive in the United States of America, more people might find their pants are getting a little loose around the waste, and they might need suspenders, particularly if they are like me and have a pot belly. If one orders two pairs, one gets them for the same price shipping as one pair. I went outside, and I brought my umbrella up from the Audi. I ate a three egg omelet with three slices Kraft white cheese with some grated parmesan and Romano cheese on it along with a toasted bagel with butter and five strips of fried maple flavored bacon with a glass of iced tea.

I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. My $300 Income Tax Return Stimulus rebate arrived in my bank account. I did some bottom fishing on the internet, but there was nothing that I needed or could afford. I went out, and I chatted with some neighbors, and I threw out the garbage. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then drove all of the way over to Old Greenwich, and I went to the The Haircut Place , and I got my hair cut short for the first time since Christmas Time for $24 and $5

tip for $29 total. I then went by the Old Greenwich Rummage Room Thrift Shop, and I toured their store, but there was nothing that I needed. I then went by CVS, and I bought two 12.5 ounce bottles of Frank's Hot Sauce for $2.19 each for $4.38 total. I used the bathroom at CVS. I am not buying nuts anymore, since they can cause intestinal problems as one gets older particularly in quantity. I then walked over to the Old Greenwich Food Mart. I noticed the Exxon Service station across from the Food Mart is selling self service premium for $3.999 a gallon about 30 cents cheaper than central Greenwich. I noticed the Greenwich Food Mart has a large www.perrier.com display. I bought a roast beef sandwich on a Kaiser roll with mayonnaise and horse radish for $4.99 and .30 tax for $5.29 total. I then walked back to my car, and I drove out to the southwest picnic area parking area at Tod's Point, and I ate the sandwich with a small bag of potato chips that they gave me. There was only one other person at that location on a cold damp day. I then drove over to the southeast concession area, and I used the bathroom. I noticed a half dozen local citizens dressed up as American Indians to commemorate something happening at the Marker Rock at the southeast point at Tod's Point. Since they were tanned, I actually thought they were American Indians. I then went by Staples, and I bought two 3 packs of clamp binders for $6.49 a three pack, and for a $40 discount, I bought a HP Photosmart C4280 Color Flatbed All-in-One at Staples® for $59.98 and $4.38 tax for $77.34 total. Outside the store, I chatted with a tech person, and I gave him a calling card. I then returned home, and I chatted with some neighbors, and I brought up my purchases, and I also picked up my mail. I watered the plants with 8 drops per quart of Shultz plant food. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I moved the Lindbergh radio from the left side of the bed to the right side of the mahogany bureau in the bedroom. I moved the Epson Stylus 900 printer from on top of the FIC server to the right of the bedroom desk, and I connected it up with the USB 2.0 four splitter from the Toshiba laptop to the bedroom Dell computer. I think it is already configured. I then moved the Epson Stylus Color 880 printer from the dining table to the top of the FIC server. I then opened up the HP Photosmart C4280 Buy an HP Photosmart C4280 All-in-One Printer, Scanner, Copier (CC210A#ABA) from HP, and I set it up on the dining table to the left of the primary Vista computer. I followed the quick start instructions for setting it up. I connected its power cord with its transformer to the lower left control panel switch, so I can turn off the transformer when not using the HP unit. I installed the software without any problems following the quick start instructions. I registered it online. It seems to work just fine. I have photo paper, if I need to print out any photos. I disabled the two HP startup programs, but I put icons to them on the desktop. I have the HP box and its packing material on the far end of the down sofa. I put the printed material that came with it on top of the unit for now. Its smaller HP black and color cartridges can be replaced with the same two HP cartridges for about $30 both. I do not print out much color, but it will be handy for me to have. It seems to be a neat compact unit. I moved the four port USB cable that comes off the 8 port USB adapter to another slot to get it to be recognized. That changed some of my printer USB ports, so I had to check that they were on the right ports. The primary Vista computer setup seems to be running just fine. I labeled the changes on the LAN port printer boxes, and the control panel. CIO

Note: <888> 05/01/08 Thursday 10:05 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. I ate a toasted bagel with olive oil and a glass of iced tea. I chatted with some friends. My friends are coming out this Sunday, May 4, 2008. I will pick them up at the Greenwich Train station in the early afternoon. One of them has an engagement elsewhere that I will drop the individual off at and pick up later. The other party and I will do something depending on the weather. It is suppose to rain the next three days with thunder showers on Sunday. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Well, I guess I am back on a day schedule. CIO

Note: <888> 05/01/08 Thursday 8:05 P.M.. I rested and watched television until 1 P.M.. I also ate a 10 ounce can of CVS deluxe mixed nuts. When I got up at 1 P.M., I drank a cup of coffee. I did not make up my bed, I just pulled up the covers. I showered, and I cleaned up. I picked up the mail. I went downtown, and I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went to my usual Thursday 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop, and I bought for $25 a 11 year old Proscan 20 inch television model #PS20105 without its remote control. I tested it before buying it by looking at its menu screen, and it has a sharp picture. Here is an old web page for it RCA PROSCAN 20 INCH TV and Thomson PS20105 : Read reviews and compare prices at Ciao. My old 19 year old Proscan 20 inch television that I took up to Maine last summer cost me $$359 plus tax 19 years ago, when I bought it as a clearance item from County Appliances in Stamford, Connecticut down from $559. They were the top of the line televisions a number of years ago. I put it in the back seat of the Audi. I then went by CVS, and I picked up a prescription. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $11 of self service premium gasoline at $4.299 a gallon for 2.558 gallons for 36.4 miles driving since April 20, 2008 at odometer reading of 59839 miles averaging 14.23 miles per gallon in local driving around town about half the time with the air conditioner going. I then returned home. I brought up the Proscan TV with the folding cart that I keep in the rear of the Audi. I had left it up in the apartment, when I brought up the Brother all purpose machine, so I was not able to use it at the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I took the Lindbergh radio off the tea table by the French reproduction chair, and I put it on the tea tray on the DeLonghi radiators to the left side of the bed in the bedroom. I took the 13 inch Panasonic television out of the kitchen where it was to the left of the refrigerator, and I put it on the tea table in front of the French reproduction chair in the living room hallway entrance. I put the Proscan television to the left of the refrigerator. I connected up the televisions to the cables connected to the Digital Cable Box. I had an RCA universal remote, and I set it up for the Proscan TV. I set up its menu items. I cleaned the remote with rubbing alcohol, and I put in two new AAA alkaline batteries. The RCA universal remote is a SystemLink 4 model. The Proscan has very sharp reception and excellent stereo sound. The Panasonic still has sharp reception. I put a two splitter off the four splitter connecting the Panasonic and the JVC in the bathroom. I use an 18 inch coaxial cable to connect the 2 splitter to the 4 splitter. I put the folding cart back in the rear of the Audi. I emptied the ashtrays outside the front of the building. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 06/30/08 Monday 8:25 P.M. I threw out the garbage. I emptied the ashtray on the north end of the building. I will now watch some television for a while. I did not get any mail today. CIO

Note: <888> 06/30/08 Monday 4:30 P.M. I made up a batch of sugar free Jell-o using one black cheery and one raspberry, and I used a 15 ounce can of DelMonte lite sliced peaches and a 20 ounce can of Libby's sliced pineapple. I used the juice from the can along with passion punch for the cold liquid. It takes four hours to set in the refrigerator. CIO

Note: <888> 06/30/08 Monday 4:00 P.M. After lunch, I went outside, and I chatted with some neighbors. I took a walk around the building. One of the neighbors told me, the window people were here to measure for the broken window in the community room. I moved the two www.army.mil extreme cold weather sleeping bags good to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit from behind the bedroom door to another more convenient storage place, so the bedroom door now opens more fully. I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 06/30/08 Monday 2:45 P.M. I woke up at 5 P.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 8 A.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage, and I chatted with a neighbor. I took the folding oaks TV tables out of the rear of the Audi, and I gave the two yellow folding deck chairs to a neighbor. Now the rear trunk area of the Audi has more room. I still have the burgundy folding nylon chairs in the rear of the Audi. I still have my tool case in it too. I brought up the folding oak tables, and I put them behind the French reproduction chair. I took the pillows and green corduroy slip cover off the down sofa. I put the slip cover folded up on the floor on the bedroom closet. I put the two large pillows on the bed. I stored the smaller pillows elsewhere. I then took the pillows and cushions off the down sofa, and after moving the small computer desk and www.harvard.edu chair and Mongoose bike out in the hallway, I pulled out the frame of the down sofa, and I took it outside, and I left it by the dumpster with the cushions and pillows. I then moved the brass and glass coffee table six inches further away from the Scott family sofa, so there is about two feet between it and the brass and glass coffee table for easier access to the stereo system and the Epox computer. I move the oval Aubusson carpet from underneath the computer chair to the area where the down sofa was. I put the Mongoose bike against the rear of the Epox computer setup and brass and glass coffee table. I put the small computer table and Harvard chair back in about the same location, but with it pushed forward a bit more, so there is more space walking between it and dining table. I threw out the Mexican terracotta painted pot from the window ledge in the living room, and I put it by the dumpster. I moved the pathos plant from the bathroom to the same window ledge location in the living room sitting in a large crystal bowl for drainage. I move the two pieces of coral from the small telephone table in the bathroom to underneath the bathroom sink. I moved the new electric shaver and new hair trimmer to behind the bedroom door. I took the small telephone table from the bathroom, and I put it on an angle into the room with the tea table to the left of the French reproduction chair. I have the small Panasonic TV on the telephone table with the two line telephone on the tea table in front of it with the paper shredder underneath it. I had taken down the Williamsburg candle sconces at the apartment closet wall, but I put them back up, since there is now more room. I also moved one of the power strips from the small computer table to the floor by the French antique reproduction chair, and I moved the 1989 social register and telephone books from the small computer table to the lower shelf of the telephone table. Thus overall the apartment has a less cluttered and more spacious appearance. The access to the toilet in the bathroom is now fully opened. I will now eat a baloney and cheese sandwich with dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringles sour cream and onion potato chips with a glass of cold filtered water. Pictures below. Note: <888> 06/29/08 Sunday 12:45 P.M. I poked with a fork three sets of holes on each of four sides of a medium large potato. I microwaved it on a potato cycle, and then I let it stand on the cutting board, while I microwaved for five minutes a 7.5 ounce pouch of Green Giant frozen peas and at the same time, I fried on medium high electric burner heat in a frying pan with a small bit of butter and olive oil a 7 ounce precooked Jone's ham steak which I flipped regularly. I put butter on the potato and peas, and I ate it all with a glass of iced tea. I poured off the ham grease into the grease jar. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a nap for a while. CIO

Note: <888> 06/29/08 Sunday 11:35 A.M. I woke up at 5:30 A.M. this morning. I watched a vintage Interpol movie that seemed a bit dated. I watched a vintage Las Angeles fire department promotion which seemed a bit dated. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage, and I chatted with some neighbors. I walked around the building. I did some bottom fishing on the internet for UPS items that I do not really need and can not afford.

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 9:10 P.M. I chatted with my relatives in Kennebunkport, Maine, and they made it up there all right, and the house is fine thanks to the other relatives up there. On Grandma Scott's side of the family side, the Gard family were the original settlers of the George's Plantation in York, Maine, so more than likely there are a lot of relatives up in that neck of the woods, whom know there way around better than I do. I ate the last two bowls of low fat Cheez-its. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. They're calling for showers starting soon and through tomorrow, so I probably will now be going out tomorrow. The good news is that they will clean off the cars a bit. The cell phone of a friend does not work in New London, Connecticut, so I no longer have contact with the military up there. CIO

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 6:25 P.M. I went outside, and I moved the other silver family car on the right side of the Audi. I do not plan to drive the other car, and my relative will pick it up on this Wednesday. I walked around the building. There is a broken upper window on the west side of the community room. There seems to be a lot of blackberries in the bush on the south side of the community room or some other type of berries. I chatted with neighbors. I picked up my mail. I received another $10 survey check from Knowledge Networks. I was given a gift by my relative a pair of waste 42 inch tan Ralph Lauren polo walking shorts, which I am sure will be handy this summer. They fit quite well. CIO

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 5:15 P.M. I chatted with a relative. I made and ate the same sautéed boneless pork tenderloin dinner that I have been eating recently, which I ate with a glass of cold filtered water. I chatted with a friend. CIO

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 2:45 P.M. My relatives stopped by the Mobil gasoline station across the street and were surprised by the high price of gasoline in this area, and they arrived at about 1:30 P.M.. They came up and looked at my apartment and used the bathroom. The fed their dog some gourmet dog food. They think I should get rid of some of the clutter in my apartment, but it makes sense to me in terms of the way it has evolved over 19.5 years. They left about 2 P.M. for Kennebunkport, Maine. Here are a few pictures I was able to take. I also chatted with a friend whom used my apartment constantly until two years ago which had to do with a bit of the way it evolved. They left the other family car for another relative to pickup on Wednesday for a trip north.

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 12:05 P.M. A relative called, and they are about an hour away. They will call me when they are on the Merritt Parkway nearby. They do not think they should take the Heineken, since it would get warm in the car, and it would not be any good. Well, if George Cary ever visits, I still have beer for him. I guess they will only get the multi packs of batteries. I chatted with another friend earlier. CIO

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 11:35 A.M. I chatted with one of my relatives about 11 A.M., and they were just leaving, so they should be here between 1:30 P.M. and 2 P.M.. They do not need the Black and Decker Professional jar opener in Maine, so I will have to figure out something else to do with it. They are going to leave another family car here, for a relative to pick up later in the week to drive north for the Fourth of July holiday. I went outside, and I sat out briefly. CIO

Note: <888> 06/28/08 Saturday 10:55 A.M. After the last note, I went outside, and I chatted with neighbors, and I picked up my mail. One of my neighbors told me that he had watched the Greenwich RTM on television when they approved the funds for replacing the windows in the apartment building I live at 71 Vinci Drive with double pane windows. The apparently do not plan to do it until November 2008, which might be a little bit cold outside to have the windows removed in a retirement home. I went to bed, and I woke up at 4 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 8 A.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage, and I chatted with a neighbor. I chatted with a relative, and my relatives will be leaving about 10:30 A.M. for a three hour drive here and then further up north to Kennebunkport, Maine to their summer home. I showered, and I cleaned up. I have the Black and Decker Professional Jar opener to give them, two multi packs of CVS batteries I bought on sale in December 2007, and a 12 pack of Heineken that I bought about a year ago, but I kept cold in the refrigerator. I put three bottles of Perrier in the refrigerator. I also have a six pack of German Lendener beer from Cologne, Germany in the refrigerator that I bought about six years ago, and I have kept refrigerated, but I am not sure it still is good. I saw last weekend on the Creative channel, that one can use beer to make batter for fish and chips, but I normally do not deep fat fry in oil. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-its. I also took the six 64 ounce empty ice tea jugs out of the refrigerator, so there is more room. CIO

Note: <888> 06/27/08 Friday 4:00 P.M. I checked the mileage to the end of Steamboat Road from my parking place at Vinci Drive today, and it is about exactly seven miles round trip and it is five miles round trip to the Senior and Arts center. Ergo, it costs me with an average amount of traffic about $3.25 round trip to drive from here to the bottom of Steamboat Road, and it costs me $2.30 from here round trip to the Senior and the Arts center, ergo I do not go out as much anymore in the Audi, except for when the weather permits, and I feel up to it. I guess I am getting a bit lazy in my old age of 58 years old. Well, if Bill Gates can retire at age 53 today, I guess I can retire and manage my life at age 58 years of age. Trust me, I have seen just about everything there is to see on West Putnam Avenue, Greenwich Avenue, and Steamboat Road, and since I grew up in this area, when gasoline was much cheaper, I have pretty much seen the rest of the area too for what its worth. It looks better in the summer, but in the winter it is pretty bleak and cold, and unless one has a warm comfortable home, it can become quite uncomfortable. I will now go through my email. I guess nobody else has two cents to add. I watched part of a Western on television. CIO

Note: <888> 06/27/08 Friday 2:55 P.M. I checked out from the Greenwich Library, "Hacking Exposed, Fifth Edition, Network Security Secrets and Solutions" by McAfee and Stuart McClure, Joel Scambray, and George Kurtz. Hopefully I will have time to read it. I was also told by a neighbor, that the Food Emporium being remodeled across the street from the Stop and Shop is going to reopen in a couple of a weeks as an A&P store with lower prices than the Food Emporium chain which is also owned by the A&P chain. CIO

Note: <888> 06/27/08 Friday 2:35 P.M. Yesterday, I ate the other 1/3rd of a box of a 12 ounce box of CVS spiced wafers. I woke up at 5 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I chatted with a neighbor, and I gave another neighbor a ride downtown to work, and I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I played a 7 11 21 scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I sat out for a while downtown. I then drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, but none of the regular fishermen were there, I guess because of the higher prices of fuel. I saw a grey and a white heron on the waterfront. I next went by the Greenwich Library. I sat out for a while waiting for it to open. I chatted with a regular. I read P.C. Shopper, Popular Mechanics, and Popular Science, and Computerworld. I noticed in the July 2008 issue of Popular Science there was an article about Google Maps, and how it is used for tracking Volcanic Ash activity, and it mentioned the www.klm.com flight that lost all four jet engines over an erupting volcano over Alaska on December 15, 1989. I met the copilot of that flight, and he was a nephew of Queen Beatrice of the Netherlands, so obviously the Dutch have some interest. I next returned home. I chatted with a neighbor. I installed the system on the Northgate Syntax computer, and it works quite well. It has a separate plugs for the headset on the control panel, but one can either have the speakers playing or the headset playing, because plugging in the headset disables the speakers. I put the speaker system on the Lazy Susan that the monitor sits on. I removed the Y splitter from the system, since I no longer need it. I put it in the upper left desk drawer. I put the pair of Jensen speakers I took off on the Bedroom Gigabyte computer, and I removed a generic pair from it, and I stored it underneath the sideboard. I chatted with a relative who is going to stop by briefly and visit tomorrow afternoon. I made and ate the same chef's salad that I have been eating recently, and I ate it with a glass of cold filtered water. I watered the plants. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I watched part of a television program about Hawaii. When I visited there in August 1980, it was too hot for me there, and I spent a lot of time at the pool at the [Maui Hotels, Kaanapali Beach Hawaii Resorts & Room Reservations-Hyatt Regency Maui Resort & Spa](http://Maui Hotels, Kaanapali Beach Hawaii Resorts & Room Reservations-Hyatt Regency Maui Resort & Spa), and I paid about $85 a day for the cheapest air conditioned room, but the food was expensive. Note: <888> 06/26/08 Thursday 8:05 P.M. I went to bed until about 10 A.M.. The building custodian knocked on the door, and shortly there after the window people measured the windows. They said in about five months next fall, when they install the double pane windows, they have to move the furniture inside four feet away from the windows. The Greenwich Housing Authority told me that the building custodian would help me move the furniture then, but the building custodian did not seem enthusiastic about the idea. Since the state of Connecticut is $150 million in debt, I am not sure they even have the money to install new double pane windows. I chatted with www.cl-p.com about the supposed matching energy grant, and from what they told me I would not be eligible for it, since I do not use enough energy. I chatted with a friend. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out to my 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I then sat outside downtown at the Senior and the Arts center for a while. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $6.01 of self service premium unleaded gasoline for $5.019 a gallon for 1.19 gallons for 12.4 miles driving since Monday at odometer reading of 60092 for an average of 10.420 miles per gallon driving in heavy local traffic with the air conditioner going. I cleaned the outside windows, and I checked the tires for 34 PSI. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a half gallon of Florida Natural orange juice with calcium for $3, 1.5 pounds of German Baloney for $2.79 a pound for $4.54, a 13.5 ounce box of low fat Cheez-its for $2.50, a 64 ounce container of Stop and Shop crangrape and a 64 ounce container of Stop and Shop cranraspberry juice each for $2 each, and a head of Foxy iceberg lettuce for $1.79 for $15.83 total. I then returned home, and I picked up the mail, and I put away the groceries. I went out, and I chatted with a neighbor. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went to my 2 P.M. appointment. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center before and after my walk. I stopped by CVS to view the store circular. I chatted with a regular local about the price of the tea in China. I then returned home. I chatted with a neighbor. I received my Verizon telephone book for Greenwich, Connecticut. I put it underneath the AT&T two line cordless telephone on the left side of the table at the apartment entrance. I drank a 50% passion punch mixture with 50% seltzer water. I ate a few more ginger wafers. It was good to get out for a change, but it was a bit warm. I have relatives stopping by on Saturday afternoon on their way further north. CIO

Note: <888> 06/25/08 Wednesday 5:05 A.M. I ate the same meal as yesterday with just one boneless center cut pork tenderloin. I ate it with a glass of cold filtered water. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a nap for a while. CIO

Note: <888> 06/25/08 Wednesday 2:45 A.M. I was called up at 1 P.M. yesterday afternoon, and my 3 P.M. appointment was cancelled until 2 P.M. today. I woke up at 7:30 P.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 11:30 P.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw out some garbage, and I picked up the mail. I did my regular house cleaning, but I still have to vacuum after 8 A.M., when I will not disturb my neighbors. I also used a potato brush to clean the algae out of the toilet tank, and I put a new blue tablet in it. I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 06/24/08 Tuesday 11:35 A.M. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a brief nap before getting ready to go out for my 3 P.M. appointment. CIO

Note: <888> 06/24/08 Tuesday 10:20 A.M. I straightened up the brown runner rug that runs from the apartment entrance and behind the down sofa to the hallway. It gets out of alignment every couple of weeks or so. I used the swivel sweeper to clean the carpets. I am charging up its battery pack. I went outside, and I threw out garbage. I walked around the building. They are measuring the windows in the building for replacement with double pane glass in the near future. I chatted with a smaller neighbor, and I told him about the red wolf possibly being a tan shepherd that got away for a while, since I saw a similar animal downtown on a leash on Sunday mornings at Starbucks. With the lights on in the apartment, I can notice more easily maintenance activity that needs to be done as I go through my routines. Plus it is more cheerful. For some reason the emergency generator is running in back. I have my usual 3 P.M. appointment today. I am so use to getting out for a walk downtown every day, it is hard to get use to only getting out two or three times a week, and less for a walk, since frequently after my daytime appointments, I am too tired to take a walk. I will now make the same dinner as the last two days, but I will only use one boneless center cut pork tenderloin. I currently weight 215 pounds, so I could stand to lose 20 pounds or more. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 06/24/08 Tuesday 8:10 A.M. I ate the 1.4 ounce Heath Candy Bar.

I decided not to try not to drink anymore iced tea anymore, since it is a diuretic, and it makes one have to go to the bathroom more frequently. I went to bed about 11 A.M.. I had a telephone call from a relative about 4 P.M.. I went back to bed until 8 P.M.. I chatted with the same relative. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until midnight. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I watched some television. I made and ate the same chef's salad as a few days ago, which I also put a bit of blue cheese dressing on. I ate it with a glass of cold filtered watered. I rested through out the morning, and I watched television. I finished eating the last box of low fat Cheez-its yesterday and today. There is not really that much on television during the early morning hours, and it is mostly reruns. I threw out some garbage, and I said hello to a neighbor going out early. I decided to work with the primary lights on in the living room, since I seem to be more efficient with the lights going as opposed to a few low lights, since without the lights, I tend to get a bit tired in the darkness. I did some bottom fishing on the internet. I emailed copies of my 1998 Audi A6 owned by Michael Scott Connecticut registration and title to two relatives in Pennsylvania who were previous owners. Apparently the State of Pennsylvania still shows they are the owners. Since my Connecticut license plate is "840 GXO" sometimes, the last letter "O" is mistaken for a "0". Well, at least I have a full tank of gasoline since I am practicing energy conservation and not driving too far most of the time. I could always buy a <http://www.flagline.com/id42A240> Oval Decal for $2.25 and $3 shipping to see if anyone takes note. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 11:55 P.M. I woke up at 9:30 P.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a local security group about what is happening out in Bayville, Long Island with so many people using electricity in the morning hours. I know Brookhaven National Laboratory is out there, and they have a Graphite Atomic Reactor built in 1948, so maybe they are getting spare electricity generating power out of that. It would seem to me, it could be a lot of California tech people are use to being up all night, and they have settled in a group out there in high tech over the years. I know Dave Wheatly was not high tech. He delivered the Queen Mary I to Long Beach, California, and he use to ferry Spitfires over here. Possibly it is some sort of British Intelligence group living out there sitting nearby the Trans Atlantic telephone cable which would carry the internet also. More than likely since Computer Associates is out there as well as Grumman, it is a mixed bag of fish trying to exercise undue influence over the internet. I do know Helen Kress Williams of Oyster Bay, Long Island had the same look as Dorothy Bush, and possibly the excess energy out there is coming from Williams Energy as opposed to Lilco. It would seem to me, we have more resources here on the south shore of Connecticut with all of New England and Canada to the north of us. I have contacts out in Long Island, so I just called them up, and I had them take a look around to see what sort of activity is happening around out there. It would seem to me that from my experience out on the north shore of Long Island, there are a lot of Germans out there, and from what I know about the Germans, they never give you a straight forward answer like they do not even know what is going on. Possibly it is some group of students from Post College all living out in Bayville, Long Island, and as I recall the New York Institute of Technology is nearby also. Possibly some guru with the real satellite photographs as opposed to the fake ones might figure out what is happening out there. I do not get much feed back out of anyone around here, since they are not too heavily involved with the internet from what I can tell. Who knows maybe some sort of secret internet cartel is being run out of Bayville, Long Island, and they are prospering off of raising worldwide oil prices and blaming it on everyone else. I have had a theory for a long time that all of the world's problems are caused by about fifty thousand well financed trouble makers, and the rest of the world just watches in bewilderment. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 2:30 P.M. I called up www.geico.com , and I gave them a lengthy briefing on local events. I threw out some garbage, and I said hello to some neighbors. We have a thunderstorm coming in. I chatted with a friend. I chatted with a local security official about my suspicions that since about three weeks ago at night, when I observed the north shore of Long Island at night from Steamboat Road, it was totally dark along the entire length of the North Shore of Long Island as far one could see, but for some odd reason there were about 500 small houses totally lighted up along the waterfront in the Bayville, Long Island area from 2 A.M. to 4 A.M. on a week day night, so obviously somebody in that section is using a lot of electricity at night, when their wealthier neighbors are not. I know the Russia, German, and French consulates are out that way, so maybe there is a large group of Europeans or people from the Eastern Hemisphere setting the overseas markets in the early morning hours, while most people are asleep. Dave Wheatly who I use to talk with at Tod's Point in Greenwich use to drive around in a black Volkswagen with the British Union Jack on the front plate, and he once told me his son had moved to Bayville, so maybe other younger European up and coming movers and shakers have settled out there in inexpensive beach houses in mass. It is really none of my business, but from what I know of the area, the Old Guard out there do not keep a very close eye on matters. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 10:55 A.M. I sautéed two boneless center cut pork tenderloins in olive oil, chopped garlic, butter, and a sliced medium onion, and I seasoned them with garlic powder, ground black pepper, and Italian spices, and for the last couple of minutes, I steamed it all with soy sauce and a little bit of Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce, and I ate it with flavored rice half of which I put in a Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator and 1.5 cups of baby carrots and broccoli crowns with butter, and a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 9:20 A.M. I went downtown after the last note. I walked lower Greenwich Avenue and also over to the south side of the Greenwich Train station. On the south side of the Greenwich Train station crossover walkway, there is a notice that a 15 year old boy from Peru is missing in New Rochelle, New York. There is a number to call on the notice. There are no computer items in the dumpster area of the lower garage at the Greenwich Train station, but there are a lot of boxes for new items that have been purchased. There still seems to be quite a bit of traffic on I-95. I sat out for a while at the south office building plaza. At Carriage House Motors, they have a vintage purple www.cadillac.com convertible about 1957 put possibly it is a 1961. It is the one with about six inch fins. Maybe Wiley Middleton is around still trying to sell Cadillacs. I sat out for a while at the post office plaza which gets the sun in the early morning hours. I walked up Greenwich Avenue. The new office building at Armagone Causeway is coming along just fine. It is just south of some Swiss Bank. I walked over to the Chase Bank on Mason Street, and I used the ATM machine there. I then walked over to the Y.M.C.A., and I looked through the window at the new swimming pools. They seem to be state of the art. I chatted with somebody from Columbia who wanted to know where the Greenwich Train station was. I gave him directions. I walked as far East as Milbank Avenue. There is a nice wine store next door the restaurant where Tuscon's used to be. I walked back west on the north side of East Putnam Avenue, and then I walked back down Greenwich Avenue. I sat out for a while. I then walked back down Greenwich Avenue, and I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I bought a ACE's High scratch guard for a dollar, but the dealer had a Queen, so I lost. I then used the bathroom at the lower level of the Greenwich Train station. I then returned back up Greenwich Avenue, and I sat out for a while. I noticed a lady walking a tan German Shepherd that looked a bit like the Red Wolf that I saw on Memorial Day morning. Maybe it got away and was wandering in our neighborhood. I then drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, but none of the usual fishermen were there, so I guess they no longer can afford to drive down there like myself. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $6.02 of self service premium for 1.199 gallons at $5.019 a gallon for 11.2 miles driving since last Thursday at odometer reading of 60080 at 9.341 miles per gallon. However, I filled the Audi up to the maximum which is why the gasoline mileage is not as good. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a package of eight boneless center cut pork chops for $2.49 a pound for $7.59, a top Round London Broil for $2.49 a pound for $6.32, a half gallon of Florida Natural Orange Juice with calcium for $3, a two pound package of baby carrots for $2.99, a quart jar of Vlassic Kosher dill pickles for $2, fresh green Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $2.46, broccoli crowns at $1.99 a pound for $2.63, and a bulb of garlic for $2.99 a pound for .39 for $27.38 total. The meat was on sale for half price or better. I then used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank at the Stop and Shop plaza. I then returned home, and I chatted with some neighbors. I put away the groceries. I used the Cuisine Art to make five 8.5 ounce hamburgers out of the London Broil, and I froze them in double baby carrot zip lock bags. The newest burgers in the freezer are on the lower right freezer door. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 3:35 A.M. I put away the laundry. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will shower and clean up, and I will go downtown for a walk. I need to stop by the Stop and Shop at 7 A.M. to get some bananas, so I will probably linger for a while downtown. Have a good morning. It is suppose to rain at 10 A.M.. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 2:20 A.M. I made and ate the same chef's salad as yesterday along with eating the rest of the pineapple fruit mixture with a glass of 50% cold filtered water and 50% iced tea. I did two wash loads of laundry, and I am only doing one dryer load. CIO

Note: <888> 06/22/08 Sunday 12:30 A.M. After the last note, I watched some cooking shows on the Creative Channel 133 HDTV Magazine - Broadcast Station/Network Guide (WLIWDT3 (WLIW-DT3)) on the Digital Cablevision System. I went to bed about 11 A.M.. I woke up at 4 P.M., when Veterans for McCain John McCain 2008 - John McCain for President called me. I told them I had linked his web page from my server, and I asked them to email me any information. I went back to bed until 7 P.M. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 10 P.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. This past Thursday, I told a customer who was looking to buy a used Sony DVD player at the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop for $35 that he could buy a refurbished one almost new for $35 on the internet. The web page for the Sony refurbished items is here Sony Outlet & Refurbished Products . I went downstairs to do laundry, but the machines are currently busy. I threw out some garbage, and I heard something moving out in the woods like an animal behind the dumpster. There is an orange moon tonight, but I can not tell if it is a full moon. I put clean linens on the bed. I will do the laundry shortly. I made up another batch of passion punch. Yesterday morning, I drank three 60% full glasses of 50% passion punch and 50% seltzer. CIO

I will now go through my email. I was told that in World War II, the Dutch survived by eating tulip bulbs and the Germans survived by eating cabbages and turnips. CIO

Note: <888> 06/21/08 Saturday 3:45 A.M. I woke up yesterday at 7:30 P.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage and the old periodical literature. I watered the plants. I chatted with a relative. About 11:30 P.M., I rinsed in cold water five large leaves of iceberg lettuce, and I shook them to dry them off. I broke them into small piece, and I spread them over a larger dinner plate. I then split lengthwise into quarters about 15 baby carrots, and I spread them over the plate. I spread about a half cup of broccoli crowns broken into small pieced over the plate. I peeled and diced a half of a medium small onion, and I spread them around the plate. I diced a dill pickle spear, and I spread it over the plate. I took five 1/32nd inch thick slices of German baloney, and I cut it across in half, and I laid one half on top of the other, and I cut it into 5/16th inch wide ribbons, and I spread the baloney over the plate. I did the same with three slices of Kraft white cheese. I sprinkled it on top with a couple of tablespoons of grated parmesan cheese, and I poured Kraft Balsamic vinegar over the salad, and I ate it all with a glass of iced tea and a bowl of the pineapple fruit mixture. I went back to bed until 3 A.M.. Frequently when we have rain or low barometric pressure, since I have lot blood pressure, I tend to feel more tired. I watched part of a program about Todd English's travels in food in Italy Todd English's Tuscany Restaurant Uncasville Hartford (CT) CT Reviews Gayot. Note: <888> 06/20/08 Friday 7:20 A.M. I called up the Greenville, South Carolina Sheriff's office at the non emergency number at 1-864-271-5210 Greenville County Sheriff's Office , and I briefed them on the Red wolf, but they did not tell me whether there had been any recent sightings. I still have to deal with the primary directive of the senior British resident here which is, "Keep Doing What You Are Doing. You Are Not Suppose to Know What Goes On. Get a Hair Cut. and Stay Focused." Of course in the United Kingdom and Northern Europe they have Mountain Lions, so I guess a Red Wolf is not too much of a problem. However, in the page on them, it says they are nocturnal, and I tend to be nocturnal, so more than likely we will cross paths again. At age 58, I have arthritis on damp days, and I am a bit lame, and I know from previous wild life experience, certain wild life like to take advantage of lame animals which would include humans. Since I do not have good marksman skills after working with computers for 20 years this time around, there is no point in taking preventive measures with some sort of firearms that I do not know how to use. I once might have had some MACE around, but I do not think it would work on a Carolina or Texas red wolf. I will just hope the next time it checks me out, it is not hungry. Other wildlife sightings on land that I can remember are a 14 foot alligator outside the tent in Hilton Head, South Carolina on the beach in late April 1978. A Grey Panther in Boca Raton in the morning by the polo fields at sunrise in February 1979. A bob cat or similar cat like a Lynx at John's Island in Vero Beach, Florida four years ago in February, and three years ago in the same location at about the same time, a black Brazilian Jaguar type of cat. Also about eight years ago, some sort of animal that activate my cat allergies and weighed about 200 pound jumped on the roof of my old 1976 White Volvo up by Lowell Weicker's house here in Greenwich by the reservoir. Also up in Kennebunkport, Maine this past July 2007, I saw a large black German Shepard type dog about twice the size of a police dog outside the gate at Walker's Point, but nobody knew of any such animals in the area. Also about 15 years ago, I saw what looked like a black dog with orange mane and blue eyes outside the Old Greenwich Train station near the Rummage Room thrift shop, which looked like a Timber Wolf when Tod's Point was flooded with about four feet of water. Of course I have seen animals in zoos. Also in Lanzarote in February 1972 when I was camping out on the far west side of the island in the pitch black at the location where the movie a "Million Years B.C." was filmed, I perceived some sort of large creature had come out of the ocean, but I could not tell what it was since it was so dark, one could not even see one's hand in front of their eyes. I did not go back in the daytime to investigate for tracks. I might have seen more wildlife in my youth down south, which is why I seem to take a bit of notice, but I do not remember that far back, other than when I was about four years old in Pensacola, Florida, I took the small row boat out in the bayou across the street and about a eight foot long alligator kept me from coming ashore for about an hour, which made me a bit nervous. Of course there was the Coral Snake outside Steve Salisbury's trailer in Key West at Boca Chica back in February 1982 too. CIO

Note: <888> 06/20/08 Friday 5:25 A.M. I would rather not be out in the early morning hours after 7 A.M. bringing back three pounds of beef with a Texas or Carolina red wolf out in the woods nearby

<http://www.ryanphotographic.com/images/JPEGS/Canis%20rufus%20red%20wolf.jpg> . It is possibly a Red Wolf or Canis Rufus. The one neighbor whom claims he was recently pinned against the dumpster by it seems to have disappeared recently, so perhaps he has more common sense than the rest of us. CIO

Note: <888> 06/20/08 Friday 5:15 A.M. This picture adequately represents the fact that Richard Van Marter has some sort of Swiss connection <http://mikelouisscott.com/rv-ch-92.jpg> besides being 14th generation Dutch New York and formerly Helen Clay Frick's next door neighbor in Bedford, New York, so I seem to manage to get by here in public housing in Greenwich, Connecticut despite the fact that my high class friends do not like being shook down by the local Mafia where ever they might be from. CIO

Note: <888> 06/20/08 Friday 4:50 A.M. I ate three small bowls of low fat Cheez-its. If anyone in Switzerland think they can impersonate me, they do not know how thorough the Swiss are. Back in February 1972 when I traveled from Florence, Italy to Grenoble, France by train, I had to change trains in Chamonix, France, which means that would have been the first time I traveled into and out of Switzerland. I had to present my U.S.A. passport along with filling out the required documentation for the Swiss authorities, so they would have had my fingerprints on record back then in Switzerland. I also returned to Geneva, Switzerland for a day during the Albertville, France winter Olympics back in February 1992 twenty years later. I unwrapped a number of basic www.mcdonalds.com cheeseburgers which had paper on them, I signed a sales receipt for a basic yellow Swiss Army knife for about $7 at the most expensive gun shop in Geneva which top copy of the sales receipt the shop keeper kept, and I recall cashing a couple of American Express Traveler's Checks, so more than likely my fingerprints are well documented in Switzerland in their records, so it would be hard for any idiot to impersonate me, since they Swiss tend to be very accurate record keepers, and over there they deal with a lot of people whom look like me all of the time. Thus from a legal perspective, your Hollywood perspective does not hold any water, and from what little I know about forensic investigations, more than likely the Swiss already have the answer anyway. Note: <888> 06/20/08 Friday 3:50 A.M. I don't think there is any rush to go out to the Stop and Shop before it opens at 7 A.M. this morning, since it would be 3.5 miles round trip at .46 a mile or $1.61 in fuel. Usually when London Broil is on sale, it is not a big seller, since most people do not know what to do with large chunks of meat which I made into hamburger with the Cuisine Art. Also boneless center cut pork chops are $2.49 a pound, and with the large Jewish population in town, pork is not a big seller. I am fine for now, and maybe later on next week, I will see if the sale items are still available. I have three bananas left, so I do not really need to go out until Sunday or Monday. I have plenty of food to use up at home <http://mikelouisscott.com/inventory.htm> . The reason I am able to spend so much money on computers and other household items is that I watch every penny, and I generally go out when it is less busy except on Thursday afternoons, when I have a standing appointment, and every other Tuesday afternoon, when I have a standing appointment. I have plenty of activity with the internet to keep my busy at home, and I do not need to waste my money going downtown to watch a lot of women power shoppers strut their stuff. I ate a bowl of the pineapple fruit mixture. CIO

Averell Harriman - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia does not eat much beef. However, with connections to New York Racing Association - Belmont Park, he knows a lot of people with farms whom might have other products besides horses. He once told me when he was working with horses in Canada, if you ever make a deal with Arthur Hancock : Stone Farm: you should not cross him. I figured it was because he was related to John Hancock who signed the Declaration of Independence Declaration of Independence, and if we crossed him, we would be working for Queen Victoria's Victoria of the United Kingdom - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia relatives again whose George's maternal grandfather Jay Coogan worked for as an Irish Honor Guard. Thus from my perspective, most of the British I have ever met are very thin, so they do not eat much food. Whatever the real story, the Bush-Harriman-Rockefeller connection does not seem to be worth much around here, unless you have a Masters of Business Administration degree from an Ivy League college, and a few good lawyers to back it up. Since George enjoys shoveling out the stables on weekends, you better be prepared to sling a little bit of horse shit. CIO

I saw a half size truck in Port Chester, New York around 5 P.M. this past evening, and it was one of these Con-way: , so maybe they were able to deliver some needed supplies from the Midwest back east. But by the time all of the Mexicans eat the food in Port Chester, New York, there does not seem to be any cheap food left for the natives in Greenwich, Connecticut anymore. However, London Broil top round of beef is suppose to be on sale at the Stop and Shop starting today at 7 A.M. for $1.79 a pound, 3 pound minimum. There will probably be a riot of big fat women rushing the meat counter at opening if they have gasoline. Any local who has lived here a long time, know once one gets off Greenwich Avenue, there are a lot of big fat women in back country that one does not see downtown much with all of the trophy wives. Note: <888> 06/20/08 Friday 12:35 A.M. I chatted with a relative. As far as I can tell, my computers were not tampered with when I went out today. However, when I tried the primary two line Panasonic line phone, the speaker phone was turned on, which would indicate to me that someone gained entrance to the apartment while I was out. The motion detection camera on the FIC server showed no sign of intrusion though. Thus going through a logical progression of events over time, it would seem that somebody needs to gain admittance to my apartment on a weekly basis to maintain some sort of equipment like a surveillance camera or wire tap by replacing its battery. Thus they are probably able to temporarily disable the motion detection camera through the internet. More than likely it has been going on for a long period of time. I chatted with a few local security officials about the fact, and I left a message with another associate. From what I know the only local private group with a large group of surveillance people in this area is www.hughes.com, and from what I know in the old days Howard Hughes tapped everyone. It could be some sort of third world government with mixed up priorities. I also gave a summary to Microsoft.

I found this link: Canadian Embassy and Consulates in the United States - Contact Canadian Embassy and Consulates in the United States, and they gave me this emergency telephone number in Ottawa, Canada 1-613-996-8885, which will accept a collect call, and they were available, when I just called.

Fred Von Mierers' apartment at 420 East 49th street in Manhattan was near the Norwegian consulate, and there was a large Norwegian flag in Nantucket at a centrally located house and there was a small Norwegian flag in Key West at the Atlantic Shores beach, and relatives of Norwegian royalty use to live on Greenwich Avenue before it became too expensive. Since the Norwegians supposedly have over 350 billion dollars in a reserve Sovereign fund, it unfortunately is not worth anything, since the dollar is not worth anything anymore. If it were is some sort of currency like gold or more tangible asset, it might be worth something. Maybe the whole country of Norway is worth only 360 billion dollars. Norwegians do not seem to know anything because they are too busy staying private all of the time. In other words, they rest at home a lot, and they travel worldwide when it is cold in Norway, but alas nobody pays much attention to them outside of their Scandinavian friends, since they are always telling the Russians everything they know. A lot of them now are stand alone units that do not need to be installed out of windows, so one can have it standing in the room and run the dryer type hose out the window, which is a simpler installation than installing a heavy unit in the window. You should check out to make sure one is powerful enough to meet one's cooling needs. In my large 450 square foot apartment with 8 to 14 foot high ceilings with four large 4 foot by 8 foot westerly facing windows towards the hot afternoon sun over a second floor black tar roof, I use a 15,500 BTU eight year old General Electric Profile window air conditioner with remote control that I leave installed year round, since it weighs close to a 100 pounds. Its moving louvers broke a few years ago, so I have two tower fans installed in the apartment with one by the air conditioner to blow the cool air out into the apartment, and not let it stay in the direction the air conditioner blows it around to. As computers and software got more modern, a lot of other items also got more modern. Unfortunately living around a lot of left wing retired people, they do not trust anything modern, except social security. CIO

Note: <888> 06/15/08 Sunday 5:55 A.M. Well not much happening here. Since we are using so much energy around here with having to keep the air conditioning going to keep the computers cool, I decide I better fly the Saudi Arabian flag Flag of Saudi Arabia - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia , which I bought at the Greenwich Hardware store <http://www.greenwichhardware.com/> many moons ago for 75% off for $10. Since they are suppose to produce oil which has never been proven to me, but I guess I will take their word for it, I hung the green and white flag over the left living room closet door which does not get opened too much in the summer, since it is where I keep a lot of my winter clothes, but I also have a white, light green, and a pink light summer weight sports jacket in the left living room closet along with a navy blazer, so I am prepared for warmer weather formal dress at the Country Club level. In the old days, Country Club colors were always green and white. The Vanderbilts www.biltmore.com keep a modest golf cottage <http://www.geocities.com/mike2scott2006/Greenwich-Country-Club.jpg> in Greenwich, Connecticut for when it gets hot in the mountains in North Carolina, but from what I know they are suppose to have a few houses elsewhere, so since the railroad is supposedly making more money with the higher prices of diesel fuel for trucks, more than likely some wealthy people will be riding the trains out here sooner or later or even taking the train up from Florida Amtrak . One use to be able to put one's car on the Amtrak rail car in Orlando, Florida, and have it shipped up along with you as far as New Jersey, but I am not sure they offer that same service anymore. CIO

Note: <888> 06/15/08 Sunday 4:40 A.M. I chatted with a local security organization about computer problems that I have been having. From what I know about reading tech notes on Vista for the last three years that I have been using it, is that the main Vista hackers seem to come out of Australia. When I was at www.lfc.edu , I used to be bothered all of the time by James Foster who was a Zionist Jew whose family owned Charles River Laboratories in Cambridge, Massachusetts, so I moved off campus. I think Charles Rivers Laboratories was suspect in starting the Aids epidemic. I knows James Foster lived in Newton, Massachusetts, and I think the family also own Fosters Beer in Australia. Thus possibly his Zionist Jewish group of friends are still bothering me and my computer activity. I know the Office Supply store www.staples.com was also started by somebody from Newton, Massachusetts, and whenever I visit the local Staples in Old Greenwich, Connecticut my computer systems seem to be hacked. Whatever their reason for bothering me, it does not make sense other than the fact that I was once friends of the Warburg family that helped start the state of Israel with Roosevelt and Churchill. Thus it seems in doing my own research on the internet, they are determined to interfere with my efforts. Obviously I do not know anything about Jewish politics, if there is even such a thing. I called up the British embassy in Washington D.C., and I gave them a quick summary. I also chatted with the Confidential Anti-Terrorist Hotline at 44-0800-789-321 Metropolitan Police Service. I also chatted with Jorge at the Key West Hotel Resorts & Florida Keys Beach Accommodations - Casa Marina Resort Key West, and he needs to know how to get a Green Card, as if he really needed one. I gave him some business advise about South America, he may not have thought about. I also ate the last piece of Cherry pie. CIO

Note: <888> 06/15/08 Sunday 2:15 A.M. I tried sending out my weekly notes four times after the last note, but I did not receive my copy back, which indicates there is possibly some problem with the Optimum Mail server or with Outlook 2007. Email to myself comes back off the FIC server with Outlook 2003. I have been told by a relative that they get my weekly notes, so they are going through. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich and 1/6th of the potato salad I made today with a glass of iced tea. About 8:30 P.M. a severe electrical storm started to come in, so I shut down the computers, and I disconnected the electronics. I chatted with a relative on my wireless phone, since I could not use Optimum Voice. I slept from 9 P.M. to midnight, and then I reconnected the electronics. On the primary Vista computer, I restored the backup which I know sending myself a copy of my email works, but when I resent my notes, the copy did not come back to me, so it leads me to believe there is some problem with Outlook 2007 as it interfaces with the Optimum Mail servers. Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 6:05 P.M. I went ahead and put the cotton burgundy slip cover on the French reproduction chair with the New Zealand sheep skin over it, so the Ethan Allen recliner currently has its original cranberry fabric exposed. Thus currently it looks a bit better in the apartment. CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 5:30 P.M. When I get the new slip cover for the Ethan Allen recliner, I will put the burgundy cotton wing chair slip cover currently on the Ethan Allen recliner on the French reproduction chair over the white quilted throw currently on it with the New Zealand sheep skin on top of it. Although we are hot here, it is currently cold elsewhere in the world Scott Polar Research Institute » Links . My original web site on the internet many moons ago was provided for free by the Ohio State web server that provided a web site for the Scott Polar Research institute. This time of year it is really cold down there, and they can not get out until around Christmas time Weather in Antarctica - Antarctic Connection , thank your lucky stars you ain't down there at the moment. It is currently minus 69 degrees Celsius which is minus 93 degrees Fahrenheit South Pole Weather. CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 5:00 P.M. See what is happening with the Old Guard down in Vero Beach, Florida TCPalm : Treasure Coast, Palm Beach, News Business, Homes, Jobs, Cars, & Information . It may seem like they have a rough time in retirement down in Florida, but at least they do not have to live without electric heat up north in the winter. CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 4:45 P.M. I also put a little dried dill and dried parsley with the potato salad along with the regular recipe. It is good for about four days worth of cold meals, when one does not feel like cooking. I went outside, and I chatted with neighbors. I walked around the building. I picked up my mail. I figure it costs me about 46 cents a mile for gasoline to drive the Audi in traffic downtown, and it is 7.5 miles round trip to the Senior Center where I can park for free, thus it costs me $3.45 in gasoline every time I drive down to the Senior Center and take a walk on Greenwich Avenue. If I did that every day like I use to do, it would cost me $103.50 a month in gasoline to drive downtown everyday to take a walk. Thus since my budget has not been increased with the higher prices of gasoline for $5 a gallon for self service premium, I can not afford to go downtown as much to exercise walk and people watch. However, the good news is everything is running better than every in my apartment in terms of computer and home maintenance and cooking chores. CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 3:55 P.M. The potato salad is all made up. There is 4.25 pounds of potato salad without the weight of the flat Rubbermaid container. It is in the refrigerator chilling. I will now throw out the garbage. There are suppose to be scattered thunderstorm starting about 4 P.M. according to last night's weather forecast. There are suppose to be scattered thunderstorms until 9 P.M. and thunderstorms until 3 A.M., so I will not be going out downtown. CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 2:30 P.M. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I will now make up a batch of Michael Louis Scott's potato salad . CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 1:15 P.M. I was outbid on the Surefit Merlotn wing chair cover. I bought this instead NEW Wing Chair Slipcover Green Chenille w/ Gold Accent - eBay (item 330242584442 end time Jun-14-08 11:14:54 PDT) for $23.99 and $9.80 U.S. Priority Mail shipping for $33.79 total. It is the same on as this Casual Home Chenille Wing Chair Slipcover - Green : Target . CIO

Note: <888> 06/14/08 Saturday 1:30 A.M. I watched a bit of rerun television. I ate a bowl of the Jell-O fruit mixture. I also ate a bowl of white cheddar Cheez-Its. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good night. There are suppose be isolated thunder storms starting at about 4 P.M. today. Greenwich, Connecticut (06830) Conditions & Forecast : Weather Underground. Traditionally in the old days, when it rained before the high tech media we have today, people would read a book. Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 11:10 P.M. I went through my email. Not much happening. I guess the younger generation whom get their vacations in June are also the ones that produce the internet content, so not much is happening until they return from vacation or whatever they are doing. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 10:15 P.M. I chatted with a relative. I reheated in the microwave oven on three vegetable cycles the left over fettuccini and tomato sauce mixture, which I put some grated parmesan cheese on. I ate it with a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 9:05 P.M. I bid on this SureFit Elegant Stretch Merlot Wing Chair Slipcover NEW - eBay (item 360061593776 end time Jun-14-08 17:08:10 PDT) and $6 shipping which would normally cost $90 at <http://www.surefit.net/shop/category/wing-chair-covers/stretch-elegance-wing-chair.cfm> and $8 shipping less the current 15% code of "ASJ4". I can not really afford it, so if you want to outbid me go right ahead, any big bucks home decorators out there, go right ahead. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 8:45 P.M. I was thinking of ordering with 15% off promotion code "ASJ4" Dylan Stripe Wing Chair in milkshake for half price for $29.99 less 15% off or $4.50 off with promotional code "ASJ4" and $8 standard shipping for $33.49 total. However, a white color would need to be washed frequently, so I think I am better off with the burgundy color slip cover I already have. These wing chair slip covers are available from the Surefit Outlet eBay Store - wing furniture: wing chairs: wing sofas, chenille . Most of them are in cotton which wringles, but the three suede ones are 100% polyester which might now wringle as much. This is the one that I am currently using SURE FIT - WING CHAIR SLIPCOVER - COTTON - BURGUNDY NEW - eBay (item 360061289771 end time Jun-15-08 17:17:14 PDT) , but in cotton it wrinkles, but it matched the cranberry fabric underneath my Ethan Allen recliner. I moved the Bumble Bee lamp from the small white bookcase at the bedroom entrance to on top of the Orion Television JVC videotape player, so it is on all of the time like a night light except for when I am asleep. On the small white book case, it prevents the bedroom door from opening all of the way, which it still does not anyway because of the www.army.mil extreme cold weather sleeping bags behind the bedroom door good to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit, which might come in handy some winter, if we ever lose our electric heat. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 7:20 P.M. I woke up at 2:30 P.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I watered the plants, and for each quart of water, I put eight drops of Shultz plant food in a quart of water in a glass Tropicana quart orange juice jar that I use for watering plants. I keep the Schultz plant food and jar underneath the right side of the kitchen sink. I put two quarts on the large palm tree, one quart on the left miniature palm tree and the center pathos plant, and two quarts on the right newly transplanted miniature palm tree, and I put the bathroom pathos plant in the bath tub, and I soaked it in water, and the I used quart of Shultz treated water on it. I was able to find the liquid Schultz liquid plant food Schultz :: All-Purpose Liquid Plant Food - 1011 - 1012 - 10148 at www.homedepot.com in Port Chester, New York around Easter time a year ago. I threw the garbage out and the old periodical literature. I chatted with some neighbors. I picked up my mail. Well not much happening on this the quiet side of town. There is not really much happening on Greenwich Avenue unless one is in the market for women's clothes and accessories. However, it is an enjoyable afternoon walk to see those individuals whom have time to shop in the afternoon or even morning in Greenwich, Connecticut. I guess a lot of the trophy wives since they have excess income and need to maintain appearances are professional shoppers while their older husbands sit home and clip coupons. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 7:05 A.M. I went ahead and installed the two Logitech Cordless Freedom Headsets on the Epox and the FIC computers on their motherboard video connections. I enabled the motherboard video in both computers in their cmos setups. I can not test the units, since their batteries are worn out, and hardly take any charge. However, they seem like they might work all right with the new batteries. The headset on the FIC server seems to haves its red and green lights burned out on the base unit, but the headset seems to charge. I ate a piece of cherry pie. On the primary Vista computer, I uninstalled Adobe Flash 9, and I installed Adobe Flash 10 beta which is more stable, although the video does not work with it at CNN. Yesterday, when I installed Ad-aware 2008, it seemed to be unstable, and the computer crashed, so I restored the backup with Ad-aware 2007, which seems more stable. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 3:45 A.M. I have two Logitech Cordless Freedom Headsets Amazon.com: Logitech 980118 Cordless Freedom Headset for Internet Communications with NCAT2 and Boom Microphone: Electronics and Logitech Cordless Freedom Headset New that I quit using about a year ago, when their rechargeable batteries wore out. I ordered two replacement batteries here <http://www.zbattery.com/3-1-2aa-unmh.html> for $8.49 each and $4.80 U.S. mail priority mail shipping for $21.78 total. I will put one headset with the Epox computer, and one with the FIC server. I can hook them up to the motherboard audio, and with Vista one can switch easily between the motherboard audio and the sound card audio sources easily to used them. CIO

Note: <888> 06/13/08 Friday 2:10 A.M. It is Friday the 13th, so stay inside. I did some routine bottom fishing on the internet. I am interested this item for the Epox computer Logitech > Webcams + Communications > Internet Headsets + Phones > ClearChat Pro USB™ which is Vista compatible. About the best deal I could find on a new one is this with free shipping Buy the Logitech Clearchat Pro USB Headset and other Computer headsets at circuitcity.com $40 with free shipping, but I am a little short on funds at the moment. I have the Radio Shack $30 USB headset on the Epox computer right now, but I want to move it to the Northgate Syntax computer. However, the Northgate Syntax computer has a RCA plug headset that I bought from www.meritline.com for $10 with free shipping down from $30 which seems to have weak reception, however it might work better with the new sound cards, since I am currently using the motherboard audio. In which case I would not need the Logitech item, and the Radio Shack USB headset on the Epox computer would continue to be fine. It seems to be ridiculous to tweak a bunch of backup computers that I hardly ever use. CIO

Note: <888> 06/12/08 Thursday 11:20 P.M. After the last note, I went to bed, and I woke up at noon. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with 50% cold filtered water and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went to my usual Thursday 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. They have a pair of small burgundy colored wing chairs there for $45 each. I bought a 14 inch by 14 inch needlepoint and petit point vintage pillow with tassels and a patterns of roses in a greenish beige color in the French style. I have seen similar pillows in museums, and I paid $8 for it, I guess because it is older. I then went downtown. A local walker drove me a short distance. I then walked the rest of the way down Arch Street and back by the Greenwich Train station. I noticed the Swedish flag is flying at the Morgan's interior decorator's shop on Arch street. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I bought a Summerfest Jubilee scratch card for a dollar, but I did not win anything. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center before and after my walk. I noticed the air conditioning unit in the men's bathroom in the senior center is just as powerful cooling in the summer as it is in heating in the winter. I stopped by CVS, and I read the store circular. I walked by the Chase Bank on Mason Street again. I heard on the Bloomberg news that Norway has a Sovereign monetary fund with about $365 billion in assets. It would seem Scotland should also have some money from North Sea oil instead of the English getting it all. I finished my walk. I chatted with a women with a Portuguese Water Dog. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $9 of self service premium for $4.999 a gallon for 1.801 gallons for 19.6 miles driving since Monday at odometer reading of 60047 miles for 10.8828 miles per gallon local driving in town which works out to about $.459 per mile driving in town. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought two large size about 15.5 ounce Stauffer's frozen stuffed beef peppers for $2.50 each, a pineapple from Costa Rica for $3.99, and a 5 pound bag of Russet potatoes for $2.99 for $11.98 total. I then returned home. I brought up my purchases, and I put them away. I put the vintage pillow on the center of the Scott family sofa with the new damask slip cover from eBay Store - slipcovers: sofas, loveseats, chairs which is cheaper than www.surefit.com . These Damask sofa slip covers are available eBay Store: Search results for damask slipcovers . I also brought up the mail. I filled a five quart pot with three quarts of water and a dash of sea salt and a teaspoon of olive oil, and I put it on the large electric burner on high to boil. While doing that, I put a couple of tablespoons of olive oil in a 10 inch stick proof frying pan and a few pads of butter, and then I peeled and diced two cloves of garlic and one medium large onion, and I added them to the frying pan, and I turned it on medium high electric burner heat on the smaller front burner, and once they began to sizzle, I added one eight ounce top round London broil burger cut into half inch chunks, and I seasoned it all with garlic powder, ground black pepper, Old Bay Seasoning, cayenne pepper, paprika, Italian seasoning, and I mixed it all together stirring it until the beef was browned and the onions were blanched. I then added a 26 ounce jar of Ragu "Mamma's Special Garden Sauce" tomato sauce and 1 tablespoon of Frank's hot sauce, and I mixed it all together, and I covered it. Once the water in the pot was boiling, I added a 16 ounce package of Barilla fettuccini, and I boiled it for 12 minutes on high electric burner heat, and once it was done, I put a colander in another large pot, and I drained the hot water into the pot, and I set the colander of fettuccini on the side. I dumped the pot of hot water down the bathroom sink to clean out the shaving gel scum. While doing that I stirred the tomato sauce mixture frequently, and I then put half the fettuccini in a flat Rubbermaid container, and I put the other half on a large dinner plate with half of the tomato and beef mixture, and I put the other half of the tomato and beef mixture in a Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator, and I added some grated parmesan and Romano cheese mixture on top of the fettuccini and tomato and beef dinner, and I ate it all with a glass of iced tea. As usual after a meal, I cleaned up the kitchen. I chatted with a relative. I found this local Ebay store in Old Greenwich, Connecticut, but they have high UPS shipping eBay Store - Auction Allies: Home Audio, Portable Audio, Sony . I chatted with another relative. I have been thinking recently since everything out in www.nantucket.net has to be imported at a 25% extra cost, it would seem that gasoline or fuel oil or electricity would be 25% more, so therefore, it would seem full service premium gasoline on Nantucket would be about 25% more than $5.20 a gallon here or about $6.50 a gallon. Thus going to the beach on the south shore of Nantucket would be more expensive this year, so like Bermuda more summer people are probably riding Mopeds out on Nantucket for better or worse. CIO

Note: <888> 06/12/08 Thursday 6:45 A.M. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with a glass of iced tea and a dill pickle slice and 1/5th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle low fat potato chips. I also ate a 1/5th slice of cherry pie. I did some bottom fishing on the internet. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will rest until about noon. I have a 3 P.M. appointment today. CIO

The position will be based at the Cascades Volcano Observatory in Vancouver, WA. The starting date depends on availability of qualified applicants. The vacancy announcement for the Research Geologist (GS-11) is posted at USAJOBS <http://www.usajobs.opm.gov/> The announcement number is WR-2008-0377. Note: <888> 06/12/08 Thursday 2:40 A.M. I chatted with a relative after the last note. I woke up at 12:30 A.M.. I ate a bowl of the sugar free Jell-O mixture with fruit with some iced tea. I put clean linens on the bed. I am doing two loads of laundry, and I am about just ready to start the dry cycle. CIO

Note: <888> 06/11/08 Wednesday 6:30 P.M. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage. I chatted with a neighbor. I walked around the building. Some of the local youth are still skate boarding on the back sidewalk by the stairs, and that tends to disturb the neighbors on the ground floor on the rear side of the building. I chatted with the Greenwich Housing Authority representative last week, and she told me, it is a public thoroughfare, and there is nothing that they can do about it. One could put up speed bumps on the sidewalk to keep them from skate boarding though. I picked up my mail. I ate a 1/6th piece of cherry pie. Someone broke the pots of a neighbor on mine on the east end of the building where the neighbor had set up a garden sitting area. It would seem the local youth should respect the seniors in the building. I have spent 24 years walking downtown on Greenwich Avenue, and I am fairly sure, there is a much larger group of people out there in the wood work somewhere. I heard on the Bloomberg news today, that with all of the rain and flooding in the Midwest, they have not been able to plant one tenth of the usual food crop this season, so there could be food shortages in the country starting next fall. The person with the report was from www.princeton.edu, and he was retired from the Federal Reserve Bank, so I would imagine the speculation of upcoming food shortages in the United States of America are true. CIO

Note: <888> 06/11/08 Wednesday 5:25 P.M. I microwaved on three Vegetable cycles the other half of the beans and franks mixture I made yesterday, and I ate it with a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 06/11/08 Wednesday 4:10 P.M. I was able to get the my person email account to email to myself, by deleting the Outlook 2007 email account and reinstalling it, so now email to myself comes through. I archived the saved email from before March 2008. I ordered two Verizon Greenwich, Connecticut and Westchester Country telephone books to replace the ones that I mistakenly threw out, when I received two Westchester County books which I also threw out. I backed up the minor primary Vista system changes to both the second internal the Bytecc external hard drives. The primary Vista computer seems to be running just fine with the recent tweaks. I did some bottom surfing on the internet.

Note: <888> 06/11/08 Wednesday 12:35 P.M. I woke up at 10:30 A.M., when I had a survey call. I backed up the primary Vista Computer to the Bytecc external hard drive. I could not get the www.cnn.com video to work with the Adobe Flash Player beta 10, so I uninstalled it, and I installed the current version of the www.adobe.com Flash Player 9 with which the CNN video works with, but the Internet Explorer Web Browser occasionally crashes. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I will now make up another batch of Passion Punch. CIO

Note: <888> 06/11/08 Wednesday 4:25 A.M. I installed the latest Vista updates on the Northgate Syntax computer, the Epox computer, and the FIC server. I restored the backup on the FIC server before doing the updates, and then I backed it up to the second hard drive. I also backed up the Epox computer to the second hard drive. I tried installing the most recent Vista updates on the primary Vista computer, but most of them would not install giving an error message with no solution. All I can figure out is possibly they are already installed, since the primary Vista computer's Vista SP1 update was installed from the Vista SP1 Windows Update versus a Vista SP1 DVD upgrade disk on the other three Vista computers. On the primary Vista computer, I ran Service, and I disabled a few unneeded program that started up automatically. I uninstalled and reinstall Norton Internet Security 8.0. I did a Vista Complete PC backup from the first hard drive to the second hard drive. I ate a 1/6th piece of Cheery pie and a bowl of white cheddar Cheez-its. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

Note: <888> 06/10/08 Tuesday 7:35 P.M. I made up a double batch of <http://www.geocities.com/mikelscott/pbf.htm> ,and I also used a clove of minced garlic. I refrigerated half in a Rubbermaid container without heating it, and I microwaved the other half in a plastic microwave container with lid on three Vegetable cycles, and I ate it in a bowl with a glass of iced tea. I updated a couple of pictures on <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . I also posted pictures of the most recent apartment changes and improvements here <http://mikelouisscott.com/apt-061008/> . I am charging up the Metal Hydride rechargeable batteries from the Nikon Digital camera, and they should be fully charged at 6 A.M. or whenever I wake up tomorrow. CIO

Note: <888> 06/10/08 Tuesday 5:40 P.M. I went out after the last note, and I went to my regular Tuesday 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought four 28 ounce cans of B&M maple flavored baked beans for $1.34 each, a day old fresh baked Stop and Shop cherry pie for $2.50, a dozen jumbo eggs expire July 2, 2008 for $2.49, a 59 ounce container of Minute Maid Vitamin Enriched fresh orange juice for $2.50, 1.5 pounds of German Wondabar baloney for $2.99 a pound for $4.75, two 13.5 ounce boxes of Cheez-Its reduced fat crackers for $2.50 each box, six .3 ounce Jell-O sugar free, two raspberry, two black cheery, and two mixed fruit for .89 each, and a clearance box of Old El Paso tacos and tortillas for $1.14 for $29.06 total. I then returned home, and I brought up my purchases. When I put the food away, I rotate the stock, so the newer items are up front. I also picked up the mail. CIO

Note: <888> 06/10/08 Tuesday 2:20 P.M. I woke up during the night, and I ate two bowls of white cheddar Cheez-Its. I finally woke up at 7:40 A.M. this morning. I went out directly, and I went to Mavis Tire in Riverside, and I had the cap screw removed from the passenger side rear tire, and I had it repaired for $21.15 total with tax. I then returned back to my apartment building. They were clearing up the fallen tree at the driveway entrance. I saw a young fawn in the woods by where the tree had fallen. I chatted with a neighbor. I chatted with a relative. I ordered two Creative Labs: Products - X-Fi, Sound Blaster, MP3 Players, Speaker Systems, Web Cameras Sound Blaster Live! 5.1 for $4.99 each for $9.98 with free shipping. I will put one in the Epox computer, and one in the Northgate Syntax computer, and I will move the Creative Live MP3+ from the Epox computer to the Bedroom Gigabyte computer. I cleaned off some seagull shit off my car windshield. They always seem to target me. I ate a bowl of white cheddar Cheez-Its. I showered, and I cleaned up. I used a package of Strawberry Kiwi and a package of Mixed Fruit sugar free Jell-O, and I mixed them both together with a pint of boiling water in a Pyrex bowl, and I added 15.5 liquid ounces of a combination of 50% Passion punch, 25% Madam Mandarin orange juice and 25% Libby sliced pineapple juice along with fruit contents of the 11 ounce can of Madam Mandarin oranges and 20 ounce can of Libby pineapple slices. It should be ready in the refrigerator about 6 P.M. or slightly later. I have a 3 P.M. appointment to go to, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer. I had a telephone call from my 3 P.M. appointment. CIO

Note: <888> 06/09/08 Monday 9:35 P.M. I watched some television. I ate the last 10% of a 13.5 ounce box of low fat Cheez-Its. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good night. CIO

Note: <888> 06/09/08 Monday 8:15 P.M. I went outside after the last note, and I checked my car. I noticed on the passenger side rear tire that a screw was in it with a half inch diameter metal cap with a Phillips screw head that was worn down. I called up Mavis Tire in Riverside, and they were closed at 6 P.M., but they told me they had 25 people with screws in their tires today. Perhaps the storm yesterday and high winds picked up some sort of construction screws and dropped them on our local roads. I was told by a neighbor that in the storm yesterday, lightning hit the three butane tanks at the Arnold Bread outlet in Byram, and the Arnold Bread outlet burned down to the ground. I guess since that is the last place for cheaper bakery products in town, we might be paying more for bakery products, until they hopefully replace the bakery outlet store by the George Weston Bakeries Arnold bread factory Fire-gutted Arnold Bakery store to come down - Greenwich Time . I chatted with two relatives. According to a relative, Okay, Oklahoma is where the Doppler weather radar comes from, which is why it is set to the default weather sight at www.cnn.com . Well, I guess I have to be up earlier tomorrow to get the tire fixed. The tire is not deflated, so I do not have to put the spare on. I also have a 3 P.M. appointment tomorrow. CIO

Note: <888> 06/09/08 Monday 5:25 P.M. With the sun shining on the outdoor weather station temperature sensor facing the western sky this time of year over a flat black roof, it is reading 121 degrees Fahrenheit, but inside with the eight year old General Electric Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control set at 72 degrees Fahrenheit on low fan Energy Saving, it is 74.3 degrees Fahrenheit inside. I made and ate a four egg omelet with grated parmesan cheese and two slices of Kraft white cheese along with five strips of fried bacon and a toasted English muffin with butter and a glass of iced tea. CIO

Note: <888> 06/09/08 Monday 4:25 P.M. I woke up at 10 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, two toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I threw out the garbage. I went out, and I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by the Wachovia Bank on Benedict Place, and I paid my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I then went by McArdles's Green House at 48 Arch Street, 1-203-661-5600. I bought a 15 inch diameter by 2.5 inch high plastic plant terra cotta plant saucer for $8.99, and a 13 inch diameter one for $6.99, and a 13.5 inch diameter by 13.5 inch high plastic terra cotta plant pot for $8.99 and three green three foot long by half inch diameter wooden plant stakes for $1.49 each, and a package of green jute twistems for $3.99 and $2.01 tax for $35.44 total. McArdles's has a quite large supply of everything you need for your local gardening needs. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon station, and I bought $16 of self service premium gasoline at $5.059 a gallon for 3.162 gallons for 42.1 miles driving since last Thursday at odometer reading of 60027 for 13.3143358 miles per gallon driving in back country at higher speeds with the air conditioning going with three passengers. I used the Chase ATM machine at the Stop and Shop Plaza. The Food Emporium across the street is not closing, but they are undergoing extensive remodeling. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought green Chiquita bananas at .64 a pound for $2.05 and a 8 ounce container of Nature's Promise Wild Flower honey for $3.59 for $5.64 total. I then returned home, and I brought up my purchases. I put the 15 inch diameter plant saucer underneath the large six foot tall palm tree in the living room window. I put the 13 inch diameter saucer underneath the large pathos plant on the mahogany bureau in the living room. I transplanted the 2.5 foot high miniature palm from the Mexican green painted terra cotta pot into the larger 13.5 inch diameter plastic terra cotta pot, and I also used a three pound bag of Miracle Gro potting soil that I had. I put it in the blue and white Chinese rice bowl for drainage on the right side of the mahogany bureau. I tied up the two miniature palms and the large palm tree with three stakes and the jute ties. I put the remaining jute ties in the right kitchen drawer. I move the bumble bee lamp from the right side of the mahogany bureau to the left side of the bedroom Orion television, and I moved the smaller light from that location to behind the right miniature palm on the mahogany bureau, so there is low light at that location. I cleaned up my work area. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with neighbors. I have the green painted terra cotta pot on the right side of the living room window shelf with a vase in it, and it is available for a smaller plant in the future. CIO

Note: <888> 06/09/08 Monday 1:35 A.M. For some reason the copy of my email notes is not coming back to me off the primary Vista computer. It works off the FIC server. I restored the backup which I know works, and the email to myself still does not work. Thus I do not know if I my email is getting through or not. All I can figure out is possibly my router settings were altered. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-Its. CIO

Note: <888> 06/08/08 Sunday 9:15 P.M. I woke up at 9:30 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, two toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw the garbage out, and I chatted with a friend. At 11:40 A.M., my friends called, and they said they would be arriving at 1:28 P.M.. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I drove by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then drove down by the train station earlier. I waited in the air conditioned waiting room on the West Bound side for about 40 minutes, and then I picked my friends up on the East Bound side where I had parked my car. We went to two The Garden Conservancy garden tours. My friends paid the $5 for each event for me. One event was in back country and the other was down by Long Island Sound. I posted the pictures link below. In the one in back country, I got a picture of a Wild Turkey that popped out of the brush. Between the one in back country and the one down by the Sound, we stopped by the Mobil Station on Indian Field Road and East Putnam Avenue, and my friends walked across the street to the Sunoco station to get a Fanta soda. After the Garden Tours, we went by the www.bruce-museum.com and we toured the Dutch Art exhibit. The art is in a remarkable state of preservation. They had a small oil there by a Dutch Artist of Cosmo Di Medici when he was a youth in the Netherlands. My friends had museum passes to get us in for free. We drove by the Greenwich Concours d ' Elegance as it was ending, and we saw a few vintage cars from the road. We sat out for a while at Grass Island. I dropped my friends off at the Greenwich Train Station on the West Bound side at 4:50 P.M. just as a heavy rain storm was starting. I drove back home in the heavy rain, and there were small tree limbs down on West Putnam Avenue. There is sign at the Stop and Shop saying the Food Emporium across the street has gone out of business, or it is closed for some reason. There was a 12 inch diameter tree that had fallen down across the entrance on Vinci Drive where I live. I was able to get around it by driving up on the curb on the south side and around it. I called 911 on my cell phone to let them know. It seems when I call 911 on my Cell Phone from Vinci Drive, I get the Port Chester police department, so they transferred me to the Greenwich Police department, and I gave them the report. My neighbors told me the lights had flickered out for a short time. Then the lights in the elevator and the hallway went out, but the lights in the apartments worked. I chatted with my friends to make sure they got on the train. I had to reset my server. I chatted with a relative. I took some pictures of the fallen tree that by then had been cut up and cleared off the road. I noticed there was a foot long quarter inch wide black scratch on my driver's side rear plastic bumper of the Audi, and I used lighter fluid and a scouring pad to remove it. I am not sure how it got there, but it looks fine now, and there is only a hair line paint crack on the bumper plastic where the scratch was. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with a dill pickle slice and 1/4th of a 5.5

ounce tube of Pringle low fat potato chips with a glass of iced tea. I posted my pictures. I am charging up the batteries from the Nikon digital camera, and I will have the batteries charged by 7 A.M.. I now have to go through my email for the last few days. I drove the Audi 32 miles all together today. CIO

Note: <888> 06/07/08 Saturday 11:10 P.M. I made a few calls about a long past security matter. From what I can figure out, it could be the same person, and it fits the same profile with the Belmont Horse Race today, and the Queen Mary II sailing tomorrow QM2 - Itinerary - 2008 . CIO

Note: <888> 06/07/08 Saturday 10:00 P.M. I made and ate the same dinner as two and three night ago. I chatted with a friend. My friends will call me at 11:30 A.M. tomorrow to let me know if they will be coming out for the garden tour and the www.brucemuseum.com Dutch art exhibit. Their plans are still up in the air. I chatted with Partridge appliances in Greenwich on West Putnam Avenue today, and they sell a www.ge.com 14,000 BTU air conditioner for about $425, and they will install it for $95. They told me that on my GE Service contract that I pay slightly over a $100 a year for on my eight year GE Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control has a catch in the service contract. If it ever malfunctions which it has not, and it is currently working fine, if they decided it can not be fixed, they can condemn it, and I will now get it fixed under the warranty contract that I have paid over $600 for the last seven years. I will call them up at 1-800-626-2224 to see if that is the fact. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 06/07/08 Saturday 7:30 P.M. I woke up at 10 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, two toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I went back to bed until 3 P.M.. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw the garbage out, and I chatted with a neighbor. I made a few telephone calls. I went out without cleaning up. I mailed my Connecticut Evaluation form at the Valley Road Post Office. I tried using the Chase Bank Driveup ATM machine on West Putnam Avenue, but it was broken. I drove over to Port Chester, and I used the Chase Bank ATM machine by the BMW dealership in Port Chester, New York. I then went by www.homedepot.com , and I bought two four packs of 2X www.ge.com 25 watt bent tip bulbs for $3.68 each four pack and a Valu-Pak of OOK hooks and nails for $8.98 and $1.21 tax for $17.55 total. I went there to get a 13 inch diameter plastic terri cotta pot, but they only had a heavier one slightly larger for $14, and I needed a 12 inch and a 16 inch plastic terri cotta saucer, but they were out of them. I noticed they have a selection of LG air conditioners including a 15,000 BTU unit for $329 plus tax. I then returned home. It was only about a 6 mile round trip. CIO

Note: <888> 06/06/08 Friday 10:20 P.M. I went outside, and I chatted with some neighbors. I walked around the building. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with a glass of iced tea and a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle low fat regular potato chips. I chatted with a relative. There does not seem to be any aircraft traffic at Westchester County airport anymore to speak of, so possibly with the nearby Clintons becoming private citizens again, we have returned to quieter air space in this area Westchester County - AirportMonitor - by Megadata - powered by PASSUR . I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

Note: <888> 06/06/08 Friday 7:30 P.M. I finished the backup, and I finished the Connecticut reassessment application with copies of its supporting documents, and I have it all ready to mail at the post office the next time I go out. CIO

Note: <888> 06/06/08 Friday 5:30 P.M. I straightened out my old sweaters in the sweater hallway closet. I have enough sweaters, I could wear a different one each day of the month in the colder weather. I ate the rest of a 13.5 ounce box of white cheddar Cheez-Its with some iced tea. I chatted with a relative. I have been thinking recently, since British Guiana Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia is just east of Venezuela, one could live in Western British Guiana just on the border of Venezuela, and drive across the border to get dirt cheap gasoline in Venezuela, if one likes to drive a lot. I will now back up the Epox computer the Bytecc external hard drive to change any changes made with the additional monitor. I also have to fill out my Connecticut review form and get the paperwork in order to send it in. CIO

Note: <888> 06/06/08 Friday 3:15 P.M. I was awake at 10:30 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, two toasted English muffins with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw the garbage out and the old periodical literature. I chatted with neighbors. I picked up my mail. I watered the plants. It is easiest to water the pathos plant in the bathroom by putting it in the bath tub instead of carrying it all the way to the kitchen. One has to have drainage when one waters it, because it overflows its smaller overflow plate. Yesterday, I was told the Guild Antique building across from the Sundown Salon on Greenwich Avenue had sold for $13 million, and it is mostly demolished now, except for some ground level excavation. One of the last smaller private family homes on Steamboat Road just south of the Royal Bank of Scotland on the East side of Steamboat Road was demolished. It looks like the new condominium project across the street from the Delamar Hotel on Steamboat Road is mostly framed in, but it still has to be finished off. The maintenance staff where I live are installing the air conditioners. I leave my large www.ge.com air conditioner in year round. I have not yet received my rent statement from the Greenwich Housing Authority, so I will not be going out to pay it today. I usually stay in on Friday afternoons, since it can be very busy downtown on Friday afternoons during the warmer months with the New York City residents coming out for the weekends to Connecticut. Once they settle in out here for the weekend, it tends to be quieter. I ate a one inch slice of pound cake. CIO

I was told about this article:

I chatted with a relative and a friend. Apparently friends and relatives also know the families. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw the garbage out. I scraped off the old Greenwich Beach Automobile sticker off for a neighbor, and I put the new one on. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went to my usual 3 P.M. appointment. I went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I now weigh 215 pounds according to their Hospital Scale they have for sale. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I chatted with some local people. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 12 pack of English muffins for $1.99, and a 75% off container of CVS 300 count Vitamin E 400 IU USP for $4.75 for $6.74 total. The Easter Seal Society has been fund raising in front of CVS recently. I also walked over to the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I notice a former regular night person who seemed to put on a lot of weight eating at Planet Pizza is now eating at the uptown Subway Sandwich shop, and it looks like he has lost about a 100 pounds. I finished my walk, and I sat out for a while. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts Center. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $12 of self service premium unleaded gasoline for $4.879 a gallon for 2.459 gallons consumption since last Thursday for 30.1 miles driving at odometer reading of 59,985 for 12.240 miles per gallon in local daytime driving with the air conditioner going mostly around busy downtown streets. I then returned home. I chatted with a neighbor.

I put the eight sweaters and three heavy long sleeve polo shirts in their plastic sleeve packaging on the second down sweater shelf in the hallway closet. I put the four towels and four wash cloths with four hand towels I already had on the two towel racks in the bathroom for display. I will probably still use my old towels. The sweaters are warm enough for around here in the fall and spring. The towels are about six feet by three feet, so they are large bath towels. They are sort of a Chinese Fire Engine Orange. I threw out the shipping box. I walked around the building. I chatted with a relative. I made and ate the same dinner as last night.

I next did some reorganization in the apartment. I moved the small pathos plant from the living room mahogany bureau to the telephone stand in the bathroom. I put the two pineapple lamps in the bedroom, one on the television and one on the Gigabyte computer. I moved the two energy saving brass lamps to on top of the mahogany bureau hutch, and I put a heavier extension cord on them. I moved the two miniature palms from the left side of the Epox computer monitor to the left and right side of the mahogany dresser in the living room. I put the pink rice bowl underneath one with the plastic pot on the left side and the Mexican terracotta pot I put on the right side with a crystal glass bowl underneath it to catch the water. I moved the small Bumble Bee lamp from the bathroom table to the right end of the same bureau to have for low light in the living room. I took the 19 inch Dell Trinitron monitor from the Northgate Syntax computer, and I set it up on the left side of the primary 20 inch Dell monitor, and I configured it on both partitions for two monitors. I also installed the Crucial Gizmo 2 gigabyte pen drive for Ready Boost on the Vista partition. I backed up the changes to the second hard drive. I hung the Panasonic headset on the left side, and the USB headset on the right side. I have the icons on the left monitor. Thus it is even more of a multimedia computer. Thus I have improved my overall computer setup with some of the items that I already had. I put the backup Dell 17 inch Trinitron monitor on the Northgate Syntax computer. It all seems to work a little bit better. I cleared the recall numbers from the three Panasonic 2.4 Gigahertz cordless telephones. I put a Duck place mat on the small Panasonic television in front of the French reproduction chair, and I set the two line cordless telephone on top of the television with its Netcom headset. My apartment is like Rubik's Cube. When one moves one item, one has to move a lot of other items. CIO

Note: <888> 06/05/08 Thursday 3:30 A.M. I ate two bowls of white cheddar Cheez-Its with some cold filtered water. I received this email from the Taft School The Taft School headmaster:

To the Classes of 1968, 1969, and 1970,

By now, many of you have heard the terrible news: that last week Margaux Powers '00, daughter of Mike Powers '69, was murdered. So many of you have contacted my office or the school that I thought I would send this e-mail.

The funeral service will be held on Friday, June 6, at 2:00 p.m. at St. John's of Lattingtown, Lattingtown Road and Overlook Road in Locust Valley, NY. Telephone: 516-671-3226.

As I shared with the faculty, to hear this news on the day of our graduation was almost more sadness that we can bear. Margaux was a shining light in her class, and as her class dean, I recall her so vividly and fondly. She was a fine athlete and one of our best lacrosse players, a hard-working student, and one of the most popular girls in the class. She had an infectious smile and a twinkle in her eye, and she had the kind of spirit and energy that became the essence of her class. She had the typical trials and triumphs all of us had in our days at Taft, and she was a beautiful and warm young woman. The Taft family has lost someone special, and our thoughts and prayers go out to the family.

We welcome by reply on this e-mail account your reflections, memories or photographs of Margaux, to be shared with her family.

At this time of unbearable sadness, we have to find solace in each other, and in our love of a beautiful young woman we will never forget.

Watertown, CT 06795

I called up the Oyster Bay, Long Island, New York Police Department 1-516-573-6200.

I recall Mike Powers was they year behind me, and he was a good friend of Rob Ford's. I also recall, Fred Von Mierers <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> knew a member of the Powers family named Ed Powers who was his Major Domo in Manhattan.

I have seen Ed Powers since once in Old Greenwich, Connecticut. I do not know much about Lattingtown other than Madam Chiang Kai Shek The Dragon Lady Who Bridged the East and the West used to live there. There is an Anglican Seminary there. John Bolton talks about it in hushed whispers like it was some big secret. Dorothy Bush's gardener who was a www.dhl.com pilot married a girl from Lattingtown, Long Island. I recall he had red hair. I am a bit tired, and I have a 3 P.M. appointment today, so I will shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

Note: <888> 06/05/08 Thursday 1:15 A.M. I watched some television, which around here seems to repeat itself all of the time. Since Cablevision comes out of Norwalk, Connecticut in this area, I guess the local television reflects the outlook of Norwalk, Connecticut for better or worse. I put the tea in the refrigerator to become iced tea. I ate a piece of pound cake. I mixed a 50% mixture on the cranraspberry, grape, and orange juice mixture with 50% seltzer water, and it is quite a refreshing drink with less fructose. My total new charges on my www.cl-p.com electricity bill for the month of May 2008 is $139.10. I have already paid the budget amount of $137. I still have a $559.19 Credit, which is why my budget amount is $50 less than it should be, since the extra credit of $50 a month is taken out of my bill by the surplus created by the Energy Assistance Program. My bill in May 2007 was $191.24, so I am saving a bit by not using as much air conditioning and electric lighting. My May 2008 usage history was 735 KWH for 32 days or a usage of 23 KWH per day. In May 2007, my usage was 1059 KWH or 33 KWH a day for 32 days. Thus the May 2008 bill is $52.14 less than the May 2007 bill or 27.2643% less amount. I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 06/04/08 Wednesday 10:55 P.M. I showered, and I cleaned up after the last note. I went outside, and I chatted with some neighbors. My democrat party neighbors think the current Republican President is the worst in history, because the country is three trillion dollars in debt. I keep trying to remind the neighbor the democrat congress is responsible for all of the spending bills that have put the government into debt, but since they have their own viewpoint, where they are comfortable on the graft of the democrat party, they do not listen to me. The mail had not arrived by 3 P.M., so I went out. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by Charles Stuttig Locksmith, and they were selling a 700 pound safe. I had two keys made for the Stant gas cap for $3 each, and I bought an Audi key ring fob for $4 and .60 tax for $10.60 total. A word of parking advise in downtown Greenwich, if you can not find parking places on Greenwich Avenue, frequently the less noticed side streets have parking available. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I bought a Green Backs scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I also chatted with Starbucks most frequent customer in the late afternoon. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store, and I bought a two pack of www.ge.com 15 watt light bulbs for $4.79 less 10% discount of .48 for $4.57. I used them in my telephone light which has a brass shade which would get too hot and dangerous with anything more powerful in wattage. I stopped by CVS to view the dynamic shoppers. I chatted with a shopper wearing Gucci loafers about Firinze, Italia. He reminded me the Medici used to feed their enemies to the dogs. I completed my walk. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center of the beginning of my walk. I then drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road. It looks like the Military Police are now working the waterfront for some unknown reasons. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with some of the reference librarians. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought two 13.5 ounce boxes Cheez-its low fat for $2.50 and two 13.5 ounce box of Cheez-Its white cheddar for $2.50, a pound of white Stop and Shop sliced cheese for $2.99, a bulb of fresh garlic for $2.99 a pound for .51, and five 5.5 ounce Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips for $1 each for $18.50 total. I then returned home. I picked up the mail. The order for Classic Passport Travel Pouch Uncle Sams Army Navy Outfitters for $13.56 in olive drab and a Carabiner Compass Uncle Sams Army Navy Outfitters for $5.20 and a Aviator Sunglasses Uncle Sams Army Navy Outfitters in green for $6.80 less 10% off with coupon code "100" for $2.56 off for $23 total with free shipping arrived. I put the passport pouch on the brass hat stand with the compass hanging off of it. I put the aviator sunglasses in a Vuarnet sunglass case, and I left them on the dining table. I put one of the Stant gas cap keys on the Valet key chain with the Audi key fob, and I put the other spare Stant gas cap key in a convenient place. I also moved the small flash light from the valet key chain to my primary key chain. I went outside, and I chatted with a neighbor about the price of tea in China. For dinner, I ate two sautéed blacken and spiced center cut pork chops with sautéed sliced onions and chopped garlic along with steamed flavored rice and a cup of steamed broccoli crowns and baby carrots with olive oil. I ate it all with a glass of iced tea. I put half of the remaining rice in a Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator. I am making up a batch of Formula Two <http://mikelouisscott.com/icetea.htm> . I put the spare 15 watt GE light bulbs in the light bulb drawer in the mahogany bureau in the bedroom. Quite frankly I have very little interest in U.S.A. politics since I read the <http://news.bbc.co.uk/> and I have the British Union Jack, the Swedish cross, and the Dutch Tricolor flying in my apartment, but I do keep the small U.S.A. flag I waived at the Biathlon at the Winter Olympics in Albertville, France back in 1992 which over 2 billion people saw on television. You have to remember some of the best sharp shooters in the world are at the Biathlon, but it was pretty much a white out in the blizzard. CIO

Note: <888> 06/04/08 Wednesday 1:35 P.M. I woke up at 11 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw the garbage out. The order with tracking of UPS: Tracking Information on JDOH4GB-730 - 4GB, USB Flash Drive , USB Flash Drive from Crucial.com for $20.99 and $3.99 shipping and $1.50 tax for $25.48 total arrived. I put the new 4 gigabyte Pen drive in the primary Vista computer, and it works fine with Ready Boost. I moved the old 2 gigabyte pen drive to the FIC server, and it works fine with Ready Boost. It does not work off the USB 4 port card, but it works off the USB 2.0 mother board ports just fine. CIO

Note: <888> 06/04/08 Wednesday 4:45 A.M. After the last note instead of going to bed, I tried installing the May 27, 2008 Vista update, and it would not install. It gave an error message that I researched with no solution. I tried installing the update from a direct download, and it still would not install. I restored the May 27, 2008 backup, and the update would not install. I restored the May 22, 2008 backup, and it still would not install. I restored the July 2007 Vista new install and configuration backup, but SP1 would not install. I then went ahead and restored the May 27, 2008 backup again, and I restored the few changed files. Thus whatever the problem with the most recent Vista update, I will have to wait until a solution comes up for it. I ate another piece of pound cake. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. If my rent comes today, I will try to get out in time to pay it. The Wachovia Bank on Benedict Place closes at 3

P.M.. If not I can pay it on Thursday, when I go out for my usual Thursday appointment.

Note: <888> 06/03/08 Tuesday 5:00 P.M. Yesterday, I got up at 5 P.M. from my nap. I chatted with a relative. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle low fat potato chips along with a glass of iced tea. I read the last three issues of www.forbes.com, the last two issues of U.S. News and World Report, and the last two issues of AARP. I went to bed at 10 P.M., and I was awake at 7 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted bagel with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw the garbage out. On the FIC server, I download the free copy of NTI's Shadow 3.7 Full version backup-up software linked from www.slickdeals.net. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by the Arnold Bread Outlet, and I bought a loaf of Arnold Dark German bread for $1.95, a 12 ounce Entenmann's pound cake for $2, two six packs of New York Everything bagels for $2 each for $7.95 total. It seems their prices have doubled since the last time I was there. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought two 64 ounce containers of Stop and Shop cranraspberry juice for $2 each, two quart jars of Vlassic Kosher dill pickle slices for $2 each, a 48 ounce container of Quaker old fashioned oatmeal for $4.39, a 8 ounce container of Stop and Shop grated parmesan and Romano cheese for $2.50, and package of six boneless center cut pork chops for $1.69 a pound for $3.78 for $28.29 total. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by CVS, and I picked up a prescription. I bought a 9 pack of large Charmin toilet paper for $4.99 and a 12 pack of Thomas' English muffins for $1.99 and .30 tax for $7.28 total. I then returned home, and I put away my purchases. I then went to the Greenwich Hospital Outpatient Clinic, and I had my teeth cleaned by the Hygienist at the dental clinic. I still need to have a root canal and crown done, but I have to drive all the way to University of Connecticut dental school in Farmington, Connecticut to get that done. I need to set up an appointment for a medical physical at the first of July 2008. They can not set up one now, because they are booked solid. I then returned home. I picked up my mail. I received the form to fill out my annual review from the State of Connecticut that I have to fill out. The UPS: Tracking Information for 1995-2001 Audi A6 - Stant Fuel Tank Cap for $20.05 and $5.50 shipping for $25.55 total arrived. I put the locking gasoline cap on my Audi, and I put the regular cap in the Stant box in the passenger side rear storage compartment. I chatted with some neighbors. Well, it seems to Presidential election might be between someone from where it is hot in Arizona and someone where it is cold in Chicago. Having spend four years at www.lfc.edu just north of Chicago, about the only thing one is happy about in Chicago is if one's car starts in the winter, and that is after you shovel it out of the snow. However, Arizona has its draw backs too, since there are a lot of rattle snakes in Arizona. I guess they are the only two parties besides Walmart that have enough money to try to run for President. Most people in America except the poor people that watch too much television are not interested in Presidential politics. Less that 40% of the voters vote in this country, and less than 40% off the stockholders voted at the Exxon company meeting, so I guess it is what Richard Nixon used to call the "Silent Majority" that still run the country and still have the money to yield quite a bit of influence in our day to day lives. Not much happening around here. Nobody ever communicates with me about computers, so I guess people in Greenwich, Connecticut are only interested in real estate, home improvement and automobiles and wall street. However, with better computers, one can have better communications, but most rich people do not know how to type on the dirty keyboards, so they do not bother with computers, it is something the clerical staff does. Of course by typing, one can input one's own thoughts and ideas versus reading the Hebrew Press in the local media. I left my relative's house at 7:30 A.M.. I stopped at the Amtrak station in Wells, Maine. I then got on the Maine turnpike south in Wells, and I paid a $1.75 toll, and on the New Hampshire turnpike I paid a $1.50 toll. I took a pit stop at the Massachusetts welcome area. I got on I-495 West. I took another pit stop at the Lowell rest area. I got on I-290 West, and then the Massachusetts turnpike west. I stopped at the Charlton rest area. I used the bathroom. I ate my sandwich, and I drank some water from the water fountain. I filled up the tank at the Gulf Oil pumps with $18 of self service premium at $4.279 a gallon for 4.286 gallons at 130.1 miles from the Kennebunkport fill up yesterday at odometer reading of 60778 for 30.3547 miles per gallon driving the speed limit of 65 miles per hour or slightly less. I paid a 50 cent toll, when I got off the turnpike, and I got on I-84 West. I took a pit stop at the Connecticut welcome center. I then went west until I-91 South. I got off on the Merritt Parkway or I-15 West. I took a pit stop at the first rest area, and I called my relatives traveling north to Kennebunkport. They were just arriving at my apartment in Greenwich to drop off another family car for another relative. I called them at the next rest area, and they took a pit stop at my apartment without any problems and left the car. I agreed to meet them at the Starbucks by High Ridge Road just south of the Merritt Parkway in Stamford, Connecticut, and I met up with them about a half hour later. They gave my an automobile blue tooth device for the other car they left at my place. I then continued back to Greenwich, and I went to the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went to the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon gasoline station, and I bought $22 of self service premium $4.919 a gallon for 4.473 gallons at odometer reading 60909 and 261.4 miles from the fill up in Kennebunkport, Maine and 131.3 miles since the previous fill up for 29.3539 miles per gallon driving with the traffic at the speed limit. I then returned home. My mail for the past two weeks had been delivered in a large box outside my door that my relative placed in the apartment. I brought up the carpets and they fit in just fine in my apartment. I unpacked which took a while. My relative had already started up the air conditioner. I watered the plants. The kitchen faucet is malfunctioning but still works, so I will have to call tomorrow to get it fixed. I sorted out the mail. I threw out some of the junk mail. I got another $10 survey check. I received a letter from a friend of <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> , who implied that Fred was living a reincarnated life from a previous existence. The friend had served in the U.S. Navy as an air traffic controller in Montauk, Long Island. I chatted with a relative and a friend. I was told the Bushs are not throwing a fund raiser at Walker's Point, but they are just having another private family wedding. I chatted with a fellow walker. I was told by my neighbors that a long time neighbor had passed away, which I was sad to hear. I microwaved and ate a 21 ounce Maria Callendar beef lasagna dinner with grated parmesan cheese and a glass of cold filter water. I made up a fresh batch of passion punch. I chatted with a friend for a while. Two friends might be moving in across the street at Putnam Green. I had a problem getting the server going, since the IP address had changed for some odd reason. I printed out two copies of my Microsoft Money 2006 July 2008 income and spending report. One copy I will mail to an interested relative. I faxed the letter about Fred to a friend. I will now work on posting my pictures from Kennebunkport, Maine

For dinner, I ate roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, green peas, mixed salad with vinaigrette dressing, rolls with butter and ice water. We then returned back to my relative's house. I have my luggage all packed. I will now shut down the IBM Netvista computer, and I will go to bed around 10 P.M., and I will be up around 7 A.M., and I will leave for Greenwich, Connecticut around 9 A.M., and since I stop at every rest area along the way, it will take me 6 to 7 hours, so I figure I should be back around 4 P.M. I will take a turkey and cheese sandwich with me to eat along the way. I have enjoyed my visit with relatives in Kennebunkport, Maine, and I am suppose to return again later in September 2008. CIO

Note: <888> 07/30/08 Wednesday 5:40 P.M.. After lunch, I went out with my relative. I went with my relative to a medical appointment in Biddeford, Maine. We then went by the Irvine Blue Canoe gasoline station, and we filled up my relative's car. We then went by the Kennebunkport post office. The order for four Maggi seasoning sauce, 6.7 oz bottle, available online from ImportFood.com for $4.89 each and $8.55 UPS ground shipping for $28.11 total arrived. My relative gave me one of the four bottles. I will use it for seasoning on the steamed rice back at home in Greenwich, Connecticut. We then went to my relative's house. I then checked my oil on the Audi, and I filled it up to the full mark on the dip stick with Pennzoil 10W40 oil that I keep in the rear right compartment of the Audi. I then went downtown to Kennebunkport to the Big Apple Mobil station, and I checked my tires all around for 34 PSI. I paid 75 cents to use the air machine. My right front tire was down to 30 PSI before I filled it up to 35 PSI. I put $17.03 of self service premium at $4.319 a gallon for 3.9436 gallons for 73.8 miles driving since this past Sunday at odometer reading of 60648 miles for 18.714 miles per gallon driving recently with most of the mileage taking my relative to the Portland, Maine airport and back. We went by Bradbury's in Cape Purpose, and we got some Sun Light dishwashing detergent. They have a big white tent up at Walker's Point like they might be having a party soon. My relative said it is suppose to be a fund raiser. We then went by Sanborne's and we got some cracked crab, filet of haddock, and corn on the cob. They also have fresh halibut steaks today. We then returned back to my relative's house. I ate a turkey and cheese sandwich with potato chips and a bit of orange juice with cold fresh filtered water. I put a new Brita water filter in the refrigerator water container today. I used the CD player remote control in the living room to set up the CD player, so it plays continuously. I took a nap. I went with my relative over to the Kennebunk beach for a while. We are going to sit out on the deck and have cheese and crackers with beverages, and for dinner, we are going to have baked haddock filet, with corn on the cob, and steamed fresh asparagus. I emptied the two humidifiers downstairs last night before going to bed. I ate my usual breakfast. I cleaned up the kitchen. I brought back the garbage cans and the recycling container from the street to the garage. I checked the gutters above the deck to make sure they are clear of leaves and sticks. We looked for and found the green freshness plastic bags that my relative bought to keep fruit fresh. They sell a box of 10 large and 10 small bags at the Stop and Shop for $10. My relative gave me two of each. I showered, and

I cleaned up. We have Job's plant spikes to put around the plum tree in front, but it says on the box to put them in the late fall or early spring, so I won't put them in now. I cut 15 daisies from the back garden to put on the kitchen counter in a vase with water. We chatted with a relative whom flew home yesterday, and the relative arrived safely, although the luggage was not delivered until this morning. CIO

I cleaned up the kitchen. I watched the television program about the British National Trust Hardwick House. We watched the Larry King interview with www.johnmccain.com. It reminded me I have a new small black spot on my left back shoulder that I have to get checked by the dermatologist when I get back to the Greenwich. I chatted with a relative. Note: <888> 07/28/08 Monday 5:40 P.M.. After the last note, I went out with my relative, we went by the Kennebunkport post office, and we then went by the candle store in Kennebunk, and we mailed the old cable box with the prepaid slip back to Time Warner. I then went by the ACE hardware store. They have two small emergency night light type fixtures for $14.99 each if the power went off a small night light comes on, but my relative does not need them. We then went by the Stop and Shop. The Stop and Shop gives one 5 cents for each plastic bag one reuses. We then returned back to my relative's house. I took a nap from 2:30 P.M. to 4:30 P.M.. We watched some of the high definition television channels. We now get the Food Channel. My relative has arrived at her airport in Texas according to tracking. CIO

Note: <888> 07/28/08 Monday 12:35 P.M.. UPS delivered the Time Warner Digital High Definition Cable box. I hooked it up with the coaxial cable to the Toshiba television in the library, and I called them up to activate it. It works just fine, and the high definition channels now come in on the system. They are in the 700 numbers. I have the old cable box with its power cord and remote control packaged to return at the UPS store. cut off. I went to bed about 10:30 P.M.. I was awake at 5:30 A.M.. I ate my usual breakfast. I showered, and I cleaned up. I loaded my relative's luggage into the Audi. We left about 7:15 A.M.. I dropped my relative off at the Portland, Maine Jetport about 8 A.M.. I returned back to my relative's house. I paid 60 cents in tolls each way on I-95 from Biddeford to the Jetport and back. I stopped by Wendy's on the way back in Biddeford to go to the bathroom, but they do not open until 10 A.M., so I had to go in the bushes. I called my relative at her house to see if she needed anything from Wal-Mart, but it was not necessary. I returned back to my relative's about 9 A.M.. I transplanted the yellow lily from the pot in front of the house to the rear railroad tie boxed in garden. I left the plastic terracotta pot and tray underneath the deck for reuse. I started a load of laundry. The other house keeper is here. I emptied the bunk room bathroom garbage can. I swept off the rear deck and its storm debris. UPS might deliver the Digital Cable box from Time Warner today, so if it arrives, I will install it. I have to sign for it, so I should be here this afternoon in case it arrives. I can return the analog box via UPS. I think there is a UPS drop center at the Candle Shop at shopping center near the Blue Canoe Irvine gasoline station in Kennebunk. I bought $27 of self service premium unleaded gasoline for $4.099 a gallon for 6.587 gallons for 102.8 miles driving in the Audi since Tuesday July 15 at odometer reading of 60574 miles for 15.607 miles per gallon driving mostly back country roads. Gasoline is down a quarter a gallon this week at the Blue Canoe Irvine gasoline station. We had an hour wait for a table, and we waited for two of my relative's friends to show up. I had dinner of an eight ounce hamburger with French fries, and when I returned home, I ate the other half of my relative's pulled pork sandwich. I tipped the valet parker $3 for parking my Audi. We returned home about 10:30 P.M., and I will now shut down the IBM Netvista computer, and I will go to bed shortly. CIO

Note: <888> 07/25/08 Friday 4:55 P.M.. I cleaned up the dishes in the kitchen. I swept off the rear deck and dumped the water off the side tables. It looks to be a nice evening for some outside deck activity. My relative also when we went out got a piece of fish at the Lobster pool. CIO

We then drove down I-95 to the New Hampshire liquor store, and my relative got some beverages. One of my relative and I each got a New Hampshire Powerball lottery ticket due to end at midnight this Saturday. We then went to the Kittery Mall. My relatives went to a woman's shop, and I went by the Black and Decker outlet. I bought two microwave covers for $2.49 each plus tax. Cambridge Sound no long has an outlet. We then stopped by a Farm Stand, and got some corn on the cob in York. We then drove back up I-95 to Kennebunk, and my relative got a homemade three berry pie. I went out with a relative, and we went by Abacus downtown, the Canvas shop and the store next to it. We then stopped by the Lower Village Lobster Pound. I returned my relative home. I then went by the Kennebunkport Library, but one can not send a fax from there. I then went by the Ocean Exposure photography shop, and I sent a fax from there. It is $2 for the first page, and a dollar for each additional page. They sell one gigabyte Kingston SD memory cards there for $18 plus tax. I then returned back to my relative's house. I used the power blower, and I cleaned out the garage floor and the driveway. I ate a ham, chicken, and cheese sandwich with potato chips with a small bit of orange juice and cold filtered water. I showed my relative some pictures off the internet. I chatted with a relative about the fact that the internet seems to disconnect when the telephone rings. We watched the first of the three DVD movie set on John Quincy Adams the cousin of Sam Adams who makes Bean Town's most popular beer. While I was outside having a cigarette, I checked out the hoot owl sound that my relative had heard. There are three hoot owls lingering in the trees around the house. One in the front yard to the east, one on the side to the south, and one in the rear to the west. We also have four wood chuck holes in the lawn around the house. My relative plans to get something from the hardware store that will gas the wood chucks and hopefully they will depart for another neighborhood. Today at the Kennebunk, Maine Stop and Shop, we also bought a round toilet brush with receptacle for $6.99 plus tax, and I put it in the downstairs bunkroom bathroom. I folded the laundry, and I put it away. The downstairs guest bedroom now has clean sheets and towels.

We picked up a neighbor, and we all went to a nearby Yacht Club for a pot luck supper. I chatted with a few other residents. One resident had attended www.lfc.edu when Richard Widmark taught acting there. I always liked his movie the Bedford Incident. I ate some meat loaf, potato salad, and tomato salad with a glass of ice water. We dropped the neighbor off, and we returned back to my relative's house. We watched a DVD movie "Eastern Promises" about the Russian mafia in London, and it seemed quite violent. I normally do not watch many movies. A relative sent a fax, so the Samsung fax definitely works. I ate a bowl of Cheez-its party mix. I have been occasionally eating oatmeal cookies. I emptied the dish washer. I went to bed about 11 P.M.. I woke up at 7 A.M., and I brought the New York Times into the house. I went back to bed until 9:30 A.M.. I ate my usual breakfast. I cleaned up the kitchen. I went out with my relatives without cleaning up. They were setting up for a <http://www.johnmccain.com/appearance> at the Kennebunkport Maine Hotel, The Nonantum Resort Hotel, Inn, Resort ME . We went by the Kennebunkport post office. We then went by the Stop and Shop in Kennebunk. We then went by Hanneford's market in Kennebunk. We were looking for Maggi liquid seasoning, but neither store had it. We then went by a nursery, and we got a white floss plant. We then went back by the Kennebunkport post office. When we returned on Ocean Boulevard, the Maine State Police had the road blocked in front of the Nonantum. We detoured around. We went to Chic's lobster pound and got some haddock. We then returned back to my relative's house. I noticed there was a sign that pedestrians could not walk by the Nonantum house, so I was not able to go over there and take pictures. I then planted the white floss plant in the back yard in the garden box. I ate chicken salad for lunch with potato chips and cold water ice water. I put the garbage out on the street for tomorrow's pickup along with the bags of plant trimmings. I showered, and I cleaned up. I chatted with a friend. It is very hot in Sea Island, Georgia and Amelia Island, Georgia. Apparently the Greenwich, Connecticut sidewalk sales were last week. I started a load of laundry. The

IBM Netvista USB mouse seems to have malfunctioned, so I put a spare Dell USB mouse on the IBM Netvista system. CIO

Note: <888> 07/20/08 Sunday 4:00 P.M.. I installed the latest version of www.java.com on the IBM Netvista, and I set Internet Explorer to its defaults, but Yahoo Mail will not work on it, and neither did AOL mail two days ago, so I guess there is not enough memory to run it. The older IBM Netvista only has 256 megs of memory running XP Professional with a 400 MHz processor, so it is limited to what it can do. CIO

Note: <888> 07/20/08 Sunday 3:10 P.M.. I went out with one of my relative's and we went to Cape Purpose. We then went by Bradbury's market and we got a couple of grocery items. We then returned home. CIO

Note: <888> 07/20/08 Sunday 1:35 P.M.. I woke up at 11 A.M. this morning. I ate my usual breakfast. I chatted with relatives, and I watched the British Open golf tournament on television. Downstairs on the IBM Netvista computer, I put in a new black Epson ink cartridge in the Epson Stylus C60 printer, so it now works just fine in black and color, and both ink cartridges are full. I showered, and I cleaned up. I chatted with a friend. There is an article in the Sunday New York Times about the Frick Museum. CIO

Note: <888> 07/19/08 Saturday 10:30 P.M.. I slept from 3 P.M. to 5 P.M.. I chatted with relatives. We watched the evening news and ate cheese and crackers. For dinner, I ate two salmon cakes with two ears of corn on the cob with butter and sautéed zucchini and onions and a glass of a small amount of orange juice with cold filtered water. I tied up a plant in the back yard planter box. I read some magazines, and I chatted with relatives. I used Free Fax • Free Internet Faxing , and I sent two free faxes to the Samsung all purpose machine at this location. It seems the best way to do it, is to have the Samsung set on five rings, but the telephone answering machine will pick up after four rings, so one has to turn off the telephone answering machine to receive a fax after five rings. I chatted with my relatives. I will now shut down the IBM Netvista computer, and I will go to bed in a little while. CIO

Note: <888> 07/19/08 Saturday 2:25 P.M.. I hung a new Christmas tree pine scent card on the driver's side rear hook of the Audi. I went downtown with two of my relatives. We went by the Kennebunkport post office. We then drove along west along the Kennebunk beach to the end of it. We then drove back east. We then drove as far north of just south of Kennebunk, and we went to the small General Store on the south side of town, and we bought some Progresso Italian bread crumbs. We then took the back road by the boat builder's school and along the golf course back to my relative's house. I used rose fertilizer to fertilize the two small rose bushes at the southeast corner of the house, and then I watered them. Earlier, I put the new hose shut off valve on the front hose. We had crab meat on hotdog rolls for lunch with potato chips, and I also drank about 1/4th cold orange juice with 3/4th cold filtered water. I used the Black and Deck dust buster to spot clean some small amount of debris on the carpets. We ate our lunch on the deck. I will now go through my email. We have the two air conditioners going in the house, since it is suppose to be hot today. I have been emptying the two dehumidifiers in the two downstairs bedrooms on a daily basis. I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 07/19/08 Saturday 11:20 A.M.. After the last note for lunch, I ate a couple of hotdogs barbequed on the grill along with potato salad and cold filtered water with a little bit of orange juice. I put away the laundry. I went out, and I went by the Blue Canoe Irvine gasoline station in Kennebunk, and I put $28 of self service premium gasoline in the Audi at $4.299 for 6.512 gallons at odometer reading of 60471 at 169 miles since the Mass. rest area at 26.8 miles per gallon. I also got the Blue Rhino gas tank for the grill replaced for $23.09. and I also had the Audi washed for $7. I checked the oil on the Audi, and I put a half quart of Pennzoil in the Audi to fill it up. I then returned to my relative's house. I installed the new grill gas tank. It started to rain. Later on we all went for a drive by Goose Rocks beach and Biddeford Pool. We stopped by a Gold??? general store and restaurant friends of a relative's manage. We then returned home before it rained more. For dinner we ate baked salmon and corn on the cob with butter. I cleaned up the kitchen. We watched television. I ate a bowl of low fat Cheez-its. I went to bed about 10:30 P.M.. I woke up at 9:30 A.M.. Our guest from Florida had left earlier. I ate my usual breakfast. I used the power blower to clean off the driveway and the front porch and walk. I swept off the rear deck. I transplanted the begonia that we bought on Wednesday at Flaherty's farm outlet in South Portland, Maine, and it is now with the other one on the right side of the garage. I tied it up with stakes. I will now shower and clean up, and I will get ready to go out. CIO

Note: <888> 07/18/08 Friday 12:55 P.M.. I woke up yesterday at 7:30 A.M.. I ate the same breakfast as the last two days. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown with my relative, and I took pictures while my relative did an errand. I walked over to the Keys to the Kitchen, I bought a my relative a silicone splatter guard 10.5 inches in diameter for $15.23. It is used in the microwave oven on a bowl to cook oatmeal. We then drove up to the South Portland, Maine Volkswagen, and we returned the rental car, and we picked up my relative's Passat. There was no charge for the recall work. We then went to Wendy's at the Maine Mall, and I ate a double cheeseburger, with French fries and small iced tea. We then picked my other relative up at the Portland, Maine airport. We then went by www.samsclub.com and we bought some groceries. We then returned back to my relative's house and the other guest from Florida had arrived. We unloaded the groceries. I set up the outside deck for dinner. We all had cheese and crackers and beverages on the deck. We had dinner of a roasted chicken, spare ribs, and salad. We watched part of movie about Katie Stanton and Susan B. Anthony. I went to bed about 11 P.M.. I was up at 10:30 A.M. this morning. I ate the same breakfast. My relatives and guest went out. I uploaded the recent pictures. I showered, and I cleaned up. I chatted with two relatives. I am doing a load of laundry. CIO

I drove up with my relative to the Volkswagen dealership in South Portland, Maine, and my relative is having their car serviced. They gave up a loaner Toyota Celica, which we will return to tomorrow, when we pick up the car, and pick up another relative at the Portland airport. We then went to Marshall's department store. I toured the Tuesday's outlet store while waiting. I chatted with a retired www.navy.mil pilot. I then went with my relative, and we went to Uno's for lunch. I ate a deep dish vegetarian pizza with a tossed salad with blue cheese dressing and a glass of water. We then stopped by a medical office, so my relative can get the form filled out right for a handicap parking permit. We then returned to my relative's house, and I took a nap until 4:30 P.M.. We then went by the Kennebunkport post office. We drove along the Kennebunkport waterfront and looked at another former neighborhood. We then returned back to my relative's house. I watered the plants in the front and the rear of the house. I sat out on the deck with my relative, and we enjoyed the sunset eating cheese and crackers with a beverage of cold filtered water and orange juice. I then barbequed on the outside gas grill a steak and a hamburger. I ate the steak with a tossed green salad and potato salad. I cleaned up the kitchen. We have to pick up my other relative tomorrow afternoon at the Portland airport. I chatted with that relative once today. We have another house guest tomorrow from Palm Beach, Florida. I chatted with a fellow walker from Greenwich, Connecticut. CIO

I drove my relative over to the Wayfarer restaurant in Cape Purpose, Maine, and then I took pictures of Walker's Point, St. Anne's, and the Colony Beach. I chatted with someone from Lake, Florida. I then returned to my relative's house, and I made a chef's salad out of spinach, cold sliced turkey, sliced English cucumber, cherry tomatoes, quarter sliced lengthwise baby carrots, chopped onion, avocado dip, and feta cheese with some sort of Asian type dressing. My relative arrived home. I chatted with other relatives. I ate the chef's salad with a glass of cold filtered water. I uploaded the pictures. I chatted with my relative and another relative.

Note: <888> 07/15/08 Tuesday 5:00 P.M.. I woke up around midnight, and I ate a bowl low fat Cheez-its. I finally woke up at 8 A.M. this morning. I had breakfast of oatmeal with milk, honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, orange juice with vitamins and supplements, and coffee with splenda and milk. I pruned the azalea and the rhododendron on the north side of the driveway. I brought in the garbage cans. The pruned material needs to be put out next Monday night on the street. I put the light bulbs on the shelf in the basement. I chatted with a relative. The wireless internet Linksys base is in the bunk room in the basement, so the whole house pretty much has wireless. I watered the plants on the deck, and I rolled up the hose on the deck. We still have not received a test fax incoming. I set the Samsung fax to five rings, so we can get an incoming fax after the three rings of the answering machine and two more. I read an article in the New York Times about Lyme disease. I showered, and I cleaned up. I folded the beach towels in the dryer, and I put them on the end of the center bed in the bunk room. We had lunch of quiche and cold filtered water. We went out, and we went by the Kennebunkport, Maine post office. We then went over to Kennebunk, Maine. I spent about two hours sitting in the Maine Department of Motor Vehicles waiting to get a handicap automobile parking card for my relative. When my time came up, I had to go back out to the car to have the relative sign the form, and then it turned out the doctor's form was not valid, since the doctor had not checked the box for temporary or permanent. They issued my relative a 30 day temporary handicap parking card that expires on August 15, 2008 to use until my relative can get the doctor to fill out the handicap parking form correctly. We then went by the Rite-Aid drug store, and my relative made some purchases. I have to fill out an online rebate form for an $8 rebate on an item. The Irvine gasoline station is remodeling and closed in Kennebunk, so their car wash is also closed. We then drove along the Kennebunk beach, and then returned back to my relative's house. I put away the purchases. CIO

I washed the breakfast dishes, and I made my bed. I watered the plants. I made two baloney and cheese sandwiches. I emptied out the produce from the refrigerator, and I threw it away along with the garbage. I showered, and I cleaned up. I turned off the air conditioner and the tower fans. I packed the Audi. I turned off the toilet. I chatted with a relative. I chatted with neighbors. I left my apartment building about 10:30 A.M.. I drove up North Street to the Merritt Parkway, and I headed East. I took a pit stop at the Orange Rest area. I got on I-91 North, and I took another pit stop at the first rest area. I got on I-84 East, and I took a pit stop in Vernon at the rest area. I got on the Massachusetts turnpike, and I took a pit stop at the Charlton, Mass. rest area. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich. I filled up the Audi at the Gulf station there with $20.50 of self service premium at $4.389 a gallon for 4.671 gallons at 131.3 miles since the previous fill up before leaving at odometer 60301 for 28.11 miles per gallon with the air conditioner going driving with the average traffic speed which since it was not too busy which was the speed limit. I got off at I-290 North, and I paid a .50 toll. I got on I-495 East, and I took a pit stop at the Lowell rest area. <http://www.lowellfolkfestival.org/> . I then got on I-95 North, and I took a pit stop at the New Hampshire rest area, and I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich. I paid a $1.50 toll on the New Hampshire turnpike and a $1.75 toll on the Maine turnpike. I got off at the Wells, Maine exit, and I took a pit stop at the Amtrak train station. I arrived at my relative's house in Kennebunkport, Maine about 5:20 P.M. for 261 miles driving door to door. I unloaded car. I put the brown runner rug in the basement running out from the bunk room. I put the Samsung all purpose fax, copier, laser printer in the library where the broken Lexmark fax had been. I set it up later in the day. I watched some news and ate avacado dip and wheat thin crackers with my relative. We had sliced roasted turkey for dinner with flavored rice and sauteed zuchinni and onions and a glass of cold filtered water. Earlier I unpacked. I put most the spare light bulbs in the far corner in the garage with some in the house utility closet. I watered the plants outside front and rear except the deck which did not need it. I left the Samsung unit turned on, since it has a power saving feature, but currently AT&T long distance service is not activated, but the local phone service works. My relative gave me a nice striped Polo short sleeve shirt and another pair of Ralph Lauren polo waist 42 inches shorts. I forgot to bring a tooth brush, but my relative has a new one to spare. It is the same old internet setup with the IBM Netvista. The new U.S.A flag looks great on the flag pole. My relative had trees and brush removed from the north side of the house this spring. Overall from what I can see, the house looks just great. CIO

I washed the breakfast dishes. I went out, and I went by the Valley Road Post Office, and I put a freeze on my mail until I return. I returned home. I went back to bed until 2 P.M.. I made my bed. I moved the Walgreen's LCD telephone from the wicker rack in the bedroom, so it is a Verizon telephone by the Optimum to the left of primary Vista computer. I have it connected to the Samsung all purpose telephone wire. Currently I have the switch setup set to Verizon, but to send or receive a fax with the Brother all purpose machine one has to change the switches by the Brother machine. I moved the white wicker rack from the bedroom mahogany bureau to on top of the small white bookcase at the bedroom entrance. I moved the black plastic paper file shelves from that location to the mahogany bureau. Now the bedroom door opens almost all of the way. I went outside, and I threw out garbage. I picked up my mail. I watched part of the movie Gandhi. For dinner, I sautéed two boneless center cut pork medallions in olive oil and butter with ground black pepper seasoning, Italian seasoning, and garlic powder with a chopped onion and a few cloves of minced garlic and towards then end I added Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce and soy sauce. I also steamed a cup of baby carrots and broccoli crowns which I had with butter, and I also made up a batch of flavored rice half of which I ate and the other half I refrigerated. I ate it all with a glass of cold filtered water. I rested from about 6:30 P.M. to 10 P.M.. I watched part of the movie Nixon. I will now do one load of laundry and dry cycle. CIO

Note: <888> 07/12/08 Saturday 1:40 A.M. I ate a bowl of low fat Cheez-its. I watched part of a television program that I had seen before about meteorites. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Not much seems to be happening on the internet since Bill Gates retired. I guess a lot of other people are on vacation this time of year, and they might not have access to the internet. Of course about the most exciting thing that starts happening this time of year down south on the internet is:

<http://mikelouiscott.com/weather.htm>

<http://geocities.com/mikelscott/weather.htm> .

I suppose I would search out other subject matter, but with the recent downturn in the U.S. economy, I suppose the internet activity has been downsized too. In other words, they do not print as much news about failing business activity compared to when business is doing better. I suppose the Middle East still has a bit of money with their oil revenues, but their representatives generally do not travel this far north, although this time of year, it is almost warm enough around here for them to feel comfortable, like the Greenwich Oasis. Of course there are a lot of places further south of here trying to get their money along with Europe and the rest of the world, and they certainly are probably not needing to buy any heavy items from elsewhere here to take back with them. I suppose with the overall picture of not much going on, it might remain that way for a while, but basically Greenwich, Connecticut is a family town, so not much ever really happens here anyway besides raising youngsters, which tends to keep the rest of the town busy for a quite a bit of time. Once it gets colder in the north country, people tend to start to become more mentally active. I guess the warmer weather slows down their thinking processes. Well time to shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

I move the mirror from that location to the upper inside of the apartment door, since it is not as heavy as the round mirror that was there. I then moved the heavy round mirror from the inside of the apartment door to in front of the electrical circuit breaker box in the living room. I used one of the steal hooks from the pot hanging rack in the kitchen, and I hung it off the electrical box face plate with the round mirror hanging from it, so it more secure than just using 80 pound OOK hooks. I move the small picture of Prince Wilhelm of the Netherlands and Princess Maxima to above the round mirror, and I hung the three instrument weather station to the right of the sweater closet a bit lower. I went to bed at 4 A.M.. I woke up at 2 P.M.. Note: <888> 07/11/08 Friday 1:20 A.M. Well it was interesting program on the QM2, but I did not watch the following program on the Ronald Regan aircraft carrier, because I am suppose to stay focused. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Remember, the four primary directives that I have from the senior British person I have met is, "Keeping Doing What You Are Doing,"; "You Are Not Suppose To Know What Goes On"; "Get a Hair Cut"; and "Stay Focused". Well anyway the apartment seems to be a bit more ship shape. Bon Soir. CIO

Note: <888> 07/10/08 Thursday 11:55 P.M. At midnight on channel 726 "Man Made" is an hour program about how they built the Queen Mary II QM2 . I personally think that one should not go further out on the water than one can swim back, so more than likely I will never sail on it. CIO

Note: <888> 07/10/08 Thursday 11:35 P.M. I threw out the cigarette shipping box in the dumpster. I put a 500 sheet package of paper by the Samsung unit to take up to Maine.

They calling for scattered thunderstorms this Monday July 14, when I am suppose to drive up to Kennebunkport, Maine, so I will have to see how that might effect my travel plans. CIO

Note: <888> 07/10/08 Thursday 11:10 P.M. I dug out the CD with the drivers for the Samsung all purpose machine. I then disconnected the Samsung machine from its power, telephone line, and USB cable, and I put it on the floor in front of the Mongoose mountain bike. I put its power cord and manual and CD on top of it. I then moved the Brother all purpose machine to on top of the printer stand that the Samsung machine was sitting on. I now have more room on the oak dining table, so I move the HP photo printer to where the Brother was sitting from the other spot on the dining table, and since it has a lower profile it fits in better. I then put a third duck place mat on the dining table to the left of the existing two, and I put a third chair at the table in front of it. I took the large green wooden chair from the dining table, and I put it back at the bedroom desk, and I moved the matching chair from the desk back at the dining table. I move the brass hat rack from the left of the kitchen entrance to in front of the sweater closet for the summer. It will probably have to go elsewhere, once I need to get at sweaters regularly in colder weather. I stored the box of plastic storage containers away from the left kitchen entrance. There is now more room to get into the kitchen even with the third chair by the kitchen entrance. I moved the bric a brac around the dining table. It all seems a bit neater to me and more roomy, but I am generally to close to the overall environment to be objective. By Pied A Terre places, it is a nice apartment, but I suppose by McMansion perspective, it seems a bit cramped. Of course it is cheaper to heat in the winter and cool in the summer. CIO

Note: <888> 07/10/08 Thursday 7:35 P.M. I woke up at noon. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a sandwich English muffin with butter, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I threw out some garbage. I chatted with some neighbors. I went out to my usual 3 P.M. Thursday appointment. I then returned home. My order from www.ordersmokesdirect.com for six cartons of King Mountain Ultra Lights Kings in a box had arrived. I also picked up my mail. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went downtown, and I walked then entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store, and I bought three double D cell flash light bulbs for $1.25 each and .23 tax for $3.98 total.

I then went by CVS, and I bought buy one get one free of 60 capsule MSM 1000 mg. for $6.79 both jars. I then completed my walk. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center. I returned home. I chatted with neighbors. I chatted with a relative. I took the brown runner rug, and I put it in the trunk of the Audi to take up to Maine to use in the basement. I then tried one of the new flash light bulbs, but the Lou Scott Ray-O-Vic flash light still does not work. I tried tinkering with it, but I still can not get it to work. It is not a very complicated mechanism, so I can not figure out what the problem is. I left the spare three double D flash light bulbs in a small brown bag on the battery shelf of the sideboard in the bedroom. I will now eat the same meal as last night. While I was downtown, I saw a GMC wagon with two mountain bikes on the rear and three on the roof with Washington D.C. license plates, so I guess it a sign of the times. CIO

Note: <888> 07/09/08 Wednesday 11:25 P.M. I watched a program about Henry Morgan and the pirates of Port Royal, Jamaica. I then watched part of a program about Portland, Oregon and the tunnels underneath it along the waterfront, where they would shanghai sailors, and apparently they would also eat the sailors when they were short of food at sea. I know there are underground tunnels around the waterfront in Manhattan in the area of the meat markets along the waterfront, so if one happens to venture into Manhattan, one should make sure one does not get eaten. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I might watch a little bit more television or just go to bed. CIO

Note: <888> 07/09/08 Wednesday 7:25 P.M. I chatted with my relative whom had visited my apartment a week ago Saturday, and the relative suggested that I take up the brown broadloom carpet that ran from the apartment entrance to the hallway which was about three feet wide and 24 feet long and bound around its edges. I thought that was a good idea, so I took up the brown runner, and I rolled it up, and I held it together with duct tape, and I stored it away. On the light blue wool wall to wall carpet underneath, I unfolded the corner by the doorway, which I had folded under to provide door clearance with the brown runner, and then I vacuumed it and most of the rest of the carpet. With the light blue wool near wall to wall carpet, it works much better, and one does not risk tripping at the apartment entrance. I still have the three larger area rugs down in the living room and the two smaller area rugs at the kitchen entrance. I will check with my relative in Maine to see if they can use the brown runner in the garage in Maine or the basement. I went outside, and I walked around the building. I said hello to some neighbors. I will now reheat the remaining seasoned rice from last night, and I will eat three half inch thick slices of cold eye round of beef with Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce, and I will microwave in .75 inch of water in a microwave proof plastic pot with lid a cup of baby carrots and broccoli crowns on the microwave vegetable cycle which after I drain them I will put in a bowl with some butter. I will eat it all with a glass of cold filtered water. CIO

Note: <888> 07/09/08 Wednesday 5:40 P.M. I watched part of the "Tea House of the August Moon" on television. I cleaned out the extra stuff from the tool and parts area of the floor level of the sweater closet in the hallway. I put the extra coaxial cables with the other ones underneath the near corner of the bed. I threw out some unneeded parts and packaging. I also threw out an old cable box, a stereo decoder, and a wicker basket. Thus the hallway sweater closet door opens easily now. I also tightened the knob on the right bedroom closet door. I chatted with a neighbor. The neighbor told me the Greenwich RTM had only funded $90,000 for the double pane replacement windows in this building, and from what I know about modern construction costs, it would cost considerably more. The neighbor conjectured that they might now be doing it this year anyway. In replacing them I will have to remove the curtains and the curtain rods from the four windows. Since I put the curtain rods up 19 years ago, I might not be in as good of shape to remove them as 19 years ago, when I installed them. I have replaced the curtains twice in that period, so the curtains are relatively new, and I recall washing them about two or three years ago. I also would have to move the computer server setup and the desk it sits on, the Scott family sofa, and the large heavy 27 inch Sony CRT television, and the cabinet it sit on. I would also have to move the bric a brac on the window shelf, and the heavy General Electric Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner. The air conditioner slides out of its cabinet housing by removing a screw on the lower inside side of the unit, and then one has to unscrew and disassemble the support struts for the outside housing. In the bedroom, I would have to remove the items from the window shelf and the bookcase that sit on the mahogany bureau by the window, but possibly not the mahogany bureau which would be difficult. Also the bedroom curtains and curtain rods would have to be removed. CIO

Note: <888> 07/09/08 Wednesday 3:35 P.M. I woke up during the night, and I ate a bowl of low fat Cheez-its and a 50% to 50% mixture of passion punch and seltzer water. I woke up again around 8 A.M., and I drank some of the same mixture of passion punch. I finally woke up at noon. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a sandwich English muffin with butter, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with one relative twice and another relative once. I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I picked up my mail. I noticed last Monday evening at 8:30 P.M. when I was out, it looked like somebody from the Middle East has returned here to their summer home. I saw a motorcade of three long white stretch five or six doors to the side GMC limousines and a long white stretch Lincoln Continental limousine traveling down Greenwich Avenue. If it was anyone I know they did not stop to say hello. Maybe it is a cheaper way to travel than www.netjets.com. I used to see about four hundred limousines parked outside of Chippendales in Manhattan, so maybe it was some rich old ladies going into Manhattan to have some fun. CIO

I then covered it with A-1 Steakhouse Bull's Eye Barbeque sauce. I baked it in the convection oven at 325 degrees for 24 minutes. I made up a batch of flavored rice, and I steamed a cup of baby carrots and broccoli crowns. I cut off three 7/16th inch thick slices of the hot beef, and I put them on the dinner plate with the beef juices. I put the rest of the beef in a Rubbermaid container, and I refrigerated it. I put half the flavored rice with on the dinner plate, and I refrigerated in the other half in a Rubbermaid container. I put the steamed vegetables in bowl with some butter on them. I ate the dinner with a glass of cold filtered water. CIO

The Brother MFC-8840D all purpose laser machine with the new six thousand sheet generic toner cartridge that I will keep is similar to the Samsung machine, so I do not need the Samsung machine. The Samsung machine cost me about $130 on sale down from $230 about a year and a half ago from www.newegg.com ,so it is a very good scanner, copier, fax, and laser printer machine. I moved from the lower left shelf of the printer stand to the right of the primary Vista computer, the spare printer materials and forms except the spare paper and smaller photo paper, and I put them on the lower right bookcase shelf in the hallway. I put away my laundry. About 5:30 P.M., my relatives traveling south from Kennebunkport, Maine did a pit stop and used the bathroom, and I showed them the apartment improvements. They picked up the family car that was left here yesterday. I lead them over the Mobil station across the street where they filled up, and I then showed them how to get to I-95 West, where they took I-287 North to cross the Tapan Zee bridge to head south. I then returned home, and I chatted with neighbors. I gave my neighbor a partially full blue Bic lighter. I picked up the mail. Note: <888> 07/07/08 Monday 4:30 P.M. I woke up at 9 A.M. this morning, when a relative called. I am going to take the Samsung SCX-4521F all purpose laser machine up to Kennebunkport, Maine when I go up on Monday June 14, 2008. The Lexmark fax machine broke up there. I printed out the manual for it which is about 120 pages to go with it, and I bound it in a clamp binder. It has only been used 240 printouts and copies, so there is about 760 printouts on the thousand sheet starter cartridge. One can buy a generic toner cartridge for it on the internet for about $35 plus shipping, when it needs it. I chatted with another relative. I went back to bed until 1 P.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a sandwich English muffin with butter, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with a neighbor. The dumpster has been emptied of all of the stuff that I threw out this past weekend. I am doing two loads of laundry with about 25 minutes to go on the dry cycle. I put clean linens on the bed. My order from www.ordersmokesdirect.com was back ordered, so I changed it from King Mountain Ultra Lights 100s to King size, and it will ship today or tomorrow, and it should be here by the end of the week, so I will have them by next Monday when I go to Maine. I chatted with neighbors, when I went out to do laundry. CIO

Note: <888> 07/07/08 Monday 2:25 A.M. As I recall, the "Mississippi Moon" print was in the frame that is behind the bedroom door that has the Audubon Cardinal picture and the Blue Jay. Possibly the "Good Apple Year" print came in the Stainless Steel frame that now has the Audubon Pelican and the Pink Flamingo prints. That would mean the Jim Dine poster was possibly showing when I bought the frame for the Innsbruck poster or it was in between the white matting and the cardboard backing. It is so long ago, it is hard to remember precisely. In 20 years, I bought the frame, and put the Innsbruck poster in it, so I would have noticed it, and about the time I go on the internet, I think I might have put the Pelican and the Pink Flamingo picture in it until last January when I put the Antique maps prints in it. Ergo, I would have only seen it 4 times in 20 years to remember it. From what I recall, since I spent a great many years in Manhattan and Museums there and elsewhere, and I have seen so much art work, I do not pay much attention to art work until it becomes much older generally, and I do not know much about modern art. Also I have seen a lot of gallery posters for openings, but if it is worth a few bucks, I guess I might as well display it as opposed to new reproductions of vintage works. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I seem to be doing a bit more apartment maintenance recently, since I am spending more time at home with the higher prices of fuel, but I will admit it is enjoyable getting out during these cooler summer days for a walk. However, I still worry the cooler summer days mean a much colder winter. Bon Soir. CIO

Note: <888> 07/07/08 Monday 1:20 A.M. I reframed the Jim Dine print, so it has no Scotch tape or other pictures in the frame. It now rests on the bottom of the frame with about six inches of white matting above it. I removed the white fence picture which is actually a white clapboard house print with an apple tree, and it is called "Good Apple Year" by Nat Lewis. I also took out the Innsbruck Tirola A Austria poster, and the two reproductions of antique world maps. From behind the bed, I took out the print with the matting to protect it of "Mississippi Moon" by Georges Schreiber. I put the unused prints and posters between the matting beneath the left side of the bed, so they lie flat. Pictures of the items below:

Note: <888> 07/06/08 Sunday 11:35 P.M. 10-year battle with pain highlights Lyme disease debate - CNN.com.

I chatted with a friend about the Jim Dine poster Guggenheim Collection - Artist - Dine - Biography . As far as I can tell, it is not signed, and it does not have a number of what number printing it is from on a limited printing. However, in the near mint print of one on the internet, it is a white back ground, the copy I have is more of a vellum paper back ground or manila. From what I can tell, it is fragile, which is why I remounted it in the frame. My friend told me I should not have used Scotch tape to secure it on the back side from sliding. After filling up a dumpster with 500 books and other items this past weekend, I was a little bit rushed. I also threw away the book on Queen Victoria I got from the Tarrytown, New York Episcopal church tag sale for 50 cents about 18 years ago. My mother told me to get rid of all of the books, so I got rid of most of all of the books. On the Jim Dine print, possibly it is an original or a proof, but it is not signed. I have a feeling it is not worth that much, but I will look into it tomorrow. I was told by www.fbi.gov , they do not investigate lost art. I called the Greenwich Police, and they told me to check with the detective division tomorrow. I also told an associate who is an expert art appraiser. As I recall the frame that it is in was in my apartment on Steamboat Road, and I bought it from the E.L.D.C. thrift shop in Cos Cob, Connecticut over 20 years ago for $15. I think it was underneath another print of the Mississippi night with a wagon. I have that print behind my bed head board. I think the white fence print came from the frame with the Cardinal picture in it on the back of my bedroom door now. As I recall, I originally put the Innsbruck, Austria picture in the frame that the Jim Dine picture was in, and then for at least the last 15 years or more, I had the Audubon Prints of the Pelican and the Flamingo in it hanging over my bedroom desk. I think this past winter, when I bought the antique map prints from www.posters.com, I took out the Jim Dane poster and the white fence poster and possibly the Mississippi wagon poster or one or two of them from the frame with the Pelican the Flamingo, and I put the Pelican and the Flamingo in the steel frame above the desk. Thus the Jim Dine print was possibly in the same wooden frame for 20 years until this winter, when I stored it underneath the bed in between a piece of card board and one of the other prints. There does not seem to much reference to it on the internet, so more than likely if it were an original it would be signed. Thus although a mint copy is $950, more than likely an older darker copy would be less, but my copy has a lot more dots on it than the white one on the internet, which leads me to believe it could be an original. Whatever, the case I have had it for 20 years not on display, so it is about time to put it on display. Whether it is worth anything is opened to conjecture. CIO

Note: <888> 07/06/08 Sunday 8:40 P.M. I woke up during the night, and I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-Its. I finally woke up at 10 A.M. this morning. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with a neighbor. I walked around the building. They were having a private party in the community room. I chatted with a relative who started driving down from Kennebunkport, Maine about noon. I chatted with two other relatives. I read U.S. News and World Report. I read P.C. Shopper magazine. I received a call from my traveling relative about 4 P.M., and he was about an hour away. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with 1/3rd of a tube of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips along with a dill pickle slice and a glass of cold filtered water. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went outside, and I chatted with a neighbor. I came back inside briefly to change my shorts, since they were dirty. I wore my new Ralph Lauren Polo shorts with a belt instead of suspenders. My relative arrived about 5:15 P.M., and he dropped off the family car. I do not have the key for it, since my relative will be picking it up in the near future possibly while I am up in Maine from Monday July 14, 2008 to around Thursday July 31, 2008. I drove my relative in my car to the Greenwich Train station, where he caught the 5:39 train into Manhattan. I then sat out briefly downtown, and I chatted with a regular walker. I then walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I walked down Arch street on the walk and back up Greenwich Avenue on the walk. I stopped by CVS, and I bought two 7 ounce Gillette sensitive skin shave cream for $2 each, and two 1 liter buy one get one free of CVS Antiseptic oral rinse for $3.89 both and .47 tax for $8.36 total. I completed my walk. I then returned home. I chatted with a relative on the wireless phone while downtown. I will now reheat and eat the same dinner as last night. CIO

Note: <888> 07/06/08 Sunday 2:15 A.M. A couple of weeks ago, I knocked the vintage Ray-O-Vac black and red flash light on the floor in the bedroom. I had my father's name painted on it in green paint "Lou Scott". I tried to fix it, but it is not the bulb as far as I can tell. I tried tinkering with it, since it is a simple mechanism, but it would not work. I put it underneath the left side of the side board. I then moved the purple and black Garity lantern from the kitchen night stand at the kitchen entrance to the same location on the left top side of the side board. I put one of the walkman headsets by the Panasonic television by the French reproduction chair, so one can listen with one ear with headphones for quiet listening. For some reason only one side plays in mono. I think I bought the grey frame with the white fence print with the Jim Dine print underneath it over ten years ago and possibly 15 years ago for $10 at the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop.

A 1,000 unsigned impressions were made. I chatted with a friend. I ate dinner. Of course my copy is a bit faded. It was underneath the frame with the white fences print that I bought many years ago, and I had used for Audubon prints. I chatted with a relative. I framed the Jim Dine print in the frame behind the bedroom door with the recent copies of the Antique maps. I left the maps, and the white fence print, and the Innsbruck, Austria travel poster in the frame. I hung it above the electrical box in the living room where the mirror was. I took down the heavy mahogany bureau mirror from the outside of the bedroom door, and I put it glass side down underneath the bedroom bed. Its screws it hung by were coming lose off the bedroom door, since it is a bit heavy. I hung the other mirror in its place with a OOK hook. I put the Northern Pacific print on the back side of the bedroom door with the Buckingham Palace note from beneath. I put the family picture from above the circuit breaker box on top of the Minolta laser printer where the Buckingham Palace note was from. Thus I have some more expensive art in my apartment. Parts of the old maps prints show from above and below the Jim Dale print.

I retrieved the Jim Dine Whitney Museum 1970 poster. It is just a print of a few balloons, and there is another print of a farm yard with white fences along with it. I put them behind the head board of the bed in the bedroom. I went outside again, and I chatted with a neighbor. I walked around the building. I chatted with a relative. I picked up the mail when I went out. I went through the mail. I went back outside, and I chatted with a couple of neighbors. Yesterday, I put the white and the blue piece of coral and the red Christmas jar candle on the top shelf of the small book case in the bathroom. My relative in Kennebunkport, Maine does not use energy saving light bulbs, so I will take the ones in the Audi trunk up to Maine instead of donating them to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop. I will now make and eat the same boneless breasts of chicken and steamed vegetable dinner as the last two nights, but I will have flavored rice instead of potato. I will eat it with a glass of cold filtered water. CIO

Note: <888> 07/05/08 Saturday 5:40 P.M. I woke up at 7 A.M. this morning when a friend called. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I took all of the throw pillows off the bed except the two pink and blue striped ones that match the pink and green quilt, and I put them in the Audi. I also put in the Black and Decker Professional jar opener that my relative did not need. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I donated about 10 of the big throw pillows and bolsters to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop along with the Black and Decker Professional jar opener. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then sat out briefly downtown. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I then went by Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon station, and I filled up the gasoline tank with $18.01 of self service premium for $5.079 a gallon for 3.546 gallons for 44 miles driving since a week ago this past Thursday at odometer reading of 60136 miles for 12.440834 miles per gallon driving in heavy traffic recently with the air conditioner going. I then returned home. I then moved the computer CDs and DVDs and motherboard manuals from the CD rack on the side board shelf in the bedroom, and I put them in the lower two shelf of the small white bookcase at the bedroom entrance. I straightened up some of the bedroom side board shelves discarding some packaging on outdated memory strips, I no longer need. I also threw out the 4 Acer LCD monitor boxes and all of the other computer parts boxes and packaging that I had stored away. I also put two more bags of throw pillows in the Audi trunk to donate to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift and all of my spare regular lights bulbs about 60 of them except two eight packs of GE 100 watt bulbs. It removed the old carpet remnants from underneath the bed, and I threw them away along with the defective Logitech wireless headset base unit, except I kept the their headsets and transformers. I put their two transformers and headsets and the Panasonic telephone headsets and the Plantronics headset in the lower right night stand drawer. I also cleaned out some packaging items from the right night stand and a 64 meg. memory strip. I have spare regular coaxial cables underneath the bed, along with labels and envelopes. I threw out some old hole printer paper. While everything was out from underneath the bed, I vacuumed underneath it. There is also a spare curtain rod underneath the bed. I move the Stowe, Vermont picture from the bookcase on top of the Mahogany bureau in the bedroom to above the Sony television in the bedroom, and I moved the Northern Pacific railroad picture from that location to the same location in the bedroom. It is easier to remove the Northern Pacific picture to get at the old software boxes in the bedroom bookcase that I have to keep for operating system product licensing. I put a spare 3M Command Hook on the left side of the cabinet on the bedroom gigabyte computer, and I hung the new Plantronics headset from it. I threw out two old defective headsets. I chatted with a relative downtown on my wireless phone while I was out. I ate the last of the sugar free Jell-o fruit mixture with a glass of cold filtered water. I cleaned off the bedroom window shelf of some smaller items, and I emptied the silver bowl with lid of its old matches and lighters, and I put the silver bowl on a upper shelf of the left hallway bookcase. I have three CD racks in the bookcase behind the Sony television. I moved a Mississippi wagon print to behind the bed head board in the bedroom. I threw out an old Whitney Museum poster by Jim Dine. I put a new backup 9 volt alkaline battery in the NOAA weather station in the bedroom. CIO

Note: <888> 07/05/08 Saturday 12:55 A.M. It is 32 years ago, I saw Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip Welcome to the official web site of the British Monarchy at Bloomingdale's Department store in Manhattan the day after the tall ships in Manhattan on July 4, 1976. I put the single 33 rpm records on the bottom shelf behind the chair in front the stereo system. I moved the collectors sets of traditional 33 rpm records to beneath the stereo system. I also put the cassette tapes and the video tapes on the same shelf. I rearranged some of the bric a brac around that area too. I also restrung the coaxial cable to the Epox computer TV card, so it does not run across the chair. I moved the Ethan Allen recliner a bit closer to the brass and glass coffee table, so there is easier access to the primary Vista computer work area, so the access in front of the Ethan Allen recliner is a bit smaller. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

Note: <888> 07/04/08 Friday 10:20 P.M. I cleared out all the periodical literature from the bathroom bookcase, and I threw it all out. They way I figure it with the higher price of cutting down trees anymore with the higher prices of energy anymore, recycled paper might be more useful anymore.

My actual electricity bill at www.cl-p.com for the month of June 2008 was $182.57 which is my yearly monthly average, so I figure since May 2008 was $139.10 or $43.47 more for June 2008, the air conditioning and keeping the lights on is not costing me too much more.

The Actual Usage for June 2008 for 29 days was 991 KWH or 34 KWH per day compared to June 2007 which was 755 KWH or 24 KWH per day for 32 days. I guess since I am staying at home more using less gasoline, I am using a bit more electricity instead of driving downtown and walking around at night in the dark. However, as I recall I was up in Kennebunkport, Maine last year for the last two weeks of June 2007, so I was not using as much electricity in the apartment, since I was gone half the month. CIO

Note: <888> 07/04/08 Friday 6:30 P.M. I have been busy. I figure it is better to clean house a little bit when one is younger than when one is older, so I got rid of most of the books that I had accumulated in my apartment over 19.5 years.

<http://mikelouisscott.com/authors.htm>

<http://mikelouisscott.com/titles.htm>

I also got rid of my older 78 and 16 rpm records. I threw them all in the dumpster.

I did keep a half dozen cook books, a few atlases and dictionaries, and the 45 year old Encyclopedia Britannica along with a few random books like the King James bible and a few other books that might be of more value. Most of my books came from the Greenwich Hospital thrift shop over the years for less than a dollar or two, and since I smoked cigarettes in the living room until three years ago, they probably smell of nicotine, so they are not really valuable. Thus if anyone needs some literature, they can dig through the dumpster at 71 Vinci Drive in Byram, Greenwich, Connecticut until the garbage man arrives on Monday, in which case the Greenwich dump will become more literate. I have a bit more shelf space, but there still is some bric a brac and other items that I can get rid of over time. I probably got rid of about 500 books mostly hard covered or about a half ton of books. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 07/04/08 Friday 2:15 P.M. I reported the matter to the Greenwich Fire inspector answering machine at 1-203-622-3950. I received a call back from the Greenwich Housing Authority. I reported the matter to them, and I reported the individual that I suspect is leaving open the fire doors. Their reply was that if they came over and closed it, the individual would just prop it open again. What is curious is that the Greenwich Fire Department and Police department was here three weeks ago for an emergency in the apartment on the second floor next to the fire door, and they did nothing about the two fire doors on the center stairwell being propped open. If on such a minor matter nothing can be fixed, it sort of makes me wander on more complicated matters what the situation really is. The real fire hazard in this building despite the central fire alarm system is that the building was built in 1925 and restored to its present condition 20 years ago, so more than likely the old roof timbers in the hot attic are extremely dried out. Also since we sit on a ridge exposed to lightning, the roof is subject to being hit by lightning, which would cause a fire. Also since we are in the flight path of Westchester airport, we frequently get a lot of low flying jets flying over the building about a 100 feet above the roof frequently in the fog which tends to make me nervous. However, we all have to keep a roof over our heads, and although I have electronics in my apartment, they are all relatively new with the latest safest safety features, I can not say the same for my neighbors. However, when Tom Devlin lived here, he once threw out a 1925 Philco radio which might be considered a fire hazard. In the old days, the biggest fire hazard twenty to thirty years ago was the Sony Trinitron television which stayed on all of the time for instant on and off, and since they were on all of the time, they would deteriorate and become a fire hazard. Since I have not inspected my neighbors' apartment, I am not sure what the condition of their electronics are either. From an over all viewpoint, lightning is the biggest threat to this Public Housing Building for retired people at 71 Vinci Drive. However it has been here since 1925, so it has outlasted a lot of other buildings despite the current viewpoint of the downtown philosophers whom claim to be politicians. CIO

Note: <888> 07/04/08 Friday 1:40 P.M. I woke up at 10 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with two relatives. My relative made it up to Kennebunkport, Maine shortly after midnight this morning. The new 3 foot by 5 foot Marine quality United States flag is now flying on the flag pole in front of my relative's house. I restored the flag pole last summer after it fell down in an ice storm the previous winter. My relative is thinking about having me come up to visit in Kennebunkport, Maine before July 16, 2008, however it is all still up in the air. We will wait until my other relative returns this Sunday to figure out my future plans. I watered the plants. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with a neighbor. The center hallway stairway fire door is once again propped open, so it would seem one of the residents seems to think leaving the doors open for ventilation is more important than fire safety. Obviously the fire inspector is not available today. I called the Greenwich Housing Authority at 1-203-869-1138 to report the matter.

Note: <888> 07/04/08 Friday 12:35 A.M. Happy John Hancock day whomever he was. The package of boneless breasts of chicken contained nine smaller breasts, so I froze three of them, and I have one left cooked and four more to cook in the next few days. I chatted with a relative. My relative should be in Kennebunkport, Maine by now. I threw out the garbage. I noticed in the local neighborhood, I could hear fireworks going off. They are selling them again by the Greenwich dump. I noticed when I came in the automatic door closer on the lower level central stairway fire door was disconnected, so I reconnected it, so the door now closes. I took the block of wood out of the door jam on the upper level of the same stairway door to allow that door to close. Legally the fire doors on the stairway doors have to remain close, since if there were a fire an open stairway door would act as a chimney and ventilate the fire. I checked with the Greenwich Police department, and they gave me the telephone number of the Greenwich Fire Department complaint department at 1-203-622-3959, and they gave me the number of the daytime fire inspector at 1-203-622-3950. I have already complained to the Greenwich Housing Authority about the stairwell fire door being left open continually this year, so hopefully if I am ever up in the daytime, I will get a chance to call the fire inspector about the problem. Alas since recently I have been mostly on a day time schedule, I have not been awake much at night anymore recently. I chatted with the www.geico.com agent in Buffalo, New York who was from East Aurora, New York where George Cary was from before his grandfather disinherited him for fleeing the United States of America to live in Canada to avoid the military draft during the Viet Nam war. Knowing how hot George would have been in Viet Nam, he was probably of more use in Canada supplying horse meat for the military. The GEICO agent reminded me that someone should look into possibly investing in EAST PENN manufacturing co., inc.: Lead-Acid Batteries; Battery Manufacturers; Thousands of Different Types of Batteries, Cable & Wire Product which I think are suppose to make very good cold weather batteries. Maybe I will get my second wind, and I will stay up for a while more, but I am quite tired, and I will now try to go to bed soon and be on a daytime schedule. My relative is going to drive down on Sunday afternoon to return the family car, so I will have to be here to receive him later Sunday afternoon when the car is returned. Sometime there after other relatives will pick up the car, and return back to its home port. The Queen Mary II was in New York on Wednesday, and it will be back in New York on Tuesday after a short voyage to Canada. CIO

Note: <888> 07/03/08 Thursday 8:25 P.M. After the last note, I used the Swivel sweeper to quickly clean the carpets quickly. I had a telephone call from my arriving relative. I went out, and I met my relative at the 7:17 P.M. arriving train from Manhattan. While waiting, I chatted with a Brazilian taxi cab driver. I met my relative. I showed my relative how to get to the Merritt Parkway on North Street. I then returned back to my apartment building, and my relative picked up the family car and departed for Kennebunkport, Maine at 7:35 P.M.. I chatted with my relative in Kennebunkport, Maine to let them know my relative was departing. I walked around the building. I chatted with neighbors. I went back outside briefly to check on something. I will now bake two of the boneless breasts of chicken with baked potatoes and steam broccoli and carrots, and I will eat half with a glass of ice tea. CIO

Note: <888> 07/03/08 Thursday 6:15 P.M. I woke up at 6 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I chatted with a relative. I put four of the charged up Metal Hydride rechargeable batteries in one of the Southwestern bell walkie talkies. I checked with FCC Universal Licensing System (ULS): ULS Home and it is $85 to get a license to use the walkie talkies on the higher frequencies. However, in an emergency if one were out of range, I would imagine it would be all right to use the higher frequency. I went out, and I went by Radio Shack in Cos Cob, and I bought a RadioShack.com - Home Entertainment: Accessories: Video accessories: Adapters, splitters & amplifiers: 2-Way Gold-Plated Bidirectional Splitter for $10.99 and three RadioShack.com - Power & Batteries:

Rechargeable batteries: RadioShack Precharged Rechargeable "AAA" Batteries for $4.97 each two pack and $1.55 tax for $27.45 total. I was told the old Greenwich Food Mart in Cos Cob is being turned into Greenwich's fourth CVS. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then sat downtown for a while. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I chatted with a local, and I was told that the Consignment Shop on Mason Street has a baccarat Crystal chandelier like the one the Baccarat shop on Greenwich Avenue sells. I then went by the Stop and Shop. I met up with a former neighbor from Steamboat Road, and I was told her husband who was a long time waterfront resident in Greenwich had passed away at age 88 this past January 2008. I was very sad to hear it. I guess that is why his boat is no longer at Grass Island. I chatted with another regular night walker. At the Stop and Shop, I bought two four packs of Supersize English muffins for $2.50 each pack, a 59 ounce container of Simply Orange orange juice with calcium for $3, two 13.5 ounce boxes of low fat Cheez-its for $2.50 each, two 5 ounce container's of Nature's Promise wildflower honey for $3.59, two 64 ounce containers of Pomegranate and Cranberry juice for $3.39, two 64 ounce containers of Stop and Shop grape juice for $3.29 each, three 48 ounce containers of Old Fashioned Quaker oats for $4.39 each, three 8 ounce boxes of Wheat thins for $8, and a six pack of boneless breasts of chicken for $1.99 a pound $9.21 for $63.92 total. I then returned home, and I used my folding cart that I brought with me to bring up my groceries and put them away. I put two of the Quaker oats, and three of the Wheat Thins, and a bottle of honey in the family car trunk to go up to Maine. I also put in a bag of Scott's patch grass seed and the container of Miracle Gro Shake and Feed along with the U.S.A. flag. I picked up my mail on the way up, and the order for two Plantronics .Audio 350 Halo 2 Noise Cancelling Stereo PC Gaming Headset - .AUDIO 350 HALO 2 - Buy.com for $10 each with free shipping for $20 total arrived. I put one each on the Northgate Syntax computer and bedroom gigabyte computer. I moved the old headsets underneath the right side of the sideboard in the bedroom. I also installed the gold two splitter on the JVC videotape player out cable in the bedroom with one leading to the Orion television and the other leading to the Gigabyte bedroom computer, so the bedroom television has better reception. I installed four of the Radio Shack metal hydride batteries in the other walker talkie. I put the other spare package in the CD shelf by the Radio Shack battery charge underneath the bedroom Sony television. I chatted with the building custodian. I ate a portion of the sugar free jell-o fruit mixture. I went to my regular 3 P.M. appointment. I returned home. I chatted with a relative. All I know is that my relative who is suppose to pick up the family car has gotten off work in Manhattan, but he has not called to say when he is arriving off the train from Manhattan to pick up the car for the journey up to Kennebunkport, Maine. I think during warm weather holidays in Greenwich, when not too many people are around the downtown shoreline, we get visitors from the North Shore of Long Island sailing over to inspect the town, so we have to keep everything ship shape. I will be traveling to Kennebunkport, Maine July 16 to the 31, 2008. CIO

Note: <888> 07/02/08 Wednesday 6:25 P.M. I went outside after the last note. I chatted with a neighbor. I walked around the building. The tree with the black berries in back on the southwest corner of the building is a boysenberry tree. The order for the two Bellsouth Two-Way Talk Radio - 2276GY - Buy.com for $10 each for $20 total with free shipping arrived. I put four AAA alkaline batteries in each of them. One has to lift up the little lever underneath the clip to remove the clip to access the battery compartment. They have 22 frequencies, but you need an FCC license to use 1-7 and 15-22 which have a five mile range, but for 8-14 which has a two mile range one does not need an FCC license, and the lower frequency uses less battery power. I have six AAA metal hydride batteries, and I am charging up four, and they should be fully charged at 3 A.M. or when I wake up tomorrow. I could get another two and keep rechargeable batteries in the units. One can charge up the rechargeable batteries with the right transformer, which I do not have or need, since I have the Radio Shack battery charger. I left the two way talk radios on the vintage Toshiba laptop computer at the apartment entrance. I went outside, and I chatted with some neighbors. I will now make my sautéed burger with onions and cheese along with steamed flavored rice and steamed baby carrots and broccoli crowns. I chatted with a friend earlier. I have not heard from my relative, so I guess he is going to work tomorrow and pick up the family car tomorrow evening. CIO

Note: <888> 07/02/08 Wednesday 2:50 P.M. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-its. I called up Unclaimed Baggage Center, and they only have seven laptop computers with power supplies. One is a Panasonic tough book for $650, and another is an IBM 17 inch laptop for $350. That is about all I know about them. They can not ship, so if one were interested in them, one would have to show up there. One could fly into the nearby Huntsville, Alabama airport and rent a car to get there. They mentioned Davy Crocket, but I mentioned Jim Bowie. Sam Houston was not at the Alamo, but as I recall Colonel Travis was there, and there is a fourth person that was there that I am suppose to remember. I just found it in my notes, the fourth person was Daniel Boone <http://mikelouisscott.com/10013105.htm>. I chatted with a relative in Texas, and they could not remember. The www.whitehouse.gov could not remember. I chatted with a friend that will call me back. CIO

Note: <888> 07/02/08 Wednesday 1:05 P.M. I woke up at 6:30 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a English muffin with olive oil, orange and grape and cranraspberry juice with vitamins and supplements and coffee with milk and splenda sweetener. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I read last week that over 12,000 laptop computers are lost every week in U.S. airports. This location in Scottsboro, Alabama Unclaimed Baggage Center collects and resells all of the unclaimed airport baggage in the United States, so more than likely they have some laptop computers for sale. When I watched the Creative Channel, they mentioned this site for beads Shipwreck Beads - The World's Largest Selection of Beads!. I showered, and I cleaned up. I chatted with a neighbor. I went downtown, and I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by the Wachovia Bank on Benedict Place, and I paid my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I then walked over to the Town of Greenwich, Connecticut Town Hall, and I paid my property tax of $15.35 from the October 2007 Grand List for 1993 Buick Roadmaster Wagon that I sold last December 2007. They told me I might receive a prorated tax bill on the Audi for this year. Since the Audi is 10 years old, the tax should not be too high. I chatted with a relative, and the relative told me that my other relative might not pick up the family car until tomorrow. I then sat out for a while downtown. I chatted with some locals. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts Center. I noticed while downtown, that the Greenwich Radio Station is now at Mason Street and Lewis street. I am not sure if they still have their building by the Food Emporium or not. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop, and I bought a new 5 foot by 3 foot nylon heavy marine quality U.S.A. flag for $5. When I returned home, I put it in the front seat of the family car to be delivered to the flag pole at the family residence in Kennebunkport, Maine. I chatted with some neighbors. Note: <888> 07/01/08 Tuesday 8:30 P.M. I got up after the last note shortly, and the building custodian needed to have my front door opened, so he could paint it. I chatted with a relative. I surfed the internet. After about an hour after the front door was painted, it was dry, so I closed it. I ate about 1/6th of the sugar free jell-o and fruit mixture. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out. I chatted with neighbors. I went by the Valley Road Post Office, and I mailed a letter. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went downtown, and I went by the Merry-Go-Round mews thrift shop, but it is closed during July and August. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I walked upper Greenwich Avenue. I stopped by CVS. I bought two 6.5 ounce boxes of Kashi trail mix bars, six to a box for $2.50 each box, a 30 ounce jar of Hellmann's real mayonnaise for $3, a 12 double roll bundle of Kleenex cottonelle toilet tissue for $5.99 and for 75% off a 1.8 pound Miracle-Gro Shake'nFeed continuous release all purpose plant food for $1.75 and .46 tax for $16.20 total. I then bought for 75% off a 14 inch diameter artificial vine wreath with green foliage and white flowers and white small berries for $3.25 less $2 bonus bucks that I received on the previous purchase and .08 tax for $1.33 total. I then finished my walk of upper Greenwich Avenue, and I walked back down the Avenue. I put my purchases in the Audi. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts Center. I then walked over to McArdle's, and I bought a 12 inch diameter by about 1.75 inch high plastic terracotta plant tray for $3.99 and .24 tax for $4.23 total. I put the plant tray in the Audi, and I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center, and I chatted with someone about computers. I then went by Zen stationary, and I bought a dollar Double Dough scratch card, but I lost. I then walked lower Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with another local. I then used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I then drove over to the Stop and Shop, and I bought a loaf of Stop and Shop whole wheat bread for $1.50, a 13.5 ounce box of low fat Cheez-its for $2.50, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, a two pound bag of onions for $1.79, green Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $2.12, broccoli crowns at $1.99 a pound for $1.97, and a bulb of garlic for $2.99 a pound for .39 for $13.26 total. I then returned home. I picked up my mail. My rent bill from the Greenwich Housing Authority arrived. I also received a town of Greenwich tax statement on my old Buick Roadmaster wagon that I sold last year, so I will have to talk with them about that. It does not seem they can get their facts straight from the Connecticut DMV. Last week a relative who was the previous owner of my Audi said that the state of Pennsylvania showed that he still owned it. I removed the glass bowl and shallow drip tray from underneath the pathos plant on the window ledge, and I put the plastic drip tray underneath it. I put the shallow drip tray and the glass bowl on on the left side of the window ledge with the vases. I used a OOK hook, and I hung the wreath on the outside of the apartment door. I moved the little USA flag sticker to the door bell sign on the right side of the entrance. I will now make and eat the same chef's salad that I have been eating recently, and I will eat it with a glass of cold filtered water. CIO

Note: <888> 08/31/08 Sunday 11:55 P.M. I went out after the last note. I went by CVS, and I bought a 3M Designer Medium Command hook two pack with four strips for $2.50, a 10 pack of Merrick white coat hangers for $2.50, eight 5.5 ounce tubes of Pringle Sour Cream and Onion potato chips for .88 each tube, a RTH six outlet surge protector 200 joules for $4.99, two Deluxe 75% off red nylon heavy duty folding arm chairs for $3.49 each and $1.02 tax for $25.03 total. I then bought another of the folding nylon chairs for $3.49 and .21 tax for $3.70 total. I then bought for 75% off a Igloo 26 quart plastic red and white picnic chest for $4.99 and .30 tax for $5.29. I put the three folding nylon chairs in the Audi trunk with the other two regular ones, so I now have five folding nylon chairs in the trunk. I then went further down Greenwich Avenue, and I sat out briefly, and I walked lower Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I then returned back to my apartment. I put the Igloo ice chest at the kitchen entrance on the left side on the floor. It might be handy should we ever lose power. I put the surge protector on the right kitchen counter outlet with the Sharp convection oven and Proscan television connected to it. I took the other power strip off, and it is underneath the bedroom side board on the right side. I put the ten plastic hangers in the bedroom closet. I put the 3M hook on the right side board book case shelf. I printed out two copies of my Microsoft Money 2006 August 2008 Income and Spending report, and I have one copy ready to mail to an interested relative. I will now printed out my last four months my notes. CIO

I will then shower and clean up and go out. It is better to get out a bit more in the warmer weather before it starts to get colder. CIO

I made my bed. I started two loads of laundry. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with some neighbors. My relative is going to drop off the family car tomorrow and on Tuesday my other relatives are going to pick it up. I put clean linens on the bed. I made up another batch of passion punch. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I put out one of the folding oak tables, to the left of the small computer desk at the apartment entrance, and I put the HP Photosmart C4280 All Purpose Printer back on it, and I reconnected it. I connected the power cord for the Brother MFC-8840D all purpose laser printer to the lower control panel on the third switch from the left, so it can be easily turned on and off at that switch with out having to reach over and below the small computer desk. I also labeled the control panel switch. I put the telephone books and the 1989 Social Register on the right hallway bookcase. I moved the small DVD player and its power supply from there to on top of the small Panasonic television in front of the French reproduction chair, and I moved the AT&T two line telephone from there to the lower shelf beneath the television. Thus it is all more user friendly. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with neighbors. I picked up my mail. I still feel a little bit lame in my right foot heel arch. I got out the Stanley scraper, so I can scrape off a neighbor's old Connecticut registration sticker and put on the new one. CIO

Note: <888> 08/29/08 Friday 11:20 P.M. I went out after the last note. I went downtown, and I sat out for a while. I chatted with a couple of locals. I found a half pack of Marlboro regulars at the post office plaza. I then went by the Greenwich Train station, and I picked up my relative and the friend. I then brought them back to my apartment to pick up the family car, and they departed. They will drop it off late Monday afternoon or evening for other relatives traveling to pick it up, and it will be gone for the season. I gave the half pack of Marlboros to a neighbor who was out of cigarettes. I then went back downtown wearing my new shoes which are quite comfortable, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I stopped by Zen stationary, and I bought an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I stopped by CVS, and I bought eight 16 ounce containers of Sunsweet dried apricots for $2.50 each for $20 total. I then finished my walk. There were light sprinkles. I then went by the Chase Bank ATM machine on Mason Street. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Exxon station next to the Greenwich Library, and I bought $19 of self service premium gasoline at $4.319 a gallon for 4.400 gallons for 45.9 miles driving since August 19, 2008 with odometer reading of 61028 for 10.4318 miles per gallon driving in heavy local traffic at less than 30 miles per hour with the air conditioner set at 66 degrees Fahrenheit. Well, it seems in the last month gasoline has come down 70 cents a gallon anyway, but my income has not gone up. I chatted with a relative of the station employee from Madrid, Spain about Florida. I then returned home. I put away the apricots. I took the power strip off the wall outlet behind the hallway bookcase, and I connected it to the power strip underneath the telephone tea table to the right of the recliner. Thus there are three outlets there, if one wanted to use laptop computers at the oak dining table, and there is also wireless in the apartment, if you know how to turn it on. There is also an available LAN cable by the power strips. I moved the small lamp from beside the French reproduction chair to above the telephone tea table, so there is a bit of light to read the LCD screen on the 2 line Panasonic corded telephone. I also moved the Panasonic two line cordless 5.8 GHZ telephone from the Northgate Syntax computer table to the telephone tea table. I had earlier moved the small DVD player with its power adapter to the right hallway bookcase. I put the two small back packs in the false ceiling above the bed along with a couple of empty larger thermos jugs, I use to keep for emergency water. I also have the two U.S. Army www.army.mil extreme cold weather to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit sleeping bags stored there, and I will once again put them out on the end of the far end of the sofa this winter with comforters to have available for emergency warmth should we lose our electric heat. I will now make and eat the same dinner as the last two nights. CIO

Note: <888> 08/29/08 Friday 5:40 P.M. I chatted with some neighbors. I chatted with a relative. My relative called, and will arrive at the Greenwich train station at 6:58 P.M.. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with 1/3rd of 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle potato chips and a dill pickle slice with a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with another relative. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go out for a bit of time downtown, before I pick up my relative. CIO

I watched the John McCain speech www.johnmccain.com speech announcing his running mate of a woman governor Palin from Alaska. I chatted with a relative. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk, a toasted English muffin with butter, and a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I did not eat a banana with the oatmeal, since they are not yet ripe enough to peel. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I checked the family car to make sure it starts, when my relative arrives. It only has a fourth of a tank of gasoline, so my relative will have to fill up the tank. I showered, and I cleaned up. I chatted with two friends. I went outside. They have put new sod on the baseball field in the back yard, and it looks to be quite a professional job. As a neighbor says watching the Greenwich, Connecticut RTM on television is like watching grass grow, so they speeded up things around here by using sod. In the old days, when www.princeton.edu was less busy, they use have large sod farms to keep the campus green. CIO

I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 08/29/08 Friday 3:40 A.M. After the last note, I rearrange the apartment a bit. I basically moved the 54 inch diameter oak table out from the living room kitchen wall towards the center of the living room, and I moved the small computer table against the wall. This involved quite a bit of detail that I will not go in. The Brother All Purpose machine is now sitting on the speaker behind the small computer table. The two telephones that were at the apartment entrance are now on a tea table to the right of the of the Northgate Syntax computer. I disconnected for now the HP Photosmart all purpose printer, and I put it on the Visioneer scanner in the bedroom. I set up the table with four place settings and bric-a-brac. I only have the three oak chairs at the table with more room around them, but one could swing the computer swivel chair around for a fourth chair. I put place mats, vases, and candelabras on the table too. However, I also have to eat at it, and keep some of my daily work items on it, so it is not as neat as it could be if one were formal dining. I waxed the table too. I also vacuumed the areas that I moved items around in. There is only one small table at the French reproduction chair now with the telephone on top of the small television. I also threw out two old HP laser cartridges. I also used a plastic cutting board to prop up the lower left LCD monitor on the primary Vista computer, so it is aligned with the other LCD monitors. I propped it up with a steak knife wedged in between the control panels and the IBM Home Director box which was the right size on the CPU with the other side resting on the small computer table. To add paper to the Brother all purpose machine, I would have to pull out the small computer table, and that would also mean moving the lower left LCD monitor, and if I moved the CPU, it would be the same. However, the overall effect in the apartment it much better, and more user friendly. I might have to tweak it some more in the following days. I will now pay my first of the month bills. CIO

Note: <888> 08/28/08 Thursday 9:30 P.M. I woke up during the early morning, and I ate 13 dried apricots. I then finally got up at 11 A.M. this morning, when I had a computer magazine telephone call. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, and a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes.

I showered, and I cleaned up. I went to my usual Thursday 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop. I bought a black iron grill stand about 4 inches high with 7 square inch grill rack for $2 and a 14 inch diameter stainless steel Italian made pizza plate with a four inch high stainless steel stand for $5 for $7 total. Both of which could be used in the Sharp Convection Microwave oven. I then went downtown, and I walked upper Greenwich Avenue first. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store, and they have my same Sharp Convection Microwave oven for $475 plus 6% Connecticut sales tax which matches the cheapest price on the internet. I bought a Weber Charcoal Grate for a 18.5 inch Weber grill which is actually about 14 inches in diameter for $7.99 and .48 tax for $8.47 total. It can be use with the other stands or put on a Pyrex pie plate to have a higher elevated baking surface in the Sharp Convection Microwave Oven for more even convection baking. They have a larger stoneware round pizza pan there for $20. I then went by the Complete Kitchen Gourmet cookware shop, but they did not have anything I needed. I then finished my walk of upper Greenwich Avenue, and I stopped by briefly at CVS. I then put my purchases in the Audi. They were in the process of removing the flamingo statues from in front of the Senior and the Arts center. They were done by a Greek sculpture Kasacopolis. I then walked lower Greenwich Avenue, and I chatted with a husband while his wife shopped. I walked around the train station area, and then I sat out for a while at the Senior and the Arts Center. I used the bathroom there. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and they have square baking trays on sale, but no round ones. I then went by the A&P Fresh, but they did not have any round baking trays, just aluminum ones. I bought a quart of California strawberries for $2.50. They also have California Honeydew Melons on sale there. I then returned home. I took the two large aluminum pots off the top of the Sharp convection oven, and I put them underneath the smoker's chair in the kitchen. I put the two different round rack assemblies on top of the Sharp Convection Microwave oven. I then emptied about 8 Tropicana 59 ounce orange juice containers with spare water, and I threw out the containers, which I had to do to make room for the large pots underneath the chair. I chatted with a relative. I will now reheat the chicken from last night, and I will steamed the same vegetables and serve them the same way. I will also drink some watered down passion punch. I brought up my mail, when I came in. A relative and a friend are going to pick up the other family car tomorrow, and I will pick them up around 6 P.M. at the Greenwich Train station coming from Manhattan. CIO

They had a Sharp convection microwave oven | R-930CS manufactured in December 1999 with the back side of the built in trim kit Sharp: Built-in Trim Kit - 27" Cutout: Stainless Steel without the front part, and without the two round wire racks but with the turntable in very good very clean condition for $65. I went over the Greenwich Library, and I research it, and it the unit still sells for around $500 Amazon.com: Sharp R-930CS 1-1/2-Cubic-Foot 900-Watt Convection Microwave, Stainless: Kitchen & Dining and with the full trim kit $641 Amazon.com: Sharp Built-in trim kit - Model RK93S27 Microwave Accessories: Kitchen & Dining. I returned to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop, and I bought it for $65. One of the staff members helped me load it into the trunk of the Audi. I then returned home, and I used the cart that I keep in the rear of the Audi to bring it up. I took the Farberware Convection oven off the refrigerator, and I cleaned the top of the refrigerator, and the top of the Farberware Convection oven. I moved the aluminum foil rolls from on top of the refrigerator to the left of the Proscan television in the kitchen. I moved the four thermos containers to the left living room closet. I put the Farberware Convection oven on top of the GE microwave oven on the bookcase pantry with the plastic shelves on top of that with the microwave ware and other items. I moved the hanging onion and garlic holder basket further towards the stove, so the Farberware door has room to open. I put the Sharp Convection Microwave Oven on top of the refrigerator, and I plugged it into the power strip behind the Proscan television. It seems to work fine, but I did not test it, but its panel lighted up. I put the Sharp speaker on top of its rear ventilation hood top and the large aluminum pots. They do not get hot since ventilation hood sits a couple of inches off the microwave oven. I then straightened up the small items I moved around. I printed out the manual http://www.sharppusa.com/files/mic\_man\_R930CS.pdf, and I bound it in a clamp binder, and I left it on the Toshiba laptop for now. I went downtown, and I walked then entire length of Greenwich Avenue including the far end of the south side of the train station and the lower parking lot. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I stopped by CVS. I went by the Chase Bank ATM machine on Mason street. I walked over to Whole Foods, and I bought a Costa Rican pineapple for $2.99. I walked back to Greenwich Avenue. I chatted with a couple of the Mechanics at the Lexus Dealership Lexus of Greenwich, Connecticut and Westchester New York's Premier Lexus Dealership for New and Used Lexus Cars garage which is opened 24/7 all of the time. I then tried to use the bathroom at Starbucks which was busy. I then went by the ATM machine at the Chase Bank on Mason Street again. I then went by the A&P Fresh, and I used the bathroom, and I bought a package of four large boneless breasts of chicken for $1.99 a pound for $8.28 and fresh green Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $1.76 for $10.04. I chatted with a local Scottish resident. I then returned home. For dinner, I used the Sharp Convection Microwave oven, and I

cooked two of the boneless breasts of chicken breaded the way that I do on Convection Cycle in a round Pyrex dish at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 35 minutes, and they came out just perfect. The round Pyrex dish does not sit flat on the round moving tray, so it might spin, so I put it slightly off center. I ate one, and I refrigerated one in a Rubbermaid container. For the last 15 minutes, and I also steamed two 2 inch Russet potatoes cuts into eights, and cauliflower pieces and baby carrots, which I put butter, olive oil, Italian seasoning, and grated parmesan and Romano cheese on. I ate it all with a glass of watered down passion punch. The two different Sharp racks are here at the bottom of this page Official Sharp Accessories | Genuine Sharp Supplies | Brackets | Cables | Electronics Accessories | Shop Sharp Direct , but at $42.50 each, I won't be buying them. Note: <888> 08/26/08 Tuesday 8:00 P.M. I ate a Jones' 7 ounce precooked ham steak fried over medium high to medium electric burner heat for about 4 minutes a side seasoned with Italian seasoning and fried in butter and olive oil, and I turned it repeatedly. I put some Dijon mustard on it. I also steamed on a steamer tray in a pot with lid and an .75 inches of water for 15 minutes two small Russet potatoes cuts into eights with baby carrots and broccoli crowns and cauliflower, about two cups worth, which I put in a bowl with butter and olive oil and Italian seasoning and parmesan and Romano grated cheese, and it ate it with a glass of watered down passion punch. Note: <888> 08/26/08 Tuesday 6:45 P.M. I finished installing the XP Home updates on the Toshiba laptop, and without the CA security suite it runs a bit faster. I am using the XP firewall on it. I chatted with a relative three times. While doing that, I took out HP Photosmart C4280 all purpose printer black ink cartridge that was not working, and I put it upside down on a paper towel on a dish, and I poured a little bit of Ronsol lighter fluid on its print head, and I let it sit for 10 minutes, and then I did it again for another 10 minutes. I dried the outside of the cartridge with a tissue not touch the electrical contact or print head. I then reinstalled it, and it now works just fine. I ran the alignment cycle and the print head cleaning cycle. I now have it available for color photo printing, which is its primary purpose.

I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, and a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I filled out the $20 rebate information on the computer memory I received yesterday, and I have it ready to mail. I ran a test print out on the Epson Stylus Color 800 printer, and it still works fine. However, the black ink cartridge does not work on the HP Photosmart C4280 all purpose printer. I ran a couple of cleaning and priming cycles to no avail. I chatted with a Staples in Old Greenwich, where I bought it the first week of May 2008, and they told me, it only comes with starter cartridges that are nearly empty. I chatted with HP, and they told me the cartridges that come with it are 80% full, and the black ink cartridge probably dried out, and I should replace it. I have two new starter cartridges in the similar unit, I just purchased, but since I never use it, there is no point in installing the cartridges, until I need to use it. I might need to use it to print out my Christmas letters before Christmas time. I will now fill out the form from the Greenwich Department of Social Services for my Holiday food vouchers. CIO

I recall, Michael the baker was also from Key West, and he later became the bartender at the Languedoc in Nantucket and the Fogarty House in Key West, and then the two chefs were from Panama. Well, it was warm by the cast iron storm in the kitchen, when your blood is thinned out. With all of the skinny young boys skateboarding downtown, there have apparently been some injuries this summer Skateboarders turned off by skatepark's fees, rules - Greenwich Time.

Alas, I was never agile enough to skateboard, and I have spent most of my life walking around for exercise. If you want to explore areas where skateboards do not work so well, it helps if you can walk.

One relative recently walked up and down Mount Washington for a little bit of exercise, which I do not think I would be up to doing.

If you lived in Florence, Italy, you could try walking up and down the steps of Duomo, which I only did once.

I noticed one person downtown that I know has lost about 50 pounds, and I noticed a lot of other people have lost weight, so I guess people are eating less and getting more exercise. The easiest way I know to lose weight is to try living in Key West, Florida for about six months in the winter, and eat a six inch long piece of Cuban bread for breakfast, and a yogurt and orange juice for lunch, and a plate of beans and rice or peanut butter sandwich for dinner if you are lucky, and walk around all of the time, and like me back in 1976 to 1978, I went from about 185 pounds in Greenville, South Carolina to 125 pounds, when I left Key West, Florida both in the spring of 1977 and 1978, but I was also darkly tanned, so when I returned up north, they thought I was a Puerto Rican, but I did not know Spanish. Here is what I looked like when I was heavier at 155 pounds back in October 1983 at age 33, when I left Nantucket, but I was not in the sun that much after I left Florida in 1978 <http://mikelouisscott.com/mike-scott-kennebunkport-maine-august-1983.jpg> . Note: <888> 08/24/08 Sunday 11:25 P.M. If any public individuals from overseas have any complaints, they are suppose to take it up with their respective consulates and embassies. Since my family has lived here for close to 400 years, I tend to go along with the status quo versus the talking head status quo. From what little I know about geo politics, in the old days of the cold war with Russia when it was a much larger country, the United States of America had about 5,000 thermonuclear missiles, and Russia was suppose to have around 60,000. Whether any of them work after all of these years, is opened to question, and more than likely there are more advanced weapon systems that the general public does not know about. I do know from one recent B.B.C. news story on the poisoning of a Russian spy in England, that Russian claimed they were not involved, since if they had done it, they had poisons that can not be detected. It sort of makes one think that they might have the upper hand with all of the foreign operatives around here.

I then took the last third of a head of Foxy iceberg lettuce that I bought about two weeks ago, and it was still fresh since I had it in the refrigerator in its original wrapping, and I peeled off the rest of its leaves, and I ripped them into two to three inch pieces, and I added them to the salad bowl. I then added about a half cup of broccoli crowns with stalks cuts into quart inch chunks. I then added 15 baby carrots that I cut lengthwise in quarters. I then added one medium peeled and diced yellow onion. I then added two Kosher dill pickles that I cut into quarter inch chunks. I then opened up a 3.75 ounce tin of Beach Cliff sardines, and I added the oil to the mixture, and I cut the sardines into half inch chunks, and I added them into the mixture. I then took four slices of Kraft processed American cheese, and I cut them into 1 inch by .25 inch slices, and I added them. I put three strips of bacon on two paper towels on a microwave proof plate with a paper towel on top and a microwave lid on top of the plate, and I microwaved the bacon for 4.5 minutes. I then crumbled the bacon on the salad. I toasted an English muffin well done, and I cut it into half inch cubes, and I added it for croutons. I then added about a third of a cup of grated parmesan and Romano cheese. I then added a half teaspoon of Maggi seasoning, and some Italian spice seasoning, about eight tablespoons of Tunisian extra virgin olive oil, four tablespoons of Italian balsamic vinegar and about a few ounces of Kraft Balsamic salad dressing, and I mixed it all together with Canadian Goose salad fork and spoon, until it was thoroughly mixed. I then put 40% on a dinner plate, and I put the other 60% in a large Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator. I ate tonight's portion with a glass of 1/4th passion punch and 3/4ths cold filtered water. I chatted with a relative. The emergency pull cord alarm went off for the second time in two nights. I do know that one does not get a job from being involved in politics, unless one has a lot of influence and money. I also know if one wants a job in the Federal government, it is easier to take the Civil Service Exam and to apply for a government job. Since this area tends to be mostly private business, there are not many federal government jobs in this area. However, I do know about some people whom have had government jobs, and after they retire, they tend to move back to their home areas. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, passion punch, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I chatted with a friend. I threw out the garbage. I found a black umbrella in the dumpster that I put in the rear window of the Audi. I saw the building custodian arriving early. I will now do some regular internet work. Although I really need more exercise walks with the higher prices of fuel it is expensive to go downtown regularly for a walk, and since I have invested in a first class office at home, I feel I should try to make the best use of it. I used to have a large extensive network of republican friends around the country, but living around so many liberal democrats, I have lost touch with most of them, and since the liberal republican group of Rockefellers seem to control this area, they have chosen not to invest in my more conservative republican activities over the years. Thus most of the people I have networked with while living here have similar experiences to myself from living elsewhere in the world and the country and quite a few of them are veterans that do not tell anyone too much, since Connecticut still is a primary defense contracting state, once you quit reading the local press that only sells real estate for those that can afford it in this area. Note: <888> 08/19/08 Tuesday 10:15 A.M. The GE air conditioner repair man came shortly after the last note. He checked out the unit, and he said it was just fine. All they could do in the future is take it out for two weeks and clean the coils in Long Island, but I also could do that myself if I left it off and let it return to room temperature and clean it with my one gallon steamer. However, it is a sealed unit, so one can not add Freon. Also it is cooling properly, and if it is not putting out enough temperature, he suggested turning down the temperature on it, which I did. He said at this time of year, there is no point taking it out for two weeks for cleaning, since I will need it. I put the items on the window shelf back in their usual position. I cleaned the window shelf first. I move the vintage wooden tool box to the far right of the window shelf, so it is not as conspicuous, and I moved the pathos plant to the center of the window shelf, so it is better seen. Thus it also looks better. I set the air conditioner on medium fan speed at 66 degrees Fahrenheit, and it is currently 72 degrees Fahrenheit in the apartment. I also have both tower fans going to blow the cool air around the apartment. I chatted with a relative. When the GE air conditioner maintenance contract expires on September 16, 2008, my relative told me not to renew it, and if the unit ever fails after eight years so far, we will just buy a new one. Of course that probably means I will have to install it myself and remove the old one, which was part of the reason for having the maintenance contract, so I would not ever have to do that which is quite tedious and difficult and they weigh a lot. I will now go through my email. CIO

Note: <888> 08/19/08 Tuesday 8:15 A.M. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage. I chatted with some neighbors. I received a call from GE Service that they are on their way. I moved some of the chairs out of the way, so there is more room to access the air conditioner. CIO

Note: <888> 08/19/08 Tuesday 7:20 A.M. I went outside briefly. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips along with some diluted passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 08/19/08 Tuesday 6:10 A.M. I did a Vista Complete PC backup of the first hard drive to the second hard drive after the last note. I went to bed about 2 P.M.. I had a call from the GE reminding my of the air conditioning service appointment between 8 A.M. and noon this morning. I woke up at 1 A.M.. I watched the local weather from Key West, Florida at www.liveduvalstreet.com . It does not seem to be too bad down there. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, passion punch, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I removed the items from the living room window shelf around the air conditioner, so it can be more easily serviced. It removes from its case by removing the front cover, and then removing the two retaining screws on the lower front on each side, and it slides out of its case, so it can be serviced. Besides not being cold enough the front moving louvers have not moved for five years, so I have used a tower fan to blow the cool air around the living room. I also put a sheet over the living room sofa, so it will not get dirty when working on the air conditioner. If the unit case had to be removed, one would have to remove the insulation hand towels from in between the two halves of the window upper and lower and then remove the Plexiglas from the left side of the opening of the window, and the Plexiglas is held in by duct tape, and then removed insulation hand towels from the right side and open the window further. Also would have to remove the styrofoam insulation from around the unit which is held in by duct tape. Then the case could be lifted out with its wall leg supports or possibly disassembled from the roof outside. It is GE's option to replace the unit or not. I do not know if the replacement unit would fit in the same case or not. I then showered, and I cleaned up. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street, and I used the ATM machine. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. At the top of Greenwich Avenue, I walked east as far as the Y.M.C.A. and back browsing the shops on both sides of East Putnam Avenue. It looks like the new Y.M.C.A. pool might be opened for early morning swimming for its members. I then finished my walk, and I returned back to my apartment after my walk. I do not drive down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road anymore, because it costs me an extra dollar round trip from the center of Greenwich Avenue. Each round trip downtown to the Senior and the Arts center from Byram costs me about $2.50 round trip. The Queen Mary II is back in Manhattan today QM2 - Itinerary - 2008, so maybe we will have some British tourists around. I also have a 3 P.M. appointment this afternoon. CIO

I checked out the bedroom generic computer testing its CD and Hard drives with various cables and alternative drives, and I determined the motherboard controller had failed, so it is no good. Note: <888> 08/18/08 Monday 3:20 A.M. Although the generic system seems to work. When I ran the low level format and ran the MaxBlast test, it indicated there might be a read problem on the 20 gigabyte Maxtor hard drive, and the system just crashed installing the last of the updates, which I am now installing again. The hard drive could be replaced, but if it were the motherboard hard drive controller, the system would not be useable, so for now until I troubleshoot the system more, I will not order the extra memory which at the moment I can not really afford. Also in installing the 10 gigabyte hard drive, it is adjacent to the 20 gigabyte hard drive, so there might not be enough cooling for the hard drives, but I could mount the 10 gigabyte hard drive in a 5.25 inch bay for better cooling. CIO

I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I had an extra copy of XP Professional, so I was able to install it on the generic computer in the bedroom. I am now installing the updates. I will then configure it. I can not use the case with a more advanced motherboard, since the case does not have room for case fans that I would need for cooling. The current generic system uses the power supply fan and the two CPU fans. I threw out the garbage. I went outside, and I chatted with a neighbor. I then picked up my mail. I then went to bed until 10:30 P.M.. I watched part of the Greenwich RTM meeting of August 14, 2008 debating on how to install a stop sign and cross walk at Shore Road and Sound Beach Avenue in Old Greenwich. Apparently there is a problem there with morning commuters from Stamford, Connecticut driving too fast to the Old Greenwich train station in excess of 45 miles per hour. They apparently do not have sidewalks yet at that location. Since the primary Vista computer still occasionally crashes, I had thought it might be hackers, but I now think it is the Nvidia drivers for my two GeForce 6200 AGP and PCI video cards <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . I got a solution message to install the older drivers 96.85 Nvidia Answer which I did which will hopefully solve the problem with my two video cards and four LCD monitor setup. I will now eat a bowl of the pineapple fruit mixture with a diluted glass of passion punch. It is the nature of eating pineapples or pineapple juice since they tend to grow on volcanic soil which is rich in sulphur that pineapple can give one a lot of intestinal gas that smells like sulphur, but it is the same with the white sulphur in the MSM that I take for my arthritis. I was not planning to be in mixed company anytime soon. CIO

Note: <888> 08/16/08 Saturday 4:15 P.M. The way I figure it with the hurricane season starting, it is going to get warmer up here. The GE air conditioner has not been putting out too much cold air this summer, and the apartment has been around 78 degrees Fahrenheit most of the time in the apartment. I paid $600 for the GE Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control at Partridge and Rockwell eight years ago, and I have since spent close to $800 or more on service contracts since then, so I have over $1,400 invested in the current unit. I called up GE Service at 1-800-626-2224, and I schedule a repair service on Tuesday August 19, 2008 between 8 A.M. and noon. They told me under the service contract they either repair the unit, and at their discretion, they can also replace it with a new one at no extra charge. Thus it is worth maintaining the service contract that I currently have, since they pay to replace the unit, if it is needed. Also the front moving louvers have not worked in five years or more. CIO

Note: <888> 08/16/08 Saturday 3:30 P.M. I picked up my mail, and I sat outside briefly. I received the new air conditioning contract from Consumer Login GE Service Protection Plus - GE Appliances for my GE Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control. My current contract expires September 15, 2008, and to renew it would cost $115.49 for a year, but I will not be renewing it, since when I checked with Partridge and Rockwell, where I bought it eight years ago, they told me that GE can condemn the unit if there is anything wrong with it that is major, and thus I would not get it repaired under the existing service contract. One can buy a similar size unit at www.homedepot.com today for about $359, so it is not really worth paying the expensive maintenance contract. However, one would have to remove the old unit which weighs close to a hundred pounds and transport and install a new unit. I don't think a new unit if when needed would fit into the trunk of my Audi sedan. I put the GE service contract offer in the small bureau drawer at the kitchen entrance with my current contract. I will put it on the Northgate Syntax computer, so I can remove the LAN card, and then I will be able to install the Hauppauge TV card in it again. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, passion punch, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I brought up a 2006 GE microwave oven that I found by the dumpster, and I tested it, but it does not work. I guess the newer GE products are not as good as the older ones. My 8 year old GE microwave oven works just fine. I put it back out by the dumpster. I chatted with a relative. I guess on the hurricane situation down south, Hurricane Fay will lose strength over Cuba, but it will pick up more strength once it reaches the Florida straits and the Gulf of Mexico. Thus with the higher prices of fuel, people probably will not be able to evacuate as easily, so I guess they will have to stay home and ride it out. The green bags The Official Site of Debbie Meyer Green Bags that I have been using on my bananas work just fine. I should try using them on some of the other produce in the refrigerator too. ### Tropical Storm FAY 5 Day Tracking CIO

Note: <888> 08/16/08 Saturday 4:05 A.M. I watched some more television. Well not much seems to be happening on this the quiet side of the planet. I guess with the higher prices of fuel around here, there is not much late night and early morning activity anymore. I suppose not many people venture into Manhattan anymore for any sort of weekend activity. There more than likely are still plenty of people around here trying to figure out how they will keep their homes warm this winter with the lack of fuel. I have been told that the Greenwich schools go back into session this coming week which is earlier than usual, so maybe they are expecting more snow days this winter. I have made up my mind to stick with my computer activity for now, since that is what I know how to do best. I am totally oblivious to the National political scene, and from what I can tell no matter whom gets elected the over situation in the country will probably not improve very much. Writers are not paid very much, so there is always something for people to read about or for the talking heads on television to talk about. As far as the overall general economic situation, we are now more prisoners of our environment with out very much happening. Since this area has a lot of people in the communications and finance and transportation industries with the many service industries revolving around those activities with the decrease of activity in this area, there is less for a lot of people to keep busy with. One can always start using the internet to think of ways to get better prepared for winter such as that one might still get free shipping LL Bean Coupons, LLBean.com Coupon Codes - DealCatcher , and one might consider ordering L.L.Bean: Search Results Union Suits or even two, if you plan to be around this winter with minimal heating available. Of course if and when it gets colder here, we will get a few people venturing out of the north land heading south, and possibly some people from the north country might show up around here if they can afford it to escape the colder conditions to the north of us. More than likely since we never hear anything out of Canada, the Canadians whom are use to colder weather might be doing better overall with more energy, but from what I can tell, there do not seem to many Canadians showing up in past winters, since when they leave Canada, they would rather show up in warmer places to the south of us. Of course it is still warm around here, and I am still using the air conditioner to stay cool on the warmer days. Downtown at night, it is mostly a few youngsters hanging out, but on weekends there still are a few people whom seem to be able to afford to go out to dinner which generates a little bit of activity downtown. Of course with the Welcome to Greenwich Library , one can always stay home and read a book to escape into some new adventure.

Note: <888> 08/16/08 Saturday 2:35 A.M. I woke up at 11:30 P.M.. I watched a Gary Cooper and Ritz Hayworth movie about Mexico on the Turner Movie channel. While doing that I took a 16 ounce box of linguine, and I filled a 5 quart Revere pot 60% full of water, and I added a teaspoon of olive oil and a dash of salt, and I brought it to a boil. I cooked the linguine 9 minutes, and I drained it in a colander, and I put have in a Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator, and I put half on a dinner plate. While doing that I took a 26 ounce jar of Barilla roasted garlic tomato sauce, and I put in in a pot, and I brought it to a simmer over medium high electric burner heat, and I added three peeled and minced cloves of garlic and a peeled and diced medium onion, and I seasoned it with garlic powder, Italian seasoning, ground black pepper, a tablespoon of olive oil and a half teaspoon of Maggi seasoning. I also took a 16 ounce bag of frozen cooked shrimp, and I rinsed the ingredients in a colander under cold water, and I added them for the last five minutes of the tomato sauce cooking altogether about 15 minutes. I then put half the tomato sauce mixture on the linguine on the dinner plate and half in a Rubbermaid container, and I seasoned the portion I was to eat for dinner with grated parmesan and Romano sauce, and I ate it all with a glass of 20% passion punch and 80% cold filtered water. After the movie, I threw out the garbage with the shrimp tails, so the apartment would not smell. It seems to be a full moon out tonight. CIO

Note: <888> 08/15/08 Friday 12:20 A.M. As far as I know the only activity the Duke of Windsor ever did in Greenwich, Connecticut was on a visit as the Prince of Wales back around 1926, he dedicated a statue at the Electrolux Welcome to Electrolux USA vacuum cleaner factory in old Greenwich, Connecticut. Electrolux was owned by a Swedish friend of his, and that friend use to lend the Duke of Windsor his yacht the Southern Cross to travel back and forth to Europe on. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. The local expert on the Duke of Windsor that I used to chat with was Wilbur Banks, the Electrolux vacuum cleaner salesman in Greenwich for many years, and Wilbur was also in the Duke of Windsor's honor guard in Newport, Rhode Island during World War II. CIO

Note: <888> 08/14/08 Thursday 11:55 P.M. I ate a bowl of low fat Cheez-its. It seems rather confusing that if the Norwegians have 680 billion dollars from North Sea Oil revenues that the Scottish whom are equal partners in the North Sea Oil fields should have that much money too. However, from what I can tell, the Scottish do not seem to have any money, so they must have invested 680 billion dollars into Scotch whisky to ward off the cold damp weather up there north of Hadrian's Wall - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia . I have read that when Wallis Simpson Windsor Wallis, Duchess of Windsor - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia passed away, the Duke of Windsor's Edward VIII of the United Kingdom - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia entire fortune of 2.5 million dollars was left to the Pasteur Institute in France Institut Pasteur - Internet . However, I have also read that when Edward VIII took off traveling, he also took all the British Royal's family money along with the Royal Court. Since after he left England he lived with the King of Belgium Leopold III of Belgium - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia and also the Rothschilds Rothschild family - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia in Vienna, Austria, he must have had access to other funds outside of England in terms of Colonial or Commonwealth assets. More than likely as a private citizen he did not feel like paying taxes, so he might have kept reserve funds in off shore tax hideaways. Whatever, the real story, I only recall seeing him once in January 1973 entering the Waldorf Towers The Waldorf Towers where I viewed him from St. Bart's ST. BART'S WELCOMES YOU church on the north side of the towers entrance. Since he supposedly had passed away in June 1972 BBC ON THIS DAY | 5 | 1972: Duke of Windsor laid to rest, he must have retired into private life somewhere here he was not bothered by the press or more influential British government officials. It is only a guess, but possibly there is more to the story than meets the eye. Possibly since he was also governor of the Bahamas in World War II, he might have had some sort of assets down there that the rest of his family forgot about. I do know one of his friends down there whom was murdered owned the largest gold mine in Canada. CIO

Note: <888> 08/14/08 Thursday 2:10 A.M. After the last note, I ran some of utilities, and I ran disk cleaner on the C: drive to clean up the unneeded files. I then did a Vista Complete PC backup from the first hard drive to the second. I ate a bowl of the pineapple strawberry mixture. I went to bed about 11:30 A.M.. I woke up at 5 P.M. I move my Audi to one of its usual places. I picked up the mail. I said hello to a neighbor. One of the two post cards to an acquaintance in California came back as an unknown address. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, passion punch, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I moved the Audi to its regular place. I took the old flight bags and travel bags off the wire rack behind the apartment entrance door, and I stored them away. I put the six New York Coffee travel mugs in the same wire rack. I moved the 2 foot by 4 foot throw rug from the apartment entry area to underneath the computer chair. I move the lighter throw rug from the bathroom to the apartment entry area. I took down the British Union Jack, the Swedish flag, and the Netherlands flags from in front of the living room windows. I moved the small flags to the hallway bookcases, so there are no longer any flags in the living room. The curtains look better without the flags. I moved around some of the smaller bric a brac. I took down the Cross Bow from above Granddad Boven's portrait, and I moved it to on top of the left bookcase in the hallway. I worried about it falling down on my computer equipment. I chatted with a relative. I defragmented the C: drive on the primary Vista computer from 5 P.M. to 1:30 A.M., when I quit defragmenting it. I watched some television through out the evening including part of the Maltese Falcon. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with a dill pickle slice and 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a glass of 25% passion punch and 75% cold filtered water. I will now go through my email. Happy Birthday to a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 08/13/08 Wednesday 9:50 A.M. I went outside, and I chatted with a neighbor. I noticed they have a summer work crew of youths cleaning the over growth along the east end of the baseball field out back. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I have been walking regularly on Greenwich Avenue in various patterns for 25 years, since I returned to Greenwich, Connecticut from Nantucket, where I also walked a lot more, and when I lived in Manhattan for various times up until 1982, I also walked quite a lot frequently over 20 miles a day, and I also use to jog long distances in Nantucket, and I also use to walk all of the time when I was down in the Florida Keys, and as I youth I used to walk a lot when I played a lot of golf, so obviously I have done more than my fair share of walking in my life, not to mention in other jobs like dish washing and pot scrubbing in Nantucket for about eight years and various other construction and maintenance jobs, I was frequently on my feet. Also with my arthritis, I tend not to walk as much on damp and rainy days, but living around the ocean up north that is pretty much the status quo in the colder weather, so I have done more than my fair share of cold and damp weather walking too. Since I am better equipped for my walking routines, I find it easier, but obviously over all of these years at age 58, I have gotten older, and obviously as I get older, I will probably show more physical wear and tare from all of the years of walking. CIO

Note: <888> 08/13/08 Wednesday 8:55 A.M. I have two old bathroom scales, and I currently weigh between 212 and 217 pounds depending on which scale I use. I have not been eating more, but with the higher price of fuel, I have not been going downtown as much to walk regularly like I use to. I still walk quite a bit however. I have been trying to walk for longer periods in hopes of losing more weight. Last night, I parked at the Board of Education, and I walked down Greenwich Avenue on the East Side of the street. I then walked west on Railroad Avenue on the North Side of the Street to Arch Street. I then crossed south to the West Bound railroad steps, and I walked up the steps to the railroad platform, and then I walked up the steps of the cross over bridge and down again, and I walked over to the south side of the office and down the four flights of steps into the parking garage and then back out on Steamboat Road. I walked up the West side of Greenwich Avenue and crossed over to the senior center, where I took a break. I then walked up the East Side of Greenwich Avenue and East on Putnam Avenue on the south side of the street as far as Whole Foods and then back on the same side to Greenwich Avenue and down Greenwich on the west side of the street to the Veterans Monument across from the Senior Center, which is a longer walk than I normally take. With the steps around the Greenwich train station, it is also a bit more exercise. I also might have a blood blister underneath the toe nail on my big toe on my left foot, but I can not tell whether it is or not. I could also try walking from where I live in Byram downtown and back which I have done before, but usually when I go downtown, I am doing errands, so the car is useful. I figure since I have a car, and since I pay a lot to insure it despite the higher prices of fuel, I should use it for the local driving in this area. Also when the weather is worse, it is more convenient. CIO

Note: <888> 08/13/08 Wednesday 8:25 A.M. Happy Birthday to a couple of friends. I chatted with the friend. I installed them on the XP partition on the Epox computer, and I am in the process of installing them on the Vista partition on the Epox computer. I installed the Vista updates on the Northgate Syntax computer. I am in the process of installing the XP updates on the Bedroom Gigabyte computer. I saw two people fixing a flat tire on an Audi similar to mine. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I stopped by CVS again briefly. I used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I walked over to Whole Foods, and I bought another fresh pineapple from Costa Rica for $2.99. I finished my walk. I chatted with another regular Greenwich Avenue person that had a heart attack at Tod's Point recently, and he had angioplasty at Yale New Haven hospital, and he is back out again in public. I recommended that he take it easy. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a loaf of Arnold 7 grain bread for $2.99. I then returned home. I chatted with the building custodian whom was here late. I put away my purchases. I ordered from www.kodakgallery.com nine 5 inch by 7 inch enlargement photographs for .79 each plus $2.07 shipping and tax for $9.18 total. I will now eat the remaining salad that I made last night with a glass of 20% passion punch and 80% cold filtered water. I will then peel and slice and cube one of the pineapples, and I will add the quart of strawberries that I will slice into quarters lengthwise, and I will add about a teaspoon of Angostura bitters and about a cup of passion punch, and I will mix it all together, and I will refrigerate the fruit mixture in a large Rubbermaid container. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 5 ounce bottle of Gold Emblem chicken bouillon powder for .88. I was told by the Starbucks regulars that one of the Starbucks regulars with the small white Maltese dog had died last week. I then walked lower Greenwich Avenue, and then I returned home, and I ate the remaining salad from last night and the last piece of blue berry pie with a glass of 80% cold filtered water with 20% passion punch. I ate a baloney and cheese sandwich with 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice with a glass 20% orange juice and 80% fresh filtered cold water. I put this flag CIA - The World Factbook -- Flag of United States on my two homepages, so it is more conspicuous, not that many people ever look at my web sites, because they are not trendy. I put the large U.S.A. flag up in the hallway over the right bookcase with the British Union Jack over that and the even larger Scottish flag of St. Andrews over that. Over the left hallway bookcase, I put the smaller United States Air Force flag, the Bermuda flag, and then over those the Saudi Arabian flag. I had the hallway bookcase flags down while I was reorganizing the apartment. I constantly change my apartment with the seasons, so one never knows what might happen next, but most of the effort and costs seem to go into the apartment's computers. I also put the U.S.A. flag on my two Tropical Weather pages at:

<http://mikelouisscott.com/weather.htm>

<http://geocities.com/mikelscott/weather.htm> .

It is my viewpoint on the global weather with Global Warming, the Artic Ocean is suppose to be clear of ice this September, so possibly the northern Asian current is coming through the Artic from the East Coast of Asia and down the Western Coast of Europe and Africa and back up the Eastern Coasts of the Americas making it cooler along the coasts despite the overall Global Warming. The Atlantic Ocean in the Florida and Caribbean area is suppose to be cooler from hear say, but I have not read it. Thus since the warmer tropical waters can cause increased tropical storm activity, hopefully slightly cooler waters might cause less activity. CIO

Note: <888> 08/10/08 Sunday 1:00 A.M. I took two English muffins, and I sliced them in half, and I then cut them into .75 inch square pieces. I put two tablespoons of olive oil and three pads of butter in a 10 inch frying pan on medium high electric burner heat, and I brought the oil and butter to a sizzle, and I added the English muffin pieces without the crumbs, and I sautéed them with garlic powder, Italian seasoning, and ground black pepper for about 15 minutes, until they were browned and a bit crisp. I then set them aside in a bowl to cool. I have a large wooded salad bowl, so I washed it cleaned. One can wash it since it has a varnish finish on it. I also washed my Canadian Goose salad tossing spoon and fork. I then took a head of Foxy iceberg lettuce that I bought about a week ago, and it was still fresh since I had it in the refrigerator in its original wrapping, and I peeled off about the top fifth of leaves, and I ripped them into two to three inch pieces, and I added them to the salad bowl. I then added about a half cup of broccoli crowns with stalks cuts into quart inch chunks. I then added 15 baby carrots that I cut lengthwise in quarters. I then added one small peeled and diced yellow onion. I then added two Kosher dill pickles that I cut into quarter inch chunks. I then cut a cucumber in half, and I put plastic wrap over one end, and I held it with a rubber band, and I put it in the refrigerator. I then peeled the other half, I cut it into 1/8th inch thick slices, and I added it to the bowl. I then cut the tomato in half, and I put half in a plastic bag in the refrigerator, and I cut the other half into eight wedges that I cut in half into 16 pieces, and I added it to the mixture. I then opened up a 3.75 ounce tin of Beach Cliff sardines, and I added the oil to the mixture, and I cut the sardines into half inch chunks, and I added them into the mixture. I then took two slices of Kraft processed American cheese, and I cut them into 1 inch by .25 inch slices, and I added them. I sliced two medium large mushrooms into 1/8th inch thick slices and added them. I added about half the croutons that I made, and I put other half in a plastic bag not refrigerated. I then added about a quarter of a cup of grated parmesan and Romano cheese. I then added a half teaspoon of Maggi seasoning, about six tablespoons of Tunisian extra virgin olive oil, three tablespoons of Italian balsamic vinegar and about a couple ounces of Kraft Balsamic salad dressing, and I mixed it all together with Canadian Goose salad fork and spoon, until it was thoroughly mixed. I then put half on a dinner plate, and I put the other half in a large Rubbermaid container in the refrigerator. I ate tonight's portion with a glass of 1/4th passion punch and 3/4ths cold filtered water. CIO

Note: <888> 08/09/08 Saturday 10:45 P.M. I woke up during the morning, and I ate some low fat Cheez-its. I finally woke up at 2:30 P.M. this afternoon. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, passion punch, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with some Starbucks patrons. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I played an Aces High scratch card, but I lost. I stopped by CVS, and I toured the store. I used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I walked over to Whole Foods in the shopping plaza east of the Y.M.C.A., and I bought a fresh pineapple from Costa Rica for $2.99 a pound. I think it is a rather expensive store, since steaks which look quite good are over $25 a pound. At that price, you could afford to eat out. I returned back down Greenwich Avenue, and I chatted with more of the Starbucks crowd, and I use the bathroom at Starbucks. It seemed to be a bit busier than usual. I sat out for a while. I then went over to the A&P Fresh, and they gave me a total refund of $3.99 on the blueberries that they over charged me for when they opened their new store. I then bought four 3.5 ounce tins of Season sardines in olive oil for $5 all, a half gallon of Florida Natural orange juice with calcium for $3, two ears of sweet corn on the cob for .50 each, two 15 ounce cans of Rienzi white clam sauce for $2.19 each, five mushrooms for $4.99 a pound for $1.40, a fresh tomato for $3.49 a pound for $2.06, a cucumber for .66, fresh asparagus for $1.99 a pound for $2.41, a Aqua Plumb C0490 Flat Suction Sink Drain Stopper for $2.69, a three pound bag of small Russet potatoes for $2.99, and two 12 ounce boxes of America's Choice fish cakes for $1.99 each box for $30.29 total. I then returned home. I put away my groceries. I will put the sink stopper by the kitchen sink. I will now make up a batch of passion punch. I have been using Super Sunin hair lightener which I bought years ago in my hair recently to lighten my hair, which I noticed CVS now sells in a smaller spray bottle for about $5. I walked by the Chase ATM machine plaza on Mason Street. I chatted with a local from Italy about living in Italy. I completed

Note: <888> 08/04/08 Monday 1:20 P.M. The Delta faucet assembly is installed. However, the brass drain pipe between the two plastic drain pipes underneath the sink has to be replaced with a more modern plastic assembly which will take a few more minutes. CIO

Note: <888> 08/04/08 Monday 1:05 P.M. The building custodian has the old faucet assembly removed, and he has the new Delta faucet assembly in place, and he is now securing it and attaching it. I chatted with a relative. Austin, Texas is suppose to get some rain Tropical Storm EDOUARD 5 Day Tracking . CIO

Note: <888> 08/04/08 Monday 12:20 P.M. I was up at 10:30 A.M.. The building custodian is here installing a new Delta faucet assembly. For the Northgate Syntax computer, I ordered FRYS.com | CRUCIAL 1 gigabyte PC2700 memory for $29.99 with free shipping. It has a $16 mail in rebate, so the final price will be $13.99 after I receive the rebate. The Northgate Gigabyte computer will have two gigabytes of memory installed once the new memory is installed. I chatted with a friend. Once the faucet is repaired, I will have to clean up the sink area, and the lower sink cabinet, and reposition the spice racks and resshelf the lower sink cabinet which will take a while. I will then have time to eat my usual breakfast. The building custodian is replacing the Delta faucet unit, but he does not have to remove the sink. CIO

Note: <888> 08/04/08 Monday 2:20 A.M. After the last note, I typed out a note to remind the building custodian to fix the faucet, which I had been told to do by him on Friday, and I left it underneath the custodian's door downstairs. I went outside briefly. I then removed all of the items from underneath the sink, and I put them in the living room in the open area by the Mongoose Mountain bike. I then removed the spice racks from above the kitchen sink. Thus it is all ready to work on. I turned off the water to the kitchen sink. From what I can tell the spray adaptor which was clogged was letting air into the faucet system, because its head was lose. I tried tightening the spray adaptor head, and the faucet worked correctly briefly, and then it quick working all together. There is a way to remove the faucet handle and insert a new mechanism, so perhaps the whole unit will not have to be replaced. However, the spray attachment has been clogged for years, so it would probably be better to replace the whole faucet assembly, so the spray attachment works. There is not much water pressure out of the spray adaptor with its head removed, so it is clogged further down the line towards the sink plumbing. Also the environmental people about four years ago installed a new water saving aerator, and they sheered the threads on the faucet, so the aerator is barely held on the faucet end, and it use to put out a bit of spray, which it has not done recently. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed. I will have to be up early if the building custodian can fix the faucet in the morning. CIO

Note: <888> 08/03/08 Sunday 11:45 P.M. Note: <888> 08/03/08 Sunday 11:05 P.M. When one is here in the summer, it is awfully easy to sit back and enjoy the warmer ambience of the area, but when one is here on a four seasons basis, particularly in the winter with minimal heat, one might consider the fact that one might still get free shipping LL Bean Coupons, LLBean.com Coupon Codes - DealCatcher , and one might consider ordering L.L.Bean: Search Results Union Suits or even two, if you plan to be around this winter with minimal heating available. Of course for those people whom have to travel back down south, I mentioned on Friday that Florida is the most economically recessed state in the nation, so it might be hard to earn any money down there to afford to come back up north again anytime in the near future. CIO

Note: <888> 08/03/08 Sunday 10:45 P.M. Before dinner, I chatted with a friend and a relative. I guess with people away on vacation, we get a few visitors traveling through this area, but since I did be a private individual that everyone sees, I tend to not take much notice of the ever changing visitor population in Greenwich which happens all of the time. It seems most people whom know me are not interested in seeing me, but they seem to be interested in the other ambience around town, which tends to change with the four seasons. From what I can tell, nobody in their right mind expects this area to remain static with all of the visitors that travel through this area all of the time. I heard a bit of jet traffic this evening Westchester County - AirportMonitor - by Megadata - powered by PASSUR , from what little I know most of the corporate jet set that visit this area this time of year seem to be more interested in golf on the many golf courses in this area as opposed to real business activity. For big bucks golfers, the New Canaan Country Club now has a $350,000 membership fee and a 15 year waiting list. Since property in the New York City area is hard to come by, more than likely Donald Trump will not be finding too much new land new the city to build more golf courses compared to what is already developed in this area. The Hyatt Hotel in Hauppauge, Long Island has a golf course on its property, but it is not as prestigious as Piping Rock in Locust Valley, Long Island or the Maidenstone Club out in the Hamptons. The Westchester Golf Club is where I think Donald Trump belongs, and I think they have two 18 hole golf courses. I am not sure if it is the same as the old Winged Foot Country Club, or if that is a different club. The Blind Brook Country Club which no longer exists use to be where the Rockefellers would be seen playing golf, but it is now the Doral Conference Center. I read in the Greenwich Time about 10 years ago that the William Rockefeller family had moved out of this area to Lakeville, Connecticut, and I was told that someone up there had built an authentic Scottish golf course. There is a nice golf course in Bedford, New York on the road to the John Jay homestead, but I have a feeling the Bedford, New York crowd tend to be fairly private. From what I have been told the Greenwich Country Club <http://www.geocities.com/mike2scott2006/Greenwich-Country-Club.jpg> is now run more like a resort hotel with exchange privileges with other clubs from around the world. They do have guest room there along with an outdoor swimming pool and tennis and squash and dining facilities and a men's grill and a card room if you don't feel like going to Atlantic City. They probably still serve liquor on the premises, and I think they still have a bowling alley, but they are probably more formal today than when my family were member up until about 1976, when the Internal Revenue Service eliminated the Corporate Tax deduction for Country Clubs and Yachts. The major families like the Vanderbilts and the Rockefellers have been member on an off at the Greenwich Country Club over the years, but without the tax deduction, they probably don't bother with to much golf there anymore. They are still business orientated. They still allow tax deductions for working farms, so a lot of people have gotten into the Horse business for tax deduction purposes whether they actually ride horses or not. The expert on equestrian tax deductions is probably up there right now as he was when I chatted with him twice this week <http://mikelouisscott.com/photo/mike-scott-with-distant-relative-whom-knows-about-horses-with-relative-whom-knows-about-railroads-putnam-hotel-in-saratoga-ny-about-summer-1990.jpg> . Of course the British owning so many off shore properties have a lot of other tax deduction ports of call worldwide. Instead of horses, Peggy Rockefeller raises Swiss Dairy cows for a tax deduction, and I think they actually have their own dairy. CIO

Note: <888> 08/03/08 Sunday 8:45 P.M. Not much happening in the world, since people do not have the energy to travel around to see what is happening. I will now reheat and eat the same dinner as last night. I will also have an ear of steamed corn on the cob with brocolli and steamed baby carrots with butter. I guess so many people are stuck home watching television anymore, they are left to the talking heads to tell them what is happening. At least with the internet, one gets a larger picture of the world, however writers also have to be paid, so if you do not pay writers, you do not get content. Also for writers to write, they have to write from experience. The West Bound platform at the Greenwich Train Station is running off the inside track, since they are working on the southern most rails on railroad bridge just east of the train station over Steamboat Road. Also the MTA has Steamboat Road closed off underneath the bridge as off 6 P.M. this evening. CIO

Note: <888> 08/03/08 Sunday 7:25 P.M. I went out after the last note, and I met up with my relative, when he arrived. My relative left the family car here, and then I drove my relative over the Greenwich train station. I then walked then entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. For a change I walked upper Greenwich Avenue first. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store, but they do not have the plumbing insert to fix my kitchen faucet. I think one can remove the handle mechanism and insert a new valve mechanism without having to replace the entire sink faucet. They have a replacement spray hose for $8, which the sink also needs, but possibly the Greenwich Housing Authority will also replace that. I also stopped by CVS, and I bought two 10 ounce boxes of Old Dutch sour dough pretzels for .99 each box, and a 200 count box of Splenda sweetener packets for $6.99. On the way down lower Greenwich Avenue, I bought a dollar Aces High scratch card at Zen stationary, but I lost. There were quite a few people out walking today for a change. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a dozen large eggs expire August 28, 2008 for $2.29, a half gallon of Tropicana premium orange juice with calcium for $2.50, 1.5 pounds of German thicker slice Wondabar baloney for $2.99 a pound for $4.60, four 6 ounce cans of Bumble Bee solid white albacore tuna fish a $1 each, two 13.5 ounce boxes of low fat Cheez-its for $2.50 each, a quart jar of Vlassic Kosher dill pickles for $2, two 64 ounce containers of Stop and Shop lite cranraspberry juice for $2 each, and two 64 ounce containers of Stop and Shop crangrape juice for $2 each, a 15 ounce bottle of Kikkoman soy sauce for $2.29, a large package of Purdue boneless breasts of chicken for $1.99 a pound for $6.87, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, and broccoli crowns for $1.99 a pound for $2.13 for $42.67 total. I then returned home, and I used my cart to bring up my groceries and put them away. CIO

Note: <888> 08/03/08 Sunday 3:00 P.M. I woke up at 8 P.M. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with butter, passion punch, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I went back to bed until noon. I chatted with a relative. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I chatted with another relative. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage. I chatted with neighbors. I emptied the ashtray by the building entrance. The ashtray on the north end of the building has disappeared. I chatted with my relative, and he will be here in about an hour to drop off the family car and go the Greenwich train station to head into Manhattan. I will now eat a baloney and cheese sandwich with 1/3rd of a tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of cold filtered water. One could order this item Amazon.com: GE Power Failure LED Nightlight with Portable Flashlight 11096: Home Improvement and get two with free shipping for $25.98. Note: <888> 08/02/08 Saturday 11:50 P.M. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-its. I also ate a Kashi trail mix bar. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. The weather is suppose to be nice on Sunday, so I will try to get out for a walk. CIO

Note: <888> 08/02/08 Saturday 8:20 P.M. I ordered two Volcano 11 Xaser Ed. CPU Fans for Socket A from <http://www.pc-pitstop.com/clearance/> for $12 each and $9.46 ground shipping for $33.46 total. I will put one in the FIC server <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> , and I will also have a spare. Since the server runs all of the time, it is important to make sure the CPU cooler is good working condition. My current one is a bit old, and my other new spare ones will not fit on the FIC motherboard, since they are side mounted cooler and the FIC motherboard has a diode that interferes with the clearance. I then went by the Greenwich Train station, and I picked up a relative, and I returned to my apartment building to pick up the other family car, and then I showed my relative how to get on I-95 East Bound in central Greenwich. I then drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, and I chatted with the most regular fisherman who does not fish very much anymore. He has a new grey pickup truck. I chatted with another local. I then went by the new A&P store. It is a quite nice less expensive well layed out store, and it does not have lights that are too bright. I filled out a form to get a A&P customer card. I then bought two 26 ounce jars of Francesco Rinaldi tomato, onion and garlic sauce for $1.39 each, and two 16 ounce boxes of Ronzoni Linguini for .70 each, a bulb of garlic for $3.69 a pound for .66, a head of Foxy lettuce for $1.51, a pint of blueberries for $3.99, two 12 packs of English muffins for $1.99 each 12 pack, a package of
