Note: <888> 01/31/09 Saturday 8:05 P.M.. I made and ate my usual linguine and tomato meat sauce dinner with grated parmesan and Romano cheese, and I refrigerated half, and I ate it with a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with a friend. CIO

Note: <888> 01/31/09 Saturday 5:55 P.M.. I woke up at 11:30 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by the Greenwich Hospital thrift shop, and I donated the brown wicker rack. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with some local people. I used the men's room on the ground floor of the Senior and the Arts center, which is probably about the warmest room in town. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store, and they do not carry electric shaver cords. I thought I might use one to fix my 1954 Zenith shortwave radio. When I have time, I can still test it with eight D batteries, which I think I have. I stopped by CVS, and I bought two 12 packs of Thomas' English muffins for $1.99 each 12 pack for $3.98 total. I weighed myself before showering, and I now weigh about 208 pounds, so I have lost about 10 pounds this winter so far. I finished my walk, and I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I was given a January 2008 National Geographic on "Indonesia's Ring of Fire Volcano Gods". During my walk, I stopped by the TD bank, and I was told their IBM computers come from a warehouse in New Jersey like everything else. They gave me a TD ball point pen. After my walk, I drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, and there were no sea gulls around, so possibly they are off flying on a nice day. I next went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with some of the staff and local patrons. I then returned home.

I picked up the mail. The 2.5" Black Aluminum Enclosure Case with IDE to USB 2.0 Interface by SABRENT for $6.99 and a $1.05 off with a coupon code that I can not remember for $5.94 total with free shipping arrived. I left it on the Lazy Susan to have available once the Seagate IDE 2.5 inch 80 gigabyte hard drive arrives. CIO

Note: <888> 01/30/09 Friday 11:15 P.M.. I baked and ate 12 ounce box of America's Choice fish sticks which I put mixture of ketchup and horse radish on along with my usual vegetable mixture with olive oil on it. I ate it all with a glass of watered down passion punch. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a nap.

Note: <888> 01/30/09 Friday 10:15 P.M.. When I get the Seagate 2.5 inch PATA hard drive, I can temporarily put it in the 2.5" Black Aluminum Enclosure Case with IDE to USB 2.0 Interface by SABRENT once I receive it, and I can partition it with XP on the primary Dell laptop computer, and then I can use Seagate Technology - DiscWizard to clone the old hard drive on to the new hard drive, and then transfer the hard drives. I just put DiscWizard on the primary Dell laptop to have it ready to clone. CIO

Note: <888> 01/30/09 Friday 9:10 P.M.. Yesterday morning, I woke up and I ate about a dozen Danish cookies. This morning, I woke up, and I ate about 10 Danish cookies. I finally woke up at 3:30 P.M. this afternoon. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. We have a new garbage service "City Carting". However, all of the recycle containers say "Cans and Bottles", and there are none designated for waste paper and newspapers. I chatted with a neighbor. No mail was received today. I watered the plants.

For the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer, I bought a 80GB 2.5" Seagate LD25.2 5400RPM ATA Hard Drive with 2MB Cache - New with 5 Year Seagate Warranty. (SEAST980210ALD) <http://eshop.macsales.com/item/Seagate/ST980210ALD/> for $39.99 and $4.99 UPS ground shipping for $44.98 total. I will move the IBM 10 gigabyte ide 2.5 inch hard drive from the primary Dell laptop to the second Dell laptop. I will put the 4.8

gigabyte hard drive from the second Dell laptop in the Toshiba laptop, which has a defective hard drive. Once the new hard drive is in the primary Dell laptop, I can restore the backup from the Maxtor external hard drive to configure it. I installed the Vista updates on the primary Vista computer and the FIC server. I am backing up the changes on the primary Dell laptop to the Maxtor external hard drive, and then I will do the same for the second Dell laptop. I ate a 1/5th piece of blueberry pie with a glass of watered down passion punch.

Note: <888> 01/30/09 Friday 4:20 A.M.. I followed the instructions in the Dell Latitude CS service manual to remove the cover. I removed the two green bread tabs that I had slid in. I examined the DC Power Jack, and it seemed to be firmly soldered to the motherboard. However, without the battery, the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop would still lose its power if the cord was moved when not plugged into the docking station, but with AC adapter plugged directly in it. I used my large magnifying glass and a lantern, and I examined the inside of the DC Power Jack, and I noticed at the rear end of the DC Power Jack, there was a small piece of green plastic or some other substance. I was able to remove the piece that was about 3/32nds inch wide and about 5/16th of an inch long, and the power on the primary Dell Latitude CS computer continued to stay on, even when I moved the cord in various directions. I looked more closely, and I found another smaller piece inside. I reassembled the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer, and now hopefully if one wants to use it with the AC adapter without the docking station, there should be no more problems. I still would not recommend putting too much pressure on the DC Power Jack by moving it with the cord attached. The DC Power Jack seems to be soldered on the motherboard, so I would have to remove the mother board and try to unsolder and solder in the replacement part, which would be much too risky unless dire circumstances called for it. Thus all systems seem go.

For the second Dell laptop, I could use these Dell Latitude CS R LCD Hinge Cover for $8.86, but it is only a cosmetic feature, so I can live without them, and the minimal shipping would be $17.55 from the Netherlands, so it is unlikely I will be buying them.

This is the CMOS battery they use DELL LATITUDE CS CMOS BATTERY (7.2V, 15MAH) P/N:8278P - eBay (item 150239935552 end time Feb-17-09 13:55:22 PST), if I ever need it.

These are what I was looking for 3550P - Right Hinge Cap and 4550P - Left Hinge Cap , but they are not really necessary. On the second Dell laptop, the left one is missing, and the right one is broken. CIO

Note: <888> 01/30/09 Friday 12:45 A.M.. I bought this item DC Power Jack Dell LATITUDE CPx CPxH CPxJ CS CSR CSX - eBay (item 300268251805 end time Feb-19-09 20:06:42 PST) for $4.99 with free shipping. I think if I ever need to use it on the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer, it would need to be soldered in, so I probably will not take the chance to replace it, unless I absolutely need to replace it. They seem to have the Dell Latitude Reserve batteries here if I ever need one. I use the one with five small batteries eBay Seller: meditechny: Computers Networking items on eBay.com CIO

Note: <888> 01/29/09 Thursday 10:45 P.M.. Yesterday, I put a new blue toilet tank tablet in the toilet tank. I went out after the last note. I went to my regular Thursday 3 P.M. appointment. I do not have another Thursday 3 P.M. appointment until March 2009. I next went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop. They have about a dozen used LCD monitors for sale from the Greenwich Hospital. The Compaq LCD monitors are $45 and the EIZO LCD monitors are $25. I chatted with the staff trying to cheer them up on another usual slow business day. I suggest that all of the inexpensive glass ware on the two shelves on the east wall would fall off the shelf in an earthquake, or possibly if they put too much weight on the shelves, they would collapse. People frequently keep piling up items somewhere, and sooner or later the additional weight causes the shelf to collapse. I also chatted with a neighbor from Kennebunkport, Maine. I next went downtown, and I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I played a Fast $50's scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I walked the whole length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. There were not many people out but younger unemployed fathers with younger children. I guess they have working mothers. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store. I told them about seeing an Austrian stove in the movie "The Third Man", and I mentioned that I had seen them in the rooms of the Maria Teresa Palace in Innsbruck, Austria, and they looked to be very energy efficient. They are ceramic stoves about 4 to 5 feet in diameter the height of the room with curves and with decorative accents. I am not sure what they burned in them or how they exhausted them, but they look like they would put out a lot of warmth. I went by CVS, and I saw an older acquaintance with what looked to be his younger sister, so I guess families are now car pooling to save on gasoline. I finished my walk, and I sat out briefly. I noticed during my walk that TD Bank is using new IBM Personal Computers, so they must still make them new somewhere in the world like Canada. I stopped by the Greenwich Library, and I read PC Magazine. There seemed to be quite a few people enjoying the warmth in the library. One regular patron whom is older than me, said he wished that he was younger again. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf Station, and I bought $4 of self service premium gasoline at $2.359 a gallon for 1.694 gallons for 14.1 miles driving since last Thursday at odometer reading of 62131 miles for 8.32349 miles per gallon driving this past week. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a day old blue berry pie for $3.50, a loaf of Nature's Promise multigrain bread for $2.50, and broccoli crowns for $1.79 a pound for $1.22 for $7.22 total. I then returned home. I picked up the mail. The order for two PQI 1GB 60X Secure Digital SD Card, Model AE21-1030-0101 for $5.99 each with free shipping for $11.98 total arrived. I put them unopened on the right hallway bookcase shelf with the camera case with the cameras. I chatted with a relative. I made and ate the same dinner as last night. I ate a 1/5th piece of blueberry pie too. Not much happening on this side of Greenwich, Connecticut. CIO

Note: <888> 01/29/09 Thursday 2:15 P.M.. I installed www.juno.com free program good for 10 hours a month of both Dell Latitude CS laptop computers, and I configured it. In a power outage which does happen occasionally, the electricity and cable modem might not work, but frequently the Verizon telephone line works. I have battery power for the Dell laptops, and since with my Verizon package I have free adjacent community dialing, there are about a dozen local free Juno dialup numbers in Greenwich, Old Greenwich, Stamford, Armonk, and Port Chester. However, I only have the one Xircom telephone modem card. I ate a ham and cheese sandwich with 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips with some watered down passion punch. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will get ready to go to my 3 P.M. appointment. CIO

Note: <888> 01/29/09 Thursday 12:05 P.M.. I woke up at 8 A.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative and a friend. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went outside, and I cleaned the snow off my Audi, and I helped clean the snow off a neighbor's car. I put two new AA alkaline batteries in the community room television remote control. I walked around the building, and the building custodian is putting ice removal pellets on the sidewalk, but it is still very slippery. I put the Xircom LAN and telephone modem card in the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer, and I will now install www.juno.com free dialup on it, so I can use it in case, I lose power to the primary systems. I have a 3 P.M. appointment this afternoon. CIO

Note: <888> 01/28/09 Wednesday 10:05 P.M.. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Weather permitting, I have a 3 P.M. appointment tomorrow. CIO

I took the keyboard out of the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop, and I put it in the second Dell Latitude CS laptop. I put the new keyboard in the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop with docking station.

I moved the Netgear WG511T wireless card from the primary Dell laptop, and I installed it on the second Dell laptop.

I installed the Netgear WN511B wireless card on the primary Dell laptop.

I installed the two Netgear FA511 cards on each of the Dell laptops.

I have the primary Dell laptop in its docking station, so I left both of its cards on the right side in bubble wrap packages to have available for remote use. The laptop cards are plug and play.

I left the second Dell laptop wireless card in a bubble wrap package behind it to have available for wireless use, and the new FA511 LAN card is left in it for apartment use, since it does not have a docking station. I also took the USB mouse off of it, and I put a Dell PS/2 mouse on it. I disabled the D-Link USB Hub LAN, since it is not needed. Thus both Dell Latitude CS laptops are ready for use in the apartment or at remote locations.

Their current configurations are at <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> , search Latitude.

I went downstairs, and I chatted with the building custodian who had a rough day. It is now raining out heavily melting the snow, but it could turn to ice tonight and tomorrow morning. CIO

Note: <888> 01/28/09 Wednesday 12:25 P.M.. I woke up at 9 A.M.. I took down the two artificial wreaths off the front door, and I hung the octagon mirror on the front side of the front door with a 40 pound OOK hook. I still have to get rid on the brown wicker rack. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downstairs, and I chatted with neighbors. There is about four inches of snow on the Audi. I will leave it on in case the rain turns to ice this evening, so with snow on the Audi, it would be easier to remove any ice. I chatted with a relative. CIO

I took down the inexpensive octagon mirror from that location. I guess I will donate the octagon mirror and the brown wicker rack to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop, since I have no place to hang them. CIO

Note: <888> 01/28/09 Wednesday 12:35 A.M.. I took the CDs out of the CD rack in front of the Sony TV stand, and I moved them inside of the Sony TV stand with two metal book ends on either shelf holding them upright. I moved the ink cartridges and ink refill kit from the brown wicker rack to the left of the primary Vista computer, and I put them in the second drawer of the mahogany bureau in the bedroom. I moved the two brass candle stick holders with crystal shades to on top of the book cases above the Sony TV. I removed the brown wicker rack from the wall, and I move over the French print to its place. I used the CD rack along with the CD rack from underneath the Samsung color laser printer to raise up the Brother all purpose machine about 10 inches, so it is now easier to service it. I put a collapsed breakfast tray underneath the Samsung color laser printer. When I put the Scott speakers on top of the left bookcase above the Sony television, I removed the print of Stowe, Vermont, and I moved it to behind the bedroom door for safe keeping, until I can figure out somewhere to hang it, or I can give it to a friend who spends a lot of time in Stowe, Vermont. Thus it all looks a little bit neater, and the black glass doors on the Sony TV cabinet now show neatly. I moved the Zenith short wave radio that needs to be tested to on top of the right book case above the stereo system. I chatted with a friend earlier. CIO

I installed the windows updates on my three laptop computers. I moved the D-Link USB hub from the Toshiba laptop to the second Dell laptop. I ate lunch of hot dogs with buns with ketchup and mustard and watered down passion punch. I changed my clothes to go out.

I went by the new Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue on West Putnam Avenue. Since it is hard to turn left there when coming from the west, I drove over by Valley Road by the Greenwich Hospital and then down Lafayette Place to Greenwich Avenue and west a half block to the new Chase Bank. There is a driveway behind them by the brick apartment building, and one possibly could drive down that driveway east and exit out Pickwick Plaza where there is a traffic light, but I am not sure which way the driveway runs. I used the ATM machine and I viewed the new bank. They gave me a corn muffin for a treat. I then went downtown, and I sat out for a while at the Senior and the Arts Center. I then went to my 3 P.M. appointment. I chatted with a relative on my wireless phone while waiting. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I bought a white soup bowl with Burgundy rim for a dollar and a two deck of new cards from the Shore Line with Sand Piper decoys on them for $2. I also bought a heavy duty Sony television stand trapezoid shape about 20 inch high and very sturdy for $20 for $23 total. I used my folding cart to put the Sony TV stand in the back seat of the Audi. I then went by the Stop and Shop. Apparently the premium Oscar Meyer hot dogs were not on sale last week, so I did not get a refund on the second pack I bought last Thursday. I bought a Manager's Special top sirloin steak for $4.99 a pound for $7.73, a 8 pack of Arnold Bakery larger size hot dog buns for $3.19, six packages of Ronzoni thin linguine for .50 each box, and Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $1.77 for $15.69 total. I then returned home. I used my folding cart to bring up my purchases and the Sony TV stand and the mail. It took about two hours. I cleared the area in front of my 27 inch Sony television, and I put the Sony TV Stand on the TV chest. I then put the solid wooden tool box on top of the TV stand, and I slid the Sony television off the pair of Scott speakers onto the Sony TV stand. I moved the pair of Scott speakers to on top of the left bookcase. I cleaned the TV area while doing this. I moved the Sony TV with Sony TV stand into position, and it is still about the same height for easy viewing around the living room, but it is on a much more sturdy platform now. I did not put anything in the cabinet inside the Sony TV stand, but I put the CD rack with CDs in front of it. I rearranged some of the Bric-A-Brac, so the TV area is neater looking. I tried testing the old Zenith Shore Wave radio, and it came on briefly and went out. Possibly it has a faulty cord. I will test it with batteries when I have time. I put the folding cart in the Audi, and I threw out four old telephone books. I moved the Audi to its usual place. I chatted with a relative. I reheated and ate the last of the defrosted beef stew and turkey Kraft stove top stuffing, which I ate with watered down passion punch. I am not sure if the soup bowl is microwave proof or not. I put the double deck of playing cards on the Panasonic television by the French reproduction chair. CIO

I tried looking at <http://new.bbc.co.uk/> , but the British are cheap, and it crashed my computer for the millionth time. I am beginning to think they do not use very good Firewall security at the BBC. However, I like the content of their web site, so I will look at sooner or later.

The order for UPS: Tracking Information on with coupon code "BF1144" for $5 off shipping good through January 19, 2009; I ordered in 3XL $20 Guide Gear Flannel - Lined Denim Overalls, Blue, Men's Clothing, Guide Gear at Bargain Outfitters for $19.97 and .99 shipping for $20.96 total arrived. "BF1106" is the current $5 off coupon code though. I tried them on. They fit just fine. They have a fly in front, so you do not have to take them off, when you do number 1. I showed them to my neighbors. I hung them on a hanger on the left side of the left living room closet. My grandfather Clarence Scott use to wear overalls when he was a Fireman and a Steam Locomotive Engineer on the Illinois Central Railroad for 60 years. I read in a computer magazine today that the Union Pacific railroad that George Cary's relatives are still involved in, is still making money, and they plan to spend $3.5 billion a year to improved their system including laying 350 miles of track in the southwest to make it double track. It apparently costs $2 million a mile to lay track. That is probably if they do not have to build bridges or tunnels.

I was told that Tony Blair is now teaching at www.yale.edu to help make ends meet. CIO

Note: <888> 01/26/09 Monday 1:40 P.M.. Today, would be my father Louis Dale Scott's 89th birthday, but alas he passed away 19 years ago from the effects of Parkinson Syndrome after a very difficult corporate career. I woke up at 6:30 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I chatted with a relative. I read the recent computer periodical literature. I ate a noon time meal of half of the remaining beef stew reheated and 1/3rd of a 6 ounce box of Kraft turkey stove top stuffing along with a glass of watered down passion punch. I made up a fresh batch of passion punch. I saw Bill Gates on www.foxnews.com trying fund raise for his foundation. Apparently the value of his foundation is down 20%. I guess he will have to pull in his purse strings. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical computer literature. I observed the outside world. I chatted with the building custodian who does a most excellent job. Windows 7 beta is suppose to work with touch screen LCD monitors, so it might work in a bar or restaurant cash register system. A touch screen LCD monitor would be too cumbersome to use with regular computer work. CIO

Note: <888> 01/25/09 Sunday 7:05 P.M.. I went downstairs. It sounds like a full house in the community room. I chatted with some neighbors.

Note: <888> 01/25/09 Sunday 2:20 P.M.. I went downstairs, and chatted with neighbors. The community room is being rented by neighbors until 9 P.M. today. I ate some more of the beef stew with watered down passion punch and a cup of coffee with splenda and milk.

I fiddled with some of the other features of my Nokia AT&T Go phone. I setup my hotmail account at it. I never use it, but my Hotmail email account is <mailto:mmikescott@hotmail.com> . I download the Elvis Ring Tone "Suspicious Minds" twice, and I saved it to the Ring Tone file for answering the phone and for Instant messaging ring tone. That cost the Go Phone account $2.95 for each of the two downloads for $5.90 total. I now have a little bit over $66 left on the Go Phone.

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I finished configuring the second Dell Latitude CS computer, and it works just fine. I am now backing it up to the Maxtor external hard drive. I also cleaned it with glass cleaner. I chatted with a relative earlier today. I threw out the garbage, and I went downstairs twice. I chatted with neighbors, and I picked up the mail. Note: <888> 01/24/09 Saturday 12:55 A.M.. SP2 is just about done. Good Night. CIO

Note: <888> 01/24/09 Saturday 12:50 A.M.. I could not get Ubuntu to go online with the second Dell laptop, so I did a quick low level format, and then I started installing an extra copy of XP Home that I had. I am now installing the Windows Updates. About a dozen keys do not work on the laptop, but it works fine with the extra keyboard plugged into it. I plugged a generic USB mouse into it. I also updated its bios. I ate two 6 ounce cups of berry yogurt. I also ate two hotdogs with buns and ketchup and mustard and watered down passion punch. As soon as I finish installing SP2, I will shut down the systems for the night, and I will go to bed. It has been an exhausting day. CIO

Note: <888> 01/23/09 Friday 5:45 P.M.. I connected the second Dell laptop power supply to the Abit computer power strip, so that power strip has to be turned on to the second Dell laptop to work. I put the external floppy drive and the external CD drive and their connector cable on top of the JVC videotape player in the bedroom. I will hook it up with a Microsoft wheel mouse and mouse pad too. CIO

Note: <888> 01/23/09 Friday 5:35 P.M.. The beef stew came out the best that I have ever made. It took about 3.5 hours to make and clean up after making it. I sautéed in a 6 quart Revere pot, the beef, chopped onions, and chopped garlic in olive oil and margarine with ground black pepper, Italian seasoning, and garlic powder. I then added the 14.5 ounce can of chicken broth and a quarter cup of white wine along with the other seasonings like I have done in the past, and I simmered the beef mixture for about one hour and fifteen minutes before adding the vegetables and a stick of butter, which I simmered another 45 minutes. I made about eight 2 cup servings. I ate one serving with watered down passion punch, and I froze three servings, and I refrigerated four servings. I then threw out the garbage, and I picked up the mail. I chatted with neighbors. Earlier, I chatted with a relative twice.

UPS delivered this for $11 and $10 shipping for $21 total to have the extra parts that I can use and the second Dell Latitude CS laptop computer Dell Pentium II Latitude CS - eBay (item 120362799026 end time Jan-19-09 15:35:55 PST) . All of the parts seem to work fine, except some of the keys do not work on the Dell laptop keyboard, so I am using a spare Dell laptop keyboard attached to it. Its LAN card also has telephone jacks. It has a 4.8 gigabyte hard drive and 256 megs of memory. I did a low level format on it. I then installed the latest version of Ubuntu on it. I am now installing the updates. I clear the remaining spot on the oak dining table beside the spot where I eat. That spot is opposite the small computer table. I will set up the second Dell laptop there with the Dell keyboard for now. CIO

Note: <888> 01/23/09 Friday 10:35 A.M.. I will brought in the Crystal Rock water for a neighbor. The tile men are here to do the apartment across from the mail room. I will now make the beef stew now. Basically one cuts the rump roast into .75 inch cubes, and then dice the vegetables into cubes and smaller parts, and then one browns the beef cubes in the large pot with diced onions and garlic and olive oil, and then one adds a 14.5 can of chicken or beef broth and then a quarter cup of wine, and the other herbs and seasoning, and then one brings it to a boil and adds the vegetables and lets one simmer it for about 1.5 hours. If I have room, I will try to freeze half of it. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer and get to work cooking. CIO

Note: <888> 01/23/09 Friday 9:50 A.M.. I had a spare 3 port D-link USB 1.0 powered hub, so I put a second power strip on the primary power strip of the Toshiba laptop by the French reproduction chair, and I plugged the Toshiba laptop and the powered hub into it, so the Toshiba laptop now has a powered hub, and both the Toshiba laptop and hub can be turned off by the power strip, so they do not run all of the time. Of course the second Dell Latitude CS will be in that location, when I get it. I received email two days ago that it was mailed from New York, New York, where ever that is in New York. I will now watered the plants, and then throw out the garbage and the waste paper. CIO

I chatted with a friend about the price of tea in China. I chatted with someone that speaks English. I showered, and I cleaned up. I picked up the mail. The NEW DELL CS BATTERY 04915U SEALED IN BAG - eBay (item 200298385423 end time Jan-17-09 19:53:37 PST) for $45 and $4.80 shipping for $49.80 total arrived. I put it in the Dell Latitude CS laptop, and I set it to show the battery icon on the tray bar. When I returned home five hours later it was fully charged. It is a new Dell 8012 battery made by Sanyo, so it should be a top quality battery. I went out, and I went to my regular 3 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop, and I bought four 4 inch silk lamp shades for a dollar each for $4 total. I ran into a college classmate that I had not seen in a while. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center before and after the walk. I toured CVS, but there was nothing that I needed to buy. I walked over to the Chase Bank on Mason Street, and I used the ATM machine there. They will be opening their new office at the old Harvey Electronics building just west of Greenwich Avenue on January 26, 2009, so the Mason street branch will be closing soon. I do not know if they will be consolidating any of the other offices in the downtown area or not. After my walk, I drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, and I figured since 600 Steamboat Road is now a British Government operation, I better keep a close eye on it. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I toured the facility. It seemed busier than normal with the local youth. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station, and I bought $4 of self service premium for $2.359 a gallon for 1.694 gallons at odometer reading of 62116 for 21.9 miles driving since Saturday January 10, 2009 at 12.92798 miles per gallon driving for the last two weeks. I checked the tires for 32 PSI. I lost one the valve caps while checking the tires, and Chris gave me three more, so I now have two spare ones. I went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a 10 ounce Guldens mustard for $1.50, two Oscar Meyer 16 ounce premium beef hotdogs for $4.39 each, but they were suppose to be buy one get one free, so I will have to get my money back on the second one, the next time I go downtown, and a bottom round rump roast for $2.29 a pound for $8.04, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, and Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $1.62 for $22.93 total. I will make up a beef stew tomorrow with the bottom round rump roast and vegetables that I have. I returned home. I chatted with a relative. I will now eat two hotdogs on buns with ketchup and mustard and a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 01/22/09 Thursday 9:00 A.M.. I baked and ate 12 ounce box of America's Choice fish sticks which I put mixture of ketchup and horse radish on along with my usual vegetable mixture with olive oil on it. I ate it all with a glass of watered down passion punch. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a nap. My family were members of the Vanderbilt Country Club known as the Greenwich Country Club <http://www.geocities.com/mike2scott2006/Greenwich-Country-Club.jpg> which use to have a coal furnace from Holland, Michigan, so it tended to be warmer in the winter, if you like bowling. Note: <888> 01/21/09 Wednesday 5:55 A.M.. As I told the lady in Chase Bank on Mason Street that looked like Wallace Simpson, it does not matter what the price of www.ford.com stock is, since it is basically a private company with 40% owned by the family, 40% owned by the foundation, and 20% owned by the retirement fund. I also recommended that she invest in Platinum mining stocks based on Henry Jonker's advice, since he was able to move from Steamboat Road to Beach Road in Belle Haven, Connecticut after reading Barons and the Financial Times of London in the Greenwich Library before the internet made him a fortune. Of course he was from South Africa, so perhaps he left some money behind there when he left, which is no longer there anymore. I made a mistake about my older half sister whom I thought lived in Kenya. I was wrong, she lives in Tanzania Tanzania - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia working as a medical professional. Of course a few years ago, she had a boy friend eaten by a Crocodile, so it is probably not safe to bother here. CIO

Note: <888> 01/21/09 Wednesday 2:45 A.M.. Since RBS | The Royal Bank of Scotland | Personal, Private, Business & Corporate Banking is now 70% owned by the British Government, and since RBSGC is owned by them, their office they rent from Janus real estate in Manhattan at 600 Steamboat Road is now managed by the British Government. General Reinsurance sold the office building to Janus real estate recently for $200 or $300 million down from the asking price of $400 million. RBS is suppose to be moving all of their operations to their new 40 story building in Stamford, Connecticut, so once they move Janus real estate will probably have new tenants there across from the sewage plant. From my experience having lived on Steamboat Road for five years and having observed it for 25 years, from what I have been told by the local fishermen in the summer, most of the local fishermen down at the end of the road at the pier are either, Polish, Italian, or Russian mafia, and I think a lot of Irish mafia are seen around the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, so if there were any electronic eves dropping going on down there, more than likely one of the local mafia groups would be involved. It is interesting most of the hacking on my computers quit happening about the time people from Illinois were elected to office, and I used to have two daily users on my computer systems from Illinois that have not looked at it in a while. According to the www.fbi.gov , if I figure out whom it is, I can file an affidavit with the Connecticut attorney general, and then the FBI will investigate. My only recent solution has been to shut down the Cable Modem for a while to reset the IP address. It seems like they might have possibly put a key stroke logger on my computer, since when I am writing something sensitive, the computer seems to get frozen. Possibly they are monitoring my notes with a key stroke logger, and if they do not like what I write they freeze my computer. It would seem that after over 500 calls to the New Haven, Connecticut FBI, they would have looked into it, so more than likely the government is cahoots with the hackers. Having read the first third of James Bamford's book the Puzzle Palace, I know the National Security Agency has the means of monitoring all communications. Moreover, they would have assets, so if I could prove it was a government agency, I could sue them for my lost time and work and inconvenience they have caused me. It would seem to me that since more than likely the Unites States government would not waste their time hacking me, somebody that is doing something illegal around the waterfront here in Greenwich, Connecticut is trying to prevent me from reporting on the waterfront. Since eight years ago, somebody shot at me with a rifle while I was out bird watching at Tod's Point, I have ample reason to suspect illegal activity in this area.

I made and ate a three egg omelet with four 1.5 inch by 1.5 inch by .25 inch slices of Stop and Shop Vermont extra sharp cheddar cheese along with grated parmesan and Romano cheese on it. I also ate three fried strips of bacon with a toasted English muffin with margarine and watered down passion punch. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage, and I started up the Audi, and I moved it to its usual place, and I ran it for 10 minutes to warm it up a bit and charge it up a bit. It started up right away in 13 degree Fahrenheit weather with the new battery. I brought up the mail. The order for Flexible USB LED Light, Snake Light, Black for $3.99 with free shipping arrived. I put it on the Dell laptop, and I moved the other snake light to the Toshiba laptop. The new snake light has a switch to turn it on and off. I chatted with the Delamar Hotel down by the waterfront, and they are dead slow, and they cost about $300 night if one books discount rates through the internet. There are a half dozen five star hotels in White Plains, New York, so most business traveler usually go over there, since there is better security and more full time services. CIO

I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a nap for a while. CIO

Note: <888> 01/20/09 Tuesday 1:50 P.M.. I ate ten baby carrots with Old Bay Seasoning on them while I was watching the inaugural. After the inaugural, I went outside, and I cleaned about two inches of snow off the Audi. I chatted with some neighbors and the building social worker. I chatted with a relative. Well, it looks to be a sunny day out, but I usually only go out when I first wake up weather permitting. Believe it or not all of the work on computers is quite time consuming, and it tends to wear one out, also it is very hard on the eyes. For me it is a little bit more time consuming than point and click in the Greenwich Library or whatever some of the other local computer experts think. After about twenty years of personal computers, I tend to know what I am doing computer wise, but I have not had much time to pay much attention to other matters at large. Needless to say because of my vintage age of close to 59 years, it never lead into any high tech jobs, but that I guess is for the younger generation to get some experience.

Once I know the second Dell Latitude CS laptop computer works, I might get this item Netgear WN511B 802.11n RangeMax Next Wireless PC (Netgear NET11903) : surpluscomputers.com for $18.99 with free shipping. However, money is tight, and there is no rush to get it, since more than likely I will not be using them with wireless much anyway. Since I have a well developed office at home, there is no need to put up with the distractions at the Greenwich Library, although it is a warmer place to work this time of year. I have gotten use to the colder conditions in the apartment for now, but as I get older that might not always be the case. I know my older neighbors are feeling the effects of the colder apartments more than ever. CIO

Note: <888> 01/19/09 Monday 6:10 P.M.. Well, I guess the Old Farmer's Almanac report that it would be a mild winter was not too accurate, but sometimes it is cold in the beginning of winter, and then it warms up around here a bit like we possibly get a warming effect from the ocean. When I built the garage apartment out on Long Island, I was painting outside in February 1982, but after I finished it, and made a side trip to Florida and returned there was a foot of snow, and when I got to Oslo, Norway there was six feet of snow on the ground that melted in a few days which seemed sort of curious that it could melt that fast. Well from what I can tell not much is going on down in Key West, Florida, but I am sure the kids are trying to figure out some way to make money. Note: <888> 01/18/09 Sunday 4:55 A.M.. I put away the laundry. I moved the AT&T wireless router to the bedroom window on top of the speakers which I also replaced with a pair of speaker that I think are good, since the switch did not work on the other pair of speakers. One has to turn on the AT&T wireless router with the bedroom gigabyte computer control panel switch that turns on the power strip. This also enables the AT&T router to send the signal to the LAN cable connected to the bedroom Gigabyte computer. I moved the Linksys wireless router in the living room from on top of the Minolta laser printer to the right of the FIC computer monitors, which printer I might need to use to on top of the speaker on the window shelf behind the FIC server monitors. The repair on the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer with the bread tabs works, but one should not apply pressure to the cord when connected to it, and one should not move it with the power cord connected to it such as working off one's lap, but use it on a stable surface. Of course once the battery is installed in it that will not be a problem either. I tested the Dell laptop downstairs in the lobby with it plugged into the plug on the south side of the lobby, and it picked up the Linksys wireless signal from my apartment at about 45% connection, and I was able to test its download speed at 450 kbps and upload speed at 200 kbps, so the wireless works just fine in the lobby. The AT&T wireless works the same in the lobby, but there is no need to leave it turned on, except to have wireless in the bedroom or when using the bedroom gigabyte computer. There is a wireless signal for Vinci drive in the lobby, community room, and the laundry that is not secured, but its internet access which is probably a cable modem is not turned on, so one can not use it to go online. CIO

Note: <888> 01/18/09 Sunday 2:00 A.M.. I started two laundry loads on the dry cycle with 45 minutes to go. I noticed the Exxon station down by the border with Port Chester, New York is all lighted up like it is opened at night. The Mobil station at Weaver Street and West Putnam Avenue across the street I think is opened 24 hours, and it has a convenience store and a Dunkin Donuts. Also as usual the Shell Station on West Putnam Avenue is opened 24 hours. Also the Colonial Diner across the street from the Y.M.C.A. is opened 24 hours. CIO

Note: <888> 01/18/09 Sunday 1:40 A.M.. I ate two hot dogs on buns with ketchup with watered down passion punch. I threw out the old Dijon mustard. I threw out the garbage. I had one other small problem with the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. The power supply adaptor works fine on the Dell Docking station, but when it was plugged directly into the Dell laptop, it would only work when it was in a downward position, and if there was upward pressure on the laptop power adaptor, the power would shut off. I fixed this by cutting a plastic bread tab in half, and I doubled up the two halves, and I slid them into the case above the power adaptor connector, so there is downward pressure all of the time, so now the Targus power adaptor with the Number 9 tip works just fine when plugged directly into the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. The bread tabs are wedged in tightly, so they should not come out unless, they are pulled out. I started two loads of laundry, and I five minutes to go on the wash cycle. I also put clean sheets on the bed. CIO

Of course some of the batteries listed below are more powerful too, which makes them slightly more expensive. However, for now, I do not think I need one, since I am not currently using the Dell Latitude CS at all. CIO

I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will take a nap. CIO

Note: <888> 01/17/09 Saturday 10:30 A.M.. I did some more bottom fishing on the Dell Latitude CS battery, and there is nothing new available for less than $50. Since I probably would not be outside using it until May 2009 anyway, there is no point in ordering one. If I used it inside in some location like the Greenwich Library, they have electric plugs, so I would not need a battery. I chatted with a relative. I finished defragmenting both partitions on the Abit computer, and I am now doing an internal and external backups to save the changes. I do not know weather defragmenting changes the file structure or not, so I guess it is best to back it up. CIO

Note: <888> 01/16/09 Friday 3:00 P.M.. I woke back up at 8 A.M. this morning, when a friend called. It was three degrees below zero in Great Barrington, Massachusetts near the Butternut Ski area. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I read the recent periodical computer literature including the computer magazines. I then threw them out. Note: <888> 01/16/09 Friday 3:15 A.M.. I woke up at 12:30 A.M.. It is 8 degrees Fahrenheit here in Greenwich, Connecticut, and it is Minus 20 Degrees Fahrenheit in Kennebunkport, Maine. I ate a three egg omelet with processed cheese and grated parmesan and Romano cheese and five strips of fried bacon and a toasted English muffin with olive oil and watered down passion punch. I finished configuring the Windows 7 partition on the Abit computer. FTP to my server will not work and the Leadtek TV Expert PCI card does not work with Windows 7. I am backing it up to the second hard drive, and then I will back it up the Maxtor external hard drive. CIO

Key West Hotel Resorts & Florida Keys Beach Accommodations - Casa Marina Resort
Key West is now Waldorf Astoria Collection . Of course although Baron Hilton is supposedly behind the hotel chain, since the last time I looked the His Highness the Aga

This is the cold weather warning being put out:

"Hello, this is Peter Tesei, First Selectman of the Town of Greenwich with an important message. Due to the extreme cold weather conditions we are experiencing, Greenwich is offering three locations as emergency warming centers. The warming centers are The Greenwich Senior Center 299 Greenwich Avenue Thurs & Fri 8am 4pm The Greenwich Library -101 West Putnam Avenue Thu & Fri 9am-9pm, Sat. 9am-5pm & Greenwich Hospitals Main Lobby 5 Perryridge Road - Thu, Fri, Sat 8am to 6pm. For incidents after these hours please contact the Greenwich Police Department Non-Emergency Number at 1-203-622-8000 for assistance."

I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I will first eat two hot dogs with buns and ketchup and Dijon mustard and watered down passion punch. Have a good night and stay warm. CIO

Note: <888> 01/15/09 Thursday 4:30 P.M.. I was awake at 4:30 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I worked on configuring the Abit computer Windows 7 beta 1 partition. The Netgear USB Print Server PS121 will not work with it. However, I put a longer USB cable on the Samsung color laser printer, so one can disconnect it from the Netgear PS121 USB printer server and connect it directly to the front Abit USB 2.0 port, and that way the Samsung color laser printer will work with it. The Netgear FR114P printer router driver works, but one has to install it with administrative privileges. I have the Abit computer mostly configured with Windows 7, except I have not installed the Leadtek TV card program yet. I signed my new lease with the Greenwich Housing Authority at 10 A.M.. I ate a baloney and turkey and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with a dill pickle slice and 1/8th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I cleaned the small bit of snow off my car. I went to my 3 P.M. appointment, and I returned. I picked up the mail. It is suppose to go down to 6 degrees Fahrenheit this morning Greenwich, Connecticut (06830) Conditions & Forecast : Weather Underground . I chatted with a relative this morning. The Town of Greenwich has set up warming centers Greenwich officials prepare for single-digit temps - Greenwich Time . CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 11:05 P.M.. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will climb back into a warm bed. Stay warm. I guess there is not much left of the "Freezing Norwegian Patrol", since the Norwegians seemed to have so much money, they all went south for the winter. CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 10:00 P.M.. I will make and eat the same steak dinner as last night. CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 9:55 P.M.. I ordered Flexible USB LED Light, Snake Light, Black for $3.99 with free shipping. CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 9:20 P.M.. Earlier, I installed the Windows updates on the FIC server. I also threw out the garbage, and I picked up my mail. I have to sign my lease with the Greenwich Housing Authority downstairs in the community room tomorrow between 10 A.M. and 1 P.M.. I also have a 3 P.M. appointment weather permitting. CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 8:45 P.M.. I chatted with a friend this morning, and I did a Vista complete PC backup from the first hard drive to the second hard drive. I ate half of 13.5 ounce box of reduced fat Cheez-its with some watered down passion punch. While I was asleep, I had a telephone call from Microsoft today, but I was too tired to talk. I woke up at 3 P.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a friend and a relative. I did a Vista complete PC backup of the primary Vista computer to the Maxtor external hard drive.

PacificGeek.com has $4.95 shipping today.

I ordered from Amazon.com: DELL 7012P Laptop Battery (Equivalent): Electronics for $7.95 and $8.95 shipping for $16.90 total. That is the battery of my Dell Latitude CS laptop computer that I found on Christmas day, and I have configured to work. I chatted with a relative.

I reattached by sewing on the buttons on each of my sleeves of my John Lauren quilted Stewart Dress shirt that I wear in cold weather.

There is suppose to be extremely cold weather the next two nights with temperatures down into the single digits Greenwich, Connecticut (06830) Conditions & Forecast : Weather Underground . CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 6:30 A.M.. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good day. I ate some Triscuts yesterday morning. CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 6:15 A.M.. I was invited to beta test Norton Online Backup, so I downloaded the small program. They gave me 25 gigabytes of online storage space, so I backed up 9932 files mostly URLs or 2.92 gigabytes of files. It took about two hours to back up the files online. The beta lasts until January 15, 2010. I am suppose to get a free copy of Norton Ghost 3 to use with it, but I can not find the link to download it.

The Norton Backup Web Link is at <https://nobu-beta.backup.com/session/new> , but without the small program that I downloaded, one can not use it, I don't think.

While doing that I took down my Christmas decorations. I stored away the small artificial Christmas tree and the artificial wreath from the front door, and a few other small decorative items. I put the two artificial floral wreaths on the front door. I put the large beer stein with the missing handle on the teak stand on the lazy Susan along with a few other small bric-a-brac items on the oak dining table. I had a second power strip on the dining table for the Christmas tree lights, so I moved the power cords for the Samsung color laser printer and its Netgear USB print server to the second power strip, so to use the Samsung color laser printer on the Network, one has to turn on the second power strip. To symbolize the warmth in the apartment we have no longer felt for quite a long time during the winter, I put out the Brazilian pen holder that a Brazilian friend gave me over 20 years ago. However, I no longer have the engraved silver Mark Cross pen that came with it, since when I lived on Steamboat Road, I had three Irish visitors over for beer, and it seemed to have disappeared that evening. However, I replaced it with a www.harvard.edu pen that I bought at Staples as a clearance item that still works after all of these years. The primary Vista computer has not frozen since I put the third one gigabyte PNY PC3200 memory strip back in it along with the other two, so maybe my recent freezing problem was caused by switching the memory that I did when I put in the new 512 meg. video card in the Epox computer. I name my computers after their motherboards and locations and operating systems. However, I had blue screen problems with the previous memory setup, so maybe by changing some CMOS settings which I did earlier a week or more ago, I have solved any primary Vista computer problems. Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 2:15 A.M.. I installed the Windows updates on the primary Vista and the Abit computers. On the Abit computer, the Windows Media player would not work after reconfiguring the system. The fix is to delete the "DRM" folder which is in different places depending on your operating system, so now the Windows Media player works on the Abit computer. I am now copying the Server folder to the Windows 7 partition, since the first partition is invisible in Windows 7. I will then copy it to the second hard drive. I then have to do a backup to save the changes to the second hard drive and then to the Maxtor external hard drive. It seems like I do more systems maintenance with all of the computers in the apartment than actually using them. CIO

Note: <888> 01/14/09 Wednesday 1:00 A.M.. I did some system's maintenance. I took one of the 1 gigabyte PNY 3200 memory strips out of the Abit computer, and I put it in the primary Gigabyte computer. The 1 gigabyte generic memory that I took out the primary Gigabyte computer, I put in the Abit computer. I also removed the 93 gigabyte Maxtor hard drive from the primary Gigabyte computer, and I put it in as a second hard drive in the Abit computer, and then I backed up the first hard drive with both partitions to the second hard drive on the Abit computer. I took the spare LG DVD/RW drive, and I put it in the primary Vista Gigabyte computer. This took a while. Current system at <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . CIO

Note: <888> 01/13/09 Tuesday 9:35 P.M.. I finally got around to watering the plants last night, before I went to bed. I ate the sautéed steak with Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce and A1 Bulls Eye steak sauce. I sautéed a 13 ounce New York strip steak, by putting 1.5 tablespoons of olive oil in a 10 inch diameter frying pan on medium high electric burner heat, and I add two cloves of peeled and minced garlic. Once the olive oil bubbles, I turn the steak about every minute. After the first side has cooked for a minute, I season it with garlic powder, ground black pepper, and Italian spices, and then I do the other side after it has cooked for a minute. I basically cook about a .75 inch steak about four minutes a side all together. I then put the hot frying pan on a dinner plate to warm up the dinner plate, and when I put the steak on the dinner plate, I put the chunks of toasted garlic on top of it. This is a leaner less cholesterol way of cooking the steak instead of using butter with the olive oil.

I make the vegetable mixture by taking one medium size potato, and I cut it into 1/3rd inch cubic chunks. I put about .75 inch of water in plastic microwave pot with lid, and I add the potato chunks, about 10 baby carrots, and about six sprigs of broccoli, and I microwave it in a 1100 watt microwave oven on four vegetable cycles. I then drain the water out of the plastic pot with its lid, and I put the vegetables in a bowl with a couple of tablespoons of olive oil on them. I use a plastic squeeze bottle to dispense olive oil. One buy plastic microwave cookware at www.walmart.com . CIO

Then at New Lee Jeans 40% off with free shipping , I ordered two 46 inch waste and 30 inch length in dark stone Lee Store - Product Detail Regular Fit Jean - Big and Tall for $22.99 each pair less the 20% off coupon for $9.20 reduction for $36.78 total order with free shipping on over $25 order arrived about 10 A.M. this morning. I woke up at 1 P.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out to my 3 P.M.. appointment. I then walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center before and after my walk. I stopped by CVS, and I bought two CVS SuperAdvanced soft toothbrushes for $3 both and .18 tax for $3.18 total. I walked by the Chase Bank on Mason Street, and I got some quarters to have available for parking downtown. I told them they should have bought the Greenwich Time building on East Elm street for a new bank, since it is safer to park there with safer entrance and exit from the parking area as opposed to the Putnam Avenue at Greenwich Avenue. The Van Driver men's clothing store building just east of the Greenwich Time building is also for sale. I finished my walk. I went by the Greenwich Library. I found a Mickey Mouse doll in the parking lot that I left at the reception desk lost and found. I chatted with a regular computer user. I then returned home. I picked up my mail. I chatted with my new neighbor from the Ukraine. I chatted with a relative. I tried on the new Lee Jeans. Waist 46 inches and length 30 inches is about the right size for me, since when I tuck my shirt in the winter, it uses an inch or so, and since I wear suspenders, it does not matter if they are a bit loose. Also when one sits down, one's belly tends to expand out, so they will be more comfortable in a sitting position. I will now make and eat the same sautéed steak and vegetable mixture, which I will eat with a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 01/13/09 Tuesday 4:10 A.M.. It seems to work just fine, but the video in a dark apartment does not come out too well.

Video link here <http://mikelouisscott.com/mls-apt-011309/> .

I used the 1 gigabyte SD card from the Polaroid digital camera. It is suppose to take 140 minutes of video. It uses three AAA batteries. I suppose in the daylight it would work better. I put it in the camera bag with my other digital cameras.

Whenever my computer gets hacked which happens several times a night by unknown hackers, I turn off the cable modem to reset the Cable modem IP address. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. CIO

I have a 3 P.M. appointment today. CIO

Note: <888> 01/12/09 Monday 11:40 P.M.. I woke up at 3 P.M. today, when I had a computer telephone call from CVS. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I went back to bed until 5:30 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. I opened up the Abit computer, and I connected the front panel USB cable to the motherboard, so the front panel USB 2.0 ports now work. When I was building the Abit computer on the bed last night, I lost its generic case lock, which will probably surface some time in the future. I was told last Friday night at T-Mobile on Greenwich Avenue that they have shut down the 60 year old graphite reactor at the Brook Haven National laboratory across the way from Greenwich, Connecticut out on the North Shore of Long Island. I think it is in Cold Spring Harbor. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by CVS on Greenwich Avenue. I picked up a prescription. I also bought two 1 liter bottles of CVS oral antiseptic mouse rinse for $2.99 each and .36 tax for $6.34 total. I then went by the Chase Bank ATM machine on Mason Street. They are suppose to open their new office at the old Harvey Electronics store just west of Greenwich Avenue on January 26, 2008. That is a dangerous driveway to drive in and out. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. Renaissance Capital seems to still be in business at the southeast train station building. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I stopped by CVS again, and I bought two 12 packs of CVS twin blades razors with rubber handles for $3 each package and .36 tax for $6.36 total. I finished my walk. I cleaned the snow and ice off the two benches on either side of the veterans monument across the street from the senior and the arts center. I clean off the three benches in front of the senior and the arts center. Thus the rest of the ice should melt in the daytime, so they will be comfortable to sit on for any cigarette smokes outside in the cold. I next went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a 24 ounce box of VanderKamps frozen fish filets for $4.21, five 14.5 ounce cans of College Inn low fat chicken broth for $1 each, two 9.5 ounce tubs of Stop and Shop deli sliced honey ham for $2.50 each tub, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, fresh green Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $1.40, and fresh broccoli crowns for $1.99 a pound for $2.57 for $21.17 total. I chatted with another computer person. I returned home, and I put away my purchases. I will now eat a sautéed precooked Plumrose 6 ounce ham steak with Dijon mustard on it, and my usual vegetable mixture with olive oil and a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

Earlier, I ate two Florida tangerines and a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 01/12/09 Monday 7:05 A.M.. I went ahead, and I removed the matsonic motherboard from the Matsonic computer, and I put in the Abit motherboard mentioned below, so it is now the Abit computer. I also installed one of the refurbished Thermaltake Volcano cpu coolers. It works just fine, and it boots from the DVD drive too. The front USB ports do not seem to work though. Perhaps, I removed the plug from the motherboard by mistake. I will check it later. I installed the plug and play drivers for the motherboard on the primary operating system, and it works just fine. I then installed Windows 7 on a second 40 gigabyte partition on the 160 gigabyte hard drive. I did a minimal configuration of Windows 7. I am now backing it up to Maxtor external hard drive. CIO

Note: <888> 01/11/09 Sunday 10:55 P.M.. I tried reflashing the bios on the Matsonic computer motherboard, but the AMI Bios Flash update would not work.

Note: <888> 01/11/09 Sunday 7:00 P.M.. I did a Vista complete PC backup of the primary Vista computer from the first hard drive to the second hard drive, before going to bed early this morning. I also ate the last piece of cherry pie. I went to bed after the last note. I woke up at 11:30 A.M. this morning. I chatted with a relative. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I chatted with two relatives. I cleaned a few inches of snow and ice off the Audi. I put clean linens on the bed. I did two loads of laundry. I put Windows 7 on the Northgate Syntax computer on the second hard drive. It installed without any problems, however it does not show the first hard drive, so I can not at this point use it to backup the entire system. I still have to configure it a bit. I tried to put Windows 7 on the Matsonic computer, by changing the DVD/RW and CD/RW drives from Cable Select to Master Slave, and that still did not work, and then I tried the external USB DVD/RW drive, and that did not work. On the primary Vista computer, I did a Vista Complete PC backup from the first hard drive to the Maxtor external hard drive. I do not at this point have room to put Windows 7 on the primary Vista computer in a seperate partition. I have two new spare Maxtor 320 gigabyte hard drives, so possibly I could reconfigure the hardware to be able to put Windows 7 on in a seperate partition, but that would be a future project, I would have to think about. I will now eat the same dinner as last night. I will then shower and clean up. CIO

Note: <888> 01/11/09 Sunday 12:50 A.M.. I was able to install Windows 7 X86 edition on the Epox computer without any problems. It works just fine. The Creative web cam and the Hauppauge TV card drivers are not recognized though. I will not configure it just now. I shut down the Epox computer. I sautéed one of the steaks, and I ate it with my usual vegetable mixture and a glass of watered down passion punch, and I ate it all with a glass of passion punch. The relative was excited about seeing USS George H.W. Bush commissioned - CNN.com .

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I threw out the garbage, and there was about four inches of snow on the ground.

!***! I was able to download Window7 X86 from Windows 7 and going to Windows 7 Beta Customer Preview . They send you an email with the Product registration and download link once you sign in.

I burned two copies of the Windows 7 X86 to DVD with Nero. I chatted with a relative and a friend.

I tried booting the Windows 7 DVD X86 on the Matsonic computer, but its DVD drive would not boot it. I tried some other CMOS settings. I finally shrunk the Epox computer second hard drive to make a 20 gigabyte partition, and I am now installing Windows 7 X86 on it without any problems. I will now burn two copies of the Windows 7 64 bit version. CIO

Note: <888> 01/10/09 Saturday 6:55 A.M.. Well not much happening over here in northwest Belle Haven, Connecticut. Me thinks that Microsoft is telling a fib about 2.5 million people being able to download Windows 7 beta. More than likely with all of the flooding in the Seattle, Washington area, they have experienced some sort of technical problems. Well, we are in for snow starting at 11 A.M. this morning, so get use to being inside. I do not drive until the roads are cleared, since my Audi only has about a 1/4th to 3/8th of an inch tread on the tires, and from experience, I do not think it is safe to drive in snowy slippery conditions despite any vehicle that one might have. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Stay cold and comfortable at home.

I found this link <http://www.papygeek.com/windows/telecharger-windows-7-beta-1-gratuitement/> that has the download links for Windows 7. I tried downloading the Windows 7 X86 version a couple of dozen times, but it always fails before 25% complete. I was able to download the 64 bit version, but I do not use 64 bit CPUs. You also have to download the small updates from Microsoft. The download links are to Microsoft not France. I guess the word "telecharger" means download.

I also found this fast download link for Windows 7 Fast Download Access: Apps, Games, Movies, Music, & TV Shows! , but when I tried to buy the three day pass for $4.87, I was given an error message. Note: <888> 01/09/09 Friday 10:55 P.M.. I went out after the last note. I went by Cell Phones, Cellular Phone Plans, Prepaid Cell Phones, Free Cell Phones & Deals - Stick Together with T-Mobile on Greenwich Avenue. I bought another T Mobile Hotspot@Home Linksys Wireless router Model No. WRT54G-TM for $19.99 and a T-Mobile Nokia 2610 starter pack for $6.99 and $1.62 tax for $28.60 total. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the bathroom at the Greenwich Senior and Arts center. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 2.5 ounce container of Gold Emblem garlic powder for .99. I then complete my walk. At the beginning of my walk, I chatted with two local cigar smokers. Not much seemed to be going on downtown during the colder evening. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with a couple of the regulars.

I was given a flyer for the Rye, New York Arts Center way out west of us for the The Rye Arts Center which is showing "heavens above" photographs of the universe from the hubble telescope from January 13 to February 21, 2009 telephone number 1-914-967-0700 x 33.

I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station, and I bought $6 of self service premium for $2.399 a gallon for 2.499 gallons for 28.6 miles driving since last Friday at odometer setting of 62093 miles for 11.44457 miles per gallon this past week in mostly local traffic. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a four pack of New York strip steaks for $5.99 a pound for $14.56, a five pound bag of Maine potatoes for $2.99, and four 18 ounce cans of Campbell's New England clam chowder for $1.50 each can for $23.55 total. I then returned home. I tested the Audi cigarette lighter with the Nokia cigarette lighter charger that I bought, and it works fine with the Nokia AT&T wireless go phone that I have. I left the cigarette lighter charger in the arm rest compartment between the seats. I brought up its box, but the case that came with it is too small. I put away my purchases. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature and the shipping box that came today.

T-Mobile HotSpot @Home Wireless Router by D-Link from T-Mobile Accessories: batteries, cases and belt clips, faceplates, chargers, adaptors, headsets, and more for $19.99 and $5.99 shipping and $1.56 tax for $27.54 total arrived.

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I will shower and clean up shortly.

My actual electricity bill for December 2008 at www.cl-p.com was $168.70 which I have already paid the budget amount of $90 for. I have a surplus from Energy assistance that makes up the difference. That is without using the electric heat.

The average temperature in December 2008 was 33.8 degrees Fahrenheit, and the average temperature for December 2007 was 34.2 degrees Fahrenheit.

For 32 days in December 2008, I used 770 KWH or about 27.5 KWH a day compared to 30 days in December 2007, when I used 1381 KWH or 46.03 KWH a day. From the bill, it now looks as of January 6, 2009, I might now be on the Night Time electric rate.

Note: <888> 01/09/09 Friday 6:55 A.M.. Nothing ever happens in Greenwich, Connecticut Greenwich Time, because when the "Old Guard" get back from their winter homes in Florida, they do not expect it to have changed too much despite all the turmoil of New York coming and going all of the time.

Byram group eyes purchase of historic homes - Greenwich Time . They Lyon family in Greenwich, Connecticut are suppose to be relatives to the Queen Mum of England's Scottish family Bowles Lyon. Possibly they left Greenwich, Connecticut and Lyon Farm to move to Lyon Farm Road out in Nantucket where Admiral Moore's family lived, and where I use to fish. It is pretty bleak out there in the winter. However, Nantucket had Scottish roots in that the so called original Quakers were actually Scottish, and they became Quakers, so they would not have to pay for a minister. Thus if the old Lyon house is down by the corner here, I am possibly living where the original Lyon Farm was, in which case there might be some historical connection to this property long since forgotten. I went to school with Wendy Lyon, and I knew the Lyon twins at one time. Wendy Lyon was one of the class photographers in my class of 1965 at Greenwich Country Day School. Nantucket remained Tory during the American revolution because the British Navy controlled a lot of the sea. However, Benjamin Franklin's mother was a Folger from Nantucket, so possibly her group of friends worked for the British while the men were out discovering America. Last I knew www.harvard.edu chairs at the Greenwich Hospital thrift shop only cost $45, but you have to remember a cleaver chair builder in Concord,

Massachusetts designed it, so the rather large Harvard students could not hit each other over the heads with chairs in the dining rooms at the commons at Harvard in the old days. It is a lot colder in Cambridge, Massachusetts than in the New York area, so people tend to spend more time inside studying, when they are not working. CIO

As I recall, the furthest north I have ever been in Maine is Brunswick, Maine. I recall after the Seabrook demonstration in the spring of 1977, I hitch hiked down to Williamsburg, Virginia, and on the return back up north to Durham, New Hampshire, I recall also hitch hiking up to Portland, Maine, where I stayed for a couple night at the Y.M.C.A., and then I recall hitch hiking up to Brunswick, Maine, and when I arrived at the entrance of Bowdon College, it was near dusk and cold, so I hitch hiked back down to Nantucket, where I usually had a roof over my head. As I recall, when I was at the New Hampshire Liquor store at the Portsmouth circle this summer buying Rothschild white wine, I noticed the Howard Johnson's is not longer there, where I once had a bowl of oatmeal on a cold night, but nearby is a Bickfords which is another Danish family in Greenwich, Connecticut. Note: <888> 01/09/09 Friday 1:55 A.M.. I woke up at 3 A.M. yesterday morning. I ate a baloney and turkey and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with 1/3rd of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. I checked the Epox computer setup to make sure it works in Clone mode with the primary monitor and the Sony high definition CRT television. It works just fine that way. However, I had the speakers plugged into the wrong Creative sound card jack, so I fixed that, and also the headset was not plugged into the rear USB 2.0 seven port device, so I plugged them in. The power to the seven port USB device is turned on by the switch for the HP printer, which I have not yet relabeled, and the HP printer is turned on by the control panel switch for the Northgate Syntax computer, but the HP laser printer is still attached to the Epox computer. I tested out the clone mode on the Sony television watching some of the www.mit.edu courses on physics. I then returned the Epox computer to two monitor mode with the ATI Catalyst program, and I shut down the Epox computer. I still can not get the Northgate Syntax computer to install the Vista home updates, but possibly the Microsoft server is busy. I filled out my new lease for the Greenwich Housing Authority, and I copied the paper work, I need to go with it. Housing Authority. I went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street. I then went by the Wachovia Bank on Benedict Place, and I paid my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I then went to the Greenwich Hospital outpatient clinic, and I got the follow up on the medical physical I had before Christmas. My Cholesterol is 210 which is way too high, and my bad cholesterol is way too high too. The doctor gave me a prescription for Tricor 145 mg. once a day, and told me I should exercise more and try more of a Mediterranean diet which is expensive in this area, unless somebody sends the Sixth Fleet to the Mediterranean where it might be cheaper to eat that diet. I have to go back to get more laboratory work in six weeks, and then see the doctor two weeks after that. I then went by CVS, and I dropped off the prescription form. I then went further downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by the Senior and the Arts center, and I used the bathroom. I stopped by Subway barber, and they now cost $20 for a hair cut. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I played a Green Backs scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I stopped by the Classic Barber shop, and they are also $20. I really do not need a hair cut, since in colder weather long hair keeps your head warm. One can lose 50% of one's body heat through one's head in cold weather, so wear a warm cap or hat. I stopped by CVS, and I picked up my Tricor prescription, and I also bought a 12 pack of Thomas' English muffins for $1.99. I tried using my AT&T wireless go phone outside, but it would not work. I stopped by T-Mobile store on Greenwich Avenue, and I bought a T Mobile Hotspot@Home Linksys Wireless router Model No. WRT54G-TM for $19.99 and $1.20 tax for $21.19 total. I then went by the AT&T wireless store, and they checked out my wireless telephone, and they said the only problem was that one occasionally has to turn it on and off, and not leave it on all of the time, which I do. I then finished my walk, and I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and chatted with a couple of the reference librarians and the janitor. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I chatted with a village local about the price of tea in China. I bought a 59 ounce container of Simply orange orange juice with calcium for $3, a 16 ounce two eight ounce tub package of Smart Balance margarine for $2.99, a three pound bag of yellow onions for $2.49, Chiquita slightly green bananas for .64 a pound for $1.66, and a bulb or garlic for $2.99 a pound for .33 for $10.47 total. I then returned home. I chatted with a relative. I installed the T-Mobile Linksys Wireless router where the other Linksys wireless router was, and I first configured it per instructions, and I named it "mike-scott" without password access. I tested it using my wireless Dell laptop computer. It works just fine. We have two weak signal password protected wireless signals in this area. However, my server would not work with it directly connected to the system per instructions. Thus I have it setup to work off the Netgear router, and I can turn it on and off with the left switch on the FIC server control panel. I disconnected the AT&T wireless router, but it is still in position available for use. I started to file my note, and my computer froze four different times, and I rebooted. I turned off the cable modem and the wireless router, and the computer does not freeze, so it would lead me to believe, I am being hacked through the internet access or the wireless router, since it happened more frequently than usual. However, I will try to run a non password protected wireless router, since at my apartment location, it would give wireless access in the building lobby, but if I am hacked, I obviously will not be able to do it. I was told by the www.fbi.gov in New Haven, Connecticut after over 500 telephone calls over the last three years, that if I can find out whom the hacker is, I can file an affidavit with the Connecticut attorney general, and then the www.fbi.gov will investigate it. That obviously is why I have not been getting much real work done over the last three years. I will now make and eat the same dinner as the last four nights. CIO

I received this email about the Yellowstone earthquakes.

Beginning of email:

Dear Mr. Scott,

If you are asking whether these recent swarms at Yellowstone are normal, yes, they are.

The last time there was a swarm this large at Yellowstone was 1985. That swarm was significantly larger than this one. You can also consider that Yellowstone last had a volcanic eruption 70,000 years ago, whereas there have likely been scores or hundreds of swarms similar to this just in the past few thousands of years. Though the news articles might say that scientists are "baffled", that is a bit extreme. We see these a lot. We don't understand everything about them. Such is life when you study things that happen miles beneath our feet.

For current updates on Yellowstone, please visit <http://volcanoes.usgs.gov/yvo/>

Hope this helps.

I put the Digital camera on the center right bookcase shelf in the hallway for now. I used the #9 tip on the Targus power supply on the Dell Latitude CS laptop, and it works just fine. The CMOS password was cleared. However, it would not recognize the USB

I switched the Dell IBM 10 gigabyte hard drive to the Toshiba laptop, and I am in the process of putting Ubuntu on the Toshiba laptop. I did a low level quick format of the 10 gigabyte IBM hard drive before starting to install Ubuntu. I put the Toshiba laptop 5 gigabyte hard drive in the Dell Latitude CS laptop, and its copy of XP Home works just fine. The 5 gigabyte hard drive is partitioned to eliminate two bad sectors, so it will not work with Ubuntu anyway. I will move the wireless PCI and LAN PCI cards from the Toshiba laptop to the Dell laptop. I will setup the Dell laptop with its docking station and USB DVD/RW external hard drive on the small computer desk to the left of the primary Vista computer, and I will put the Toshiba laptop with Ubuntu and a 2X LAN PCI card on the oak coffee table by the French reproduction chair. However in that setup, since the Dell laptop does not have a telephone modem, I will not have the potential for using the internet in case of a power outage, which really does not matter.

I removed the I/O Magic DVD/RW drive from its old case without power supply, and I put it in the new one, and I tested it, and it works just fine. The I/O Magic DVD/RW does not have sound, if I needed to use sound. I put it by the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. I threw out the garbage. I picked up my mail. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by the A&P Fresh at the Riverside Shopping center, but they did not have powdered milk. I bought two 12 ounce packages of Kraft processed white cheese slices for $5 both. I then returned to central Greenwich, and I went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought four 5 quart boxes of Stop and Shop powdered milk for $5.59 each box, a two tablet package of 2,000 flushes blue for $3.39, a day old bakery Cherry pie for $2.50, two 11.4 ounce boxes of Stop and Shop frozen fish filets for $3.69 each, and a bulb of garlic at $2.99 a pound for .45 and .20 tax for $36.28 total. I then drove around downtown, and I returned home. Not much seems to be going on. I put away my groceries. I watched part of a British movie on the Turner movie channel. Note: <888> 01/05/09 Monday 4:15 A.M.. I did some research, and I found several comments that the DeLonghi PAC A120E air conditioner tends to leak water and over time it gets worse. Thus since the order was at Amazon, I was able to cancel it without any problems. Moreover, I do not think a 12,000 BTU air conditioner would be powerful enough to cool my apartment with the windows facing the western sun in the summer, so I will continue to use the General Electric Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control until which time I need a new one. Although it weighs quite a lot and is awkward to take out and install, I think I can handle that for the near future. Who knows it might even last quite a while longer. CIO

Note: <888> 01/05/09 Monday 12:35 A.M.. I chatted with a friend after the last note. I rested until 9 P.M.. I ate a piece of cherry pie. I watched a bit of television.

Since it is very hot in my apartment without an air conditioner for over half the year, and although the General Electric Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control is 8 years old, it still works fine, it is very difficult taking out and put in with the seasons.

I ordered this DeLonghi unit Amazon.com: DeLonghi PAC A120E Pinguino 12,000-BTU Portable Air Conditioner with Eco-Friendly R410a Refrigerant Gas: Kitchen & Dining for $227.88. Thus since it does not install in the window, it will be easier to maintain. One just runs the hose out the window. I could use a longer hose and put it elsewhere in the room.

De'Longhi Product Detail - PAC A120E:PORTABLE AIR CONDITIONER

However, it is 15 inches in depth, so it probably would not fit on the window ledge, since it needs room for intake from the rear, but I could put it where the chair is beneath the stereo system is, since I never use that chair. Thus I will also not have the problem of removing it and installing it during the seasonal change. However, I might go ahead and install the General Electric until this spring, and use it for extra air conditioning, but I have plenty of time to think about that. For the price with free shipping it is a good deal for my apartment that I have to keep cool, since it is necessary to keep the computers cool in the summer, and I also tend not to do very well working in warm temperatures.

I made and ate the same dinner as two and four nights ago, but I had diced potato chunks with the vegetables au gratin instead of flavored rice on the side. I chatted with a friend for a while before dinner and a friend of his too. Not much seems to be going on around here, but it did seem like there were more prosperous people than normal downtown today from what I normally see. Maybe some of the wealthier people with the economic recession are having to start to forage around for survival. Note: <888> 01/03/09 Saturday 4:15 A.M.. On the subject Recent Earthquakes for Yellowstone about all I know is this Global Volcanism Program | Yellowstone | Summary. I did see the movie on television about two years ago called "Super Volcano" which as I recall was about Yellowstone having an eruption, and it was quite convincing. I know the local news anchor in Manhattan Jack Ford the son of former President Ford use to be a park ranger in Yellowstone while his father was president. Since none of the news media is covering any stories about it, I assume it means that with the geothermal springs there, they have lots of earthquakes. It is a large area, so maybe individuals in that area have not felt them. I do know about four years ago, when I chatted with the American Express 800 number in Utah, they told there were a lot of earthquakes around Yellowstone, so from my perspective it might not be a new story, but something that has been ongoing. CIO

Note: <888> 01/03/09 Saturday 2:40 A.M.. Alas, the Ninth Circle and Uncle Charles are no longer down in Greenwich Village for any freezing sailors from the Commonwealth. However, as I recall on Greenwich Street about two blocks north of the ninth street at Little Charles Place, there use to be an all night coffee shop that served Eggs Florentine for about $2. Eggs Florentine is like Eggs Benedict, but instead of having Canadian Bacon inside, it has spinach, which according to Poppie the Sailor Man is suppose to be good for you. I know it has lots of iron. Alas Olive Watson Oil is no longer around these parts, but she left a baby hospital in Greenwich, Connecticut in case anyone is having babies. I think all of the young sailors now hang out at some place I last heard of called "Splash" near the Norman Vincent Peale's Marble College Church, but anywhere around the waterfront, or for that sake anywhere in the New York City area, one could always be mugged. I once had somebody try to steal a $5 Timex watch from me in Central Park, until I convinced the person, it was not really worth anything. There are probably a whole lot of new "Rat Holes" in New York City that I do not know about. In the old days, the "Old Guard" group of people from British Intelligence kept an eye out on the Greta Garbo Home for Wayward Boys, and as I recall it was just east of St. Vincent's Hospital on 13th street in Greenwich Village. The people whom live around Beekman Place in the United Nation's neighborhood tend to have jobs or money, or possibly they are house sitting for people whom always seem to be away traveling. The Upper East Side use to have a lot of upscale office workers whom had extra money for higher rents. Whether anyone really know what goes on in Manhattan or not is opened to debate. From my perspective having observed it from 1961 until about 1993 is that it is invaded by a different group of people everyday depending on the economy and the weather, so it changes all of the time. I quit going to Manhattan once I got on the internet over 15 years ago, since there was no need to gather the news from those writing and making the news. Some of the younger generation seem to have disposable income, so their focus might be different than the older generation whom might be more conservative with their money. In other words, I would not waste $20 train fare to go into Manhattan round trip to observe a Microsoft conference, when they could just as easily put it on the internet for anyone interested. They obviously have some other motive like holding one hostage in Manhattan while somebody from Manhattan comes out here and makes a big fuss over nothing. Greenwich, Connecticut this century since the invention of modern air travel has been a bedroom community of world travelers, so more than likely a few people here have been to the same places from time to time, and the new generation might feel the need to travel if they can afford it, but the older generation has other priorities. I dare say, there is an experienced group of people here whom seen to be experienced at one comes back in our direction on the rebound. We do know <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> seems to have met everyone first with his multiple language skills, so possibly if people want to learn multiple languages, they should figure out how he learned them or whom or what group taught them to him. He could just as easily have been a foreign intelligence agent or a domestic agent, or possibly a bell boy at the Waldorf Astoria that picked up a lot of languages. CIO

Note: <888> 01/02/09 Friday 11:35 P.M.. Also the two foot high brick wall on the north side of the Cole Auditorium of the Greenwich Library seems to have been knocked down in front of the handicap parking spaces as if somebody put their vehicle in forward instead of reverse when backing out from parking there. Judging from the brick work damage, the vehicle must have had a bit of damage too. CIO

Note: <888> 01/02/09 Friday 11:15 P.M.. During the recession in the early 1970s, I recall certain businesses did well. I recall in Manhattan at the time, yogurt and bagels were big sellers. I ate a lot of liverwurst sandwiches from the deli near the United Nations next to the A&P on Second Avenue and 52nd street. I recall a lot of Vermont people had businesses in downtown Greenwich Village, and one of the busiest at night and the early morning hours was David's Pot Belly named after a Pot Belly stove they had in the restaurant that sold hundreds of different types of omelets with English muffins and coffee for about $3. They were located just west of Seventh Avenue on Christopher Street in the heart of the area where United States Government Military Intelligence use to frequent along with the smaller student population. CIO

Note: <888> 01/02/09 Friday 11:05 P.M.. I will not put the three license copy of McAfee Internet Security 2009 on my three primary computers, until the current copy of McAfee Internet Security 2008 expires in the middle of September 2009. I ate two tangerines before going out. I did not walk Greenwich Avenue tonight, because I am a bit tired and worn out, and it also looked like it might be slippery out with the possibility of black ice, which is an icy condition that one can not see at night or even the day time for that matter. There are suppose to be 150 financial hedge funds in Greenwich, Connecticut, so with the economic decline, more than likely there will be future financial failures in this area. Also I read in www.forbes.com when the hedge funds first started moving out here, they were the sleaziest game in town. The Greenwich Time wrote that the reason that they all moved out here was not because they were scarred of terrorism in Manhattan, but that they are not as closely regulated here in Connecticut as they would be in New York State, and that since the trial courts in Connecticut are backed up over 10 years, it can take a long time to bring a law suit to trial in case the hedge funds go bankrupt. Thus one should watch one's money. I recommended to the Chase Bank www.chase.com over a year and a half ago that one should put their money in United States Government long term treasury bills, but although their interest rate is low, one would not lose their money in an economic decline such as we have experienced. That judgment was based on the fact that the Royal Bank of Scotland had sold as of ten years ago over three trillion dollars of United States Government certificates of debt or treasury bills to the Japanese. A basic economic principle is that if you have a lot of money, and you buy something its price will go up, and just as easy its price will go down when you sell it. It is called the law of "Supply and Demand" a basic economic principle. I have noticed recently, there is not much activity around the southeast building at the Greenwich Train Station office plaza where the Russian fund Renaissance Capital use to be, so possibly they have moved or gone out of business. They use to be quite busy with lots of limousines coming and going, and when I checked them out on the internet, they were registered in Cyprus. The good news is that I got $6 of CVS Bonus Bucks tonight that I will use on some future purchase. I have never worked for CVS, but I did once work for www.cbsnews.com during the two months of the Watergate hearings in the summer of 1973 as a clerk typist, and since it was a live feed from the Senate Hearings, there was not production going on there, and the only thing I noticed unusual at the Broadcast Center back then was a French aircraft carrier showed up with about two thousand French sailors. CBS News has never been profitable, CBS makes their money off the Soap Operas which Proctor and Gamble their biggest advertiser owns. CIO

Note: <888> 01/02/09 Friday 9:55 P.M.. I went out after the last note. I cleaned the snow and ice off the Audi. I went by the Greenwich Library, and I returned the Harry Potter DVD. I chatted with a local lawyer about the price of tea in China. I then went by the Chase Bank on Mason Street, and I used their ATM machine. I then went by CVS on Greenwich Avenue, and I chatted with the same local lawyer about the price of tea in China. I bought a 12 pack of Thomas' English muffins for $1.99. I then went by the central Greenwich Post Office, and I mailed the Microsoft Money 2006 reports to an interested relative, and I also mailed the McAfee $20 rebate information. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station, and I bought $5 of self service premium at $2.299 a gallon for 2.173 gallons purchased at 28.1 miles driving since last Friday a week ago at odometer reading of 62064 miles for 12.93143 miles per gallon. I checked the tires for 32 PSI. They told me the same staff is still at the station. I then returned home. From what I can tell, the original Greenwich, Connecticut ties with China were not former ambassador Bush being assigned to China in the Nixon administration, it was that the Luce family of Time magazine lived here, and before they got into the magazine business in America, they were Christian missionaries in China. Also Herbert Hoover was a coal mining engineer in China, and his son has lived here in Greenwich, Connecticut for many years. Of course more than likely a few Chinese were doing laundry in Manhattan, before Greenwich, Connecticut evolved from a farming community to a suburban business center. CIO

Note: <888> 01/02/09 Friday 6:05 P.M.. I checked with the Greenwich Police at their non emergency number at 1-203-622-8000, and they said it was safe to drive on the roads. I guess I will go out after I shower and clean up and do some errands. I also had a wake up call at noon today from some group calling itself the United States Federation of Police Officers trying to fund raise, and I told them I have already done my fair share of walking in this area. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer. CIO

Note: <888> 01/02/09 Friday 5:45 P.M.. I ate a baloney and turkey and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips along with a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

I chatted with two relatives and a friend. I chatted with an out of town comment line twice. I went back downstairs, and the Otis Elevator person was here to fix a button on the elevator. I chatted a neighbor. I picked up the rest of my mail. I received a $10 survey check from Knowledge Networks. I have the $20 MaAfee rebate information ready to mail. Note: <888> 02/28/09 Saturday 11:35 A.M.. I was awake at 4 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes, and I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I installed Microsoft Money 2007 on the FIC server and the other three desktop computers beside already having it on the primary Vista computer. I installed any recent changes. I backed up the FIC server and the other three desktops to both their second internal hard drives and the external hard drives. I noticed on www.foxnews.com this morning that Bill O'Reilly is from Manhasset, Long Island where the Wright Brothers hardware store is, so I guess he better stay in broadcasting instead of going into Home Improvement in nearby Plandome Manor, Long Island where an even more conservative group of people live. When I lived out on Long Island part time from 1978 to 1983, I spent a lot of time driving to my relative's house in New Canaan, Connecticut, and I did not pay much attention to Greenwich, Connecticut, because I thought it was bad luck, when I visited off the train the day Ronald Reagan was shot and all Hell broke lose, back around February 1981. Note: <888> 02/27/09 Friday 10:00 A.M.. I went outside, and I threw out the garbage. I chatted with some neighbors and a Greenwich Housing Authority official. I walked around the building. From the back yard, one can see a new Sunoco gasoline station, so maybe there is one down by the Connecticut New York border where the Exxon station used to be or possibly where the Gulf station used to be. The new cage around the home plate of the baseball field looks like it is mostly finished. They have an old pole that needs to be removed though. From what I can tell, with the economic recession going on all over the world, there are probably more younger unemployed people downtown, so they do not need to have me out there volunteering my time observing on Greenwich Avenue. I did that for 26 years in Greenwich, since I moved off Nantucket, and I also did that for ten years in Manhattan and a few other places where Manhattan people go. Alas nobody ever communicates with me, since they are more interested in dealing with people with money, and thus low income people with communications do not get much communications in either direction. You would think, since we supposedly live in a democracy, someone would be interested in communicating with low income people, but they all seem to be more interested in following people whom they perceive to have money, which can frequently cost one money. The internet costs me a lot of money and time, but it is better than having uninformed people misrepresent one, based on what little they know. Greenwich, Connecticut is full of gossips whom really do not know much but soap operas, since they watch too much television. It is my viewpoint, it also costs me money to go downtown and volunteer my time, and there are plenty of other retired people with more money, whom might think about volunteering some of their time, as opposed to being sidewalk philosophers. I guess with the economic recession, basically all we can do is try to maintain appearances. I have a feeling that nearby Westchester County is getting a lot more of our business, since a lot of the people I seem to see downtown in Greenwich are coming from that direction trying to get some of our business. Alas, New York television seems to generate most of the media attention around here, but once quits going to New York City, it is really not relevant. CIO

Note: <888> 02/26/09 Thursday 6:15 P.M.. I studied some of the Dutch Royal family web site. I will have to look at it more, when I have the time. I do not speak Dutch, but since my mother is 100% Dutch from Holland, Michigan, I once thought about moving back to the Netherlands, where I might be around more of my native people, but I was told by the Dutch consulate in Manhattan to be repatriated to the Netherlands, you have to have a Dutch father, and not a Dutch mother. I guess at age 59, I would have a hard time getting use to another area, and it is very damp there, which is hard on the arthritis, like it is not damp on the west side of the Atlantic ocean. I guess because we are not longer able to go to New Amsterdam, they have forgotten about us. I installed the Quick Time viewer on the primary Vista computer, so I can view the content on the Dutch Royal Household web site. When my friend called last night, I ate a 1/5th piece of pumpkin pie afterwards, and I will eat another piece before going to bed tonight.

I tried printing out the Dutch family photo on the Samsung color laser printer, but it gave a out of memory error. I printed out two 4 inch by 6 inch copies of it with the HP Photo printer, and I put one over the Dutch royal couple's wedding photo that was hanging on the front entrance of my apartment, and I put the other one in my photo album. The one hanging on the front inside door has plastic wrap over it, since the glass on the frame broke, when it was hung above the light switch by the door, and kept falling on the floor. CIO

Note: <888> 02/26/09 Thursday 1:10 P.M.. I had a telephone call from a friend last night about 10:30 P.M.. We chatted for about a half hour.

The friend mentioned this story 2 Money Managers Held in New Wall St. Fraud Case - NYTimes.com .

Futures group suspends 2 Greenwich investors - Greenwich Time

One of my three roommates at www.lfc.edu my sophomore year was Carter Bacon, and his younger sister Robin Bacon was married to Paul Greenwood at one time. I am not sure if they are still married or not. I think the Bacon family were from the bankrupt Wall Street firm of Bacon Whitbold. I was a classmate at Greenwich Country Day School with George Whitbold, and his family ran the florist shop at the Waldorf Astoria. Back in the summer of 1968, when I first visited Nantucket on my own, I stayed on Orange Street in a small one bedroom apartment with about 200 other prep school students, and apparently the apartment was rented by George Whitbold. George Whitbold had a younger brother too, and they lived near the Greenwich Country Club. Anyway, Carter Bacon's mother lived next door to the Bobby Kennedy family in Hyannisport, so possibly the Kennedys have made or lost money in the Greenwood financial fraud. Caroline Kennedy also lives in North Salem, New York, so there are probably other people in that area involved too. Carter Bacon graduated from the University of Virginia school of law, and the last I heard he is practicing law at Nixon Peabody in Boston. He wrote in the Lake Forest College alumni magazine that he represents all of Saudi Arabia in Boston. He once sailed around the world solo on his father's sailboat from Grand Rapids, Michigan, so he also knows how to leave the country undetected. He goes by the alias "Bink".

There is also this story about North Salem, New York, since Stewart Mott lives in North Salem, New York G.M. Loses \$9.6 Billion; Wagoner Back in Washington - NYTimes.com. Richard Van Marter use to have a $85,000 house in North Salem New York, he sold for $150,000 about 10 years ago. It was sold to Richard about 25 years ago for $85,000 by the Presbyterian Church in North Salem, New York which owned it for the minister, and after the church closed for lack of interest, they sold the house to Richard. Thus the horse people probably have financial problems these days.

Also I was told by a relative that the fellow Stamford in in the financial fraud in Antigua also had a large office in Vero Beach, Florida, so he probably defrauded people down there too.

I finally woke up at 4 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes, and I made my bed. I did my house cleaning for the first time since the Friday before Christmas, so the apartment is a lot cleaner. I threw out the garbage, and the old periodical literature. The building custodian is back, he was sick for a few days. I told him he should get a flu shot at the Greenwich Hospital outpatient clinic. They have to label the new recycle garbage cans besides bottles and cans, they have to label one newspapers and one mixed paper, so people do not mix up the recycle materials.

I had the same dinner as two days ago. I went downstairs, and I chatted with neighbors. Earlier I chatted with a relative twice. I am a bit worn out from the house cleaning, so I will not be going out today. CIO

Note: <888> 02/25/09 Wednesday 6:20 P.M.. I heated and ate a 18 ounce can of Campbell's New England clam chowder, and I put a little bit of dried parsley on it. I chatted with a relative. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I think I might do house cleaning tomorrow after breakfast, when I wake up. CIO

Note: <888> 02/25/09 Wednesday 5:05 P.M.. Yesterday, I propped up the primary Vista computer with four French wine bottle corks that I cut on an angle, so the Microsoft wireless 6000 version 3 keyboard is on a sharper angle. I move the spices and other items from the top center kitchen cabinet to the metal and wicker videotape rack at the kitchen entrance. I put the new set of Chinese plates, saucers, and tea cups and silverware on the top center kitchen cabinet shelf. I straightened up the two lower shelves, and the same for the right kitchen cabinet. I have not done house cleaning since the Friday before Christmas, so sooner or later I have to that, now that I am not doing too much on the computer all of the time. Still the apartment is relatively clean. It does not make sense to me that they are redoing the baseball field home plate cage, since they did that a couple of years ago. However, that some times is volunteer project not funded by the town of Greenwich. In the old days before the Bushs came to glory, the Duke of Windsor set Greenwich, Connecticut on the map, when he dedicated a statue at the Electrolux factory in Old Greenwich, Connecticut. From the many people I have chatted with locally, more people seemed to have worked there than any other place. Alas, I do not know if the statue is there anymore or not. When I helped <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> run the apartment at 420 East 49th street in Manhattan, Wilbur Banks the Electrolux salesman from Greenwich even showed up there, and he sold Fred a new vacuum cleaner. Wilbur told me that Stillman Rockefeller had a large bar in his house on Glenville Road. Alas, I got rid of my two old Electrolux vacuum cleaners, since I did not have room for them, but I have the new Hoover machine that is somewhat awkward to use along with the older Sears upright that I fixed. I also got rid of the old Hoover upright. I spend so much time on the computers, that I frequently do not have time to get the larger perspective of the apartment, but it seems all right to me from my viewpoint. So one of the days, I will do house cleaning.

There do not seem to be any bargain basement bargains at Michael Louis Scott's Bottom Fishing Links . I think the Federal Government should use some of the Economic Stimulus package to give the non income tax paying low income individuals the same $300 tax return that they did last spring, but how about $500, since prices have gone up. CIO

Note: <888> 02/25/09 Wednesday 3:35 P.M.. Of course the Bush www.georgebush.com group after conquering the world of finance at Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. went into local Connecticut politics and were also involved in the local charity milk fund and the Welcome to the Frontpage - The Greenwich Red Cross , and when the younger generations got tired of playing horse shoes at Tod's Point, they moved to Texas and became involved with Pennzoil before branching off into private business and Texas politics and then at the National Level. Having been a resident in this area since 1961, with the first year in Stamford, Connecticut near where Vivian Vance lived before moving to Baldwin Farms North off Round Hill Road in 1962, I was aware of the Bush family for a long time, but alas since at my class at Greenwich Country Day School Greenwich Country Day , I was taught to be more private, since in my class of 66 people, I had a Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Frick, Dodge, and Warburg along with a few people from Time magazine www.time.com , so we eventually moved to New Canaan, Connecticut for a year, when we spent all of our time driving down to Greenwich, and finally after living briefly next door to the Rockefellers on Alpine Road, we moved back to Baldwin Farms South and then we moved up to Weston, Massachusetts for a while before we returned back to Greenwich, Connecticut in the summer of 1973 where we lived near the Bushs, when we lived on Cornelia Drive, thus from my viewpoint, somewhere out there in the world, there might be someone who knows more than what is in the public media. Alas, I do not pay much attention to the public media, since it mostly is trying to sell one items that one can not afford. I ate a piece of pumpkin pie. CIO

Note: <888> 02/25/09 Wednesday 2:40 P.M.. I went out, and I picked up the mail. I chatted with a friend. Not much seems to happening out here in Southwestern Connecticut, but it is my viewpoint with all of the New York people whom cross over the border into Connecticut that they might be up to something in our area that I am unaware of. Of course in the tristate area, people commute back and forth all of the time, but with the large metropolitan area nearby, we get a constant ebb and flow of traffic from the New York City area, which varies hour to hour and day to day and week to week and month to month and season to season. Alas, since I have lived in New York City, and since I have also lived at over 40 other locations, I tend to have a larger viewpoint than some of the locals. With all of the media people in residence in town, we tend to get over advertised for the services that we offer. It is rather quaint that whenever I explored the New York City library, it was never very busy, but the Greenwich Library www.greenwichlibrary.org seems to be a lot busier with all of its free internet access. Not many people seem to read too much of the periodical press, and the way I figure it, it costs most of the users more money in gasoline to drive to the Greenwich Library than it would cost to have internet access at home, but I guess they enjoy the trip out here to the country. In the old days, the students use to come out here and rent bicycles and in the warmer weather, they use to enjoy our outdoor parks, now they seem to enjoy the excitement of the internet in the Country for whatever it is worth. Having covered the Metropolitan Museum of Art for 10 years in Manhattan during the last recession, it was never as busy as the Greenwich Library seems to be. It is too bad they never used it more during boom times, and they would have a better direction as to have planned their long term futures. In other words, I tend to be more conservative in my outlook as far as the economy, because I have a Bachelors of Arts Degree in Economics from www.lfc.edu which tends to give one a perspective as to what to expect in the economy. Alas they are not yet selling apples on the sidewalk for a dollar, but I am sure some high tech people are trying to figure out what is the point of all this communications equipment if nobody knows how to communicate.

Possibly they do not even know English as a first language, and they just show up here, because the Hollywood types over advertise this area. Connecticut originally got to be well known from Mark Twain, and then Bing Crosby with Christmas in Connecticut, and finally about 30 years ago, a lot of corporations started putting executive offices out here, and the locals liked it because it decreased the local property taxes letting the corporations to pick up the bill for the commercial real estate. Also my only job in Manhattan was at www.cbsnews.com as a clerk typist during the spring and summer of 1973 during Watergate, and if you can recall in the early 1960s Lucy and Dezi made Connecticut famous in their television series, but alas Lucy's daughter lived in Bedford, New York at one time, but Lucy and Dezi were married by the Justice of the Peace in Byram, Connecticut, when in the Old Days, you could cross the state line and get married anytime 24 hours a day in Byram. I watched some chef on television that looked like www.jamieoliver.com. Maybe it was an older program. When I went outside, and I walked around the building. I noticed the building was built in 1925. One of my neighbors on the ground floor that has a garden each summer in back and has a garden hose coming out of his apartment window. It looks like the window has been left open 3 or 4 inches all winter. The bench by the corner of the building by the baseball field has one of its front wooden slats broken. They are also building a new wire metal cage around the baseball diamond. There is also still a broken window pane in the round attic window on the rear side of the building. The second Dell Latitude CS laptop computer would not start with the new generic USB 1.0 hub attached to its docking station, so I put the D-Link USB 1.0 powered hub on it, and it starts just fine. Note: <888> 02/24/09 Tuesday 4:40 P.M.. I woke up at 4 A.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes, and I made my bed. I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I finished copying the files to the Netgear LAN Storage Device. I have 66.4 gigabytes of files stored on it including the Server folder and files from the Primary Vista computer. I also made 10 folders for each of the nine computers and a spare tenth one. Also all nine computers are connected up to the Netgear LAN storage device. I backed up the changes on the Abit, Epox, and bedroom Gigabyte computer. I did not take the time to backup the changes on the laptops and the Northgate Syntax computer, which does not have a backup program. I installed the updates on the Northgate Syntax computer. For some reason, its LAN cable was disconnected from the Netgear switch, so I reconnected it. Also on the second Dell Latitude CS laptop computer would not boot, and when I removed the new generic USB 1.0 hub from it, it booted properly. I have an older Linksys USB 2.0 hub on the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop. However, I switch the new generic USB 1.0 hub with the other new generic USB 1.0 hub, and there was no problem, and then I tried the other one, and there was no problem. I went outside, and I checked the mail twice, and I chatted with neighbors. I ate a sautéed 8 ounce London Broil steak with steak seasoning and steamed vegetables with olive oil and watered down passion punch. It is cold outside, but the sun is warming up the apartment a bit. I saw the first sign of spring, a flock of robins flying by. One has to turn on the Netgear LAN storage device to have it work with the computers. Since it is basically a storage device, there is not a lot of need to use it all of the time. I thus have the files from my primary Vista computer hard drive saved on the second hard drive and the storage device, and also in the Vista Complete PC backup form on the second hard drive and two external hard drives. Not that is really necessary, but since I have the capability I save the files. CIO

Note: <888> 02/23/09 Monday 8:30 P.M.. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed right away. Have a good night and stay warm. High of 32 degrees Fahrenheit tomorrow and partly cloudy in the morning and sunny in the afternoon. CIO

The order with UPS: Tracking Information on the order for Netgear SC101 Storage Center Network Attached LAN HDD Enclosure: SC101-100NAR JustDeals.com Inc. and SC101 - NETGEAR.com and with Vista SP1 you use this software http://kb.netgear.com/app/answers/detail/a\_id/953 and http://kb.netgear.com/app/answers/detail/a\_id/667 and more information http://kb.netgear.com/app/products/model/a\_id/2537 for $19.95 and $6.95 shipping for $26.90 total arrived.

I put the new spare 320 gigabyte Maxtor hard drive in it. I set it up on the right side of the primary Vista computer center monitor. I set it to turn on and off with the right switch on the upper control panel. I still have to label the switch. I installed the Netgear SC101 software and the update on the primary Vista computer and the FIC server. It works just fine. I partitioned the drive into two 148 gigabyte partitions. It is only FAT32, so one can not do a Vista Complete PC backup to it, since that needs NTFS file system. I backed up the changes on both the primary Vista computer and the FIC server to their second hard drives. I copied some folders to the Netgear Storage drive. I am now copying the FIC server, server folder. Once that is done in about 30 minutes, I will start the FIC server, and I will shut down the primary Vista computer. I ate a ham and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with 1/5th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. I am a bit tired, so once I have shut down the primary Vista computer and started the FIC server in a half hour, I will go to bed. CIO

Note: <888> 02/23/09 Monday 1:50 P.M.. I went out after the last note. I chatted with neighbors. I went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. Most everything is 50% off. I bought a 4.5 foot high metal and wicker CD or videotape holder for $2. I browsed the shop, but I could not find anything else I need. I then went by the Greenwich Hardware store, and I bought a grey five foot long Wiremold Cord Protector for $12.99 less $1.30 10% discount and .70 tax for $12.39 total. I then went by CVS, and I picked up a prescription. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a six pack of day old Kaiser rolls for $1.25, a quart jar of B&G kosher dill pickle slices for $2.99, a top round London Broil for $2.99 a pound for $5.50 and another one for $6.22 less two $1.50 off Manager special coupons, , a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, broccoli crowns at $1.79 a pound for $1.93 and fresh Chiquita bananas for .67 a pound for $1.89 for $19.77 total. I then returned home. I tried to use my vice grips from the tool box in the rear of the Audi to straighten out one of the screw leg feet on the metal rack, and I almost broke it off, so I soldered it on more tightly upstairs. I put the rack behind the brass hat stand at the kitchen entrance. I cut a piece of the cord protector 18 inches long, and I used it to cover the cord in front of the Ethan Allen recliner. I put the rest in its box on the floor of the sweater closet in the hallway. I cut the two pound London Broil into 1.5 inch chunks, and I ground it up in the Cuisine Art into hamburger, and I made five about 7 ounce hamburgers that I put in double baby carrots bags, and I froze them. CIO

Note: <888> 02/23/09 Monday 8:30 A.M.. I made and ate the last of the cold beef with steamed vegetables and a glass of watered down passion punch. I threw out the garbage. I brought in the Crystal Rock water, and I left it outside a neighbor's door. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will shower and clean up, and I will go out and do some grocery shopping at the Stop and Shop. The road and sidewalks are clear, and there is no black ice around here. CIO

Note: <888> 02/21/09 Saturday 11:35 A.M.. How do I know Greenwich, Connecticut business is down the tubes. Well, the biggest business in Greenwich is real estate, then second automobiles, and then third the financial services industry, and if you can afford the time to watch television instead of trying to get lucky at Starbucks, the general consensus of the television media is that all three of those key businesses are down the tubes. Word on the street is that the wholesale beer distributor in Port Chester, New York known as the Port Chester Beer distributors is doing better, but that might not be the case, since they have to compete with the wholesale prices at nearby Costco. I did notice a Help Wanted sign at the top of Greenwich Avenue where Mike's barber shop use to be that now has a women's consignment shop for clothing. It is printed fact that the Greenwich Hospital even lost $14 million last year. CIO

Note: <888> 02/20/09 Friday 1:00 A.M.. I chatted with a relative, and I was awake at midnight. I ate a 1/5th piece of cherry pie and a glass of watered down passion punch. There are not too many people awake at night in Greenwich, Connecticut, because they think they are entitled to make money here, and one only makes money in the daytime, and not much happens at night. I guess they are afraid of the dark out here. Even in Manhattan there are not too many people awake last at night and in the early morning hours. I have always found that I think better at night, since there are less distractions from the general public. However, I do not tend to make any money at night. When I use to cover Manhattan, the only people that I noticed making money at night were the currency futures traders at Citibank. They use to have lunch in the early morning hours at the Brasserie in the basement of the Seagram's building. Still, there is so little traffic around here at night, it is easier to move around. I use to drive out with <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> and Helen Williams to Oyster Bay, Long Island during the early morning hours. The A&P in Glen Cove, Long Island was opened 24 hours. Also there use to be a Marathon Oil 24 hour gasoline station across the Queensboro Bridge just in Queens where Helen Williams could still get gasoline during the previous oil embargo. I never noticed much automobile traffic in Manhattan at night. Some trucks make deliveries. They do a lot of maintenance at night, since it is too busy in the day time. The www.un.org was always empty even in the daytime like they really did not do their jobs, except for when somebody important showed up. Any location in Manhattan near a subway stop tends to be busier. Of course a lot of city people do not drive cars, so they tend to walk a lot more which is healthier for one. I have seen a lot of New York City people out here in the boon docks in Greenwich, Connecticut over the years, and they tend to come out on the train and walk around our downtown area, unaware of the larger suburban area that we are in. Since a lot of suburban people have automobiles, they can move around easier in the suburbs. The Lexus dealership in Greenwich, Connecticut is opened 24 hours 7 days a week, so if one has one of their cars, one can get it serviced at night. I do not investigate Westchester County airport anymore, because they are overly security cautious out there after 911. I do hear a few planes and jets coming and going. www.netjets.com is out there, but that costs a lot of money. In the old days, when I covered many pubs in Manhattan, the Ninth Circle had a curious group of people, but when I occasionally went out to J.F.K. airport, I noticed flight 009 was a high security flight on El Al to Tel Aviv, Israel. Besides Amsterdam and Antwerp, Tel Aviv is also one of the major diamond trading capitals of the world. Since Fred Von Mierers knew about those things, someone in one of those three locations might know where he is in the world. My best guess, since Fred looked like Queen Margaritha of Denmark, he might have been Danish. I do know he used a Danish coffee press to make his Viennese blend coffee every day, when ever he woke up.

I imagine somewhere in the area, there is somebody awake at night. Remember on the busier side of the planet in the Eastern Hemisphere, they are just beginning to start there daytime schedules. Most of the people I have met over the years were daytime people, and after hanging around me at night, they have gone back to daytime schedules, since it is too boring for them at night.

Of course some people in the public sector have to work at night. When I was a Polaroid photographer, I once took a picture of a young African American boy sitting on the shoulders of a local college student in the Boston Commons. If Polaroid had that picture, it might have been Obama, but in those days Polaroid pictures did not last too long.

Alfred Eisenstat use to use a Graphlix camera to photograph around Manhattan at night. I would see him standing in the middle of a busy intersection in the middle of the street with camera set up on a tripod taking pictures at night.

Of course the government does not do much work at night anymore, since the daytime people control the budget.

A lot of night people think they are late night people when they stay up until midnight. In the old days, they called this the Grave Yard shift.

Nobody seems interested in night work. I think the Scott Library at York University on the north side of Toronto, Canada is opened 24 hours 7 days a week except Christmas, so somewhere in the world, there are people awake. Of course the Scott library is next to a Royal Canadian Air Force base, and when I lived in Key West, Florida the same group of people were down there. They also have an Adidas warehouse up there. Whatever the Canadians do at night, they do not spend much time communicating with me since I am down south in the Greenwich, Connecticut area. CIO

Note: <888> 02/19/09 Thursday 7:35 A.M.. I ate another 1/5th piece of cherry pie. I installed the MaxBlaster 5 utilities. I tried to make an image of my C: drive to the second partition, but it was 100 megs too small. I tried to use the Vista utility to shrink the C: drive, but it only would shrink 300 megs for some odd reason. I am using about 85 gigabytes of space. I then did a Vista Complete PC backup from the C: drive to the second partition on the new hard drive. Of course that backup would not be good, if the hard drive crashed. I then saved the few changes to the second hard drive. I researched www.seagate.com hard drives on the internet and www.chiefvalue.com has a 500 meg. IDE hard drive for about $80. The Seagate hard drives are suppose to have a five year warranty. Since I ordered the LAN external hard drive enclosure, I need to put a hard drive in there for backup, so the larger the better. However, I do not know if the LAN external hard drive enclosure would work with Vista Complete PC backup to do a restore, since when it loads, it might not recognize the LAN drive. There is an option to load drivers, so possibly they have already figured that out. I know most people are using SATA hard drives not IDE, and Seagate makes a SATA and IDE hard drive combination, but that is more expensive. My primary Vista computer does not have SATA capability, but I have an identical spare Gigabyte motherboard with SATA capability, and it is like the same one in the bedroom gigabyte computer. There is a recession on, and the primary directive to stretch a dollar as far one can. Thus I will probably be using the spare 320 gigabyte Maxtor hard drive for the LAN hard drive enclosure. Thus until I order another hard drive, I will not have a spare one. Well, it is time for me to rest. I have to be up at noon, since I have a 3 P.M. appointment. It is suppose to be sunny this afternoon. The primary Vista computer seems to be running just great.

What I was writing when the hard drive failed is that Greenwich, Connecticut use to be part of New Amsterdam, and Stamford, Connecticut was part of the New Haven Colony. The Dutch had a tradition of the Night Watch which use to be the fire brigade. There are Dutch reform churches in Rye, New York and Terrytown, New York, and quite a few in Manhattan. Also my mother's home town of Holland, Michigan has Hope College which is a Dutch Reform seminary. The Rockefeller family in North Terrytown, New York are suppose to be of Dutch origins. Their estate in North Terrytown is an old Dutch farm. They are suppose to be a private family with some historical wealth. However, since a lot of their resources were involved in Banking, they might not be as well off as they once were. Somewhere over there they raise Swiss Dairy cows. I do know you use to find their telephone numbers in the Social Register, but most of them work ordinary jobs in business, and they are not giving away dimes anymore. Thus from what I know, they probably have cut back a bit like everyone else. I once heard from a local business man here that when he visited the estate over there Happy was painting the park benches herself. Since they have a large lawn to cut, I would be afraid to show up there, since they might mistake me for a gardener, and put me to work cutting the grass. Well have a good morning. CIO

Note: <888> 02/19/09 Thursday 3:35 A.M.. Backup done. I checked with www.wdc.com , and under warranty under my no goods Western Digital hard drive serial number, they say the warranty on it expired on April 27, 2007, so it seems I only had a six month warranty on it. They have an upgrade policy where, one does not have to return the old hard drive, and I can get a new IDE 500 gigabyte hard drive for $59 and $7 UPS shipping for $66 total. I will probably do that, when I can afford it. CIO

Note: <888> 02/19/09 Thursday 2:45 A.M.. I ate a 1/5th piece of cherry pie.

After that I was writing a web note about private Swiss Dairy farmers in this area, and my primary hard drive crashed.

This is the one that failed. Staples Circular Savings Western Digital® 160GB internal hard drive and Western Digital 160GB Internal EIDE Hard Drive at Staples® and WD Caviar SE 160 GB EIDE Hard Drives ( WD1600JB ) for $64 with tax less $10 Staples rebate for $54 total bought November 2006

I think they have a three year warranty, so I will check out later about it.

I had two spare new Maxtor 320 gigabyte hard drives, so I installed Maxtor 300GB Ultra16 PATA Internal Hard Drive at Staples® for $49.99 and $3.01 tax and free shipping with over $50 order for $53 total, bought August 2, 2008, and installed February 19, 2009. I will now backup the few changes. CIO

I also cleaned the front air filter on the primary Vista computer. I then restored my recent Vista Complete PC backup from the second hard drive. Thus I have 149 gigabytes partitioned on the new hard drive, and 149 gigabyte unpartitioned. I will leave it that way for now, since one can not restore to a smaller hard drive, so if it is smaller, I have that option. I also had to reactivate Vista. CIO

On the primary Vista computer, I changed the two cables leading from the video card by switching them on the two LCD monitors. Thus the high definition television is now on the 22 inch LCD monitor. I set both LCD displays to 1440 by 900 pixels at 75 MHz, and the system boots just fine. However, I disabled the screen saver which in the previous settings caused the displays to switch around. CIO

Note: <888> 02/18/09 Wednesday 8:10 P.M.. Note: <888> 02/18/09 Wednesday 6:30 P.M.. I slept until 4 P.M.. I had a problem with the primary Vista computer, when it came out of screen saving mode, its monitors would not display properly. I fixed this by putting the Visiontek ATI Radeon X1300 512 meg. video card in the primary Vista computer, and I put the ATI Radeon 9600 video card in the Epox computer. The Visiontek card boots at higher resolutions too. I set it the monitors to 75 MHz and 1280 X 1024 pixels. I could set it higher, but I need to be able to see some of the detail on the screens. I picked up my mail. I will now set up the monitors on the three partitions on the Epox computer. They both use the same drivers, so I do not need to change the drivers. Note: <888> 02/17/09 Tuesday 9:45 P.M.. I woke up at 8:30 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I restored the backup on the FIC server thinking there was something wrong with its web cam, but it was just unplugged, so it was not necessary to restore the backup. I install the updates and changes, and I backed it up again. I showered, and I cleaned up. I threw out the garbage. The Greenwich Housing Authority large object garbage man had just retrieved the three 19 inch Dell monitors I threw out. I went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop. I then went downtown, and I went by the Merry Go Round Mews Thrift Shop. They have their clothes on sale for half price. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by CVS, and I read their store circular. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I chatted with a local Chinese American about the price of tea in China. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a yesterday's cherry pie for $3, a 16 ounce package of Stop and Shop white American cheese slices for $3.99, a top round Eye round roast for $3.99 a pound for $13.49, buy one get one free of 16 ounce Hormel bacon for $5.29 both, a two pound bag of

I put the new telescope and microscope kit underneath the right front of the bed. I installed the Logitech web cam on both Dell Latitude CS laptop computers. It works quite well, once one adjusts the focus ring. I left it in its pouch behind the second Dell laptop.

I had a call today fund raising from the GOP. I lost my temper which I normally do not. When I booted the primary Vista computer, it would not boot for some odd reason. I did a low level format, and I restored the backup, and it still would not boot. I then selected F8 to boot the Last Good Configuration, and it booted up in a higher screen resolution. In my setup, I can not set it to the highest screen resolution, so I set it at 1280 by 1024 pixels at 75 MHz, and the primary Vista system boots just fine now. I then backed up the primary Vista computer with Complete PC backup from the first hard drive to the second hard drive. It all reminds me about that old computer book, "The Ghost in the Machine".

I made up a batch of <http://www.geocities.com/mikelscott/pbf.htm> , and I ate it all with a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with two relatives. I hung it on the left side of the left living room closet.

First of all I fixed the problem that was causing the Primary Vista computer to freeze occasionally. It was not caused by hacking from what I can tell. The third PNY PC-3200 1 gigabyte memory strip was causing it to crash. It is the same at the other two newer ones, but it was bought a couple of years earlier, so it might not be exactly the same. I took it out, and I now only have 2 gigabytes of memory in the primary Vista computer. I put it in the bedroom Gigabyte computer, so that one now has two gigabytes of memory. The 256 meg memory chip I took out is on the lower right side board shelf in the bedroom.

I took the PNY AGP and PCI video cards out of the primary Vista computer, and I put in the ATI Radeon 9600 from the Abit computer. I put the PNY AGP GeForce 6200 Video card in the Abit computer. I put the PNY GeForce 6200 PCI video card in the bedroom Gigabyte computer. I stored away the old PNY Mad Dog 64 meg. video card in a small box on the mahogany bureau.

I threw out three Dell 19 inch monitors. I put the two Eizo 19 inch LCD monitors on the Epox computer. I put another 19 inch LCD Eizo monitor on the bedroom gigabyte computer. I put one of the year old Acer 19 inch LCD monitors on the FIC server, and I put another one on the Abit computer. Thus the primary Vista computer now only has the 19 inch Acer LCD monitor on the left and the 22 inch Acer LCD monitor at the center. I installed the drivers for all of the changes on the computers. I installed the updates. I did a Vista complete PC backup of the primary Vista computer from the first hard drive to the second hard drive and then to the Maxtor external hard drive. I also backed up both partitions on the Abit computer to second hard drive. It took a while, but the primary Vista computer runs just great, and it no longer freezes anymore. I saved one Dell 20 inch CRT monitor on the floor in the bedroom closet. I picked up the mail, when I threw out the monitors. I used my small folding cart to move them.

My current computers' configuration is at <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . I have not changed the pictures yet. CIO

It slowed my computer down too much, although it does seem to have better security. Also I could not get Microsoft Money 2006 to work with it. I then restored the McAfee Internet Security Suite 2008, and I installed a few updates and changes. The Microsoft Money 2006 program still would not work, but it would work, when I logged into it off line, so there is something wrong with the Microsoft Money server. I also lowered my four LCD monitors from 75 MHz to 60 MHz. I also disabled the screen saver and the power saving features. Well, I am back up running again. I ate a ham and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with a dill pickle slice and watered down passion punch. I also ate about a dozen baby carrots. CIO

The other older model in Kennebunkport, Maine is the earlier model Xterasys XN-2133G Network Wireless Adaptor 54Mbps 802.11G Wireless LAN USB 2.0 Adapter. It works quite well up there.

Note: <888> 02/14/09 Saturday 10:55 P.M.. I ate the last of the cold beef in the same meal that I have eaten the last six nights. If anyone needs to know about food catering in this area. I know a little bit about it. When I worked at the Languedoc in Nantucket, there used to be someone that looked like Nelson Rockefeller sitting on the patio across the street at the Jared Coffin House. Bunny Mellon and Jackie O'Nassis occasionally had lunch at the Languedoc. http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm use to work for Nelson Rockefeller, and he ate at the Isle of Capri, and Le Cirque in Manhattan. He also bought his liquor at the liquor store just north of the British consulate. He use to get his flowers from the wholesale flower market in Chelsea. He bought his coffee from McNulty's on Christopher street. The fresh croissants for breakfast came from the bakery at 49th street 2nd Avenue on the southeast corner. There use to be a small Gristedes between the bakery and his apartment at 420 East 49th street. There was the Greek coffee shop at Beekman Place and 50th street on the northeast corner. There was the A&P at about 52nd street and 2nd Avenue on the southeast corner, and the Thieves Deli and produce stand just south of that. He like eating at the Spring Street restaurant in SoHo too which served Dover Sole. John Michael Barrett who worked there went on to become manager of Tavern on the Green in Central Park. Fred also knew Buz King who was from Daytona, Florida that had a private catering business in the Beekman Place neighborhood. He also got liquor for bigger parties Duty Free from the Mexican consulate around 67th street just east of Fifth Avenue. He also knew Barbara Rockefeller, so I guess they got beef from Winthrop Rockefeller in Arkansas. In Nantucket the trucks for the restaurants came from Sysco Foods out of Houston, Texas, S.S. Pearce, and Beatrice Foods, besides the local Mount Vernon and Bartlett Farms. Of course in Nantucket there was also the A&P and the Grand Union along with Holdgates Fish Market. Happy Rockefeller use to be seen eating at Mortimer's around Madison Avenue and 78th street on the southeast corner. They also have a cafeteria at Rockefeller University. Also the Rockefellers when they had more money in the 1920s were members of the Greenwich Country Club along with the Vanderbilts. Also Scott Nelson who I know use to do catering at Pocantico Hills when he worked at the Chart House in Irvington, New York. The bar in White Plains, New York where he use to hang out also had a custom made hot dog supplier. I also once met Alexander Haig's personal chef there, and he worked at the Homestead restaurant in Belle, Haven, Connecticut, the night Richard Van Marter bought me New Years Eve dinner there for $200, on the same night Thomas Watson, Junior died. I have eaten at most of the better restaurants in this area with Richard. I always liked Chuck's Steak House in Darien, Connecticut, since it had good meat, and with its open air barbeque pit, it was a convenient place for a cigarette smoker to smoke too. They have two more modern restaurants in Danbury, Connecticut, where I once sat next to the former president of www.monsanto.com. Richard's nephew use to be gourmet butcher in Bedford, Hills, New York, before he went into the construction business in Crested Butte, Colorado. Locally I shop at the downtown, Stop and Shop, because I am familiar with the store, and it is slightly cheaper than the A&P Fresh across the street. I do not have much room storage in my small 450 square foot apartment, so I do not shop at Costco in Port Chester, New York. Jimmy Eldert use to work as a bus boy at the India House on India Street in Nantucket. I also worked at the Nantucket Bakery, the Sail Loft, Captain Toby's, the Gordon Folger, India House, and Henry's Bakery. Myles McGough owned the Road House on Nantucket, but I did not know he was there. I would drink after work at Preston's, the Chicken Box, the Mews, 40 Acres, the Atlantic Cafe, and the Club Car, but never at the Laundromat Bar, because that was where Jimmy drank. Also Nantucket had the fried clam stand on the Steamboat Wharf road, for late night fast food. John Bolton worked at Cumberland Farms way outside of town. Alas, some of the restaurants in Nantucket never reported my Social Security along with John Bolton's Grandmother Vivian West, so I never got the maximum amount of Social Security just S.S.I.. I tried to get the local Social Security people to look into it, but they just gave me the run around. Fred Von Mierers never paid me any Social Security or Salary, he would just let me use his office apartment, and he would take us out to dinner once a week, mostly for Fettuccini Alfredo and a glass of white wine at the Isle of Capri. Fettuccini Alfredo is like the Italian Version of Kraft Macaroni and Cheese. When I stayed with Hurley Haywood at the Waldorf Towers in Manhattan back in February 1973 after I returned from Jacksonville, Florida via St. Thomas and Weston, Massachusetts, and possibly Toronto, Canada, where I visited George Cary, I saw the Duke of Windsor enter the Waldorf Towers from a private automobile. However, Billy Baldwin looked like the Duke of Windsor, so maybe I had them confused. I do know Billy Baldwin knew Cole Porter who also lived in the Waldorf Towers along with General Macarthur and his wife. At President Bush's inaugural in 1991, my date was Admiral Halsey's daughter in law, whose husband was busy pulling horse trailers around Maryland. Ian Greenshield the last thing he did was have me paint the trim on Admiral Halsey's house on the Polpis Road in Nantucket. Ian and I would occasionally eat and drink at the "Brotherhood of Thieves" across the street from the Languedoc. Ian's family owned Greenshield Investments in Montreal, Canada, and he had worked as a body guard for Jackie O'Nassis in Stowe, Vermont. The Grennon's who owned part of the Languedoc had a house in Stowe, Vermont, and owned Sister Kate's there. One brother was retired from the www.airforce.mil, and the other brother was the Chef at Lockober's in Boston at the Ritz Carlton. Al Dukuna was also part owner, and he had a photographic memory for all of the various guest's names and likes and dislikes. A lot of the staff were students including medical students. On my days off, I use to eat a Roast beef sandwich on a Kaiser rolls with Bermuda onion, mayo, and Swiss cheese and pint of light cream from the deli at the A&P. That would cost about $9 out in Nantucket until I left in December 1983. Everything in Nantucket costs more because it has to be imported except for scallops and blue fish. There are suppose to be a few lobsters in Madaket. They also have large clams called Quahogs that they make chowder from. In Florida I worked as a dishwasher at the best French restaurant Le Vielle Maison in Boca Raton for several months during the fall of 1978, before I went to Paradise Island, and I stayed with a British banker Richard Mercy and his cousin Romsey, and then after a brief trip through Fort Lauderdale, I returned to Key West, Florida, where John Bolton told me was the architect of the Casa Marina Hotel reconstruction project. Alas they never paid any of my social security for all of the work I did down there too, but nobody knew who was in charge. Jimmy Eldert who seemed to know more said it was a Giant Commune, and we would all share in the profits, once they got the island fixed up. Back home in Greenwich, Connecticut, I am the head of my own commune. By the way, the seventh of the eight high definition TV signal TV channels in the New York City area is a Russian News Channel, and as I recall the eighth was showing some sort of women's show with a lady in a Red Dress. Note: <888> 02/14/09 Saturday 9:20 P.M.. I woke up about 3 P.M., when someone called up fund raising for the local police department. I discussed some more serious issues besides the price of tea in China. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage. I picked up the mail.

The order with tracking of USPS - Track & Confirm on the order for <http://www.targus.com/us/tipconfigurator/default.aspx?region=1&cat=Notebook#> , I ordered a Targus Tip #9 - 70W APT9 for $9.99 less 20% off with promo code "WIU0808" for $7.99 and $2 standard shipping for $9.99 total arrived.

I removed the old one from the primary Dell Latitude CS computer, and I put it with other Targus tips behind the primary laptop. I put the new one on. It seems to work better, but without the battery installed, it one puts upward pressure on it when connected directly to the laptop, it can still lose power, but it works better and good enough for normal use in the docking station, so I have done the best I can do with it for now, unless I replace its motherboard with the spare one arriving from Arlington, Texas soon.

I chatted with Brumos Motor Cars, Exclusively Mercedes-Benz in Jacksonville, FL Dealer New, Used Cars , and they gave me Hurley Haywood's two telephone numbers, but he could not remember whom I was, and he was busy with a party of about 50 people. Apparently he won Daytona in a foreign car again.

I always liked the Mercedes 600 Limousine in that it was more comfortable for bigger people. I guess we do not know any Germans around here involved in German Engineering. Hurley is Norwegian, but he seems to know how to communicate with the Germans.

Since his family owns the Harris , they might still have money left from any profits that www.mcdonalds.com is now making during the recession.

I chatted with a neighbor about both the Capone and the Moran gangs living in Greenwich, Connecticut. However, we also still have the Hatfields and the McCoys living here along with the Lees and the Grants.

I chatted with www.geico.com about the weather, and I told them about www.avo.alaksa.edu . I was told about Defensive Driving Online Course from National Safety Council - nsccddonline.com which if you complete online, one can get a $35 discount in one's GEICO insurance rate. I will do it when I have time.

I chatted with a relative and a friend and a North American British Security official about the potential problem with Trans Atlantic Air Traffic if the Volcano Redoubt in Alaska erupts. I happen to have met Queen Beatrice's Nephew Eric who lives in Ridgefield, Connecticut, and he was the copilot on www.klm.com the last time Redoubt erupted, when his new Boeing 747 www.boeing.com lost all four engines flying over the volcano. He was able to recover and restart the engines, so he is still flying around the world delivering flowers for the Dutch. Not that anyone ever needs flowers on St. Valentine's Day anymore.

I showered, and I cleaned up. Not much seems to be happening here. Where the Aquarium store use to be in Hartsdale, New York where I use to buy large Brazilian Angel Fish, before I got into computers, there is now a very large store there that sells artificial flowers for anyone with allergies. CIO

Note: <888> 02/14/09 Saturday 5:40 A.M.. I ate the same dinner as the last four nights. I was thinking it might be a good idea to put a Municipal Court in the new Greenwich, Connecticut police station, so the Town of Greenwich, Connecticut could make some money instead of Stamford, Connecticut. I am a bit tired, so I will shut down the primary Vista computer soon. Not much seems to be happening anymore now that we are no longer one of the current Presidential home towns of the many home towns that the Bush family seemed to have. Of course if I ran for President I could probably come up with about 40 home towns, but Greenwich, Connecticut is where I have lived longest unknown to most of the general public whom seem to think I just came out here on the train 26 years ago, when like a lot of Greenwich, Connecticut people I know lived both in Manhattan, Nantucket, Florida, besides Greenwich along with a few other places that were a bit interesting. I have frequently thought about applying for public housing in New Canaan, Connecticut where I have also lived, so I could have a quieter life in my senior years, but I figure since I am disabled, it is better to live near a good hospital than to have time to enjoy the scenic nature of Connecticut. Besides, when I live in New Canaan, Connecticut the Mormons always hassle me, since I guess my family were in Illinois, when the Mormons were kicked out of Illinois for polygamy. From what I know mostly there are quite a few southern families here besides families from the Midwest, so there are still probably a few people fighting the Civil War as they perceive it. Nobody here seems to know much about what went on in the wars this century although they are veterans, they do not seem to have the entire historical picture, since Greenwich, Connecticut was in one of those areas infiltrated by potential spies, so there was different propaganda here than elsewhere in the country. It is a rather quaint matter that although we are only about 20 miles from Manhattan, the Internal Revenue Service classifies us as a farm state, so when we file our income tax forms, they go Kansas City, Missouri CONNECTICUT - Where to File Addresses for Individual Taxpayers where I guess Harry Truman's Harry S. Truman - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia and Tom Pendergast's Tom Pendergast - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia political machine rake in all of the money. Well have a good morning. It is suppose to be mostly a clear day with a high of 40 degrees Fahrenheit. I guess I will be off in Dream Land most of the day. Today is also the anniversary of the St. Valentine's Day massacre Saint Valentine's Day massacre - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia, so most of the local gangsters should hang low. CIO

I have two new spare Maxtor 320 gigabyte IDE hard drives that I can use with it, but I probably will only use one. CIO

Note: <888> 02/14/09 Saturday 2:50 A.M.. My computer froze again when I was writing an email to a local computer person. My best guess as to the problem is that someone or a group freezes my computer, if they do not like what I write. It could be though the internet, but the government and Cablevision would know through the IP address, so they would have to be involved. If it were not the government, it could be through the electricity with more advanced equipment or through the wireless keyboard in which case, it would be more than likely a local effort. My question to the New Haven, Connecticut www.fbi.gov for the last few years, is "what is the motive for anyone bothering me, unless they are so ignorant about computer technology, that they really do not know that much considering their efforts." Note: <888> 02/13/09 Friday 11:50 P.M.. I tested the high definition antenna on my television setup tonight. I only get 8 channels half of which come in fuzzy. As I remember, I get channels 7, 9, 13, 21, the Ion Channel which looks to be a movie channel, a Spanish language channel, and two other channels that I do not know what they were. I returned the television setup to the Cablevision Digital Cable box. For now I will be keeping the cable service. Under the new Federal Budget, they are now not suppose to switch to Digital signals until June 2009. I also turned off the power switch to the Digital antenna which power switch is part of its inline coupling that is behind the living room couch.

In the www.foxnews.com report on this plane wreck Search for answers begins in Buffalo plane crash - CNN.com, they said the propeller driven Embarcadero plane made in Canada was only certified to be flown in warm weather in the Caribbean, since its deicing equipment was not suited for colder weather. Canada Embarcadero use to sell jets out of an office at Westchester Country or White Plains, New York airport. I know the Aga Khan owned one of their jets. According to Fox News, they started using the warmer weather propeller planes up north of to save on fuel costs, when jet fuel was too expensive.

Note: <888> 02/13/09 Friday 11:10 P.M.. I woke up at 2 P.M. this afternoon, when I had a no person telephone call or front door buzzer ring. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed.

I faxed this story to an interested relative Greenwich hedge fund figures in Polaroid suit - Greenwich Time. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. There is what looks like a broken 1999 45 inch Sony Trinitron television by the dumpster. I chatted with neighbors. I picked up the mail. I chatted with a relative and two friends.

I installed the spare configured 4.8 Gigabyte IBM IDE hard drive in the Toshiba laptop. I installed the updates, and I also installed the Logitech wireless cordless mouse on it. It has about 1 gigabyte of space left on it. I backed it up the Maxtor external hard drive.

I ate a ham and cheese sandwich with a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 02/13/09 Friday 4:30 A.M.. I made some routine calls to some night people. Some of the newly unemployed might look into night work which nobody seems to want in this area. Of course you have to be able to stay awake at night, and you have to be able to have an environment, where you can sleep in the daytime. It is suppose to be a sunny day with a high of 36 degrees Fahrenheit. From what I can tell, everything is pretty normal around here, with nothing unusual to report. Most of the older people are probably reading books, since they can not be bothered with computers and the internet. Have a good day. We usually get a few Eskimos showing up here in the winter enjoying our warmer weather. I ate the last 10 dried apricots of the open can. I was thinking possibly with the new high definition television signals in this area, I might not want to pay the $82.32 a month for Digital Cable Television. I have a Digital Antenna I could hook up to my television system in the apartment. However, although my windows face west towards New York City, I have the opposite side of the building facing my windows, and it might interfere with the Digital Cable signals. That would be a big savings, since recently I have been too busy to watch television, except for when I have breakfast. CIO

I turned in the signed filled out form to the building custodian to install it in the living room center window. I guess when ever they install the double pane windows this spring, I will have to move out of my apartment into the hallway, the oak dining table, dining table chairs, the recliner, the desk, the sofa, and possibly the Sony television and cabinets it sits on, and in the bedroom, I will have to move out the mahogany bureau by the window along with the oak shelf that sits on top of it. I will also have to move a lot of smaller items. Since I have no one to help me, I will have to probably rest a few days before I do that to build up my strength. I chatted with an associate, a relative, a friend, and a diplomatic office. I ate ham and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. Whom in their right mind would stand outside in an open field during the electrical storm season with a metal rod held up in the air and metal spikes on the bottom of their shoes to conduct the lightning bolt through you down into the ground, but plenty of people do it. Of course today they use synthetic club handles and I think some sort of synthetic spikes, but they still are standing out in open fields such as in Florida which is the lightning capital of the Nation. Note: <888> 02/12/09 Thursday 3:40 A.M.. Around the Country Club people, they use to drink Haig and Haig Scotch, and I even still have my Haig Ultra Golf Clubs, I got around 1960 in Decatur, Alabama, but I feel the wood in the woods is dried out and would crack if they were used, and I did have the leather handles replaced with rubber handles in the 1960s. I still have my old DuPont white fake leather golf shoes and a new pair of tan Spalding golf shoes that I never used and my Naugehyde Burton Golf Bag from Jasper, Alabama, but the strap wore out of it a long time ago, so I wrapped a Greenwich Country Club towel around it. As cheap as this town has gotten, they probably want to charge me for the towel after all of these years. CIO

Probably one of the oldest products in the grocery store Lea and Perrins .

My branch of the Scott family is from Champaign, Illinois, so we might have seen the Lincolns from time to time when they traveled out of Springfield, Illinois. However, Grandma Scott was a public school teacher, and she use to tell us that we were related to Winfield Scott who was from the Virginia branch of the Scott family which apparently were from Ireland. My Dutch mother claims the Scott family tended to drink too much liquor.

I do know from the days, when I was permitted to be around people whom drank alcohol, that they use to drink a simple drink called a "Bloody Mary".

It basically is a tall glass or large tall oval shaped glass with or without ice with one jigger of Smirnoff Vodka, which is about 1.5 ounces, about 4 to 5 ounces of Hunts tomato juice, with ground black pepper on top to taste, a few dashes of McIlInney's Tabasco sauce TABASCO® Pepperfest - the hot, legendary pepper sauce! to taste, about a half to a whole teaspoon of Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce, a teaspoon of Gold's Hot horseradish sauce, and mixed not shaken, and in the summer in season they stick a stick of celery in it with the leaves still on it. I once read in the local Kennebunkport, Maine weekly paper that was all the "Old Guard" drank after church on Sundays. Since they seem to live a long time up there, it might be possibly healthy for you, if you are not using mechanized equipment such as a car. For the years they came up with a lot of other Bloody Mary mixes and additives, but the original formula was probably the best.

I know around here the "Old Guard" drink Old Fashions which have Angostura Bitters in it, but I am not sure what else besides whisky. CIO

I connected one telephone line from the five line terminal underneath the FIC server and the spare Verizon telephone line for internet access during a power shortage, and I connected them both to a 2 line telephone switch that I had, and I connected it the XG2500 along with its power supply. I placed it underneath the lower left primary Vista computer LCD monitor. It took four hours to charge up, but it works quite well, and I can use it with either of the two telephone lines in the apartment with the Radio Shack telephone switch. It has a replaceable rechargeable battery, should it ever wear out. I put the box to the right of the bedroom television, where I have the other electronics boxes. I set its sound to medium and tone for the line connection. It will be easier to dial out with one of the other telephones with speed dial, since it does not have speed dial or a small LCD screen, but it is a most handy communications accessory for hands free use at the computer.

I eventually exchanged it for a used windshield for my 1971 yellow Subaru wagon in Fort Lauderdale, Florida after a trip to California from

I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I stopped by the downtown CVS, and I met the new manager. He is trying to fix up the heavily trafficked store. I then completed my walk. Apparently the Greenwich schools are on winter holiday break. I stopped by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with some staff. I then returned home. I chatted with a relative wearing the new XG2500 ear piece telephone, and it works quite well. One has to remember when answering with it at the computer to hit the switch beneath it for either Optimum or Verizon. Optimum is A: and Verizon is B:. Note: <888> 02/10/09 Tuesday 11:30 P.M.. For dinner last night, I also ate a piece of cherry pie with two scoops of sugar free cool whip. I also chatted with a relative. I worked with the Nvidia GeForce 6200 video drivers for several hours, and the newest version definitely will not install on a system with both the AGP and PCI video cards for Nvidia GeForce 6200 installed. The second card keeps the first card from booting. I tried other drivers that worked, but my system seemed like it had been corrupted, so I restored the new install backup from December 4, 2008. I then updated the files and any changes. I then backed it up the second hard drive and then the Maxtor external hard drive, all of which took until noon today. I also restored the backup on the FIC server and updated the changes. However, the primary Vista computer is once again stable for now.

I ate a ham and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and dill pickle slice and a glass of iced tea.

About 10 A.M., UPS delivered the order with tracking of UPS: Tracking Information on the order for Labtec Pulse 485 Max-X 2.1 PC Speakers w/Subwoofer -NEW - eBay (item 310119327828 end time Feb-01-09 18:32:48 PST) for $5.50 and $14.95 shipping for $20.45 total.

I slept until 5:30 P.M. from 10 A.M. except for turning off the computer after the final backup. I cancelled my 3 P.M. appointment today.

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up.

I installed the Labtec speakers on the Abit computer in the living room. I moved the pair of generic Jensen speakers to the bedroom window with the other pair of generic speakers connected to the bedroom Gigabyte computer.

I went out, and I went by the Stop and Shop. I bought two 10 ounce bottles of Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce for $3.39 each and two 6 ounce bottles of Gold's Hot Horseradish for $1.59 each for $9.96 total.

I then walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts Center. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a plastic shoe box size box storage box with lid for $2.79 and a 100 yards of CVS mint dental floss for $2.29 and .30 tax for $5.38 total. I then finished my walk. I noticed Credit Suisse was entertaining downtown. They have an office at the top of Greenwich Avenue. I then drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road. I then returned home. I will use the plastic storage box for some undetermined purpose in the future. CIO

Note: <888> 02/09/09 Monday 7:05 P.M.. I woke up during the night, and I ate a half of a 8.5 ounce box of reduced fat Triscuits. I also ate 10 dried apricots. I finally woke up at noon today. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by the Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue. I used the ATM machine there, and I did some other banking business. I then went by the Wachovia Bank on Havemayer Place, and I paid my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I then walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I toured the front area of CVS. It was not too busy downtown during these economically depressed times. I next went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with a staff member and a local user. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf Station, and I bought $6 of self service premium for $2.559 a gallon for 2.344 gallons for at odometer reading of 62158 miles for 27.1 miles driving since I last got gasoline 11 days ago for 11.5614 miles per gallon. I cleaned the outside of my windows, and I checked the tire air for 32 PSI. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought two half gallons of Florida Natural orange juice with calcium for $3 each, a top round eye round roast for $3.99 a pound for $13.29, two pounds of baby carrots for $2.99, and fresh Chiquita bananas for .64 a pound for $1.43 for $23.71 total. I then returned home. I brought up purchases, and I picked up my mail.

I put the new Dell 7012 battery in the second Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. I put my older Dell Docking station with it, and I put the new Dell Docking station with the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. The new battery is taking a charge. I threw out the packing material. I moved my car to its usual place, which I like, since when I park there, we tend to have warmer weather. I moved a CompUSA mouse pad to the left side of the second Dell laptop, and I put a yellow plastic mouse pad on the right side of the primary Vista computer. The plastic mouse pads tend not to work as well, since they are hard and too smooth.

I will now season the eye round roast with garlic powder, ground black pepper, Italian seasoning, and A1 Bulls Eye barbeque sauce. I put it on a baking rack in a baking pan and bake it at 350 degrees Fahrenheit in the Sharp convection oven for 40 minutes for medium rare. I will eat two 3/8th inch thick slices with my usual vegetable mixture and a glass of watered down passion punch. I will refrigerate the rest of the beef for slices of cold beef for the next few days meals which I eat with Lea and Perrins Worcestershire sauce, if I remember to buy it tomorrow, when I go out weather permitting. With the colder weather in this area this winter, it should kill more of the deer ticks, so this summer we should have less Lyme disease. I made and ate the same dinner and desert as the last five nights. I did a Vista Complete PC backup of the primary Vista computer from the first hard drive to the second hard drive, and then I did one to the Maxtor external hard drive. I also freed up some disk space on the primary Vista computer C: drive. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Yesterday, I moved the LAN cable from the FIC server to the Netgear FR114P router which had a spare port instead of running it off the Netgear FS116 Switch. Thus when not using the computers on the network, but just running the FIC server, I can turn off the Network Switch from the Control Panel. With the Network Switch turned off the primary Vista computer still froze, which would mean it is not a hacker or network problem. I have had the problem in the past caused by Nvidia GeForce 6200 drivers for Vista. I uninstalled the October 2008 version, and I installed January 9, 2009 version, and the computer would not boot. I then did a Safe Boot, and I uninstalled that version of the Nvidia drivers. As I recall, I did not have a problem with the XP Nvidia Driver <http://mikelouisscott.com/nvidia-old/> "93.71_forceware_winxp2k_english_whql.exe" for GeForce 6200 version 6.14.10.9371 dated October 22 , 2006, so I installed those drivers and program. The computer has not frozen yet. There has been a lot of discussion about Nvidia drivers for Vista not being up to snuff by the general internet community. Since I used a Nvidia GeForce 6200 AGP and PCI video cards that support my four LCD monitors, I also have a more unique setup. Well let's hope they work. I should know soon enough.

The old XP Nvidia drivers are posted here http://www.nvidia.com/object/winxp-2k\_archive.html , and the driver I am using for the two GeForce 6200 AGP and PCI cards is posted here ForceWare Windows XP/2000 32-bit .

Note: <888> 02/06/09 Friday 7:20 A.M.. When I partitioned the new hard drive, I also made it active in disk manager after I cloned it. I had a problem getting the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer to recognized the larger hard drive in the BIOS. It would freeze when I opened the BIOS. I was able to get around that by booting the BIOS Update utility from the floppy with the hard drive installed and reflashing it. However, it still freezes when one opens the BIOS, but after setting the BIOS setting with the new hard drive out of the computer, it boots normally, except one can not enter the BIOS which is normally not necessary, but one can when the hard drive is taken out of the laptop, which entailed removing two small screws. Thus I now have 72 gigabytes of free space on the primary Dell Latitude CS and 3 gigabyte of free space on the secondary Dell Latitude CS. I will keep it as a spare configured to have in case of a hard drive failure on the secondary laptop. The new 2.5 inch IDE 80 gigabyte Seagate hard drive has a five year warranty. Note: <888> 02/06/09 Friday 1:20 A.M.. My January 2009 electricity bill at www.cl-p.com was $160.06 of which I have already paid $90, with the rest paid by my energy assistance grant. That amount is without using the electric heat except for a few times, when I turned on the DeLonghi oil filled radiators. It also should be the lower night time rate.

That is for 28 days at rate 5 delivery, when the average temperature in January 2009 here in Greenwich, Connecticut was 24.5 degrees Fahrenheit down from last January 2008, when it was 34.7 degrees Fahrenheit, so this past month was 10.2 degrees Fahrenheit colder on average than last year.

The actual usage was 802 kWh or 28.64 kWh per day versus a year ago when it was 949 kWh or 33.89 kWh per day and the amount was $167.44, when I also was not using the electric heat, so it is slightly lower bill on the night time rate with the colder winter. However, I do not have the air conditioner installed this winter, so it is probably warmer in the apartment without it installed. CIO (SEAST980210ALD) <http://eshop.macsales.com/item/Seagate/ST980210ALD/> for $39.99 and $4.99 UPS ground shipping for $44.98 total arrived. I put it in the 2.5" Black Aluminum Enclosure Case with IDE to USB 2.0 Interface by SABRENT. The primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer, only recognizes it with the docking station USB 1.0 ports, and with the Seagate Disk wizard program installed, it installs the needed driver for XP. However, the Seagate Disk wizard program does not recognize the Seagate hard drive as a Seagate hard drive, so you can not use the Seagate Disk wizard program to clone the new hard drive. I am using the free copy of DriveImage XML DriveImage XML Backup Software to clone the new hard drive from the primary hard drive. Since the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer only has USB 1.0 ports, it is taking about 5 hours to copy the 7 gigabytes of files. I have three hours to go. Basically one uses the Drive to Drive Copy process, and when one gets the error message at first, one chooses to ignore it, and the program then proceeds to clone the second new hard drive. After I finish cloning the new drive, I will put it in the primary Dell laptop, and I will move its smaller 10 gigabyte hard drive to the second Dell laptop, and I will move its smaller 4.7 gigabyte hard drive to the Toshiba laptop.

I made and ate the same dinner at last night. I also made up a fresh batch of passion punch. CIO

It is a miserable 53 degrees Fahrenheit in Key West, Florida. In Montreal, Quebec, Canada it is 1 degree Fahrenheit. In beautiful Toronto, Ontario, Canada it is zero Degrees Fahrenheit, so I guess that is why so many people are down south where ever it is warmer. I then returned home, and I brought up my purchases with my folding cart that I brought with me, and I picked up the mail, and I put everything away. I connected the Dipole FM antenna with the coaxial adapter to the Leadtek TV car on the Abit computer, so the FM radio on the Leadtek TV card now works. I strung the ends of the FM Dipole antenna from the ceiling. I tried the small screw light bulb, but it did not work in the map light on the Zenith shortwave radio, so I put it by the magnifying glass on the center bookcase that uses a similar bulb. I chatted with a relative. I put the little Red Corvette on the right hallway bookcase shelf. CIO

Note: <888> 02/04/09 Wednesday 1:30 A.M.. I fiddled with the Zenith shortwave radio. I put the internet antenna on FM and the external powered antenna on Shortwave Ground, but I still get no shortwave reception. With the internal antenna on Shortwave, I get a bit of static and that is about it. Possibly shortwave radio no longer exists anymore. CIO

I put the tooth brush holder on the left rear of the bathroom sink. It has bigger holes to hold larger handle toothbrushes. I put the two ornate hand towels on the back side top of the French reproduction chair over the sheep skin with the ornate fringe showing. I put the black shower curtain rings on the rack above the toilet tank. I might install them the next time I clean the shower curtain and liner. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I showered, and I clean up. I picked up the mail. I got a Christmas card from George and Barbara Bush in Houston, Texas. They look quite happy and healthy in their Christmas card photo. I took down the Plexiglas frame with Prince Charles and William and Harry that was hanging by the toilet, and I put the George and Barbara Bush photo in it, and I hung it on the top side left inside of the apartment entrance door. I moved the hanging plate of St. Paul's church in Manhattan from that location, and I put it with the other two hanging plates by the toilet. I threw out the garbage. By 2 P.M., it was starting to snow. I worked on the Zenith shortwave radio. It works just fine, but one has to have the stereo headset plugged into it for its speaker and stereo headset to work. I set it up that way with a stereo headphone jack many years ago, because there was a problem with the speaker. It is a 1961 Zenith Trans Oceanic shortwave radio. I set it up on the right side of the Northgate Syntax monitor, and I also plugged a powered auxiliary antenna into it for better reception besides the fixed expandable antenna. It needs a screw thread flash light bulb for the display chart light. It has very good reception, but at around 4 P.M. in the afternoon, I only got AM and FM channels, and there were none of the other channels including shortwave channels and weather channels and marine channels, so perhaps with the internet, they do not use those channels anymore. I will have to test it later at night some time, when the reception is better. Earlier I chatted with a friend. I think the reason George Cary is able to get around so easy in upstate New York in the winter is that when I first knew him, he told me he was neighbors in East Aurora, New York of Bobby Goodyear, so perhaps he has good winter tires. I chatted with a friend in eastern Connecticut who had a relative pass away in Daytona, Florida. I used www.google.com to help him find two lost relatives, so he could notify them, and then I text messaged his cell phone, so he could possibly find them. Also Google searches lead to other search engines that cost money.

The upper left LCD monitor works fine, but its menu display panel does not show up on the screen, but off the screen in the far upper right. I can not figure out why that happens. However, I have it set on Auto, so it is not a problem. I microwaved and ate a 21 ounce Stouffer's beef lasagna, which I put grated parmesan and Romano cheese on, and I ate it with a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 02/03/09 Tuesday 1:45 A.M.. According to my Weather Pulse Program Weather Pulse, weather software, we are suppose to have snow showers until 3 P.M. tomorrow with snow until midnight and a low on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning of 11 degrees Fahrenheit, so I doubt if I will be doing my first of the month grocery shopping later on today. I have plenty of food in the apartment, so I will survive another winter event. I have lived through worse periods of snow, when I was more active. However in the good old days when Chemstrand made Nylon for Harvey Firestone's tires, we could afford winter snow and ice tires, and we frequently drove in snowy conditions. Today, since I only have 1/4th of an inch to possibly 3/8ths of an inch tread on my Audi's Michelin tires from Melbourne, Florida that are now made in Greenville, South Carolina, I do not think it is advisable to drive during snowy or icy conditions, so I am spending much more time at home this winter. The National Weather Service a'int telling us much National Weather Service Watch Warning Advisory Summary . I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Stay warm. The good news is an interested relative might buy me new tires this coming summer, when I am up in Kennebunkport, Maine. Alas, although Connecticut is known for the www.navy.mil in New London, Connecticut, they also have a few people attached to the www.un.org in the Manhattan area of New York City, New York, U.S.A.. Possibly they serve in various diplomatic capacities, but from my viewpoint is mostly routine maintenance. Of course New York City people can use public transportation 24 hours a day unlike us simpler people in the country whom have to rely on our own transportation, particularly since I have been on a night schedule for about 75% of the time since 1965. When I see a sunny day, I usually think it is a solar flare or some other cosmic event. The only 24 hour library I know of is the Scott library at York University just outside north of Toronto, Canada, and since they are near Niagara Falls with their generating capacity, they can afford to keep the lights on. Unfortunately my idiot friend from East Aurora, New York is mostly a daytime person since he works around horses, so he does not have my same perspective. You can always find people awake in Manhattan at night, but I can not guarantee their state of sobriety. CIO

I picked up the mail, and I threw out the garbage. The $20 rebate check on the McAfee Internet Security Suite 2009 3 license copy arrived, so it only cost me $8. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I showered, and I clean up.

I went out, and I went by the new Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue. I deposited my $20 McAfee rebate check. I was able to leave the facility by going out the rear entrance via the Pickwick Towers street, but there is not traffic light there just a stop sign, but it is easier there to get back on Putnam Avenue at the top of Greenwich Avenue with its traffic light, if you watch the traffic.

I chatted with a local walker. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I mailed the January 2009 Microsoft Money 2006 report to an interested relative at the central Greenwich Post Office. I stopped by CVS, and I bought two boxes of CVS 20 quart size zip lock bags for $2.79 and 50% off for the second for $1.39 and a 12 roll bundle of CVS recycled toilet paper for $5.99 and .61 tax for $10.78 total. I used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank at the top of Greenwich Avenue.

I finished my walk on the economically depressed Greenwich Avenue. The Borders book store has gone out of business, and there are some other shops that went out of business.

The new Presbyterian Church is still at the top of Greenwich Avenue.

I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with some of the staff. It is now a bit busier than normal with all of the unemployed people trying to keep busy. I checked out the book by James Bamford, "Body of Secrets".

I was told by the local walker that it is suppose to snow tomorrow Greenwich, Connecticut (06830) Conditions & Forecast : Weather Underground and National Weather Service Watch Warning Advisory Summary , but it says there is a chance we might not get it. CIO

Hopefully that will stop the BBC Adobe Flash Player in <http://news.bbc.co.uk/> from freezing the computer. I was thinking about going out for a walk, but with the Super Bowl on television, more than likely I would be out there all by myself, and it probably would be boring to go out right now, so I will stay in for the evening and work on the computer. Note: <888> 03/31/09 Tuesday 4:15 P.M.. I went out after the last message. I went downtown. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by the Merry Go Round Mews thrift shop, and I bought two wooden veneer 8 inch by 10 inch frames with glass for $1 each for $2 total. I put them back in the car during my walk. I chatted with a local Swedish walker who has never been to Sweden either. I recommended that when he is in Manhattan, he try eating at a local east side university cafeteria. I chatted with a local www.navy.mil veteran whom survived the winter and seems to have put on more weight. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center. I returned home, and I chatted with neighbors. One of my neighbors was in an automobile wreck recently. I reheated and ate the same dinner as yesterday, which I ate with a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with a computer magazine person from India, and he told me the Aga Khan has a 37 year old relative that is more famous than the Aga Khan is. He told me the Bahais in Wilmette, Illinois are from Persia. Then we were disconnected. I was told that a Maha Raja is higher than a Raj. He told me India has not had emperors and empresses for 400 years. I went outside, and I picked up my mail. I moved my car to its usual parking place. Not much seems to be happening. I put the Christmas Card of George and Barbara Bush in one of the new frames with the Dutch Royal family picture, and I hung it on the left upper rear side of the apartment entrance door. I move the Plexiglas frame picture of Prince Charles and his two sons Willie and Harry to above the Brother all purpose machine. I will save the other new frame for later. I hear a lot of gossip downtown all of the time, and most of it I take with a grain of salt. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go back to bed. It is much warmer today, and I could hear the birds this morning, until it got too busy downtown. Usually the bird quit singing because they detect some sort of security problem. Obviously the birds see more than the people whom seem to know it all.

Note: <888> 03/31/09 Tuesday 8:35 A.M.. Judging from the expected dry weather conditions in southwestern California this season, any of the Hollywood types whom think they have taken over the Country might think of investing in a Brush Hog Skid steer attachment manufacturer Minnesota, Loftness forestry products MN , so their houses are left standing in California. Jimmy Eldert, Nick Nolte, Diana Ross, and the Getty family have places in Malibu, California, and the Ronald Reagan family used to go to church at the Presbyterian Church there near Pepperdine University and the Rand Corporation, so instead of fleeing the area during the fire season, they might think of doing some preventive maintenance like clearing brush from around their homes. The local Mexican maintenance crews are not always available, since they have other troubles in Mexico. CIO

Note: <888> 03/31/09 Tuesday 8:15 A.M.. I chatted with an out of town security official. The way I figure it, the Pentagon threw away the internet in 1980, so it is mostly a civilian operation. More than likely since military people occasionally drink alcohol, they are not using a lot of complex technical equipment, they would not be able to operate if they were drinking alcohol.

I ate two hot dogs with buns and mustard and ketchup and watered down passion punch. I currently weigh 206 pounds, so for health reasons, I should try to lose 20 to 30 pounds, but when I do not eat to lose weight, I do not have the energy to keep busy. Steaks are luxury we do not eat too much anymore, because they tend to be high in cholesterol, plus a sirloin steak even on sale is $4 a pound and up to 100% more when not on sale. It would seem to me that if everyone were as skinny as www.whitehouse.gov, we would not get much work done in this country. In the old days computer people were heavier, because monitors and CPUs weighed up to a 100 pounds, so in order to move them, one had to have a bit of weight. The new crop of laptop warriors probably can only lift their credit and debit cards, so more than likely once they get off their laptops, they probably are not fit enough for heavier work. In the Midwest, they tend to eat more first, which is probably why we do not hear much from them off the internet other than sports scores.

United Airlines is headquartered out of Chicago, Illinois, and they have a large maintenance facility in San Francisco, California, so more than likely there are always a few of their personnel left stranded at the local Westchester County airport Westchester County - AirportMonitor - by Megadata - powered by PASSUR until the weather is clear enough in Chicago to land. I am not running a flight rest facility here, and if you need a cheap place to stay near the local airport, Extended Stay Hotels - showcases hotel suites, discount lodging and short term housing, has places in Elmsford, New York and Norwalk, Connecticut, but they are not as glamorous locations as Greenwich, Connecticut, but if you had a wife that controlled the purse strings back home, they would not want you seeking glamorous adventure anywhere around here with all of the young females walking dogs. In Bergen, Norway, they make and assemble off shore oil platforms, and then they float them across the Atlantic Ocean, and they sink them in the Gulf of Mexico. Nobody knows how many off shore oil platforms there are in the Gulf of Mexico. I then went by CVS, and their rear parking lot was not very full, and I bought four buy one get one free of six packs of Thomas' English muffins for $3.39 for two six packs for $6.78 total. I got a dollar off Bonus Bucks coupon for any Glade product, so I bought a nine ounce Glade linen scent spray air freshener for .89 and .05 tax for .94 total. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with a few staff members. I read P.C. Shopper magazine. I then returned home. I chatted with a relative.

I chatted with a local security official. I remembered that nine years ago, when I was shot at by a high powered rifle at the southwest picnic area at Tod's Point that I could not figure out why anyone would have tried to do it. I just remembered about seven years ago, I met Michael Garrard downtown, and he lives on East Elm street. He looks a bit like me, but he is British from South Hampton, and he grew up in Old Greenwich. He worked for Vogue Magazine in Manhattan, and he had become a Hells Angel, and he was severely injured in a motor cycle wreck in New Mexico, so he is now blind. He told me he is British and works for Dutch intelligence, so possibly some of his old Hell Angels enemies thought I was him and took a shot at me, but how would anyone know I was going to be out there, since I randomly drove out there. There could be a gang of people in this area randomly trying to stage accidents. CIO

Note: <888> 03/30/09 Monday 9:55 A.M.. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went outside, and I threw out some garbage. I chatted with a neighbor. I ate a ham and cheese sandwich with mayo on a Kaiser roll with watered down passion punch. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go out and do some errands. CIO

Note: <888> 03/30/09 Monday 8:10 A.M.. King Olaf for Norway was also at the Tall Ships celebration in Manhattan on July 4, 1976, and that following fall, he was also on vacation in Fort Lauderdale, Florida when I was down there. They also flew the Norwegian flag at the Atlantic Shores Beach Club in Key West, Florida when I was there, and there was a house in the center of Nantucket that also flew a big Norwegian flag, when I was there. The Norwegian and Swedish consulates were on East 49th street in Manhattan just east of Third Avenue about a block away from where <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> 's apartment was at 420 East 49th street. Just north on Third Avenue was the British consulate, and somebody use to park two black Daimlers nearby on 49th street. CIO

Note: <888> 03/30/09 Monday 8:00 A.M.. As I recall, possibly the crooks that took my money were in Washington D.C. and Manhattan after I left Plandome Manor, New York. I bought two New Zealand brown leather jackets at Brooks Brother's in Manhattan for $250 each half price size 40. I bought one first, and I wore it down to Washington D.C., and I stayed at the Dutch Inn for a couple nights for $79 a night, and when I met Dr. Gillespie, he said I looked like a thug in the brown leather jacket, so I sent it to Jimmy Eldert in California, and it was returned to my brother in law in Philadelphia. I then spent another week at the Georgetown Inn in Washington D.C. for about $90 a night, since Dr. Gillespie, said the Dutch Inn now the Thomas Jefferson Inn was for hookers. I bought a carton of Dunhill Jasmine cigarettes for $40 while there. I bought two a pink and a yellow night gowns for my two younger sisters at that English Women's Laura Ashley store in the Georgetown Mall for $125 each, and they returned them. I gave $50 to the poor box at the Georgetown University Cathedral, that they used it for a beer party that night. I ate an expensive meal at 1782 for about $50, where I met Dr. Gillespie, and I had a few drinks. I think I took the Amtrak train back and forth to Washington D.C., from Penn Station in Manhattan which would have been about $40 each way. I think I also ate an expensive dinner at the Georgetown Inn that would have been about $30. I also ate croissants for breakfast from the bakery next door, and I recall there was a McDonalds nearby where I ate too. I also think I took the subway instead of the taxis from Union station to Georgetown, and I did not tour the area outside of Georgetown. I probably had a few snacks at Georgetown University and the Georgetown Mall. Before going to Oslo, Norway, I recall also going back to Brooks Brothers in Manhattan after Washington D.C., where I bought another New Zealand bomber's jacket size 40 for $250 half price, and I also bought a replica of a World War II U.S.A. bombers jacket for my father for $275 that I sent it to him in Florida. Also before going to Oslo, Norway, I recall going to the Norwalk Factory stores to the Company Store, and I bought about $400 merchandise. That included a $250 Royal Air Force artic parka and five $20 waist 30 inch bathing suits, and I think a red $10 polo shirt, and possibly a preppy stripped belt. I think I also bought a Dopp shaving kit there for about $8. I still have my Brooks Brother New Zealand bomber's jacket, but it probably does not fit me anymore, and my brother in law's one might still fit him. Last fall a year ago, I gave the Royal Air Force Artic parka to the Greenwich Hospital thrift shop since at size medium, it did not fit me anymore, and I do not think waist 30 inch bathing suits would fit me anymore at waist 46 inches. During a cold spell around the winter of 1985, there is a picture of my in Greenwich Time wearing the Royal Air Force artic parka at the top of Greenwich Avenue, but it only shows the hood, you can not recognize me. I only wore the New Zealand bomber's jacket in Olso, Norway, since it was so warm there in March 1983, I did not need the Artic parka. CIO

Note: <888> 03/30/09 Monday 7:20 A.M.. Before going to Frankfurt, Germany in December 1980, I replaced the United States of America passport that I had lost with the $6,600 in gold in August 1980 with a new passport that I got at Rockefeller center in Manhattan before traveling to Germany. That cost about $45 at the time, and the passport picture was about $8 in the photo studio there. There was a woman standing in line behind me at the passport office at Rockefeller Center that looked like Queen Elizabeth II. When I went to Innsbruck, Austria I think I still used that passport in January 1989. However, when I went to Albertville, France in February 1992, I had to get a new U.S.A. passport, which I got at the Stamford Town Center about $65 and $8 photo price at the photo studio there. I turned in my old passport to get the new one. That new passport would have expired in February 2002, and I still have it, but I never renewed it, since I do not travel out of the country anymore. I also have NEVER been in the United Kingdom or Ireland. CIO

Note: <888> 03/30/09 Monday 7:05 A.M.. As I recall, the same day I bought the coffee at McNulty's in Greenwich Village, I also paid $90 for the Bosche and Lomb aviator sun glasses at Cohen optical just west of Fifth Avenue and just north of Rockefeller Center. Thus I guess according to the Key West Police, the Cohens of Manhattan are Nazis. I could have bought Polaroid sun glasses at the time, but their plastic lens scraped easily at the time. Thus it is my viewpoint, there is a group of professional crooks that rob travelers around the world. Possibly since one the machine gunners guarding the palace in Oslo, Norway looked like Peter Bolton whom supposedly worked for the United States State department at the time in Libya, there were other people traveling around. I did see two men in the lobby at the West Hotel behind the Palace in Oslo, Norway that looked Ronald Reagan and Casper Weinberger. As I recall, I also use to see King Olaf walking downtown in Oslo, Norway with a black rain coat. Thus I have never been to Sweden. Anyway at the time in Greenwich Village, I was asked a few times how Ron was doing, and I finally figured out they might have meant Rhone Dietrin, my friend from Lanzarote in the Canary Islands, who I never found out anything more about. Rhone's father is a pilot with S.A.S, but besides the house at the end of the runway in Lanzarote, they also live in Oslo, Norway; so they are probably stationed elsewhere in the world around S.A.S.. Rhone would be about 52 years old today, and when I knew him in 1972, he spoke fluent English, Norwegian, and Spanish. The Bosche and Lomb aviator sun glasses were stolen from my green Volkswagen Dasher at the Greenwich Library or Greenwich Avenue one time, when I did not lock it up about 20 years ago. I have since bought quite a few pairs of sunglasses cheaply at the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop. I also once bought a pair of Vuarnets at Pearl Vision at the Stamford Mall for about $80 about 20 years ago and my mostly recent pair came www.sierratradingpost.com off the internet for about $40. I have lots of other pairs that I do not wear regularly. When one is frequently on a night schedule, one has good night vision, but one needs to wear sun glasses in the daytime. CIO

Note: <888> 03/30/09 Monday 6:15 A.M.. I woke up yesterday at 5 P.M., when a relative called. I ate two hot dogs on buns with ketchup and mustard and watered down passion punch. At 8 A.M. on channel 13, I watched the hour program about Kilauea, and then I watched the 1.5 hour program on channel 21 about Kracatua. I then went to bed until 4 A.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed.

Back in February 1982 after Mount St. Helens had made for colder winters in Manhattan, and it was minus 26 degrees Fahrenheit, Julie Bolton had me leave her apartment, so her younger son could move back in. I stayed with Bobby Fink for a week above the Episcopal Church on East 52nd street. It was so cold in Manhattan, Julie whom I stayed in touch with gave me a $100 to fly down to Key West, Florida. When I got down there, I stayed with Steve Buel for a few days, and then I was left homeless on the beach. I was picked up one morning for sleeping on the beach by the Casa Marina, and the Key West police officer said I was Nazi because I was wearing Bosche and Lomb sun glasses. Apparently the federal government had issued a fugitive warrant on me, but it was a mistake in that somebody else was using my United States passport, Connecticut driver's license, and draft card which according to American Express finally ended up in Amsterdam in the Netherlands. I had lost them in August 1980, when my Jansport back pack was stolen right before I was suppose to travel to Norway. I had gotten another passport since then, because I went to Frankfurt, Germany in December 1980 for a few days. I had stayed at Julie's apartment since then. It took the Key West police a month to sort it out, and then they extradited me back to Connecticut, and when I showed up in court, they said it was computer error. It was a classic case of "GIGO", "Garbage In, Garbage Out.". I then built the garage apartment in Plandome Manor, Long Island at John Bolton's grandmother's house whose name was Vivian West. I worked from the first of April 1982 until the middle of February 1983 with one day off at Christmas working 12 to 18 hour days seven days a week, mostly at night. When I finished the garage apartment in mid February 1983, they paid me in one lump sum $1.15 an hour for all of the work or $8,500 which I took in Barclay's Traveler's Checks from the Harlem Savings Bank in Manhasset, Long Island.

Julie Bolton was moving into the apartment. For a house warming gift, I bought at McNulty's on Christopher street in Greenwich Village, a Braun coffee grinder for about $25 and 4 pounds of Viennese blend coffee beans for about $25 or $50 total.

I then left the premises, and I took the train to plane in Manhattan which would have been about $8 to J.F.K., and I bought a round trip ticket to Tampa, Florida for about $259. I stayed with my father and his wife for a week in Newport Richey, Florida, and we visited Disney World. I played golf, and I had an eagle on the ninth hole outside his house.

I then returned to Manhattan, and I took the Connecticut limousine from J.F.K. to Norwalk, Connecticut for about $20, and I stayed with my sister and her husband for a few days. I recalled taking one $25 taxi ride to Westport, Connecticut to a bar across from the Connecticut State Police.

I then stayed at the Colony Hotel in New Haven, Connecticut for a week at $85 a night for a week. I ate meals there for about $4 for breakfast and $10 for dinner, and I ate sandwiches at the local sandwich shop downtown for lunch. Yale University was out of session, and the C.I.A. was having a meeting going on there. At one local pub, I ran into Sergeant Shriver. I saw a large African American walking around the Yale Campus, and he had been a Taft School classmate, and he told me it was not safe to walk around there at night. I had a few drinks during the week, and after that I returned via train to Norwalk, Connecticut to my sister and brother in law's house. I then took the Connecticut limousine from Norwalk, Connecticut to J.F.K. airport to S.A.S., and I bought the package advertised in the New York Times for a week's stay at the S.A.S. hotel in Stockholm, Sweden for $650 and round trip air fare. However, the plane landed in Oslo, Norway, at the military airport there, and we were put on a bus to S.A.S. hotel in Oslo, Norway. At the S.A.S. hotel, they told me that my ticket was only a one way ticket to Stockholm with no hotel booking. I checked into the Y.M.C.A. across the street from the S.A.S. hotel, and I checked my traveler's checks, and I only had $300 left, so they seemed to have gone rather fast. I checked with Barclay's traveler's checks, and they said there was nothing they could do. After a few days, the Y.M.C.A., they kicked me out and kept my luggage. I walked around all night with my smaller back pack, and the manager at the West Hotel behind the palace let me check in with my passport. I went to the United Embassy, and I explained my situation. They retrieved my luggage from the Y.M.C.A. in Oslo, Norway which included my hand made back pack from Nantucket, which I was not going to leave behind. They contacted my father in Florida, and after a few days, he gave them about a $1,000 to pay my hotel bills and return me back to the United States. While in Oslo, Norway, I walked around the downtown area for about a week, but I only ate Swedish Wasa Crisps, since I did not have hardly any money. I even attended a concert in the Peace Hall. The plane from Oslo left from the civilian airport, when I changed planes to a new Boeing 747 in Copenhagen Denmark. They had given me a $100 in Oslo, so I bought two cartons of Duty Free Prince cigarettes in the Copenhagen airport for about $40 total. When I arrived back at J.F.K., I did not have hardly any money, so I spent a week at Easter time camping at the S.A.S. terminal at J.F.K., until I finally went out on the train to Plandome Manor, Long Island, and John Bolton gave me a $100, so I went back out to the J.F.K. airport, and I caught a flight to Nantucket. It was early in the season, so after opening scallops on the island for a couple of weeks, I flew off the island once to Manhattan and stayed with Julie Bolton in Manhattan for a few days, and I finally flew back to Nantucket for the season around the first of May 1983. About that time the Mianus Bridge fell down in Greenwich, Connecticut, and I noticed a few people from Greenwich in Nantucket. I worked at the Languedoc that season until the end of November 1983. I did make one trip off the island around Halloween, when I drove down to Florida with a relative, and then I flew back to Nantucket. When I left Nantucket it was on the anniversary of J.F.K.'s death, and that morning in Hyannis airport, I saw Ted Kennedy at the airport, and he later dropped off Jackie Onassis at the airport who was on my flight back down to LaGuardia. John Von Airsdale was the pilot on P.B.A. flight. I then went up to Toronto on the Amtrak for a week, and I stayed at the Anglican seminary library at the University of Toronto, and then on the train down, there an older woman in my empty Pullman car that looked like the Queen Mum of England with a little blond boy. When the train stopped at Buffalo, New York, I called up George Cary, and I chatted with his father. He gave me his telephone number in Sands Point, Long Island, but I did not call him up for a few years, until I was settled in Greenwich again. After being homeless twice for two weeks in Manhattan and twice in the Greenwich hospital for swollen ankles from walking around Manhattan, my social worker got my first apartment back in Greenwich on Milbank Avenue, and I have been here ever since. Five months were at 100 Milbank Avenue, two months at Grigg Street and Greenwich Avenue, 4.5 years at 700 Steamboat Road, and the last 20 plus years here at 71 Vinci Drive.

Thus in summary the $8,500 in Barclay's Traveler's Checks seems to have gone a little bit faster than expected, once I left Plandome Manor, Long Island in February 1983. I do not recall whether I spent them, lost them or had them stolen. All I know was when I got to Oslo, Norway I only had $300 left. CIO

Note: <888> 03/29/09 Sunday 9:35 A.M.. I had two telephone calls from relatives while I was asleep yesterday afternoon. My relative with the clot in the leg is doing better, but has to be on cumadin for the next six months. I told my relative about the old movie "Cousin, Cousine" about the French Sleep cure, where they put one to sleep for two weeks, and one wakes up totally rested. I finally woke up at 2 A.M.. I did two loads of laundry, and I put clean linens on the bed. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. Two days ago, I refilled the Glade Plug-in in the kitchen with a 60% mixture of English leather and 40% mixture of 80% isopropyl alcohol. I read the recent computer magazine periodical literature. I threw them away. I briefly looked at www.forbes.com recent magazine issue about all of the billionaires that lost money, but I still have to read it more thoroughly. I saw somebody that looked like <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> yesterday at CVS wearing a Norwegian flag on his sweater, but I do not think it was Fred, because Fred was my height, and the person I saw was two or three inches shorter. Thus we have Fred look-a-alikes in the area. I installed the updates on the FIC server and the primary Vista computer. I also rebooted the Cable Modem, router, and the wireless router to clear their caches, in case they have any. I cooked and ate a 11 ounce box of Stop and Shop frozen fish filets which I ate with a mixture of ketchup and horse radish along with my usual vegetable mixture and a glass of watered down passion punch. It is a rainy day, so I will not be going out. Yesterday, saw about a half dozen black Bentley sedan automobiles downtown, so somebody in the area still has money. Of course just because they shop and do business in Greenwich does not mean they live here. CIO

I ate two hotdogs with buns and ketchup and mustard and watered down passion punch. I watched some television. I went back to bed until 6 A.M.. I ate the other half of the linguine and tomato meat sauce with grated parmesan and Romano cheese and watered down passion punch. I move the extra pair of Pontec computer speakers from the bedroom gigabyte computer to the second Dell

Latitude CS laptop computer. I cleaned the Ionic Pro air purifier. I rehung the larger flags in front of the hallway bookcases in the same manner I did in the warmer season last spring. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 15 ounce bottle of Alberto VO5 shampoo. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station, and I bought $10.02 of self service premium gasoline at $2.559 a gallon for 3.915 gallons at odometer reading of 62307 for 49.7 miles driving during the last 13 days for 12.6947 miles per gallon. Note: <888> 03/27/09 Friday 4:00 A.M.. I woke up at 2 A.M.. I ate 10 dried apricots. I tested one of the high definition converter boxes. I hooked it up to my existing high definition antenna, and I turned the power on to the antenna with the inline switch, and I connected it into my television system. It is easy to setup. I currently get 19 high definition channels. Basically half are Spanish language channels, one fourth are evangelist religion channels, and one fourth are information commercials. I also get a couple of education channels, a cartoon channel, ION TV channel, and finally ABC. There is not a large variety compared to www.cablevision.com. I watched part of a program about the Irish potato famine. Apparently when the potato blight started at the beginning of the 19th century, there were 8 million people in Ireland, and today they are down to 5 million people, so it is a net population loss of three million people from the potato famine. When I knew Helen Kress Williams, she knew Rose Kennedy, and she told me that Rose Kennedy said the Irish potato famine was caused by the volcanoes in Iceland being active causing it to be colder in Ireland causing the potato blight. I repackage the Digital converter box and its contents, and I put it back in the Sony television cabinet, and I reconnected the television system to Cablevision. Once the analog television service is converted to digital around June 16, 2009, there should be more digital television channels. The reception I get with the digital antenna is just as clear as Cablevision. CIO

Note: <888> 03/26/09 Thursday 6:15 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. Not much seems to be happening around town. I guess the younger generation of unemployed people have a different viewpoint of modern times based on the more prosperous 20 years before the recent depression began. In the 1970s through 1983, I was able to survive that recession by washing dishes and pots and pans, which is not a glamorous job, but the food was good, but you end up smelling like a wet cat all of the time. Unfortunately the modern dish washing machines I worked with back then had three five gallon plastic buckets of chemicals beneath them to clean the dishes thoroughly, so I was inhaling the chemicals all of the time from the dishwashing machines. I think when George W. Bush was president, the "W" stood for the "Lazy W" which is the branding iron symbol of the King Ranch down in Texas. They "Lazy W" stands for a rattle snake which is very common in that area of south Texas. That is why Texans wear boots. CIO

Yesterday morning, I saw someone that looks like <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> driving a black BMW out of Weaver Street onto West Putnam Avenue at 7:30 A.M.. Since Fred would not own or drive a car, since his parents were killed in a car wreck back in 1954, I doubt if it were Fred, and it was probably just another look alike.

Note: <888> 03/25/09 Wednesday 11:35 A.M.. I went out after the last note. I went by the ATM machine at the Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue on West Putnam Avenue. There were very few people downtown, so I drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, and I viewed the Greenwich Harbor. They have removed the barricade away from the pier on Steamboat Road. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a dozen large jumbo eggs expire April 20, 2009 for $2.29, a 12 ounce container of French's deli style mustard for $1.50, four 16 ounce packages of Oscar Meyer premium beef hot dogs buy one get one free for $4.39 for two, buy one get one free of 16 ounce Oscar Meyer thick sliced bacon for $5.49 both, and fresh Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for $2.12 for $20.18 total. I then returned home, and I said good morning to the building custodian and a neighbor. I put away my groceries. I made and ate a three egg omelet with grated parmesan and Romano cheese and white processed cheese, five strips of fried bacon, and a toasted English muffin with olive oil and watered down passion punch. I also drank a cup of Salada green tea with a package of splenda and lemon juice. Earlier I chatted with a friend. I just chatted with a relative. The hot green tea makes me a bit tired, but I will now try to do some regular computer work. My regular computer work involves a lot of reading, so I frequently am focused on the computer activity, when I got out in public as opposed to what the general public might be thinking about in terms of the local environment. It looks pretty normal to me downtown, but there are less people around in the morning with the recession than there use to be. Of course, I have lived here during other recessions, and it is sort of nice to enjoy the peaceful surroundings despite the fact that people apparently are not making any money. I know in past recessions, more people spent more time on gardening. I noticed one retired person cashing in his Folger's coffee can of lose change at the change counter at the Stop and Shop. I guess with less food consumption and colder living conditions, people do not have the energy for exercise walking as much anymore as they use to. Recently I have felt cold all of the time, despite the fact that I dress warmly, and I do not go out as much anymore. However, I am so use to colder temperatures, once we get hot weather, I will probably have to spend more time by the air conditioner. CIO

I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go downtown to do a couple of minor errands. There is suppose to be a high of 48 degrees Fahrenheit today and sunny, and it is currently 28 degrees Fahrenheit. I currently weigh 206 pounds, so I am not exactly starving. A high government official told me yesterday that I can solve all of my apartment heating problems by looking at www.usa.gov , so I will have to see if there any programs to heat electrically heated apartments for the disabled available from the government. All I get now is the Neon program which is about $600 a year extra, and it would cost me $200 to $300 a month more in the winter to keep my 400 square foot apartment heated at 72 degrees Fahrenheit, which from what I know now, funds are not available. Then I would not have to spend so much time in bed to stay warm. CIO

Note: <888> 03/25/09 Wednesday 5:55 A.M.. I got a $38.99 credit from www.newegg.com on the defective PNY computer memory. I also woke up and ate 10 dried apricots this past afternoon. CIO

Note: <888> 03/25/09 Wednesday 5:45 A.M.. I woke up after the last note, and I chatted with two relatives. One of my relatives in Texas has a blood clot in her leg, so she has to be in the hospital a few days and take cummadin. I went back to bed until 8 P.M. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made the bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I threw out the garbage, and I picked up the mail. I watched some television, and I rested until 2:30 A.M.. I ate two hot dogs with buns and mustard and ketchup and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips along with some watered down passion punch.

I looked at www.liveduvalstreet.com to see what is happening down in Key West, Florida. It looks like they have quite a few tourists.

I watched some more television. I decided not to fly the Saudi Arabian flag, because it has not made it any warmer in the apartment in the past. I put the U.S.A. stars and strips flag over the right hallway bookcase. I checked out the television, but there does not seem to be anything I need to watch or that I have not seen before. CIO

Note: <888> 03/24/09 Tuesday 1:05 P.M.. I had two no person telephone calls about an hour after I lied down. I did some minor maintenance around the apartment fiddling with the Panasonic two line cordless telephones. I chatted with an out of town public relations department. The Chase Bank www.chase.com from just west of Greenwich Avenue on West Putnam Avenue called me up, and they are going to refund the $15 they charged to me for making withdrawals from my savings account. I gave them some free economic advise. They told me they had sent me a letter in January 2009 about the new increased fees, but I never got said letter. I told them that I had read in the Greenwich Time that two postal workers at the Valley Road Post Office had been arrested recently for smoking marijuana, so possibly there is a problem with our local mail service. I ate two hot dogs on buns with ketchup and mustard. I cancelled my 3 P.M. appointment, because I am too cold to go out. I will now get back into my warm night clothes, and I will climb into my warm bed, and I will go to bed for the day. Stay warm. I heard a lot of jet traffic today, so the gypsies from down south are probably showing up here trying to swindle us thinking we have money. CIO

Note: <888> 03/24/09 Tuesday 9:10 A.M.. I am a bit tired. Although the computer activity is not physically exhausting, it can be mentally exhausting. I will now take a nap for a while. CIO

Note: <888> 03/24/09 Tuesday 8:40 A.M.. I ate my usual sautéed burger with onions and steamed vegetables with olive oil meal with watered down passion punch.

Note: <888> 03/24/09 Tuesday 5:25 A.M.. I got tired of playing the Czar of Russia, so I decided to be an Arab Sheik for a little while. I turned the apartment thermostat up to 78 degrees Fahrenheit in the living room, and I turned the two DeLonghi radiators in the living room on medium power level 4, and I turned on the hallway tower fan to blow the heat into the bedroom and the bathroom, and I turned on the living room window ledge fan to blow the heat around the living room. Once the heat in the apartment is up to 74 degrees Fahrenheit, I will turn it all off. I have a few friends in Saudi Arabia that supply energy, so I hung the Saudi Arabian flag over the right hallway bookcase. Technically a foreign ambassador can live anywhere in the United States of America, so now I will pretend to be the Saudi Arabian ambassador to the United States of America, since none of them in their right minds would come this far north. However, once the apartment heats up in an hour or so, I will turn it all off, but it will remind me what it use to be like here, before a bunch of bums from Vermont started visiting me. CIO

Alaska Redoubt Report:

Alaska Volcano Observatory*Information Statement*Monday, March 23, 2009 12:18 PM AKDT (12:18 UTC)*Redoubt Volcano*60°29'7" N 152°44'38" W, Summit Elevation 10197 ft (3108 m) Current Volcano Alert Level: WARNING Current Aviation Color Code: RED

Beginning last night (Sunday March 22, 2009) at approximately 22:38 AKDT, Redoubt Volcano produced a series of five explosive eruptions that each lasted from four to thirty minutes. The last one ended at 5:00 AM AKDT this morning (March 23). National Weather Service radar, pilot reports, and AVO analysis of satellite imagery suggest that these events produced ash clouds that reached 60,000 ft above sea level (asl), with the bulk of the ash volume between 25 - 30,000 ft asl. Traces of ash fall have been reported in Skwentna, Talkeetna, Wasilla, and Trapper Creek.

AVO remains at Aviation Color Code RED and Alert Level WARNING.

Seismic unrest continues at Redoubt in the form of elevated volcanic tremor. NEXRAD radar data show that the last significant ash emission was concurrent with the final explosive event at 5:00 AM AKDT. Since that time, no ash has been visible in radar, suggesting that if ash emission is occurring, it is below approximately 13,000 ft asl and/or too fine to be detected. Poor weather at the volcano currently hinders visual observations.

Last night's explosive eruptions caused melting of the Drift glacier and greatly increased discharge down the Drift River. AVO plans a helicopter overflight to the area today to assess conditions at the volcano and along the Drift River. The explosions also destroyed one seismic station near the volcano's summit (RSO), and disrupted telemetry from AVO's observation hut. This telemetry outage affects the web camera, a continuous GPS station, and two broadband seismic stations. Repairs to this data link will be undertaken as conditions permit. Seven telemetered seismic stations surrounding Redoubt remain in operation.

The eruptions were preceded by approximately 60 hours of elevated seismicity in the form of discrete earthquakes under the volcano. AVO raised the Aviation Color Code/Alert Level from YELLOW/ADVISORY to ORANGE/WATCH on Saturday, March 21 at 22:09 AKDT. This increase in seismicity likely reflected the upward movement of magma towards the surface. Prior to this weekend, Redoubt had exhibited signs of volcanic unrest beginning in the Fall of 2008 which then escalated in late January, 2009. Last night's explosions were the first significant ash-producing eruptions of the unrest.

Further explosive activity could occur with little or no warning, and could occur intermittently for weeks or months. AVO remains staffed 24 hours per day will issue further information as it becomes available.

For up-to-date Ashfall Advisories and wind trajectories, please refer to the National Weather Service website:

<http://pafc.arh.noaa.gov/volcano.php>.

Heavily ice-mantled Redoubt volcano is located on the western side of Cook Inlet, 170 km (106 mi) southwest of Anchorage and 82 km (51 mi) west of Kenai, within Lake Clark National Park. Redoubt is a stratovolcano which rises to 10,197 feet above sea level. Recent eruptions occurred in 1902, 1966-68, and 1989-90. The 1989-90 eruption produced mudflows, or lahars, that traveled down the Drift River and partially flooded the Drift River Oil Terminal facility. The ash plumes produced by the 1989-90 eruption affected international air traffic and resulted in minor or trace amounts of ash in the city of Anchorage and other nearby communities.

Note: <888> 03/24/09 Tuesday 3:45 A.M.. Over the last couple of mornings, I woke up, and I finished off the box of reduced fat Cheez-its. I also ate 8 dried apricots. I woke up yesterday morning, and I called up the www.chase.com bank just West of Greenwich Avenue, and I explained the problem I had with my account. I went back to bed, and they called me back at 3 P.M.. Apparently with the Chase Savings account, you have to have over $300 in your savings account, or they will charge you $4 a month service charge. They also only allow four withdrawals by all means including direct, ATM, or online per month, and they charge you $3 for each withdrawal after that. They said since I was not notified by letter of their new policy, they might refund the $15 for the extra five withdrawals this past month, but that has yet to happen. I made some routine telephone calls.

Apparently yesterday morning Mount Redoubt in Alaska erupted five times www.avo.alaska.edu . That probably means a colder winter up north next winter and possibly the following winter.

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made the bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I threw out the garbage, and I picked up the mail. I got my monthly $10 survey check. I had chatted with a relative earlier.

A relative heard on National Public Radio, some locals in Alaska had climbed up the Redoubt volcano recently and thrown some old tires down the volcano to make it look like it was erupting. However from what I can tell, the current eruptions are the real thing.

I watched some television, but there was not much worth watching. I ate two hotdogs on hotdog rolls with mustard and ketchup and watered down passion punch. I slept from about midnight until 3 A.M.. I chatted with the Casa Marina to make sure they are still awake down there in case Cuba invades. I showered, and I cleaned up.

The way I figure it the inflation over the last nine years was caused by filet of salmon going from $2.99 a pound to $8.99 a pound.

Also the way I figure it, the current economic depression started last June 2008, when my friends from Sea Island, Georgia and Manhattan came out for a garden tour. We toured a house in back country and a house on the waterfront in Riverside. We then toured the Dutch Art collection of retrieved Nazi art at the Bruce Museum, and in the collection was a small oil of Cosmo Di Medici as a youth in Leyden in the Netherlands. That is probably what jinxed the world economic situation, since the Medici have not run out of money in 800 years, since they started financing Venetian pirates. Shortly there after a bad storm came up, and I dropped my friends off at the Greenwich Train station, and on the return home, a tree had fallen over Vinci Drive, and later on the next day, I learned that the Arnold Bread outlet had been hit by lightning and burned down. Thus people in Greenwich, Connecticut were not able to save money on week old English muffins, and they did not have enough money to invest in Wall Street causing a world wide economic decline. Thus I will call it the Cosmo Di Medici English Muffin depression. Of course that is my own view point.

Note: <888> 03/22/09 Sunday 1:20 A.M.. From what I can tell, the town of Greenwich, Connecticut spent so much money fixing up the town trying to impress its neighbors in New York City, there is not much money left in the town anymore.

I ate a sliced Virginia ham, sliced turkey, and sliced cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with mayo and with a glass of watered down passion punch and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringles sour cream and onion potato chips. I also drank a cup of Salada green tea with a package of splenda and a couple of teaspoons of lemon juice.

Basically the town of Greenwich, Connecticut is a bunch of skinny old ladies living on tea and toast, and the rest of the people you see are just the visitors and part time workers.

I made up a fresh batch of passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 03/21/09 Saturday 11:40 P.M.. I went out after the last note. I went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought three 8 packs of Stop and Shop hot dog rolls for $5 all, and a day old six pack of Bulky rolls for $1.75 for $6.75 total. I chatted with a local Scottish guru who thinks the Scottish are not paid enough in this town. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 15 ounce container of Alberto VO5 Kiwi and Lime conditioner for .77 and .06 tax for .82 total. I noticed they have filled up the two construction holes on Greenwich Avenue, so you do not have to worry about any wayward Irish falling in the holes during their St. Pat's Day parade. It tends to be a group of people from out of town, and not many of them I do I ever see shopping downtown regularly, so I guess they all shop where ever it is cheaper. I guess that is why they can afford to hold a parade. The Scottish fellow said that Barings Bank failure Barings Debacle of the Queen's Bank lost a lot of money and failed, so I guess that is why the Queen Welcome to the official website of the British Monarchy can no longer afford to pay for all of the extra staff, the way they use to. Whatever the real case, I was never on their payroll, so I still manage to survive. I then returned home after my walk. I put the bread products in the freezer, so I now have even more bread products in the freezer. I was refunded $4 of the $19 that Chase over charged me, but I still have to take up the matter of the $15 over charge for having less than $300 in my Chase account along with the matter that they never notified me about the change in their banking procedures, and I have to find out what to expect from them in the future. CIO

Note: <888> 03/21/09 Saturday 8:00 P.M.. I made and ate <http://www.geocities.com/mikelscott/pbf.htm>, and I also had a glass of watered down passion punch. The St. Patrick's Day parade in Greenwich, Connecticut is suppose to be tomorrow afternoon, Sunday March 22, 2009 around 2 P.M.. The last time I looked there was a big hole dug in front of the Knapp funeral home and another one down at the bottom of Greenwich Avenue next to the new construction project, so the parade will have to detour around those construction holes. The Irish in this area are so afraid of wolves, they usually show up with a few Irish wolf hounds in the parade, but the truly Nordic people keep Russian wolf hounds around. When I knew Louis Rosenstiel he used to walk the Conyers Farm property with three Russian wolf hounds. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will shower and clean up, and I will go out for an evening stroll. I need to buy hot dog buns, and that is about all that I can afford. CIO

Note: <888> 03/21/09 Saturday 6:50 P.M.. I woke up at 2 P.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes.

www.chase.com took $19 of money out of my savings account without my permission. They charged me $15 for having less than $300 in my saving account, and they charged me $4 for using their ATM machine more than four times this month. I used the ATM machine to transfer money between the saving account and checking account. I have been told, one can use the Chase ATM machine as many times as needed. When I called them up, they said they had changed their account regulations, and they had sent me a letter to the effect on March 9, 2009, which I never received. When the bank opens on Monday, I will have to go in and see what the problem is. It is my viewpoint that I am grandfathered in on my account, and they can not start making unreasonable charges just to increase their profits. They usually cooperate with me, since I have covered their branches the last few years, they have started banking out here.

I chatted with a relative and a friend. Last night I did a Vista Complete PC backup from the first hard drive to the second hard drive. This afternoon, I did one to the second partition on the first hard drive and also the Maxtor external hard drive.

There is a program on the Turner movie channel about somebody stranded in Alaska called "Never Cry Wolf".

I am not sure if the Delivery confirmation will work or not. All I got from the machine was a receipt and bar code postage. Possibly I needed to install a separate delivery confirmation form, which the machine did not dispense, unless one is suppose to use one possibly available in the lobby. The machine seem to indicate it would dispense the delivery confirmation form. I then returned home. I installed a short extension cord from the upper left power switch on the control panels, and I plugged in the power adapter for the TV speakers on the primary Vista computer, so one can turn that on and off. I labeled it. I installed the Epson C120 printer on the power plug that is always on. I also installed the Epson C120 printer with a direct cable from the rear of the CPU to the printer, so it is USB 2.0. I took the Linksys USB 2.0 hub off the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop, and I installed it on the primary Vista computer controlling four other printers. I moved the USB 1.0 hub from the primary Vista computer to the Dell Latitude CS laptop. I will now install Internet Explorer 8.0. CIO

I went back to bed until 4 P.M.

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes.

I unpacked the digital converters and antennas, and I put them in the cabinet underneath the Sony television in the living room. The Digital Signal is suppose to be available in this area around June 16, 2009.

I setup the Epson Stylus C120 printer to the right of the center LCD monitor on the primary Vista computer. It works just fine. I put the plastic bag with its information on the right lower shelf of the side board hutch in the bedroom. It turns on with the top left control panel switch. I labeled the switch for it and the storage device and also the USB hub on the Epox computer, and the HP laser printer on the Epox computer with its switch on the Northgate Syntax control panel.

I called up Newegg, and they are going to refund the money on the Newegg.com - PNY Optima 1GB 184-Pin DDR SDRAM DDR 400 (PC 3200) Desktop Memory - Desktop Memory for $38.99 and $2.99 shipping for $41.98 total. I do not have to send the defective one back in.

I chatted with a relative. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature, and I also threw out the shipping boxes. I picked up the mail.

I reinstalled the drivers and program for the Samsung CLP 315 color laser printer on the primary Vista computer, and I have its program set to start up, when the computer boots, so it is always available. I also have the primary Vista computer USB cable connected to it instead of the LAN network cable. It works just fine.

Last night, when I had the case on the primary Vista computer opened, I also installed a new primary IDE cable.

On the primary Vista computer, I did Vista Complete PC backups from the first hard drive to the two internal hard drive partitions.

I chatted with a relative.

I made and ate <http://www.geocities.com/mikelscott/pbf.htm>, and I also had a glass of watered down passion punch.

I showered, and I cleaned up. I watered the plants. CIO

Note: <888> 03/20/09 Friday 6:55 A.M.. I ate a sliced Virginia ham, sliced turkey, and sliced cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with a glass of watered down passion punch and a dill pickle slice and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of pringle sour cream and onion potato chips. Note: <888> 03/20/09 Friday 6:00 A.M.. I woke up yesterday morning at 8 A.M.. I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I went back to bed until 10:30 A.M.. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I watched a bit of television. I chatted with a friend. I ate a sliced Virginia ham, sliced turkey, and sliced cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with a glass of watered down passion punch and a dill pickle slice and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of pringle sour cream and onion potato chips. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I threw out the garbage. I went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I then went to my usual 3 P.M. appointment. I then returned home. I picked up the mail. I chatted with a friend. I went to bed until 10 P.M.. I ate a sautéed hamburger with sautéed slice onions and sliced processed cheese on a hamburger bun with ketchup and my usual vegetable mixture and a glass of watered down passion punch.

I started up the primary Vista computer, and it would not work. I checked it out, and the it appears the new Newegg.com - PNY Optima 1GB 184-Pin DDR SDRAM DDR 400 (PC 3200) Desktop Memory - Desktop Memory for $38.99 and $2.99 shipping for $41.98 total had failed. I tested it in the FIC server, and it did not work, and I tested it alone in the bedroom Gigabyte computer which has the same motherboard as my primary Vista computer, and it only posts half a gigabyte of memory. I can not return it to Newegg, since I have sent in the rebate with the package UPC code, so I applied for an RMA from www.pny.com . Thus I am only running the primary Vista computer on two gigabytes of memory. CIO

Note: <888> 03/18/09 Wednesday 11:50 P.M.. I was out of hot dog buns, so I ate two hotdogs on hamburger buns with mustard and ketchup and a dill pickle slice and watered down passion punch. To put hotdogs on a hamburger bun, after one cooks them for about 80 seconds in a microwave proof container in the microwave oven, one slices them in half each way into quarters and lays them on the hamburger bun. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I have my usual 3 P.M. appointment tomorrow on Thursday afternoon. CIO

In the 15th century in the Netherlands, when there was economic turmoil, the Dutch used tulip bulbs for money. Since the United States currency seems to be worth less anymore, you might want to exchange it for tulip bulbs. You can buy tulip bulbs from Holland, Michigan at Tulip Time Festival and <http://www.veldheer.com/> and Premium Dutch flower bulbs - Garden tulips, daffodils and more - Brecks.com and Fabulous garden plants, trees and bulbs at bargain prices - MichiganBulb.com and Spring flower bulbs, flower bulbs for spring and Tulip Bulbs page 1 of 3 - Dutch Village - Holland, Michigan of course you could always order them from the Netherlands bulbsdirect . I do not know that much about gardening, but the last time I planted tulip bulbs was when I built the garage apartment in Plandome Manor, Long Island. I was advised by the family out there to plant them in the fall before the ground freezes.

I then went downtown, and I went by the Merry Go Round Mews thrift shop. I then walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by the ATM machine at the Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I then returned home. I chatted with a neighbor. I picked up my mail. I ate a sliced Virginia ham and sliced turkey and sliced processed cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with low fat mayonnaise and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. Note: <888> 03/17/09 Tuesday 9:50 P.M.. I woke up at 2:30 P.M. this afternoon. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes.

The order with tracking of UPS: Tracking Information on the order for Labtec Stereo Speakers with Bass Port & Volume Control - eBay (item 170306079558 end time Mar-26-09 14:55:21 PDT) for $8.99 with free shipping arrived. I connected the up the K-world TV adapter on the primary Vista computer, and one turns them on with the power strip switch on the control panel when watching TV on the 22 inch LCD monitor. I moved the Jensen speakers to the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. One turns them on with the button on the side of the primary Jensen speaker.

I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area.

I stopped by CVS briefly. I chatted with another walker. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center.

I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I read P.C. World magazine. There is a computer supplier in Hollywood, Florida that has 200,000 parts at www.impactcomputers.com . I chatted with a couple of staff members.

I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought two 12 ounce package of Kraft 2% milk Swiss slices of processed cheese for $2.50 each, a 64 ounce container of Tropicana orange juice with calcium for $3, slices of Deli Virginia ham for $5.99 a pound for $6.14, a 13.5 ounce box of reduced fat Cheez-its for $2.50, and fresh Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for $1.49 for $18.13 total.

I chatted with one of Rudy's limousine people driving a new black Cadillac limousine about www.cadillac.com .

I returned home, and I picked up the mail. I put away my groceries. When I went out, I threw out the shipping box. I chatted with a relative. I will now make a omelet with processed cheese and grated Parmesan and Romano cheese, and six strips of fried bacon, and a toasted English muffin with olive oil and a glass of watered down passion punch.

Note: <888> 03/17/09 Tuesday 7:45 A.M.. I finally got all three PNY one gigabyte memory strips working in the primary Vista computer. In the CMOS setting on the 7th page <http://mikelouisscott.com/gig1-bios.htm> , I changed the DRAM setting from Auto to 266 MHZ, and the primary Vista computer works just fine with all three memory strips. I took the new PNY memory strip out the FIC server, and I put it in the primary Vista computer with the pair of fairly new one gigabyte PNY memory strips. I took the generic 1 gigabyte memory strip out of the bedroom Gigabyte computer, and I put it in the FIC server, so it still has three gigabytes of memory. I took the one gigabyte Crucial memory strip out of the Abit computer, and I put it with an identical one in the Epox computer, so it still has two gigabytes. I moved the two half gigabyte memory strips from the Epox computer to the Abit computer, so it now has four half gigabyte memory strips for two gigabytes total. I put the quarter gigabyte memory strip back in the bedroom gigabyte computer, so it now has 1.25 gigabytes of memory. All systems seem to work just fine. I filled out the PNY $10 mail in rebate information, and I mailed it downstairs. I threw some garbage outside, and I chatted with a couple of neighbors. I let a health care worker in the building. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I will eat a toasted English muffin with olive oil before going to bed.

Current configuration is <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . I have yet to change the pictures in the page to reflect the current monitors in the current setup. CIO

Tracking is Newegg.com - Computer Parts, PC Components, Laptop Computers, Digital Cameras and more! on the order for Newegg.com - PNY Optima 1GB 184-Pin DDR SDRAM DDR 400 (PC 3200) Desktop Memory - Desktop Memory for $38.99 and $2.99 shipping for $41.98 total arrived. It also has a $10 mail in rebate, so it will eventually cost me $31.98 after I receive the rebate.

I installed it in the primary Vista computer as the third memory chip, and the primary Vista computer started freezing again. It is not identical to the other two pairs of PNY 1 gigabyte memory that I have. I went through the tedious process of swapping memory around with it from other computers, and the only solution is the pair of new PNY 1 gigabyte memory that I had already installed. I took out the second Netgear GA311 LAN card from the primary Vista computer, and I put it in the Abit computer replacing the Netgear FA311 LAN card that would not work in it. I took the two 1 gigabyte PNY memory chips out of the Abit computer, and I put them in the FIC server with the new 1 gigabyte PNY memory chip, so the FIC server now has 3 gigabytes of memory. I had already moved the generic 1 gigabyte memory chip from the Abit computer to the Bedroom Gigabyte computer, so it still has two gigabytes of memory. I moved the Crucial 1 gigabyte memory chip and the two CompUSA half gigabyte memory chips from the FIC server to the Abit computer. This all took a bit of time. I tried testing the primary Vista computer with out the Netgear LAN cards and also with out the Crucial Turbo Boost pen drive, and it still froze, when I had three one gigabyte memory chips in it. Thus I have it all set up as best as I can do on my limited budget, but they all work just fine.

Current configurations are here <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> .

I chatted with a relative. I removed the powered FM antenna from the Abit computer, because it did not work, and I stored it in the beer mug to the right of the stereo system, and I used an old telephone cable with coaxial connector to connect the FM antenna port on the Leadtek TV card in the Abit computer to the FM antenna connected to the shortwave radio, and now FM works just fine on the Abit computer.

I ate two hotdogs on buns with ketchup and mustard and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I chatted with a relative and two friends. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the bathroom at Starbucks before and after the walk. I chatted with a relative twice on the wireless telephone. I saw the Space Shuttle NASA - Shuttle and Station fly by in the southeastern night sky about 4.5 minutes after the launch at 7:42 P.M. E.D.T.. It is fairly easy to recognize, and it went by a lot faster than a jet. The night sky was clear enough to view it from the veterans monument across the street from the senior and the arts center. I chatted with a local before I began my walk, and Greenwich is not holding the St. Patrick's Day parade until next Sunday. I guess they have to round up some Irish to hold the parade. I chatted with a visitor from Southern China whom seemed to be well informed about Greenwich. I told him a few other facts that he might not know. I was told there is work in high tech in China, and he suggested that I move to China, but I do not think I could deal with the language barrier. I gave him a calling card. I stopped by CVS, and although they are advertising the Digital TV coupons worth $40 can be used on the Craig converter for $50 less $40 coupon, they are sold out of the digital converter boxes. I bought three 1 liter bottles of CVS oral mouth rinse for $2.99 each and .54 tax for $9.51 total. I completed my walk. I chatted with the staff at Starbucks about a friend from Brazil that recently showed up here wearing Dutch clogs, so maybe he started a new coffee shop in Amsterdam in the Netherlands. I then went by the A&P Fresh. I bought buy one six pack of Thomas' English muffins with nooks and crannies for $3.39 both and a 18 ounce package of OnCore frozen sliced turkey meat in gravy for $3.29 for $10.07. The charged me more, since at the A&P Fresh when one uses Food Stamps, they can not give you the discount on sale items, which seem weird. I chatted with the staff about the price of tea in China.

I then returned home, and I ate the same reheated dinner as last night, and I will now drink a cup of Salada green tea with a package of splenda and lemon juice. CIO

Note: <888> 03/15/09 Sunday 4:25 A.M.. I made two copies of my Social Security statement. They seem to be missing the information on quite a few jobs that I have had over the years, but I guess the government does that for security purposes. In other words politicians come and go while I always seem to stay here like the Maytag repairman.

Well, in the Holland, Dutch, Netherlands culture, cleanliness is next to godliness www.hourofpower.org , so some people take house cleaning quite seriously based on what they can afford.

I chatted with a couple of out of town security individuals whom seem to watch too much television.

My friend George Gordon Cary knows Dolan that owns Cablevision, and I do not even get a break on www.cablevision.com rates, so the $86 a month I pay for high definition digital cable television could possibly be lowered if I cancelled it, and I used the high definition equipment that I ordered. However, I would have to pay $20 more a month for Optimum Voice free long distance to Canada, the U.S.A., and Puerto Rico. Possibly since the Rockefellers use to own Doral resorts, they are down in Puerto Rico, so I could possibly contact them down there, but I have a feeling it is still too cold up here for them. CIO

I went back to bed until 2:30 P.M.. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I did some bottom fishing on the internet. I ate a sliced turkey and cheese sandwich on a Kaiser roll with mayonnaise and a dill pickle slice and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of pringle sour cream and onion potato chips with some watered down passion punch. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 15 ounce Alberto VO5 herbal shampoo and one of conditioner for .99 each and .12 tax for $2.10 total. I used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank at the top of Greenwich Avenue. I finished my walk. I sat out for a while. I chatted with a local, and I chatted with someone from Argentina. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. They have a lot of old National Geographics piled up in the front room. I then drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road. They still have the pier barricaded off to keep people from walking out on it. The new apartment complex across from the Delamar Hotel looks mostly complete. There is another new house with terracotta tiles on the roof.

I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station next to the Greenwich Library, and I bought $8 of self service premium for $2.499 a gallon for 3.20 gallons for 38.4 miles driving the last nine days at odometer reading of 62256 miles for 12 miles per gallons driving in mostly local traffic. I checked the oil, and it is fine. I cleaned the windows on the outside. I checked the tires for 32 PSI.

I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a top round roast for $1.99 a pound for $10.51. At the Infiniti Dealership, they have one of those 2008 tiny fuel economy cars that everyone was trying to get a year ago, when gasoline was more expensive. It is yellow and black. I then returned home, and I picked up my mail. I chatted with a relative. I cut the top round of beef roast into about 1.5 inch cubic chunks with a serrated knife trimming off any fat. I then ran it all through part at a time about 1/3rd full through the Cuisine Art with the chopping blade, and I turned it all into hamburger. I then weighed out 7 ounce portions, and I made 12 hamburgers. I doubled bagged them in baby carrot bags that I save, and I froze them all in the freezer. The ones on the door are the older ones.

I made and ate my usual linguine and tomato meat sauce dinner with grated parmesan and Romano cheese, and I refrigerated half, and I ate it with a glass of watered down passion punch. The fire alarm went off as I was finishing dinner. I checked with the neighbors whose alarm light was on, and the neighbor was just cleaning her iron, and it set off the fire alarm. She had called the fire department to tell them it was not an emergency. The fire department and police arrived to reset the alarm. I chatted with a neighbor. I cleaned up after dinner.

I did two loads of laundry, and I have five minutes to go on the dry cycle. I put clean linens on the bed.

Note: <888> 03/13/09 Friday 9:45 P.M.. I had a call at 10 A.M. this morning from a Minnesota Radiology survey that had sent me a letter. I called them back to tell them it was addressed to wrong person. I finally woke up at 2:30 P.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I installed the updates on the Abit and the Bedroom Gigabyte computer. I also installed the updates on one of two partitions on the Epox computer. The updates would not install on the Northgate Syntax computer, and the other partition on the Epox computer, probably because the server was busy. I had a problem with the Abit computer crashing, and I restored the backup, but it still crashed. I changed some of the CMOS settings, but it still crashed. I finally removed the 256 megabyte memory chip that I put in this morning leaving it with 2 gigabytes of memory, and it works just fine. I installed the updates on it, and I unchecked most of the startup programs by running "msconfig". I then backed up the changes to the second hard drive.

I watered the plants. I chatted with a relative. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I picked up the mail. I ate the same dinner as the previous six nights before yesterday. The cold eye round is all gone now. I made up another batch of passion punch. I chatted with a relative. CIO

Note: <888> 03/13/09 Friday 5:55 A.M.. After the last note, I took the older PNY 1 gigabyte memory strip out of the Abit computer, and I tested it with the two newer PNY 1 gigabyte memory strips in the primary Vista computer, and it definitely causes the primary Vista computer to freeze. Although they are all PC 3200 one gigabyte DDR memory strips, the older one is made in Taiwan and the two newer ones are made in the U.S.A., so they probably are not identical. When I put the older one back in the Abit computer, I also put in the spare 256 megabyte PNY PC 3200 memory chip in the Abit computer, so it now has 2.25 gigabytes of memory.

For the primary Vista computer, I ordered Newegg.com - PNY Optima 1GB 184-Pin DDR SDRAM DDR 400 \(PC 3200\) Desktop Memory - Desktop Memory for $38.99 and $2.99 shipping for $41.98 total. It also has a $10 mail in rebate, so it will eventually cost me

$31.98 after I receive the rebate. Thus the primary Vista computer will soon have 3 gigabyte of memory. I am a bit tired, so I will now go back to sleep. I will eat the last of the low fat Cheez-its and about 10 dried prunes. CIO

Note: <888> 03/13/09 Friday 4:00 A.M.. I woke up at 1 A.M.. I had a telephone call at 8 P.M. from a relative on my answering machine. I reviewed my notes, and February 17, 2009 was when I removed the third PC3200 one gigabyte PNY memory strip, and the computer quit freezing. It is identical to the other two I have in the primary Vista computer <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> . I doubled checked at www.pny.com and it is the correct memory for my motherboard <http://mikelouisscott.com/gig1-bios.htm> . It is non buffered non ecc. I did one other thing around the same time, and that is in the CMOS I disabled on the seventh page "CPU Host Clock Control", and I enabled "Spread Spectrum". However, as I recall I did that before removing the third memory strip, and it did not make a difference. The CMOS is still set up that way <http://mikelouisscott.com/gig1-bios.htm> . I could try testing it by putting a third PNY memory strip back in, but I do not think it would make a difference, and the computer would start freezing again. At the same time I removed the memory strip on February 17, 2009, I also just before changed the video cards around, and after that I still had the freezing problem, until I removed the third memory strip. I am still a bit tired, so I will go back to sleep for a while. CIO

Note: <888> 03/12/09 Thursday 6:45 P.M.. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-its along with a glass of watered down passion punch. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I guess I will be up earlier in the morning. Low tomorrow 22 degrees Fahrenheit and high of 40 degrees Fahrenheit with cloudy conditions in the morning and sunny in the afternoon. CIO

Note: <888> 03/12/09 Thursday 5:45 P.M.. I woke up at 7:30 A.M.. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I did some bottom fishing on the internet. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went to my 11 A.M. appointment for my cholesterol blood test follow up a half hour early. Since I have been taking Tricor, my cholesterol is 190, my Triglycerides are down from 413 to 280. My good cholesterol is 38. I need to continue to get more exercise walking done downtown, and I need to lower my high cholesterol food intake and lose about 30 pounds or more. I have to make an appointment to follow up in July or August 2009 and get the laboratory work done again a week before. If my cholesterol does not improve, they might put me on Lipitor.

I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop, and I bought a Lithium electronic scale for $3 and a like new Ionic Pro Ionic Air Purifier Ionic Pro Ionic Air Purifier for $10, for $13 total. I then returned home. I put the air purifier on the lazy Susan on the center of the oak dining table, and I set it on medium to clean the apartment air. One has to tilt it horizontal to reinstall the collection plates after cleaning. I put a new Lithium CR2032 in the Lithium scale, and I had to bend up the metal contact underneath the battery a bit, and it works just fine. One steps on it briefly to activate it, and then get off, and then one steps on it again to get one's weight. I weigh 206.5 pound with my clothes on and no shoes. I put it underneath the wooden stand in the bathroom on top of the other electronic scale. I moved a few pieces of bric-a-brac around.

I chatted with a relative. I ate two hot dogs on buns with mustard and ketchup and a dill pickle slice and watered down passion punch. I went to my 3 P.M. appointment. I then returned home. I picked up the mail. CIO

Note: <888> 03/12/09 Thursday 3:40 A.M.. I sent this note to Metropolitan Police Service - Contact us with a general enquiry . Note follows:

To: Metropolitan Police:

My web sites:

<http://mikelouisscott.com/> and <http://geocities.com/mikelscott/>

I knew James Edward Eldert from Syracuse, New York from 1973 to 1982. He was a neighbor in the U.N. neighborhood in Manhattan, Nantucket, and Key West. His last known address was the Malibu Colony in California. Jimmy once told me he worked for the Queen at Sandringham. According to the internet his family are from Jeffers, Germany, and my mother's family were from Groningen in the Netherlands a few miles from Jeffers. Jimmy Eldert is an actor, so he can look like me. We do look a lot alike. My father had the Queen's award in industry, and he spent most of his career in Europe and England as a chemical engineer. His name was Louis Dale Scott. He passed away about 1989. From what I can tell, since we lived in the same neighborhoods and had similar appearances, people seem to think I might be Jimmy. Helen Kress Williams who was the head trustee of Vassar College told us in 1973, we had to keep an eye on Jimmy, but she never explained why. I do know around Jimmy the important people tend to show up, and he usually seems oblivious to them. He made a movie War Birds if you want to know what he looks like. It seems rather strange that he maintains telephones in Florida and California, but nobody hears from him. It is like he might be a pilot or flight personnel working out of your country, not telling people here that he travels. Whatever, the case it is not really my business, but from what I knew about him his funds might have come from the General Motors automobile company, and with that company going bankrupt, he might be out of money somewhere in the world. His grandmother was a Joy like Joy Street in Boston and Joy monument in Nantucket, and the Joys were also founding families of General Motors. I once was offered a job at First Boston to be a trust officer of a horse shoe stable in Springfield, Massachusetts, and apparently the stable became General Motors. I have met a lot of founding family members of General Motors, and from what I can tell they might have to get use to a different lifestyle. It seems rather strange nobody knows how to get in contact with Jimmy Eldert, although in the 47 years of being around the Bush, Rockefeller, Vanderbilt group here in Greenwich, Connecticut, I do not recall ever seeing him, but only in the places I mentioned. Jimmy use to wear a St. Andrews University jersey in Nantucket. It is like he might be some sort of Secret Royalty. I recall seeing the Duke of Windsor at the Waldorf Towers in January 1973 after he supposedly died. Shortly there after in October 1973, I recall meeting Jimmy Eldert for the first time in the United Nations neighborhood, when he was 18 years old. Whatever the real story, he might be just an upstate dairy farmer with lots of kids, but it is sort of strange he dropped off the planet.

Any thoughts let me know.

End of note:

I will now shut down the primary Vista computer. I ate two bowls of low fat Cheez-its with some watered down passion punch.

I have a 10:30 A.M. appointment this morning, so I will have to be up at 7:30 A.M. to get ready for it. I also have a 3 P.M. appointment this afternoon. Thus it will be another one of those exhausting daytime routines, that one occasionally has to deal with. I really do not like daytime activity, but sometimes one has to keep appointments. I will thus take a four hour nap before getting ready. CIO

Note: <888> 03/12/09 Thursday 1:20 A.M.. Jimmy Eldert's family were one of the original settlers in New Amsterdam Eldert family of New Netherlands - Genealogy and Lucas Eldertszen (bef1636-?)/Ancestors - Genealogy from Jever, Germany which is only a stones throw away from Google Maps Jever, Germany from Groningen, in the Netherlands where my mother's Bovan family is from, so thus we could be distant relatives since we once looked a bit the same, but he was better fed, but it might be just a generic look amongst the local population in that area. CIO

Note: <888> 03/12/09 Thursday 12:20 A.M.. I chatted with Key West Hotel Resorts & Florida Keys Beach Accommodations - Casa Marina Resort Key West . When I lived down there from the fall of 1976 to the spring of 1978 during the winter, I only weighed 125 pounds. That probably was because www.nasa.gov use to train people in Key West, Florida and every pound of weight shot into space back then cost $2.5 million. There were also a lot of skinny www.navy.mil pilots too. I guess old fat people like me are not welcome down in Key West, Florida, even though I am pretty good on computers, I do not pretend to be as good on computers as some of these young hot shots. Basically, you just go down there, and you live on orange juice, yogurt, oranges, Cuban sandwiches, beans and rice, and over a couple of winters, you tend to get rather thin and tanned, but when you come north, they think you are Puerto Rican, and since you do not know Spanish, you are in an awkward position in terms of dealing with the larger people up here.

On the primary Vista computer <http://mikelouisscott.com/computer.htm> , I do not think the third memory strip would work, even if it were new. I have tried two other identical memory strips as the first two, and the computer froze randomly, and it also frozen with two different generic third 1 gigabyte memory chips, and it also froze with a third half a gigabyte memory strip, so although the specs on the Gigabyte motherboard say it is suppose to take three one gigabyte memory strips, I do not think it is worth trying a new one. It works just fine with two identical new 1 gigabyte memory strips. Since the primary Vista computer has not frozen since I took the third memory strip out, it would seem that was the problem. Possibly there could be a hair or some other small item like dust in the third memory slot. CIO

In 1976 when Nelson Rockefeller Nelson Rockefeller - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia ran for Vice President, he released all of his personal financial information, and as I recall Fortune magazine published a list of his assets and portfolio that were worth over a billion dollars. As I recall it was a well diversified portfolio, but what I thought was strange was that he only had about 50,000 shares of Exxon. It would be interesting to know what the same portfolio would be worth today. However, that is probably only the domestic assets, more than likely like all of wealthy people they also have international assets.

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I went back to bed until 11 A.M.. I did two loads of laundry. I put clean linens on my bed. I ate two hot dogs with buns and mustard and ketchup and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with a friend earlier. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went by the Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue, and I used the ATM machine there. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with somebody from the Ukraine. I chatted with a couple of locals. I browsed the circular at CVS. I then returned home. I saw two Maybachs driving up North Maple Avenue, as I was waiting for the light on Milbank Avenue. When I returned home, I chatted with a relative. CIO

I chatted with two relatives

The Greenwich Hardware store told me today, they had to lay off four of their staff members. I told them that if one lives in a vintage 1920s type house the Wright Brothers Hardware store in Manhasset, Long Island carries a lot of the hardware items and other repair items for older houses similar to the houses in our area.

The new building going in just north of the Knapp Funeral home where the Gap store use to be is going to be a Ralph Lauren store. They already have a Polo store further north. Of course there is a Ralph Lauren outlet store in Kittery, Maine Polo Ralph Lauren Factory Store in Kittery, ME 03904 - Clothing Stores by Grayboxx at 1-207-439-6664 that might have what you are looking for at a cheaper price, and you could call them up, and they could ship it to you.

I chatted with a relative again. I was told that Daylight Savings Time Begins this morning at 2 A.M. WikiAnswers - When does daylight savings time change in Spring 2009 , so you have to set your clocks and watches ahead one hour before you go to bed. I will now send out my weekly notes. I will then shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will set my time pieces ahead one hour, and then I will go to bed. I have to do laundry, when I wake up in the morning. CIO

Note: <888> 03/07/09 Saturday 6:40 P.M.. After dinner, I put the GEICO automobile insurance card that starts April 8, 2009 in the glove box of the Audi with the Connecticut registration. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with a neighbor.

At www.cl-p.com the actual amount of usage for February 2009 was $161.10 compared to $176.04 a year ago.

That is for 30 days. The average temperature in February 2009 was 31.6 degrees Fahrenheit compared to 34 degrees Fahrenheit a year ago.

I used 808 kWh for 30 days compared to 966 kWh for 33 days a year ago.

I used 26.93 kWh a day compared to 29.27 kWh a year ago.

They still have me on Rate 5 delivery, although in early December 2008, I asked them to put me on the night rate. CIO

Note: <888> 03/07/09 Saturday 5:20 P.M.. I woke up at 8 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative and a friend. I was told that houses in South Hampton are going for 20 cents on the dollar. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with a couple of locals. I toured the Greenwich Hardware store, and they have an older model Black and Decker drill with a cord for $47 plus tax, so I think my newer model is a better deal. I toured CVS. I chatted with one of the local walkers for a while. There seemed to be a lot of people out exercise walking today on the warmer day in the 60s degrees Fahrenheit. I noticed Morgan's Interior Decorating on Arch Street is still flying the Swedish flags. During my walk, I bought a Beginners Luck scratch card at the Greenwich Cigar store for a dollar, but I lost. I did a get a horse shoe, but you need two other identical amounts to win with a horse shoe. Scratch cards are very complex in Connecticut. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a top round eye roast for $3.99 a pound for $14.68 total. I used the ATM machine at the Chase Bank at the Stop and Shop plaza. I then returned home. I picked up the mail. I got my new www.geico.com registration cards, so starting in April 2009, I have to start making the four GEICO insurance payments on the six month policy, so I will not have extra money for computer parts. I do not really need any other parts anyway. I also got my www.cl-p.com bill, and the amount of usage for February 2009 was $161.10 which has already been paid. It is so low, because I do not use the electric heat. I am cooking the eye round roast the way I usually do. I will eat two half inch thick slices with steamed vegetable with olive oil and watered down passion punch and vegetable water Salada green tea with splend and lemon juice. I will refrigerate the remaining eye round in a Rubbermaid Container. The last time we had a recession, they made the Aga Khan the U.N. Note: <888> 03/07/09 Saturday 12:10 A.M.. About the only thing unusual going on in my field of focus on the internet is Alaska Volcano Observatory - Redoubt - Activity Page . Of course there are 75,000 volcanoes on the planet Earth, so it is usually the one that one forgets about that causes all of the trouble. In any case, we did seem to have had a colder winter this winter, but as I recall it was not as cold as the winters of 1981 and 1982, when I was living in General William Westmoreland's wife's family town house on West 74th street in Manhattan with the wife of a www.state.gov official. However back then the Saudi Arabian Flag was always flying next door the U.S. flag at the Waldorf Astoria, so some people had a bit of heat in Manhattan. I had a $5 black and blue street vendor parka that was about a half inch thick, but I was younger then. On cold winter's nights I frequently found shelter in a pub behind the Natural History Museum, and about the only thing unusual that happened in the Columbus Avenue neighborhood was John Lennon was shot, and as I recall a Chicago Pizza joint called Pizza Uno moved in the neighborhood behind the Natural History Museum. Since I did not have a car after the week of election day 1980 until about October 1986 in Greenwich, I did a bit of walking where ever I was including my December 1980 trip to Frankfurt, Germany and my February 1983 trip to Oslo, Norway. Alas nobody wanted to keep me in those countries, so I was left returning back to this area, where they all seem to think I am a foreigner, although the Scott family has lived here and it is well documented for 400 years. Of course some people just think we are in the toilet paper business, but that is another branch of the family. As far as I know we are a railroad family from Champaign, Illinois with minor investments in farming, and alas, since I do not know either business too well, I branched out into my own computer efforts many years ago. There are other branches of the family that are more prosperous, but I think the branches of the family that are more prosperous in the New York area might be more recent arrivals. Whatever, the real case I have a certain level of experience in computers that some people probably do not have. Also I learned to type, when I was about 15 years old at the Eastern Middle summer school in Greenwich, Connecticut. I think we used IBM electric typewriters. My high school graduation gift was a Smith Corona typewriter that I used through college. I think I gave it to a relative or the Hospital Thrift shop, once I was into computers. I still have a typewriter here that I never use that a relative gave me. However, since in school I was somewhat technical, I was not very good in grammar and punctuation and spelling. However, the Microsoft Word Processor helps with the spelling.

From a more academic point of view, I do not know much about Wall Street, but I do know a little bit about Economics, since I have a B.A. degree in Economics from www.lfc.edu. Alas, when Jim Warburg wrote my recommendation to study Economics at Lake Forest College to Mr. Douglas, there were two different Mr. Douglas in Lake Forest, Illinois. One was the President of Quaker Oats, and the other one had been Franklin Delano Roosevelt's Secretary of the www.airforce.mil, so I probably ended up dealing with both groups. I do eat Quaker old fashioned oatmeal for breakfast, and I have lived around the Quakers in Nantucket and Greenwich and Long Island, but here and Nantucket and elsewhere, including Manhattan, there were also quite a few people from the Air Force. It is my viewpoint that since I never seem to get a regular job, I spend most of my time giving free advice to people whom only seem to know television reality.

Whatever the real story as far as I am concerned, you would have to study my over 10,000 pages on my web site to get a better picture of it all, and I obviously can not give it all out in a ten minute summary or a one page summary, for those people with short attention spans.

I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Stay warm. High today of 58 degrees Fahrenheit. CIO

Note: <888> 03/05/09 Thursday 8:05 P.M.. I chatted with my neighbor about gambling yesterday, which I personally do not approve of. My sole exposure to gambling is limited. I mentioned that I had visited Arlington Race Track in Chicago, Illinois with Billy Morgan whose grandmother had a box there. I once visited the old Paradise Island in the Bahamas Casino with a fellow Richard Mercy that looked like Prince Charles and his cousin Romsey along with the Shah of Iran's wife and her body guard. I once drove through Las Vegas, but I was too broke to enter a casino. I once went to Saratoga to the Travers with Richard Van Marter and George and Julie Cary, and I bet $5 on the winning horse Corporate Report in the Travers, and I won $40. When I visited Oslo, Norway in February 1983 I went to the Bristol Hotel there <http://www.thonhotels.no/bristol> , and they had a small gaming room. I stayed at the West Hotel in Oslo, Norway which was just behind the Royal Palace kongehuset.no - English , when King Olaf was King, and I used to see him walking around the park in front of the Palace. My stepfather's son also owns a bed and breakfast near the Casinos in Eastern Connecticut. I also use to be a neighbor of the Trumps, when I lived on Steamboat Road, so I used to see them around. When I took the train a number of times from Florence, Italy to Spain and back, I might have traveled through Monte Carlo, but I never got off the train. Thus my gaming experience is quite limited. However, having been awake at night, so many years, I might have seen some gamblers who generally are late night people. George Cary works for www.nyra.com and my neighbor told me he occasionally goes to the slot machine casino at the old Yonkers Race Track, where they have five thousand slot machines. They also use to have a card room at the Greenwich Country Club, but when I used the facility, I was too young to use it. I also once went to the OTB in Norwalk, Connecticut and I bet on five shows for $2 each on the Kentucky Derby, and I lost about 15 years ago. Over the last 26 years here in Greenwich, Connecticut, I have probably played about 70 scratch cards and lottery tickets, and I have won about $160 before the cost of the lottery tickets and scratch cards, so I am not what you would call a hard core gambler. I was also at the Directors Room at the Queen Mum's Cup in July 1972 at the Fort Erie Race track outside of Toronto, Canada with the Cary family and the Queen Mum who presented the trophy with George Cary's mother. I recall placing a few two dollar Canadian bets. CIO

Note: <888> 03/05/09 Thursday 6:15 P.M.. I moved my car to its usual place. I chatted with www.ups.com making a delivery. It does not seem to be too busy at the ice skating rink. During making and eating dinner, I watched www.foxnews.com covering the deepening recession. Not much seems to be happening around here. Tomorrow is suppose to have a high of 47 degrees Fahrenheit, a high of 57 degrees Fahrenheit on Saturday, and a high of 62 degrees Fahrenheit on Sunday, and a high of 52 degrees Fahrenheit on Monday with it cloudy on all of those days before it gets colder again, so possibly with the warmer weather, I might try to get out for a walk a bit more. There is nothing I need to buy in terms of <http://mikelouisscott.com/bf.htm> off the internet, so I guess I will just continue to maintain my version of the status quo, as I have learned to perceive it. I guess there are a lot of newly poor in the area, and they possibly could learn from my web sites about how to get by in hard times. Unfortunately a lot of the formerly prosperous business community really are not from this area, so when they become unemployed or broke, they usually end up returning to those places where they were originally from as opposed to roughing out hard times here. Unfortunately for me, I am from here, so I roughed out the good times here, so obviously I will not be going any place soon except for possibly Greenwich Avenue some time in the near future. It will be interesting to see if people can still afford to sit in Starbucks all day long like they did when times were better off. CIO

Note: <888> 03/03/09 Tuesday 10:25 P.M.. Since I was a Professional Dish Washer for about eight years during the last recession, I probably have thrown more hot water down the sink than most people have done in a life time. It still bothers me to throw hot water down the sink, since it takes so much energy to warm it up. One could use a heat exchanger on hot water waste drains to capture the energy and recycle it. This evening when I made my usual vegetable mixture, which consists of putting about .75 inch of water in a plastic microwave proof pot about 5 inches in diameter and five inches high with lid from Wal-Mart, and then I add one medium potato diced into .35 inch to .50 inch cubes with skin, and about 10 baby carrots, and four or five small broccoli sprigs, and I microwave it with the lid on for four vegetable cycles on the 1100 watt G.E. microwave oven. Instead of draining the water out with the lid down the drain, I put it in a cup with a salada green tea bag, and I let it steep during dinner, and then I drank it with a package of splenda and a couple of teaspoons of lemon juice. When one steams vegetables a lot of the vitamins and minerals go into the water, so by drinking the tea made out of the water, one gets a bit of nutrition. Also it tastes like a weak broth. I also put a couple of teaspoons of olive oil on the steamed vegetables after I drain them.

I chatted with a relative, and I chatted with a friend about museums. Apparently the Smithsonian Institute is getting a little hard up for money. I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I still wonder if anybody ever found anymore dinosaur remains around the Walter Jackson School ditch on the southwest side of the play ground in Decatur, Alabama. This coming morning the low is suppose to be 12 degrees Fahrenheit with a sunny day ahead, so stay warm. CIO

Note: <888> 03/03/09 Tuesday 7:15 P.M.. It took a while to find, but here is the page with the external mirror 1 link for the Logitech ClickSmart 510 digital camera and web cam which is the same software and drivers as the 310 model Logitech ClickSmart 510 Driver for Windows 9X/ME/NT/2K/XP/2003/Vista/XP X64/2008 Free Download - Softpedia or <http://www.logitech.com/pub/techsupport/quickcam/is730enu.exe> . You install the software and then reboot, and then it prompts you when to connect up the web cam. It works just great in XP on the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. The software has a lot of features including motion detection.

I will now make and eat the same dinner as the last two nights. CIO

Note: <888> 03/03/09 Tuesday 5:50 P.M.. The order for Logitech ClickSmart 310 Video WebCam and Digital Camera: 961189-0403 JustDeals.com Inc. for one cent and $6.95 shipping for $6.96 total arrived. I assembled it including four AAA alkaline batteries in it. I will install the software and drivers for it on the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer shortly. I put it on the speaker behind to the right of the Dell Latitude CS laptop computer. I had a called from www.ibm.com from a call center in India. I chatted about the price of tea in India. It was for another free White Paper. CIO

Note: <888> 03/03/09 Tuesday 5:05 P.M.. I went out to my 3 P.M. appointment. I then went to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I chatted with a local whose mother just turned 100 years old. They are named after a soup company, so they are Scottish. I advised him that older Scottish people seem to do better if they occasionally drink a little bit of Scotch whisky, if they are not using mechanized equipment. I then returned home. I noticed there was an ambulance and four police cars at the Day Care Nursery in the Church across the street. I chatted with a neighbor adding antifreeze to his car. Most antifreeze that is sold around here is 50% antifreeze and 50% water, but if one were driving north of this area, one would want a higher concentration of antifreeze. However, with a higher concentration of antifreeze, one's car can overheat in the warmer temperatures of the summer. I spent a dollar on parking to today with all of the first of the month additional activity. I still have to pay my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority once the rent statement arrives in the mail. Not much seems to be going on downtown, and everyone seemed to be a bit cold today. I suppose with the colder winter, it will be cold right up to the first of June. I think possibly I might be able to use my 8 year old G.E. Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner this summer after they put in the new double pane windows. Although it is too big to fit into the air conditioner opening on the new windows, I could obviously open the window, and install it the same way it was previously installed. I picked up the mail, and I got the special issues of www.forbes.com. CIO

Note: <888> 03/03/09 Tuesday 1:55 P.M.. I chatted with www.dell.com , and they said once the change of ownership record goes through in a couple weeks, they can generate a new administrative password for the spare Dell Latitude CS motherboard. The building custodian showed up with three of the new window installers, and they checked out my apartment quickly. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go out to my 3 P.M. appointment. www.ibm.com also called up, and they will call me after 4 P.M.. CIO

Note: <888> 03/03/09 Tuesday 12:20 P.M.. I woke up at 6:30 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a friend whom is back from Florida. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I threw out the garbage. It was 11 degrees Fahrenheit this morning. It looks to be a clear day.

I went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought two half gallons of Florida Natural orange juice with calcium for $3 each, two 26 ounce Bertolli Alfredo sauce for $2.50 each, four Barilla 16 ounce linguine for $1 each, three 48 ounce Ocean Spray cranberry juice for $5 all, two 48 ounce Quaker old fashioned oatmeal for $4.99 each, three 64 ounce Stop and Shop grape juice for $2.50 each, two 12 ounce Stop and Shop honey bear honey for $1.50 each, a quart of Stop and Shop lemon juice for $2.50, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, broccoli crowns for $1.79 a pound for $2.09, and a five pound bag of Maine potatoes for $2.99 for $51.04 total.

I then went by CVS, and I picked up a prescription. I bought a 1.5 ounce Just for Men Touch of Grey medium brown for $6.99, and I had a coupon to get it free, so I got it for free. It is quite busy downtown. I returned home, and I put away my purchases. I brought my folding cart along to bring up the heavy items.

I will now eat two hot dogs on hot dog rolls with mustard and ketchup and 1/5th of 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle low fat potato chips and a dill pickle slice, and a glass of watered down passion punch. I have a 3 P.M. appointment today. CIO

Note: <888> 03/02/09 Monday 11:55 P.M.. The order with tracking of UPS: Tracking Information on the order for Dell Latitude CS Laptop Motherboard Used For Parts - eBay (item 370156230208 end time Feb-08-09 08:55:19 PST) for $19.62 with free shipping arrived. I chatted with a neighbor. The UPS delivery person said there was more like 10 inches of snow in this area. I used the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop computer memory, LCD monitor, keyboard and hard drive to set up the spare motherboard. However, it was password protected. I tried disconnecting the CMOS battery, and that did not work. I found the program latitude.exe and that gave me the Administrative password, but I still did not have the primary password. I tried updating the CMOS from Version 9 to Version 12, but that gave me a new setup, and latitude.exe does not work with version 12 of the CMOS. Thus I was locked out of the computer. I searched Google for a solution, and there was no easy answer. I filled out the transfer of ownership at Dell, and once that goes through, they are suppose to be able to generate me a password in a couple of weeks. I returned the primary Dell Latitude CS laptop to its original state, and I packed up the spare motherboard in its bubble wrap. It came with a 128 meg. memory chip and processor, so it is a good spare item, if I can get the password. I left the CMOS battery unplugged, in case after a longer time it clears the CMOS.

Note: <888> 03/02/09 Monday 4:10 P.M.. For the people whom can afford to drive to the western part of Putnam Avenue in Greenwich, Connecticut, there is now a new Mobil station there with a Mini Market and a Dunkin Donuts that is opened 24 hours a day 7 days a week, so there is now even more night time drop in spots in this neck of the woods. Of course there is always the Shell Station on west Putnam Avenue and the Cumberland Farms across the border in Port Chester, New York, and from I can tell from the rear window my building the Exxon station at the entrance to Connecticut looks to be opened 24 hours, and of course the Colonial Diner downtown across the street from the Y.M.C.A. in Central Greenwich is opened 24 hours, but you have to drive outside of town now to find a 24 hour grocery store, but in far eastern Greenwich, Connecticut on East Putnam Avenue the CVS and the Walgreen's stores are opened 24 hours, and here on West Putnam Avenue, I think the McDonalds is opened until 2 A.M., and I think the Wendy's is opened until midnight, so people use to Big City late night hours now have more places to go. I am about to drink a cup of Salada green tea with a packet of Splenda and a couple of teaspoons of Borden's lemon juice. I do not know if the Mobil station at West Putnam Avenue and Weaver street has WiFi or not. CIO

Note: <888> 03/02/09 Monday 3:30 P.M.. I woke up at 6:30 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I went back to bed until 10:30 A.M.. I made my bed. I threw out the garbage, and I cleaned about six inches of powdery snow off the Audi. The driveway was already plowed. I made and ate the same dinner as yesterday. I went back outside, and I drove my Audi in and out of its parking place to compact the snow down around it. I chatted with a relative and a friend. I was told by the relative in Florida that there is so much crime down in Florida with the recession on, that all of the gun stores are sold out of guns. They are also worried that Obama plans to take away United States citizens' right to own guns. I was told by a friend in Melville, Long Island, they had 14 inches of snow out there. I chatted with a local walker, and I suggested they should put a pawn shop up at the top of Greenwich Avenue where the vacant ski shop is. The town of Greenwich is so economically broke, they are planning to raise taxes to help pay for the money that was lost in the town of Greenwich Pension fund, which a lot of retired people depend on. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downstairs, and I chatted with neighbors, and I picked up my mail. I also chatted with a relative in Texas, and I was told the United States Census bureau is paying $30 an hour to take census information in the upcoming census. I chatted with a neighbor yesterday, and I was told by the neighbor, when he was driving back down here from up north, someone shot a bullet across his windshield, and I could see the mark on the windshield. The neighbor use to fish at the same location at the Southwest Picnic area, where I was shot at with a high powered rifle nine years ago during the last week of May. The neighbor use to fish there with a Greenwich, Connecticut policeman. CIO

Note: <888> 03/01/09 Sunday 8:50 P.M.. I chatted with a local fellow walker about the price of tea in China. If you should ever need to Text Message someone, this free text message web site is at Free Text Messaging - Send Free Text Messages to Any Provider of SMS Texting. The town of Greenwich, Connecticut or whatever will be left of it after the blizzard just sent me a dozen emergency notification telephone calls about the upcoming blizzard. They are calling for 9 to 14 inches of snow, but no coastal flooding for people in low lying areas. I have been awake since 9:30 P.M. last night, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. From my viewpoint the town of Greenwich, Connecticut probably has less money in this recession, so they might not be able to meet all of the essential services some of the town residents have come to expect. Since I am frequently on a night time schedule, I am not that well versed on the daytime activity around here. From what I know, it seems rather strange that every time there is a major weather emergency, I have some unexplained computer problems, like I did this morning. If you understand the nature of the internet, it could come from half way around the world, or the next room. However, the problem I experienced today would lead me to believe that some party or parties gained access to my apartment while I was out for a walk and doing grocery shopping, since it seems unlikely the computer LAN drivers would be deleted, when the computer was shut down. That would lead me to believe that someone knows how to gain access around the password, and how to get around my rather simple security setup. However, since it frequently also happens on Thursdays, when I have a standing appointment, it is hard to tell if it is coincidence or not. That is why I keep multiple backups and multiple computers and multiple spare parts based on my limited budget. Since when I do not go out as much anymore, the systems do not seem to experience problems, it would lead me to believe that there might possibly be a problem with an unknown intruder. When I first got into the personal computer experience about 20 years ago, I met someone who knows something about computer security, and he was on the Greenwich RTM that decided to rebuild this building and he was a personal friend of Nan Rockefeller. Alas Roger Schultz may not be alive anymore, since he weighed over 600 pounds or more, but he did know quite a bit about computers. I do not think he would be able to fit into my apartment at the moment, but he might be available for anyone else who can afford to feed him. I do not have his telephone number or email address, but he lived across the street from The ABB Group - Automation and Power Technologies which is a Swiss and Swedish engineering company formerly Combustion Engineering. I recall the street was a side street just to the east of ABB off Long Ridge Road in Stamford, Connecticut, but he did not seem to prosper in that it was only about a 600 square foot house, and he was doing some web design for Schweppes.com which is another one of those companies, you do not hear much about anymore. He had a colleague from Vermont, he use to chat with frequently. Well, have a good evening, and do not buy any snow shoes or bear traps, until you are sure you need them. CIO

End of Scott's Notes week of 03/01/09:

Note: <888> 03/01/09 Sunday 11:40 A.M.. I went out after the last note. I went by the ATM machine at the Chase Bank just west of Greenwich Avenue. I put my $10 survey check in their ATM machine deposit. On the new ATM machine, one does not need to use a deposit slip or envelope for a check, one just puts in the check in the machine with one's ATM card, and it reads the check, and it will print out a receipt with a Photostat of the check or without photo. I originally tried to feed an envelop in the machine, which I had saved in my glove box. It took me a while to figure it out. I clean up three Red Bull, one Budweiser lager, and one Jamaican lager beer cans from the parking lots adjacent to the bank and across the street from the Barcelona cafe, where the local youth tend to gather occasionally, and I put them in the Knights of Columbus planter, since there were no nearby garbage cans. The have a bath shop there called Waterworks too. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I used the elevator at the train station going up, and I walked down, and I explored the dumpster area of the lower level parking area, and there is just discarded building materials there. I chatted with someone at upper Greenwich Avenue from Syracuse, New York about a missing person from Syracuse, New York, so we figured he was probably K.G.B. all along, since nobody seems to know him in Syracuse, New York. I finished my walk, and I used the bathroom at Starbucks. Not much seemed to be going on. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a 8 pack of Stop and Shop hot dog buns for $1.67, and a half gallon of Florida Natural orange juice with calcium for $3, a 12 ounce Gulden's mustard for $1.50, a 48 ounce Ocean Spray cranberry juice for $1.67, a 64 ounce Stop and Shop grape juice for $2.50, a 7 pack of boneless breasts of chicken for $1.79 a pound for $7.46, Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for $1.82, and buy one get one free of variety of meat Ball Park hotdog franks for $3.99 both for $23.60 total. I then returned home. I put away my groceries. I started up the primary Vista computer, and the Ethernet drivers were deleted on my primary Vista computer, and I then chatted with a local security person about the possibility that someone had entered my apartment. I then had to go through the tedious process of removing the two Ethernet cards and installing their software, which I had to transfer to the computer with a pen drive, and then I shut down and reinstalled the two Ethernet cards, and the primary Vista computer was back up and running again. It seems rather strange that I have computer problems, when the computer is shut down, so possibly someone does sneak into my apartment and cause havoc, but it still could be through the internet, by coincidence. However, it seems strange that I do not have computer problems, when I stay at home for days at a time. I think the local security official knows something, and more than likely like the www.fbi.gov, they will not tell us anything for political reasons.

I faxed my Microsoft Money 2007 February 2009 income and spending report to an interested relative. I will now send out my weekly notes. Not much to report on. I was told that we might get up to a foot of snow starting tonight National Weather Service Watch Warning Advisory Summary. I am lucky I bought groceries, but a lot of people without spare money on food stamps can not use their new food stamps until the third of the month, so they might be starving around here, until their food stamps come through. Anyway more than likely the third of the month will be snowy. CIO

Note: <888> 03/01/09 Sunday 5:00 A.M.. I ate a fried six ounce ham steak with a three egg omelet with three slices of processed cheese and grated Parmesan and Romano cheese and a toasted English muffin with olive oil and watered down passion punch. I threw out the garbage. Well, I will now dress up warmly, and I will go out for a cold early morning winter's walk downtown on Greenwich Avenue. It does not hurt to get some exercise, even when one is on a night time schedule. CIO

Note: <888> 03/01/09 Sunday 3:45 A.M.. I put away the laundry. When I am frequently on a night time schedule, I do a lot of the same things that people do on a daytime schedule. However, there are not as many people awake here at night. I could try to network with people at night here whom are awake in England, when it is daytime there, but alas the English still have not yet learned to communicate on the internet. A lot of the Dutch speak English, but alas they are too busy growing tulips to network across the Atlantic. I quite frankly do not think they are even too much aware of us over in Europe outside the small glimpse they get of us out of Hollywood, for the few of them that watch our movies over there. From my viewpoint, when we get a few visitors here, there is just a bit more traffic, but nothing different ever seems to happen. Now that the famous Rockefeller banking family is probably low on money, there will probably be less traffic in this area, with their numerous employees not moving around too much. When I use to know someone over in Irvington, New York, who worked in the Chart House at night there, I would drive over that way, and there was not much traffic in the early morning hours, and there was just a Shell station opened at the Terrytown exit of I-495 and a all night diner, which is pretty much the same situation here. I never saw an all night grocery store there, but we no longer have all night grocery stores here. The A&P over in Port Chester, New York is opened 24 hours 7 days a week, and you can probably see some other night people shopping there. Alas since I get most of my food money from Food Stamps, I can not use them in New York state. I do not know what grocery stores might be opened in this area 24 hours 7 days a week. There is a new Stop and Save just across the Greenwich border on U.S. 1 in Stamford, but I am not sure what there hours are. There is suppose to be a wintry mix this morning, so I will not be venturing out to explore the exciting activity or early morning on Greenwich Avenue. I have only found about $43 in spare change and cash on Greenwich Avenue in 26 years, so it is not very profitable out there during the early morning hours, but it can be a quiet exercise walk. On weekend mornings after the sun comes up on Sunday, it is not too busy either. I could look outside to check the weather, but there is nothing that I need to do downtown that can not wait. I guess there are not too many late night early morning people around here anymore, and from my viewpoint, there were never that many in Manhattan besides a few pub crawlers. I changed the calendars in the apartment to March 2009.

The Spanish in their native lands tend to keep later hours, but that is because it is hotter in the daytime there.

I do not think the Spanish even open their dinner restaurants until 11 P.M. at night, so they tend to be up later, but around here, it is too cold for them, so there is not much late night activity around here except for shift workers.

Even up in Canada, I never noticed many people awake at night, so I guess most people seem to prefer a daytime schedule. In Russia in the urban areas, they are suppose to have a lot of 24 hours facilities, but it is so dark there in the winter, there is not much difference between night and daytime. I still have good night vision, but alas I manage to keep busy at home. It tends to be colder around here until about the first of June. However living near Long Island Sound here, it is warmer here in the winter than New Canaan, Connecticut, and it is cooler here in the summer than away from the Ocean, but since we are near too major highways, we have a lot more automobile pollution, not to mention what drifts over our way from New York City.

I have been in Washington D.C. on a night schedule and early morning schedule, and there is nothing going down there in the early morning hours either.

In Cambridge, Massachusetts there use to be a few people awake during the early morning hours, but college students have always kept different hours. Not much going on during the wee hours of the morning in Paris, France; Florence, Italy, Athens, Greece; Istanbul, Turkey; or for that matter in Key West, Florida. During the Viet Nam war, there were a lot more people working at night, but the current war is not as large as the Viet Nam war was. I suppose during World War II, there were a lot more people awake at night.

Of course, since newspapers come out in the early morning hours, they tend to write and produce them late at night and the early morning hours. There are probably still a few night clubs for visitors in Manhattan, but the ordinary people can not afford those.

Most people whom are awake at night working in this area are left with few alternatives but to come and go from home.

Urban areas have more night people, but they tend to be focused around the tourist areas.

Of course a lot of cleaning services work at night and a lot of maintenance is done at night, since there is less traffic than in the daytime.

Of course on week days, when our financial markets are closed, the overseas markets are usually opened, unless they have a bank holiday.

I guess from what I know the Europeans find us too tedious to communicate with us directly, and anyway they are programmed differently than we are.

Now that the primary Vista computer does not freeze anymore, since I took out the faulty memory chip, I can write longer blogs. CIO

I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I installed Internet Explorer 8.0 on all of the computers, and I installed Ubuntu 9.04 on the second partition on the Gigabyte bedroom computer. All systems seem to be running just fine. I have a 3 P.M. appointment this afternoon. I also installed two new AA alkaline batteries in the Microsoft wireless mouse on the Epox computer. I also put all of the used batteries left on the shelf of the bedroom sideboard in a plastic bag on the floor to the left the bedroom sideboard stand. CIO

Note: <888> 04/29/09 Wednesday 5:40 P.M.. I picked up the mail. I chatted with neighbors. I threw out the garbage. Today, when I was downtown for my walk, I stopped by the new COLLECTION - Bang & Olufsen on lower Greenwich Avenue STORE LOCATOR - Bang & Olufsen just south of the wine bar underneath the Greenwich Financial Center, and I told them about other Danish people in the area. I was told yesterday, by the construction engineers working on remodeling the People's Bank on lower Greenwich Avenue, they are finding remnants of the old Gulf Oil station that use to be there. I think there is also a Scandinavian furniture shop across from CVS on Greenwich Avenue. Since it is cold here in the winter and cold in Scandinavia, it seems when the Scandinavians leave their homes, they tend to go where it is warmer, and they do not pay much attention to us anymore.

The Queen Mary II was back in Manhattan this past Sunday, and they will return again on May 8, 2009 and May 31, 2009 and a number of times this summer QM2 - Itinerary - 2009 . They should have tour buses that say QM2 and drive them around out here, so we can recognize them. We get so many European visitors living and visiting here anymore, it is hard to tell where they are all from. I guess after being locked away in Europe for so many years, they all like traveling once they got the freedom of the European Union. I am told it is not like the old days of Europe on $5 a day anymore, but alas I still remember when the Italians ate pizzas as thin as crackers with a ketchup type sauce on them, and the French ate horse meat, and the Spanish would charge $3 for a 8 course meal with 10 waiters and the Greeks and the Turks ate ground lamb and mashed potatoes way back in 1972. CIO

Note: <888> 04/29/09 Wednesday 3:00 P.M.. I went out after the last note. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I chatted with a foreign visitor about high tech. I stopped by the Merry Go Round Mews thrift shop. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store. I stopped by CVS, and I bought four 10 ounce Palmolive antibacterial dish washing detergents for .88 each and .21 tax for $3.73 total. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the arts center after my walk. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station, and I bought $11 of self service premium for $2.559 a gallon for 4.297 gallons for 55 miles driving since a week ago last Saturday at odometer reading of 62,512 miles for 12.8 miles per gallon driving. I then cleaned the outside windows, and I checked the tire pressure all around for 32 PSI. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a package of White Gem boneless breasts of chicken for $1.79 a pound for $6.19, a two pound bag of baby carrots for $2.99, fresh green Chiquita bananas for $.68 a pound for $2.05, broccoli crowns for $1.99 a pound for $2.01, a five pound bag of red potatoes for $3.99 for $17.23 total. I then returned home. I put away my purchases. It was not very busy downtown today, so I guess at the end of the month in a recession not many people in Greenwich, Connecticut have any money left. I will now make my usual breaded boneless chicken breast with my usual vegetable mixture with olive oil, which I will eat with a glass of watered down passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 04/29/09 Wednesday 10:05 A.M.. I saw the big pink breast cancer bus parked on Railroad Avenue at the bottom of Greenwich Avenue yesterday. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go out and walk downtown and try to lose some weight. My neighbor's relative from Naples, Florida thinks it is cold here this morning. Apparently now is a good time to buy Florida real estate in these economically depressed times. CIO

For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. About 9 A.M., the building custodian got my General Electric Profile 15,500 BTU air conditioner with remote control out of storage. He offered me, a four year old 11,500 BTU Panasonic model, but I decided to keep my more powerful unit. I vacuumed out the rust and other debris from inside the unit, and I straightened some of the metal fins. I installed the air conditioner in the center living room window where it has been in past years, and it works just fine. I sealed it up with the Plexiglas, duct tape, and towels, so it does not leak air. I put the bric-a-brac back into place. It took about 3 hours to install. I chatted with two relatives. I set the air conditioner at 64 degrees low fan with the two tower fans also blowing the air around the apartment. I also had used the bobby pins to hold up the curtain above it. I ate lunch of two hot dogs with buns and ketchup and mustard and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. Bill's father was the minister at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Wellesley, Massachusetts on Vincent Road next to Dana Hall in the same period when my family lived on Vincent Road. I took it out for the first time this past winter, so I could have a warmer apartment. With the warmer days, it is now 80 degrees Fahrenheit in my apartment, which is a bit warm for me, and it is also a bit warm for the computers. Some time in the near future, they are suppose to install double pane windows in the building, but they have not yet told us when. I could check with the building custodian that put the air conditioner in storage to see if it is easy enough to get out now. It would take about three to four hours for me to install it properly, which would be a lot more comfortable if they do not get around to the double pane windows anytime soon. CIO

About 10 years ago, there was an Eldert farm for sale in Decatur, Illinois, so possibly they help supply the bread flour for the George Weston Bakeries Arnold Bread factory here in Greenwich, Connecticut. The Jimmy Eldert that I know is from an old American family from Syracuse, New York, but they have lots of relatives having been here for close to 400 years. There is even an Eldert street in Brooklyn, New York. More than likely he would know how to contact me, if there were some reason for him to contact me, but living out in California around the high tech industry, he might be too busy. I do know the last roommate I knew he had in the Malibu Colony worked for Dream Magic, a computer animation company, and when I toured Disney World with Jim back in 1977, he seemed to be right at home at the place, particularly the "Alpha and Omega" amusement ride. Note: <888> 04/25/09 Saturday 3:40 A.M.. I drank a cup of salada tea with splenda and lemon juice after dinner. I saw someone that looked like Jimmy Eldert walking downtown this past evening. He still has longer shoulder length hair, but he looks to be heavier and in better shape than I am. He was carrying a back pack. Possibly he returned from California, since with www.gm.com going bankrupt, he is out of money in his trust fund. Still, he looks like he would have the energy to build a car, if he put his mind to it. I heard on the news today, Mic Jagger's portfolio is down 25% and Paul McCartney's portfolio is down 12%, and they both are going to have to start touring again to make enough money to make ends meet back in England.

I also heard on www.foxnews.com that if Obama is in office for 8 years, he plans to spend $35 trillion in which case more than likely the United States of America would be completely bankrupt, and the U.S. dollar would not be worth anything anymore. Obviously they are not practicing sound economic policy in Washington D.C. or anywhere in the world in the liberal community. With 6.6 billion people on the planet, the economic system has to be managed with a sense of reality, and not utopian ideals that we can not afford.

I live more simply than most people in America, so maybe more people will have to get use to living simply the way I do. Of course by the average Chinese way of thinking I probably have a higher standard of living.

The celebrities we hear and read about seem to have more money, but they are usually trying sell products that the average people can not afford such as movie tickets and high priced items.

From my viewpoint as a professional economist, the economy could get worse, but with the weakening value of the dollar, one might seem to get more money, but it is actually worth less. Of course like the times of prosperity, they hoped for a trickle down effect for the poor people, maybe in times of recession there will be a trickle down effect for the richer people to be more like the poorer people. Of course, there always seems to be an establishment that has money, when most people do not.

I can remember when an apple cost a nickel, and today it costs a dollar, so from my viewpoint, people living on fixed incomes without major adjustments for real inflation and with increased costs of goods services are particularly hard hit in these times of recession. I seem to get by, because I just maintain my current environment, and I try to avoid any major expenses despite the fact, I can not really afford them and have no means of changing my standard of living. Even the poor people downtown that I deal with seem to have a higher standard of living than I do, but I do spend a good deal of my lesser income on communications and computers, which most people whom sit in Starbucks drinking expensive coffee do not do, since it is costly to maintain a home office not to mention the time that it takes to run.

However, I never earned any money off the computer activity, it was just my means of staying active and keeping up with the current technology that many of the working population has adopted over the years. In the news media a lot of the stories come from the news wire services, and thus many news organization do not actually collect much news or even publish local news. Much of the news is paid for, so people can advertise other areas and products and services that others might be unaware of.

I do see people downtown at night, but not as many people seem to be walking around anymore. The restaurants are less busy, but they still have activity as do the pubs. Starbucks seems less busy at night. There is not very much traffic downtown at night. However, this is the New York City metropolitan area, so there are always people moving around at all hours of the day, despite the recession, because essential services have to be maintained. CIO free. I woke up at 2:30 P.M. this afternoon. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I went back to bed until 5:30 P.M.. I made my bed, and I washed the breakfast dishes. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I picked up my mail. I watered the plants, and I cleaned the Ionic air purifier. I finally figured out something about the big stones on our old Lyon Farm property where the 71 Vinci Drive Greenwich Housing Authority property is. There is a big 5 foot high stone on the southwest section of the property and in the woods on the northeast section of the property there is a big 4 foot high stone. I once read that the border between New York and Connecticut or New Amsterdam and the New Haven Colony was once further east, so possibly they are boundary stones marking the border between the two jurisdictions. In which case most of 71 Vinci Drive is on the New Amsterdam side of the border, and it looks like the border might cut right through the wing of the building that I am in, so I might be on the New Haven Colony side of the border as it was in the old days. They probably used Oxen to move those big boulders, when they cleared the property for Lyon Farm. The original Lyon Farm homestead building is still on the northwest corner of the property down by the Post Road across from the gas station that once was an Exxon station, but I am not sure what it is now. I chatted with a relative. The four unit Uniden phone set arrived at my relative's this past Wednesday. They will deliver it to Maine some time in the near future. Now that the Bushs are no longer in government; Kennebunkport, Maine will probably go back to being the simple lobster fishing town that it once was. I ate two hotdogs on buns with mustard and ketchup and dill pickle slice and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a glass of watered down passion punch. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. After my walk, I used the bathroom at Starbucks. I found a Delamar Room key card on the statue stump in front of the senior and the arts center. I drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road, and there are a couple of fishermen that were able to squeeze by the New Jersey barricade on the end of Steamboat Road, so they can fish. I dropped off the pass key card at the The Delamar on Greenwich Harbor, and they told me they are busy. I then returned home to the quiet solitude of Byram, Connecticut where not much happens as far as the Maytag repairman is concerned. CIO

The last time, I was down in south Florida was during the Halloween period of 1983, when I visited Fort Lauderdale, Florida. It was during the Grenada invasion, and there was quite a tall group of people in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. I saw several thousand older retired white people on the beach area of Fort Lauderdale whom were 6 foot 6 inches to 7 feet tall, and many of the thousands of white teenage youths were over 6 feet 6 inches tall. When I went into the Bahia Mar Yacht Club, there was an eight foot tall oil portrait of General Omar Bradley a five star general in uniform, so needless to say I do not think they needed me around South Florida anymore. I have visited the Vero Beach area and the Newport Richey area a number times since then, but my only contact in Florida anymore is in Vero Beach, Florida, and they seem to have matters well under control there.

Note: <888> 04/24/09 Friday 3:20 A.M.. I just woke up. When one lives in the suburbs of New York City like I do way out here in Greenwich, Connecticut, there is not much to do, once one gets tired of watching television. However, if one owns a car like people tend to do in the suburbs, and one manages to accumulate some money, one can always manager to take a road trip. Having lived in Greenwich, Connecticut, since 1961, I know a few road trips. My favorite short road trip is to drive up to New Canaan, Connecticut, but there is not too much to do in New Canaan. I use to go to the Visiting Nurse Thrift shop there next to the New Canaan fire station. I got my Connecticut driver's license in New Canaan back in 1966, when I first learned how to drive. One can always make a short trip from there to Ridgefield, Connecticut, which has a quiet library, where one can take a pit stop. I tend not to go to Manhattan, Long Island, Boston, or Cape Cod too much because there is usually too much traffic. Recently, since my family established a Kennebunkport, Maine residence, I drive a couple of times a summer to Kennebunkport, Maine and back. In the days, when we were more adventuresome, one could always drive up to Canada to Toronto or Montreal. If one goes up the New York Thruway, it is pretty easy to find Toronto. I use to drive up Interstate 91 to White River Junction, Vermont and visit Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire, and then up to Montreal through Burlington, Vermont. Another good trip if one has enough time and money was to drive down to Key West, Florida, and once one gets to the coast of Florida, there is a lot of scenery along A1A along the east coast of Florida. A major trip is to drive across country to California. In the warmer weather, one can drive across Interstate 70, and through the Rocky mountains, but a longer trip is drive across Interstate 10 in the Southwest, but once one gets to California, one tends to need money, and one gets tired of sleeping in one's car. Possibly with the drug war on the Mexican border south of Interstate 10, California is isolated from the rest of the nation. I did see a car from California on Greenwich Avenue yesterday. Since I have lived in Nantucket and the Chicago area, I know how to drive to those locations, but there is a lot of traffic on Cape Cod in the summer, and Chicago is cold most of the year. CIO

Note: <888> 04/23/09 Thursday 7:50 P.M.. I woke up at 11 A.M., when I had a telemarketing phone call trying to sell me an extended warranty on my Audi. They have been calling me up all of the time with their recording. I got one this evening on my cell phone. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I chatted with a relative. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went to my usual 3 P.M. appointment. I then walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by the Greenwich Hardware store. They have the same Kidde fire extinguishers for $50 that are $40 at Home Depot. They have Giant Sun Flower seeds for $1 a package and they also have Morning Glory seeds for a $1 a package. If one plants Giant Sun Flowers, it will attract a lot of birds. The Morning Glories grow quite fast and will cover the whole side of a house if you tie them up to get them started. They have the usual cross section of other seeds too. The last time I planted a garden in the mid 1960s, seeds were 5 cents a package, so there has been 2000% inflation on seeds over the last 45 years or so. I toured CVS, but I could not find any bargains to buy. I saw the Mobil One Racing Team driving through town. I sat out for a while. I chatted with a few regulars. I think the tulips across the street from the Senior and the Arts center at the veterans monument are on strike, because they have not come out yet. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I then drove by the Greenwich Library, there is still space for rent in the remodeled old Cheeseborough Ponds building across the street. I chatted with some staff. I told the building custodian about the water surging up from the ground underneath the northeast support of the Cole Auditorium on the inside of the support. It is a big support, so hopefully the building will not collapse, but one never knows how much water damage is done under the pavement and the ground. I then returned home, and I chatted with a neighbor, and I picked up the mail. I chatted with a relative. I will now eat the same London Broil dinner as four of the last five nights. CIO

The web site Cathy's Tee was linked by www.cnn.com on their advertising on the internet, so I guess it goes to show what sort of people CNN deals with in trying to make money by robbing other people. The web site Cathy's Tee says it comes from Greenwich, Connecticut, when you call them up, they are in an undisclosed location in Southeast Asia. I also ordered free trial Colo flush free trial for $4.99 shipping. At this page Coloflush Reviewed: Does Coloflush Work?, it says towards the bottom of the page underneath the "The Bad" by ordering the Free Trial, one is automatically enrolled in the Auto Shipping Plan, which I do not want. I watched the end of a French Foreign Legion movie with John Claude Van Dam who use to also walk a white German Shepard. He lives in Monte Carlo. I went back to bed at 4:30 A.M.. I woke up at 2 P.M.. I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 10.8 ounce can of CVS smoked almonds for $3.50. I ate some outside during my walk. I finished my walk, and I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with staff and patrons. One of the local users is able to layer modern Google Maps with Old Maps to compare historical images with today. I had a cigarette outside by the auditorium, and I noticed with all of the rain that the water was surging up from underneath one of the support columns of the corner of the library auditorium probably undermining its strength over time.

I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought top round London Broil for $1.79 a pound for $7.07 and Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for $2.32 for $9.39 total. I then returned home. I ate a 1/6th piece of pumpkin pie and about 7 ounce of smoked almonds and some watered down passion punch. I went to bed from 10 P.M. to 2 A.M..

All of the tulips are pretty much out downtown except the ones at the Veterans monument across the street from the senior and the arts center. It must be a bit shady over there. After my walk, I sat out for a while, and I then used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I then returned home. I picked up the mail. I moved the white AT&T lined telephone from the left of the primary Vista computer, and I put it on the left side of my bed connected to Optimum. It is heavier, so the handset will not come off the set easier. I moved the Columbia big button lined phone from that location to underneath the bed. I moved the Uniden 2.8 MHz cordless telephone from the left side of the primary Vista computer, and I put it underneath the bed. I removed the Plantronics Vista telephone headset from the left side of the computer, and I connected to the Panasonic two line corded telephone by the Harvard Chair. It works just fine, but one has to press its button to use it with the Panasonic two line lined telephone that I use most of the time. I moved Panasonic 5.8 GHz two line cordless telephone base station from behind the Harvard chair to the left side of the primary Vista computer connected up to both telephone lines. I installed the Vtech 900 MHz two line cordless telephone behind the Harvard chairs, and it works just fine and holds a charge. I dusted the phones that were dusty.

I was walking Julie Bolton's Daughter Lisa's White German Shepard that came from the North Shore Animal League for about two years from 1980 to 1982 in Manhattan, and Silver was quite a smart dog like a Guide Dog, Silver use to lead me around and keep me out of trouble. As I recall Silver was a male full breed white German Shepard dog, and Silver was very alert around all of the pedestrian traffic in Manhattan. The night Ronald Reagan first showed up in Manhattan after being elected President, I walked Silver through Central Park at night over to the Waldorf Astoria, and all of the secret service agents were so excited to see Silver, they took pictures of Silver with a Polaroid camera. Julie Bolton's father lived in Santa Barbara, California after he divorced Vivian West in the 1930s, so Silver had a California connection. On the way back through Central Park that evening, there was a big commotion by the Dakota where Lisa worked in the liquor store, and I later learned that John Lennon had been shot. Lisa dated a Chinese taxi cab driver whose family had a silk business in Peking, China, and she was the first American to work as a flight attendant for China airlines, so she has probably seen a few places around the world. John her secretive older brother does not communicate enough, since he is very secretive, but more than likely he could be elsewhere. I have to make www.geico.com automobile insurance payments for the next three months through July 2009, and cigarettes also went up $7 a carton with the new Federal Tax, so possibly I need to think about quitting smoking or cutting way back. CIO

Note: <888> 04/20/09 Monday 1:00 A.M.. I finished the backups on the bedroom Gigabyte computer, and I am now defragmenting the C: drive. I noticed at the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station next to the Greenwich Library, when one fills up the tank, one has to first select Debit or Credit before sliding one's card, so the gasoline pump knows which type of transaction one wants to perform.

From my viewpoint, not much is going on in Greenwich, and there is hardly anyone at Starbucks at night anymore, and there does not seem to be much dining activity or pup or movie activity, so it is a slower town downtown at night. However, there always seems to be just as much traffic on Interstate 95 all of the time, so people are still moving around in this area, but whether they are doing anything in terms of work or not, it is hard to tell. I do not go down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road regularly anymore, since when gasoline was $5.50 a gallon, I got use to not going down there. It is always an enjoyable exercise walk on Greenwich Avenue, when one does not have to pay to park. The new building across the street from the Sun Down saloon is all framed in, and the exterior seems to be mostly done, and they are now doing the interior work. The building at the bottom west side of Greenwich Avenue where the People Bank is, and the Ronald Reagan campaign headquarters use to be and the old Gulf Station once was is suppose to undergo renovation and expansion, so they now have the People's Bank in a Williams trailer until the work is done. The new building just south of Pickwick Plaza has its windows in, and it has its brick work done. There does not seem to be much work going on where the GAP used to be, where Ralph Lauren is building a new store complex. The new police and public safety building looks to be mostly completed, but it is not due for occupancy until July 2009. The new condominium complex across from the Delamar Hotel looks to be mostly completed, but it does not yet look like it has been occupied yet. They are suppose to spend a million dollars fixing up the Greenwich train stations and their platforms and walkways. The two office buildings across from the Greenwich Library, both look like they have been renovated and occupied. I know the old U.S. Tobacco building is occupied by three Hedge funds. The Hamilton Avenue School in Byram is completed and occupied. The new Byram Library is completed and occupied. The Food Emporiums have been remodeled into A&P Fresh stores which are more upscale. There is a new Super Stop and Shop on the Stamford side of the Old Greenwich border on U.S. 1, and there are shopping plazas across the street from it.

There use to be fabric, zipper, thread, and sewing accessory shop across from Cytex, but I am not sure if it is there anymore, but it use to have everything one would need for making clothing at home. CIO

Note: <888> 04/19/09 Sunday 11:50 P.M.. Earlier, I ate a 1/6th piece of pumpkin pie before going out. I just now ate the same dinner as last night, but for the vegetables I ate a package of Green Giant teriyaki vegetables. Since the bedroom Gigabyte computer changed a bit when I installed the updates on this past Friday, I am now doing an internal and an external backup of it.

The way that I figure it, since I have lived on the lower end of the economic scale in Greenwich, Connecticut for the last 26 years, I am better off doing things my way, as opposed to trying to keep up with the Jones are whomever still has money. Since I have walked Greenwich Avenue for 26 years, since I moved off Nantucket where I also walked a lot, as I did in Manhattan and Key West, Florida, I am a somewhat experienced walker, particularly at night. I use a car, since I live in a remote part of town, where there is no public transportation at night. I pretty much have seen everyone in the world on Greenwich Avenue these last 26 years, but nobody ever seems to notice me, since I am good at blending into the crowds. At night, it is like being the Maytag repairman.

I suppose the wealthier walkers in town still play golf, but I was told that in order to speed up play, one is required to use a motorized golf cart now. When I lived in Decatur, Alabama before moving here in June 1961, I also walked a lot there as a youth, and I enjoyed bird watching. At night I use my hearing a lot, since one can not always see as well at night.

Decatur, Alabama was about 20 miles south of Huntsville, Alabama, and Senator John Sparkman at the time was from Alabama, and he was the Senior Senator on the Senate Defense Committee, so he put www.nasa.gov in Huntsville, Alabama. From what I know Greenwich, Connecticut is mostly a Wall Street town, so since I have a Bachelors of Arts Degree in Economics from www.lfc.edu , the business aspect of Greenwich, Connecticut makes sense to me knowing the larger overall picture in the New York Metropolitan area. CIO

I chatted with a young woman from Russia, who told a lot of Russians live in Brighton Beach, Brooklyn, New York, which I knew. I chatted about my web site, and I gave them a calling card. I browsed CVS, but there were no bargain. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center. I chatted with a local who told me he does not recognize anyone anymore. I went by the Greenwich Automotive Services Gulf station, and they had a $8.8 million dollar lottery winner. I put $11 of self service premium at $2.559 a gallon for 4.297 gallons at odometer reading of 62, 456 miles for 59.5 miles driving since last Saturday at 13.8468 miles per gallon this past week. I then cleaned the outside of my windows, and I checked the tires for 32 PSI. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a large yesterday's pumpkin pie for $4, a six pack of yesterday's bulkie rolls for $1.25, a dozen Jumbo eggs for $2.49 expire May 24, 2009, top round London Broil for $1.79 a pound for $5.62, and fresh Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for $1.26 for $14.62 total. I then put my groceries in the car, and I went back into the store, and I bought four buy one get one free of Hebrew National reduced fat hotdogs for $5.29 for two for $10.58 total. I then returned home. I brought up my groceries, and there was no mail. I put away my groceries. I chatted with a relative. Another relative that was driving through the area called at 5:30 P.M., when they were eating nearby at McDonalds, and they are now out of the area.

I will now eat about a 10 ounce piece of sautéed top round London Broil with flavored rice and steamed and Green Giant frozen broccoli with olive oil and watered down passion punch. CIO

Note: <888> 04/18/09 Saturday 4:55 A.M.. One of my friends in Manhattan has so few English speaking friends, that she is going to try to teach English as a second language, so she has more people to talk to. When I lived in Key West, Florida it was like living in a foreign country, since nobody spoke English, and I spent most of my time speaking French to French Canadians and Haitians. Most people down there speak Spanish. I knew a couple of other people that spoke English, but one of them knew Spanish, so I spent most of my time chatting with the other person that spoke English. When I was in Lanzarote in the Canary Islands, most people spoke Spanish, and I tried to communicate to them in French which is similar, but when I met Rhone Dietrin who knew English, Norwegian, and Spanish, I had someone to talk to. We have a lot of English communications around here, but most of it comes out of Manhattan. I am not sure how many people speak English here, since when I walk downtown, I do not hear that many people speaking English. It is sort of strange since the official language of the United States is English, but in a wealthy community near New York not many people seem to know English. I suppose the newer people here are from Europe, where they speak quite a few different languages. Well I still have a few friends and relatives in this area that speak English, so it is not like I do not have anyone to talk to.

The Scott family have a presence in Canada too, so if one gets tired of talking about American trivia, one can always visit Toronto, Ontario, Canada to practice English, but it is colder up there. There are quite a few Canadians in Chicago, Illinois where it is colder, and most of my teachers at www.lfc.edu were Canadian, so possibly I am better networked with the Canadians than I realize. Well at least it is warmer down here, and I do not have to deal with all of the wild animals up in Canada. Also they have a lot of ice storms in Toronto, but they have about 40 miles of underground pedestrians shopping areas, so one does not always have to go outside in the cold.

Of course I knew quite a few Canadians in Key West, Florida. I see quite a few Canadians in Kennebunkport, Maine. The last time I visited Washington D.C. around 1991, they had built a new Canadian Embassy near the Capital with lots of security. Apparently they gets lots of refugees there applying for political asylum.

I never figured out where the Canadian consulate was in Manhattan, but they probably have one there. Fred <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> lived near the Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, Iranian, German and British consulates, so I guess I saw a lot of people from that area in the old days. However, I was more popular in Manhattan when the Republicans held the White House and the Thatcher Tory government were in office in England. However, the way the liberals are messing up the world, the conservatives might be back in office sooner than later. People tend to vote their pocket books, not their television viewing habits. CIO

My allergies have been bothering me, so I guess it is the beginning of the allergy season, but hopefully we will get some rain soon, and that will lessen the pollen in the air. Note: <888> 04/17/09 Friday 5:25 P.M.. I woke up at 10:30 A.M. this morning, when I had two no person telephone calls. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I cleaned the Sony Juke Box with the AT&T CD lens cleaner. One runs track four to clean it, which I did a few times. I installed the Windiows updates on all nine computers. While doing that, I had listened to some music. I noticed that MP3s do not play as clearly as regular CDs on the Sony Juke box, but it is good enough for my purposes. I used three 3M Command sticky strips, and I hung hooks on the primary Vista, the Abit, and the Epox computers for headsets and headphones. Yes beside using the internet, one had to do a lot of computer maintenance in my current apartment setup. CIO

Note: <888> 04/16/09 Thursday 3:55 A.M.. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I am on a limited income, so it is expensive to go downtown every day, even on nice days. There are very few people here that I have not already seen before. It is the nature of the Ivy League with all of their smart people with connections that they frequently think they run the world, until they are put to the test, but they frequently have money, so they can hire smarter people to get their way. I was told today by an advisor that the Scientologists flood the courts in law suits with lots of nonsense paper work from inexpensive graduate law students. There might be a clever way of ending that by charging a per page fee for legal briefs. I know Cyrus Vance's word processor could type 180 words per minute on the old word processors before computers, and she drank a lot of coffee, but just because one fills a library full of propaganda does not mean it is true, it is just somebody else's viewpoint and usually if they are spending so much money for propaganda, more than likely they are hoping to make more money off it by other methods.

My grandfather Scott always said, "Believe Nothing That You Hear, and Half of What You See." Of course out in Illinois where a lot of them seem to end up in prison, there are a lot of people to sort it out, and there is a lot of time to figure it out. From what I know, more than likely once the money runs out in Greenwich, Connecticut some of the more private simpler people will probably regain control of the town from the hoard of outside invaders from around the world whom seemed to have been misinformed about the wealth of the community. About 10 years ago, there was a sign in the Greenwich, Connecticut train station that the whole town was only worth $5,000,000,000; and at that time nobody was interested in buying it. Of course with so many expensive houses that can not be resold easily, we get a lot of renters paying high rents hoping to make quick profits off the community or their connections. Alas, there are plenty of lawyers out here and in neighboring communities along with Manhattan, so if you see some of your former neighbors from Greenwich doing whatever they really do in Manhattan, do not be surprised. Obviously a lot of the people I know in Manhattan walk a lot, so more than likely they might know more than a parked news truck.

I do know the area around Fred's <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> apartment at 420 East 49th street use to be like the scenes in the old American television program, "The Man From Uncle". Alas after rush hour passes that neighborhood twice a day coming and going, there does not seem to be really anything going on there, since a lot of the residents travel frequently or are elderly and do not go out much. It is just in the middle of the Hospital complexes that run up the East side of Manhattan for about 30 blocks in either direction, so maybe they are all Hospital Workers, and Fred was the character from the Rocky Horror Show. CIO

Note: <888> 04/16/09 Thursday 3:25 A.M.. I was told today about this Winklevoss twins made $65 million on Facebook "copycat" settlement » VentureBeat . Needless to say nobody has tried to sue me, since I was around this technology before most of them were alive, and a lot of the original patent holders might be pushing up tulips. Speaking of tulips, there are only two tulips out at the veterans monument downtown, so it definitely was a colder winter. With IBM and GE around here along with a few other companies, there has always been industrial espionage, and it is my viewpoint the local garbage men seem to make more money off high technology for their skills compared to some of the real inventors. CIO

Note: <888> 04/16/09 Thursday 2:45 A.M.. There use to be a French company on Arch Street in Greenwich, Connecticut that had a small local office near the Merry Go Round Mews Thrift shop, and as I recall they sell turbines like one would use in a dam to generate electricity. I can not recall their name or if they even still exist, but more than likely in some form or the other, they are still in business. It might be this company Howmet Corp. -- Company History at 475 Steamboat Road, but they make Jet Turbines, and it does not say anything about dam turbines which are quite a bit bigger. I think their name began with P, but if it were Rhône-Poulenc - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia , but it does not say anything about dam turbines. All I can find is Hydro Energy Businesses in France , but the name does not sound familiar. CIO

Note: <888> 04/16/09 Thursday 1:50 A.M.. The Que Windows Vista SP1 book came with a DVD that I should copy and look at. I should also look at the book. I am not getting much computer work done recently, but after the long cold winter inside, I am enjoying getting outside for a bit of exercise and sun. When one gets more sun, it raises the dopamine level in the brain, and with a lack of dopamine, one gets Parkinson's like symptoms. Also it is suppose to be good to reduce one cholesterol by exercise walking. I can not afford an expensive low cholesterol diet, but I have always walked a lot. We seemed to have a lot of the local citizens spending a little bit more time downtown in Greenwich instead of shopping and working in neighboring communities. Many of them know a lot more than I do, but I am suppose to keep doing what I do, and I am not suppose to know what goes one, and I am suppose to get a hair cut when I can afford it, and I am suppose to stay focused.

As a point of mute interest in the interior decorating community, one of the more senior people that visited <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> 's apartment between 1973 and 1975 when I was a frequent guest there and helped him maintain the apartment was David E. Lilienthal - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia , and since David Lilienthal was involved with Lazard Freres that bought up a lot of the Florida Keys and helped develop them, possibly since Fred the last time I chatted with him had a Chinese roommate named John who was going to www.columbia.edu , and Fred was reading 600 year old books in Chinese possibly from the Morgan Library, possibly Fred might have been in China helping on the Three Gorges Dam - Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia with his language skills. Needless to say, they do not seem to need anybody to take out laundry anymore, and get groceries and coffee, and drive them around and keep an eye on the www.un.org neighborhood anymore. Possibly since Fred was born on December 25, 1947, he might have taken early retirement in some more remote part of the world, and since most of his house guests were German, he might be in Germany or some place where Germans retire or a lot of Germans live. From my viewpoint, I lived around the Tennessee Valley Authority before I moved to Greenwich, Connecticut, and George Cary is from around Niagara Falls, and Myles McGough's father was involved in building Hoover Dam, and Tony Pigato showed me lots of pictures of new dam construction in the Amazon River Basin in Brazil, so there might be a common thread to some of these distant friends. Of course there are a lot of dams where Bill Gates lives in Washington state, and when I went to Norway, they talked about Nord Hydro Nord Hydro . CIO

I ordered Newegg.com - Isymphony NC2 Circumaural Noise Canceling Stereo Headphone for $8.99 with free shipping. I will use it for my headset that plays my stereo system at the primary Vista computer replacing the older Realistic one.

I threw out the garbage. I went to my usual 3 P.M. appointment. I then went over to Radio Shack in Cos Cob, and I bought a Gold-Plated Stereo Adapter, 1/8" Jack to 1/4" Plug - RadioShack.com for $5.49 and .33 tax for $5.82 total. I will use it with the new headphones to connect them to the Audio cable. I tried to help out a local French citizen start his older American car with my little tiny jumper system that I had in the car, but it would not work. He called a relative to jump start his car. I am not suppose to jump start my Audi, because it has a computer ignition system that can be damaged by jump starting. I toured the CVS in Cos Cob, and I used the bathroom there. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with some locals. I browsed the front entrance of CVS. I used the bathroom at the senior and the arts center.

I then drove over to www.homedepot.com in Port Chester, New York, and I toured their garden department. I noticed their energy saving light bulbs in four packs are $1.50 to $2.00 each which is cheaper than $5 at CVS. I noticed there is a new Walgreen's in downtown Port Chester on Main street across from Costco.

I bought a Kidde Pro 340 Fire Extinguisher - 21005782 at The Home Depot for $49.97, Command 3M™ Command™ Adhesive Medium Hook Replacement Strips 17021 - 17021P at The Home Depot for $2.57, and a GE 25 ft Handset Coil Cord, White - 26122004 at The Home Depot for $5.57 and $4.29 tax for $62.40 total.

I then returned home, and I brought up my purchases and the mail. I put the Radio Shack gold plug by the FIC server where the headphones will be. I put the Kidde Fire Extinguisher along side the Chief Croker fire extinguisher. It is not as large as the Chief Croker, but it will be handy in an emergency. I put the sign with the red "Fire Extinguisher" down arrow on the mirror above the fire extinguishers. I labeled its date on the tag and the serial number. I put the new white 25 foot GE handset line on the new AT&T wall phone in the kitchen, and it works just fine. I will store the 3M Command strips on the right lower shelf of the cabinet on the sideboard in the bedroom. I use to them to attach the hooks to my monitors that I hang headsets from. I chatted with a relative.

I will now make and eat the same dinner as the last four nights without the stuffing. CIO

I am a bit tired, so I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. I have a 3 P.M. appointment today, so I have to be up at noon. Besides the two fire extinguishers in my apartment, I also have one in the car and one in the hallway outside of my apartment. CIO

Note: <888> 04/16/09 Thursday 1:25 A.M.. Back around 1964, I drove down to Williamsburg, Virginia Colonial Virginia - Williamsburg Virginia Official Site - Guide for Colonial Williamsburg, VA with Jerry Harrison a neighbor from Round Hill Road and Mrs. Barclay who was Carlisle Humesline's secretary, and he was in charge of Colonial Williamsburg. We hauled down some traditional white wrought iron furniture in a U-Haul trailer, and stayed with Mrs. Barclay who lived in the restored old jail in the historic district across from the state mental asylum which was yellow brick. Since we lived in the historic district, we got to drink beer and eat ham sandwiches at the Sir Walter Raleigh tavern, and we got to see how they made salt pottery beer mugs. We saw them firing the cannons every day, and we toured most of the old restored buildings. We also saw Jamestown, Virginia which had a statue of Pocahontas. We toured the colonial capital building and the governor's palace too. During the trips we also visited some of their friends at a large brick house on the James River that from what I recall looks like Welcome to the Carter Hall Conference Center-Project Hope , but as I recall it was nearer Williamsburg and not west of Washington D.C., so possibly it was another similar looking house on the James River. It was a private residence. We also went to a wedding that had a reception at the The Country Club of Virginia , and as I recall the Boar's Head Country Club was across the road. Since I had lived down south for a few years before, I knew something about southern manners and hospitality, which I seem to have forgotten a long time ago dealing with all of the Big City Folks in the New York City area. <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> use to accompany Helen Kress Williams down to Williamsburg, when she lectured at the Colonial Williamsburg Society, so they must have known something about the history of the area.

However, during the radical years around American Universities during the Viet Nam War, we had better security at www.lfc.edu since it was next to Fort Sheridan www.army.mil base and just south of Great Lakes Naval Station, so more than likely we were somewhat secluded other than what we knew from the New York Times. The government is talking about shovel ready projects. I remember back in the mid 1970s, Nelson Rockefeller wanted to build a bridge across Long Island Sound from Sands Point, Long Island to New Rochelle, New York, but they later cancelled the project. I once thought it might be a good idea to build a bridge from Oyster Bay, Long Island to Steamboat Road in Greenwich, but when I studied the maps, it looks like it would be a shorter distance from Lloyd's Neck, Long Island to South Norwalk, Connecticut. However, one of the most frequent fishermen on Steamboat Road advised me there is a very deep canyon running along the bottom of Long Island Sound, so it would not be feasible to build a bridge with today's technology. They could build some sort of floating bridge, but with the tides and the ocean currents, there probably would be major complications. CIO

I have a larger Chief Croker one that was charged up in December 1999, but it says it is still fully charged, so I guess I do not need another one. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 9.75 ounce can of Planters whole cashew nuts for $3.50 or $2.99 off. I ate some at the bench up towards the top of Greenwich Avenue. I then finished my walk. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts center, and I ate some more cashew nuts, and I fed some to the sparrows. I then went by the Greenwich Tobacco shop, and I bought two ounces of Round Hill pipe tobacco for $8.80 total. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with the reference librarian. There was a fellow there from India wearing a black turban. It was about 9 years ago in the last week of May, I met Dr. Pelai from India, and he was wearing a black turban, and that same day somebody took high powered rifle shot at me at the southwestern picnic area at Tod's Point. The two copies of P.C. Magazine have not been available at the Greenwich Library recently. I then returned home. I helped a neighbor find the key for his new car. I picked up my mail. I ate the rest of the cashew nuts. I also ate a 1/6th piece of pumpkin pie. Note: <888> 04/15/09 Wednesday 12:10 A.M.. Since Fred was busy catering to a mostly Social Register clientele, there were other vendors in Manhattan trying to get some of this business and contacts. I recall the people from Columbia, South America were particularly energetic in the Beekman Place neighborhood. Possibly since Fred had lived with Richard Nixon's ambassador to Spain in Madrid, Spain, he knew other Spanish speaking people from elsewhere in the world. I just opened another 36 ounce bag of Eight O'clock Columbian coffee. In Fred's day, the A&P heir Huntington Hartford was a neighbor in the Beekman Place neighborhood, and the A&P company owned Eight O'Clock coffee before they sold it to www.coke.com. Alas Fred only bought Viennese Blend coffee from Mr. McNulty down on Christopher Street in Greenwich Village, and for breakfast he would only eat fresh croissants flow in from Paris, France on the Concorde and sold at the bakery on the southeast corner of 49th street and 2nd Avenue in Manhattan. The Kips Bay boys club was near Fred's apartment, so maybe he knew some younger people that finally grew up to be a bit older. George Cary even visited us there, and he seemed to enjoy the Billy Baldwin decorating style that Fred tried to learn from Billy Baldwin, since Fred was suppose to be taking over his business. Fred's business partner was Taylor Sterling that lived here in Greenwich, Connecticut and next to the Citicorp building in Manhattan. Although I have a talent for design and decorating, I frequently find it tedious looking at scrap books of paint and wall paper and carpet and catalogs of various items, so on a limited budget, when I was in Nantucket, I found it necessary to eat, so I learned a bit about being kitchen help in the local Nantucket restaurants. Note: <888> 04/14/09 Tuesday 11:35 P.M.. There might be some extra British Citizens here in Greenwich, Connecticut. I saw one young fellow downtown today with a small British flag on his blue cardigan. At the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop, I saw the fellow from India with his wife for a change, and the first time I saw him, was on the Christmas Eve before the Tsunami in Indonesia, so I tend to think when I see him some global catastrophe is about to happen. We did not speak. I noticed a lot more of an international group of people using the Greenwich Library today, since I am only limited to American English, I do not try to network too much, since it confuses people in other languages, since I speak American English quite fast. I was told by someone from India recently that there has not been an emperor or empress in India for over 400 years, so it has me confused that Queen Victoria was the last Empress of India, unless she was a lot older than she appeared. I once read that the Battenberg family from Germany were actually from India, which might explain the British connection. I never studied European History very much in my education, but I know there are other European and worldwide royal families that seem to come and go in this area with the www.un.org being nearby in Manhattan. Since the news media does not cover the U.N. locally, one never knows what they are doing. When I helped Fred Von Mierers <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> around the apartment at 420 East 49th street in Manhattan when I was a guest there, we never paid any attention to the U.N., and we did mostly house keeping errands. There were a lot of international visitors that frequented his apartment and a few Americans, and one of the first Americans, I remember was someone that looked like Wilbur Banks from Greenwich, Connecticut who was the Electrolux vacuum cleaner salesman, and Fred bought a new unit from him. We still have the Electrolux salesroom off Armagone Causeway to the east of Greenwich Avenue, but they now have some sort of new name. I think their units run close to a $1,000 now, so I bought two years ago a complicated Hoover from www.lnt.com as a clearance item for $80 down from $450, but it works quite well. I donated my two old vintage Electrolux vacuum cleaners to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I still have a fairly new Sears Upright with attachments and extra bags that I repaired, when a neighbor threw it out. Although I do not have much floor space in my apartment with all of the various items, the new Hoover is also very good at picking up dust, and since it does not use bags, one can save money on dollar bags from Electrolux. The Hoover looks like it was designed by a folding bicycle mechanic, so it is somewhat complicated to figure out how to use, but it works quite well. It is also a bit heavy. As I recall from the www.greenwichtime.com, the Duke of Windsor dedicated a statue at the Electrolux factory in Old Greenwich, Connecticut around 1926 on a state visit, so the Anglophile community have been keeping busy vacuuming ever since. I think there was a Swedish fellow that knew the Duke of Windsor when he was Governor of the Bahamas, and the Swedish fellow use to lend his yacht the Southern Cross for the Duke of Windsor and the Duchess of Windsor to go back and forth to Europe and travel to the United States on. The Duke of Windsor also knew somebody in the Bahamas that was murdered, and the individual owned a very prosperous gold mine somewhere up in Canada. Wilbur Banks was in the Duke of Windsor's Honor Guard in Newport, Rhode Island, so he must have visited Newport too. CIO

I have been advised that I can not have too many guests here, since it creates security problems for my neighbors. However, since I am mostly on the internet and computers all of the time, I have global communications, but people seem unwilling or unable to communicate, so therefore they probably are more interested in more expensive activities in this area. Basically from what I know which is not much, I am mostly reading through the tea leaves here all of the time. CIO

Note: <888> 04/14/09 Tuesday 7:55 P.M.. I woke up at 8 A.M. this morning. The Queen Mary II was back in Manhattan from its around the World Tour QM2 - Itinerary - 2009 . For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I went back to bed until noon. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative.

I ordered for a relative to be delivered to another relative to be used in Maine a Uniden TRU9485-4W-R 5.8 GHz Cordless Phone w/3 Extra Handsets, Recertified - TRU9485-4W - Buy.com for $39.99 with free shipping. The relative paid for it. I chatted with the relative twice more.

I ate two hot dogs with buns and mustard and ketchup and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream onion and potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch.

I showered, and I cleaned up. I went out, and I went downtown. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 12 roll bundle of Scott toilet paper for $6.99 and .42 tax for $7.41 total. I finished my walk. I then went by the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. I bought a like new AT&T model 210 white Princess Wall phone for $3 and it came with a telephone cable. I also bought a 12 foot coaxial cable for $1 for $4 total. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I read P.C. World Magazine. I used the bathroom. I chatted with someone from the Greenwich Land Trust about <http://mikelouisscott.com/fred.htm> . I checked out a large book by Que on Microsoft Vista SP1. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and they said I had no proof that the Hillshire sliced turkey meat was 3 packages for $10 last Friday, so they would not refund my money.

I bought a yesterday's pumpkin pie for $2.50, three eight packs of Stop and Shop hot dog buns for $5 all, two Ball Park bun size mixed meat franks for $2.50 each package, fresh Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for .99, and a liter bottle of Perrier for $1.49 and .05 bottle deposit less a $1.49 off from the free Perrier Jimmy fund coupon for $13.58 total. I then returned home, and I brought up my purchases.

I took the Radio Shack wall phone off the kitchen wall, and I installed the AT&T white princess style model 210 wall phone on the wall using a one foot telephone cable, and I also put an older 25 foot slightly soiled white handset cable on it, so it can be used at a distance. Of course I have the two line Panasonic cordless telephone in the kitchen and the Uniden single line cordless at the kitchen entrance, but the AT&T telephone like the Radio Shack phone has a volume switch to increase its audio for people hard of hearing. It works just fine. I put the spare telephone cable in the top left FIC server desk in the living room. I put the 12 foot Coaxial cable on the lower level of the sweater closet in the hallway.

I will now make and reheat the same lamb dinner as the last two days. CIO

Note: <888> 04/13/09 Monday 11:15 P.M.. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good evening. High tomorrow of 50 degrees Fahrenheit and mostly cloudy. CIO

Note: <888> 04/13/09 Monday 10:50 P.M.. In the last recession back in the fall of 1976, www.mcdonalds.com would not even hire me in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. The following winter after working in restaurants in Nantucket, I found work at the THIS ESTABLISHMENT IS CLOSED La Vieille Maison Restaurant Boca Raton Miami/South Florida FL Reviews Gayot where I earned $2.15 an hour as a dish washer for a few months. I took home about $85 a week which was not enough to rent a small apartment, so the chef leant me a tent to camp out in the small patch of jungle on the north side of the Boca Inlet. I had to quit the job around the middle of January 1977, when a bull dozer showed up to build the new Excelsior Hotel in Boca Raton, Florida. I took my last pay check, and I bought a round trip ticket to Nassau from the Fort Lauderdale airport, and I arrived in Nassau. I checked my back pack at the airport, and I started to walk into town with a small ditty bag. I was given a ride by a local taxi cab driver that showed me his house over looking Paradise island and offer me a smoke, since I had quit smoking cigarettes at that time. He then showed me the Cloister on Paradise Island, and he told me I could camp out there. I went for a walk around the grounds after resting for a while, and I met Richard Mercy who was from London, England. The next evening, he showed up, and we walked the beach, and he showed me a solar powered generator. I leant him my Addidas sneakers, since the little pine cones on the beach hurt his feet. He suggested that I stay in a cottage at the Paradise Island resort with his roommate Romsey from London, so I stayed there. It was quite humid inside, since the British tend not to use air conditioning. The following evening, we went to the Casino in a white Cadillac limousine, and we picked up a lady with a body guard that looked like the Shah of Iran's wife. There were about 5,000 young blond haired people in the Casino in formal ware, and I was only wearing khakis and a red flannel shirt. We had a vegetarian dinner, and we did not gamble. Richard Mercy told me he was a banker in London, England, and he lived at Eaton Square. I ate a McDonalds in downtown Nassau with my last money, and I walked out to the airport. There were a half dozen B.O.A.C. 747s at the Nassau airport. I picked up my back pack, and I had to pay a $3 exit tax, and I returned back to Fort Lauderdale, Florida where I knew how to camp out. I think a few days later, I hitchhiked down to Key West, Florida, where I camped out, until I met John Bolton who had the key to the Casa Marina Hotel which was just beginning to under go renovation. While in Key West, Florida that winter Jimmy Eldert showed up again, and we had dinner with a friend of his at his friend's Japanese house near the Casa Marina, and I once cooked a red snapper that I bought off the pier at Jimmy's apartment across the street from the Catholic Church. Later on that season Jimmy said good bye, and he left Key West, Florida with blue duffle bag, and he hitch hiked out to California. The next fall, John and I drove through Santa Cruz, California, but we did not know Jimmy was there. The following fall, I looked him up in Santa Cruz, California, where he was attending the University there, and he lived nearby O'Neal's surf shop, and he had a part time job as a disk jockey at the Catholic Church radio station in Santa Cruz, California. By the mid 1980s, Jimmy had moved to the Malibu Colony, and I lost track of him, once I got on the internet. Helen Kress Williams of Oyster Bay, Long Island said we were suppose to keep an eye on him, but she never explained why, but she had a large network of Old Guard friends. More than likely he is still living in warmer climates, since they have too much snow in Syracuse, New York where he was raised. From what I know, he might be living around some of Richard Nixon's old friends in California, whom seemed to have survived unlike the East Coast republicans whom are pretty much down the tubes. CIO

Note: <888> 04/13/09 Monday 10:00 P.M.. When I was outside this evening at dusk, I heard an owl out in the woods.

During the last recession during from the third week of September 1976 until about May 1, 1977 and from October 1977 to about May 1, 1978, I was outside a lot in south Florida, since I did not have a place to stay. I saw a lot of nature in that period, and I got use to observing nature. Around February 1978, when I was staying with a friend and his sister in Daytona Beach, Florida, we took off on a short trip down to the Florida Keys and on the return, we were sleeping in the in the 1971 yellow Subaru station wagon from Nantucket, and at sun rise out on the west side of Boca Raton, Florida by the polo fields we saw a very large Grey Panther watching us, like we might be breakfast.

Of course I lived down south in Martinsville, Virginia from 1953 to 1954, and I recall killing a Copperhead snake with a shovel that was in our yard. In Pensacola, Florida where we lived from 1954 to 1956, I would see lots of buzzards in the sky, and I was once out in the bayou across the street behind the neighbor's house in about a 8 foot long row boat, and I recall being kept from coming back to shore by about an eight food long alligator that eventually let me get back to shore. I was only about five years old then. In Decatur, Alabama from 1956 to 1961, we were living along the Tennessee Fly Way, so we would see millions of birds all of the time depending on the season. Up north, it is colder in the winter, so one does not get outside as much in colder weather, but from what I know there is still northern wildlife around these parts, and it is my viewpoint the wildlife migrates from north to south with the seasons, so now that it is getting warmer, the wildlife is coming back north. A Florida panther might be pretty much the same thing as a Mountain Lion or a Cougar. CIO

They were looking for a tea kettle there. They had two metal ones and one Earthstone one for $20 each, but my guest was looking for one that would not leave a metal taste. However, I needed one with a smaller hole, so I returned it. I then went with my guests to Walgreen's, but they did not have tea kettles there. We then drove out to the southwest picnic area at Tod's Point, and we took a few pictures. I then took a few pictures of the Great White Egret nest on top of the Eagle statue. We then went to the southeast concession area, and we took a few pictures there. We then drove over to the Super Stop and Shop on the Old Greenwich Stamford border, but they were closed at 3 P.M.. I then drove them over to the Greenwich Train station, but the main train station lobby was closed, so we waited on the platform for them to catch the 6:12 P.M. back into Manhattan. It is suppose to rain all day tomorrow, so I probably will not be going out. CIO

Note: <888> 04/10/09 Friday 11:25 P.M.. I woke up at 6 A.M. this morning. For breakfast I ate a bowl of oatmeal with honey and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% passion punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with milk and splenda. I washed the breakfast dishes. I made my bed. I went back to bed until 9 A.M.. I chatted with relatives. I did my house cleaning and watering the plants. I also cleaned the Ionic Pro air purifier. I also put away the two www.army.mil extreme cold weather good to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit sleeping bags. I also put the two DeLonghi oil filled radiators in the bedroom, so they are put away for the season. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I picked up the mail. I ate two hot dogs on buns with mustard and ketchup and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a glass of watered down passion punch. I chatted with a relative. The good new is that the six tulips in my apartment bloomed today on Good Friday, and they are a combination of rose and yellow. When I watered the plants, I also used 10 drops of Schultz plant food per quart of water. I slept from 3 P.M. to 6 P.M..

Tracking is FedEx Tracking on the order for 12-Ft. AXIS Gold Audio Cable w/Dual RCA - RadioShack.com for $4.99 arrived. The FedEx delivery person looked like Obama, so maybe he is a relative. I put the cable on the lower Sony cabinet shelf.

I chatted with a friend visiting Bethany Beach, Delaware.

I showered, and I cleaned up. I went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area including the far side of the station. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I played a Beginners Luck scratch card for $1, and I won $2. I chatted with another regular walker downtown. I used the bathroom at Starbucks. I chatted with a relative on the AT&T wireless go phone that I carry. While I was sitting at the bench at the veterans monument downtown three brown and tan bunny rabbits appeared. The tulips do not look like they will be out for Easter downtown. I stopped by CVS, and I bought a 10 pack of Merrick tubular hangers for $3.49 and .21 tax for $3.70 total. I finished my walk. I sat out for while. I carried my umbrella in the rain. I then went by the Greenwich Automotive Service Gulf station, and I bought $6.01 of self service premium gasoline at $2.559 a gallon for 2.348 gallons for 29 miles driving this week for 12.35 miles per gallon at odometer reading of 62,397 miles.

I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a half gallon of minute maid orange juice with calcium for $2.50, sliced deli Virginia ham for $4.99 a pound for $7.71, two 12 ounce jars of Heinz Au Jus gravy for $1.50, a 64 ounce bottle of Heinz ketchup for $4.49, two quart jars of Vlassic kosher dill pickle slices for $2.50 each, two Hormel 9 ounce packages of sliced turkey for $4.49 each, but the sign said they were suppose to be three for $10, so I should have bought three, fresh asparagus for $1.69 a pound for $1.69, fresh Chiquita bananas for .68 a pound for $2.38, a bulb of garlic for $2.99 a pound for .33, a 8 ounce package of fresh mushrooms for $1.99, and a reduced produce package of baby carrots for .63 for $38.70 total. I also bought a Jimmy Fund scratch card for a dollar. I then returned home. I put away my groceries. I put the new plastic hangers on the bedroom closet shelf.

I will now eat a sliced ham, turkey, and cheese sandwich on a bulkie roll with mayonnaise and 1/4th of a 5.5 ounce tube of Pringle sour cream and onion potato chips and a dill pickle slice and a glass of watered down passion punch. I will then drink a cup of salada green tea with a package of splenda and two teaspoons of Borden lemon juice. CIO

Note: <888> 04/09/09 Thursday 9:20 P.M.. I will now shut down the primary Vista computer, and I will go to bed soon. Have a good night. High tomorrow of 54 degrees Fahrenheit. Showers at 1 P.M.. CIO
