!!!!!! <888> 01/30/15 Friday 12:55 A.M. When I returned from California in November 1980, I was very excited about Ronald Reagan having been elected. After his inaugural which I attended, I went back down to Washington D.C., a month later. I chatted with a few people. On the Eastern Airline shuttle back to Manhattan, I sat next to Edwin Meese who was the new attorney general of the United States. He seemed to know who I was and my background. He said point blank to me, "Scott, if you stay in that neighborhood, you will end up on a meat hook." My roommate was the head of word processing for Cyrus Vance after he was Secretary of State. I finally moved out of Manhattan in February 1982, when it was minus 26 degrees Fahrenheit, when my roommate's son took over my place in the apartment. In those two years, I guess nobody bothered me, because in the apartment we had a Doberman Pincher and a white German Shepard. Also the owners of the building were relatives of General William Westmoreland, so they were formidable people. However, having tried to resettle in New Canaan, Connecticut, Port Washington, Long Island, New York, Key West, Florida, Nantucket Island, Massachusetts, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, Plandome Manor, Long Island, New York, Frankfurt, Germany, Oslo, Norway, and finally here in Greenwich, Connecticut, my viewpoint is that whomever did not like me in Manhattan might have had me confused with someone else, possibly out here in Greenwich. A lot of people think I look like Peter Jennings who died of cancer and broadcast for A.B.C. News. Other people though when I was thinner, I looked like George W. Bush, so that might have been the problem. I don't think I made enemies at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. It was mostly a lot of walking around a big building. I am pretty good at walking though. From my viewpoint out here in Greenwich, somebody that is more private might, whom may or may not look like me was the target of the threat. I have been told that I look like somebody that buys a lot of ammunition at Wal-Mart up on Route 7 in Wilton, Connecticut. Also I look like somebody in Redding, Connecticut. I also look like somebody in Oyster Bay, Long Island. From my own investigation, I think I also look like a former Greenwich, Connecticut State Trooper named "Major" that died in Oxford, Connecticut a couple of years ago. A Connecticut State Trooper might have enemies. We did get bomb threats while at Polaroid, but that might not be relevant. CIO

<888> 01/29/15 Thursday 11:50 P.M. Well, it is winter out, and if they are smart "Old People" don't go out in the cold weather. Of course younger people are always prowling about looking for something to happen around here. I think from my own experience living in Green Witch, Connecticut since June 1962, it takes money to make something happen. More than likely the more thrifty residents are saving their little bit of extra money to pay off their mortgages or save for their retirement, unlike the younger generation who are planning their next adventure, where ever that might be. CIO

<888> 01/29/15 Thursday 11:05 P.M. I had another wrong number telephone call. I chatted with the 17th Precinct http://www.nyc.gov/html/nypd/html/home/contact_information.shtml to see if anything interesting was happening over in Manhattan, but they did not tell me anything. I threw out the garbage in the garbage chute outside my apartment. I picked up the mail. Not much happening anymore. I guess the new people with money don't speak English, so they do not know how to communicate with American English speaking people. Basically the New York City people are use to seeing a lot of people, and when they venture out here in the suburbs with so few people around, they become uncomfortable in our local environment. To be honest, there is not much going on in Manhattan at night except a bit of traffic escaping the City to go elsewhere. CIO

<888> 01/29/15 Thursday 9:15 P.M. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 01/29/15 Thursday 9:15 P.M. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I chatted with a local walker. I chatted with a relative again. I chatted with a local night time person. Not much happening out here in the wilderness of greater southwestern Connecticut, particularly if one does not watch the television or pay much attention to the local California newspaper press. I suppose we have a nice ambience downtown that people find congenial, but most of the back country people do not spend much time in our local downtown shopping area, since they can afford to drive elsewhere, where the same merchandise is cheaper or order off the internet. I suppose the future trophy wives hoping to get lucky might have a different point of view, which is why they work Greenwich Avenue so hard for no porpoise. From my viewpoint, I do not get involved with the local gentry, since I have ample communications, if they need to communicate. CIO

<888> 01/29/15 Thursday 7:10 P.M. I woke up at 4 P.M., when an unknown person called me up and woke me up. I chatted with two relatives. <888> 01/29/15 Thursday 3:05 A.M. I ate 13 brown rice and sea salt Triscuit crackers with 1 inch by 1 inch by 3/16th inch thick slices Norwegian Jarlsberg cheese. When I was up in the Sovereign Country of Norway back in the winter of 1983, I learned how European Monarchs protect their turf. Of course they have their point of view based on their own experiences. I have never been to the United Kingdom or Ireland, so even though they speak a somewhat familiar dialect of English, unlike the Hollywood point of view, I am sure they have their own opinions and beliefs as far as Americans are concerned. That is probably why we never hear from any of them despite this worldwide communications network. Our dialect of English is not well received by them, and they tend to be a bit rude when we try to chat with them on the wire. Prince Edward is suppose to know 50 different dialects of English, so perhaps if he tried calling up some of his own telephone lines in a different dialect, he would find how why the verbal form of communications that they rely upon is not too effective. One has to accept the fact that Hollywood is not reality, so the local anywhere one goes frequently have a different point of view based on their own experiences and education. Also most everywhere one travels, the hosts tend to be on the lookout for some sort of money that might be coming their way. Thus if one does not travel, one tends to have a better and simpler lifestyle. CIO

I chatted with a relative twice. I checked downstairs, and told the building custodian to get some rest. We have had no mail delivery for the last two days. I disabled the motherboard LAN on the Dell Optiplex in the bedroom, and I will just use the Rosewill LAN on it. <888> 01/27/15 Tuesday 4:30 P.M. I woke up at 3 P.M. when Newt Gingrich for Conservatives in Iowa called me up. I then dress up warmly, and I went outside in 26 degree Fahrenheit weather. There was no snow on my Volvo wagon. I moved it to a clear parking space, and I ran the engine for about five minutes. I chatted with a friend in East Fairfield Beach, Connecticut, and he got 10 inches of snow on the waterfront there. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 01/27/15 Tuesday 12:10 A.M. I checked downstairs and outside, and there is no more snow that I can tell in the front parking lot. The back picnic bench has about five inches of snow on it, but that could be also from the snow fall this past weekend. There is more wind out though. The worse part of the blizzard is suppose to start about now. I saw a tall thin young individual walking up the stone stairs in the back yard towards the ice skating rink, so there is at least one Eskimo moving around in the neighborhood. When I was younger before the internet, I used to visit a pub in White Plains, New York run by a former New York Ranger's Hockey Player next to the White Plaines, New York public works department, but they never noticed me. That is where I met my friend from Brazil. I saw on the video from New Canaan on News 12 that they built a block of stores, where the Shell Station used to be in downtown New Canaan. CIO

Back in the Winter of 1972, when I was a art student in Firinze, Italia, I drove through a blizzard to Carrara, Italy, and I skied in two feet of fresh powder, but I almost got injured, when I skied off a 200 foot cliff, and I landed on a road in a snow plow full of snow which broke my fall. Back in the winter of 1992, when I attended the Winter Olympics in Albertville, France; I used to drive around regularly in a foot of snow in a little Peugeot <http://www.peugeot.com/en/> automobile. Back in February 1983, when I arrived in Oslo, Norway at military airport on my way to Stockholm, Sweden, there was about six feet of snow on the ground in Oslo, when I was walking around. However, by the time I departed after a couple of weeks, it had all melted. While at www.lfc.edu in Lake Forest, Illinois, we had much colder weather than here and quite a bit snow. I used to drive around in my 1952 Mercedes 300 B four door sedan around in a lot snow. It was a heavy vehicle, so it was pretty good on snow. About 20 years ago, when we had a 2.5 foot snowfall here, I went out driving in my old Volvo during the storm, and there were people riding along Putnam Avenue in Snow Mobiles without any problems. I used to know how to drive on a bit of snow, but one still has to watch out for the other person whom may not. When I was a taxi cab driver in Lake Forest, Illinois in those great big old Chrysler sedans with three speed column clutch shift, I was their designated snow driver to take people to O'Hare airport during snow storms. I think I have lost my skills with the more modern transportation we have today. CIO

<888> 01/26/15 Monday 10:30 P.M. I checked downstairs and outside. There is not much more snow yet. From the back stairway window, I can see the www.exxon.com station down the hill is still opened and well lighted. I assume the www.mobil.com station across the street and just to the east of me is opened, and the www.shell.com station a quarter mile to the east of me is probably still opened. I do not know if the local fast food restaurants are opened or not. The <http://glorydaysdiner.com/> is supposed to be opened until 1 A.M., but I am not sure if they are or not. The Town of Greenwich Polices Department reports on News 12 that the snow accumulation is now manageable. However, the worst part of the snow is not supposed to start until midnight. CIO

<888> 01/26/15 Monday 10:10 P.M. Despite news media, I know there are always people on the road during a blizzard. Back in 1968, I drove in blizzard with my father in a 1967 Mustang Convertible from Wellesley, Massachusetts to Hamilton College in upstate New York, but they did not accept me. Back in December 1978, on my return from my first trip to California, I drove with a friend, and we traveled through a blizzard with over two feet of snow through the Rocky Mountains from Salt Lake City all of the way to Denver and then from Denver through a ice storm to Louisiana in a 1971 Subaru with front wheel drive and six inch clearance, but we put Continental Snow Tires with Studs in Vail, Colorado that we found at a www.sears.com tire dump in Dillon, Colorado, and the local Amoco station in Vail, only charged $2.50 a tire to put them on the front of the Subaru. In Russell, Kansas a all night garage on Interstate 80 fixed our broken radiator hose for $20 in beer, so we could keep going. On the road in America, one discovers we have some of the worst weather in the world. CIO

I don't have a sofa anymore for guests, but I happened to have two United States Army www.army.mil sleeping bags good to minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit which might just fit on the little bit of spare space on the living room floor. Alas, I never had an emergency budget. I just saved on my food budget to build a home office with lots of computer equipment <http://scott-mike.com/computer.htm>. However, although the big budget people in back country people have large homes, many of them are away during the winter months, but some of them might have generators in their houses. This building at 71 Vinci Drive has an emergency <http://www.generac.com/> generator for the hallway lights, but not the electric heat and other appliances and equipment people might need to use. I assume the Genrac generator in back of the building has fuel, but I have no way of knowing. Once the blizzard is over, and the snow removal people have to remove the snow from our parking lot, we usually move our cars to the ice skating rink parking lot in the back yard which is first cleared by the town, so they can clean out our parking lot. I think they dump the accumulated snow from the removal process at the Grass Island parking area and possibly Tod's Point parking area. The Environmental Protection Agency does not allow the local towns to dump the accumulated snow into Long Island Sound. CVS on West Putnam Avenue is still opened 24hours so emergency supplies might still be left to buy. CIO

A lot of people go to the Hyatt Hotel in Old Greenwich, Connecticut since they seem to always be fully staffed, if one has money. CIO <888> 01/26/15 Monday 12:20 A.M. There used to be somebody in Bedford, New York that made snow shoes. The most reliable vehicle in a lot of snow might be a three horse sleigh which they call a <http://russiapedia.rt.com/of-russian-origin/troika/> , but one would also need Russian wolf hounds <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Borzoi> to keep any wolves away. Obviously in a lot snow, the eco system of the wildlife in the area might be disturbed, so wild animals like <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cougar> might show up. Alas, I do not think it wise to try to move around, and one should be prepared at home. I am charging up my rechargeable devises at the moment.

<http://www.ct.gov/dot/cwp/view.asp?a=2354&q=415220> . Nobody has contacted me locally. <888> 01/25/15 Sunday 11:45 P.M. Now if you really had to get around in 30 inches of snow, I discovered at Christmas Time in 1973, when I picked up George Cary from Shovel off to Buffalo, New York at Newark airport, his grandfather's old farm in Gladstone, New Jersey is now the headquarters of the United States Equestrian Team, so they might have a horse or two that could travel through that much snow. Also near by the www.forbes.com farm in Far Hills, New Jersey there was a snow mobile shop which might be the only reliable transportation, unless it conked out in some remote location leaving one stranded in the blizzard. It is best to stay home. Usually after a major blizzard like we are expecting the New York City airports which are a transportation hub could be closed three days or more with that much snow. Obviously if the workers and emergency personnel can not get to work, they can not do their jobs of improving the situation. Also without electricity some gasoline stations might not be able to pump gasoline unless they have generator power. CIO

<888> 01/25/15 Sunday 11:30 P.M. I ate 8 ounces of reheated John Soules grilled chicken strips, a baked sweet potato or yam with steamed baby carrots with Smart Balance spread and extra virgin olive oil on the vegetables and a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale and a cup of green tea with Equal sweetener and Stop and Shop lemon juice.

Out in the Rust Belt in the Midwest of the United States of America, there used to be and might still a company called <http://www.navistar.com/navistar/> which is the old International Harvester Company owned by the McCormick family of Chicago, Illinois fame that make vehicles <http://www.navistardefense.com/NavistarDefense/> that might have a small chance in navigating through 30 inches of snow, but even if they could get through 30 inches or more of snow, they would still have a problem getting around all of the other stranded vehicles in that much snow. Also with high winds of over 60 miles an hour with over 3 feet of snow in the tree area, a lot of trees might come crashing down bringing down electrical lines, so people could be without power or electricity for a long time. Also with three feet of snow, a lot of the Big Box stores and other buildings with large flat roofs over large expanded areas could see their roofs collapse underneath the weight of the snow. There could be some major problems coming up that only the military might be able to deal with. Also most emergency service vehicles probably would not be able to move around. People on life support systems at home might find themselves without electricity. CIO

<888> 01/25/15 Sunday 10:25 P.M. I threw out the garbage. The Volvo wagon for now is still currently cleared of snow and ice. We are thus enjoying the lull before the storm. Of course if it is two storms converging, what they have sometimes done in the past is push further eastward and converged out over the Atlantic Ocean leaving us high and dry. I watched Season 5 Episode 4 of "Downton Abbey". The Old Guard in this area used to dress in British type tweed wool clothing. When I used to dress that way as a youth, the local people used to address me as "Sir", which I always found amusing. I still have a few fairly nice dress clothes which barely fit me at 6 feet tall 227 pounds waist 50 inches and size 50 long to regular sports jacket. Alas there is no point in being all dressed up with no place or funds to go anywhere. The good news is that when I balanced my Microsoft Money Sunset accounts earlier this evening, I was off $30.82 in my favor which is like found money in my particular case. I am always craving a slice of prime rib of beef medium rare which I ate frequently in the old days, alas it is beyond my current budget, since my spare funds go into my computer hobby as opposed to down the toilet. Between 1973 and 1982, when I was an occasional resident of nearby Manhattan, I would frequently walk around the <http://www.metmuseum.org/> for free, since they seemed to know me there. In their courtyard cafeteria on Tuesday nights, a prime rib of beef medium rare dinner with about one inch thick beef with Yorkshire pudding or twice baked stuffed mashed potatoes with broccoli and roll with butter and a glass of iced tea was only $6.95 which was a lot of money back then, but it was a most excellent meal for an art enthusiast. One could even enjoy a cigarette there in the <http://allengelhard.com/biography/charles-w-engelhard-jr/> court yard and people watch the other art enthusiasts. CIO

<888> 01/25/15 Sunday 8:15 P.M. I did an Aomei backup of both partitions on the Asus Netbook to the Seagate GoFlex 1.8 TB external USB hard drive. I will now shower and clean up. Downton Abbey is on Channel 13 www.pbs.org at 9 P.M.. I would advise internet users to watch it later off the www.pbs.org web site later, and to get ready for the worse Blizzard Storm of History in this area. The reverse number warning from the <http://www.greenwichct.org/> came through. It is my personal opinion that the Governors of the States to be effected should mobilize their National Guards to be ready to respond in their various areas. Since Eastern Canada will also be effected, they might not be able to come down here to help us out. Possibly the electric companies from down south should be on stand by. Waste Management <http://www.wm.com> is suppose to have a lot of heavy equipment in this area, since more than likely the local public services will be overwhelmed. CIO

<888> 01/25/15 Sunday 6:15 P.M. I woke up at 4 P.M.. On www.foxnews.com the mayor of New York City was holding a press conference to say the National Weather Service is calling for 20 to 30 inches of snow starting Monday at 1 P.M. or earlier with snow from Pennsylvania up to north of Boston along the East Coast with hurricane force winds of over 60 miles an hour. The General Public is suppose to get ready for one of the worst snow storms ever in this area and be prepared to be without electricity and have some emergency food and water supplies. Over 50 million people will be effected. I chatted with two friends and a relative and I chatted with a number of other people on my speed dial to let them know. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

End of Scott's Notes week of 01/25/15

<888> 01/25/15 Sunday 7:40 A.M. Now the IBM ThinkCentre by the mahogany bureau does not recognize the Orico SATA external USB hard drive holder in the bios at boot up, when one presses F12, but the first time I tried it did. I think for the Aoemi backup restore program to work, the device has to be recognized by the bios. I finished installing the Microsoft Windows 10 Technical Preview Enterprise Edition 32 bit build 9926 on the second partition on the Asus Netbook. I will back it up at a later time.

I ate five ounces of stale Chex-Mix.

I will now send out my weekly notes. I will then shut down the primary work computer. Earlier in the week, I ate two of the last for Christmas Clementines from Moroc, and now I will eat the last two. <888> 01/25/15 Sunday 4:25 A.M. I have a Orico SATA external hard drive holder which is recognized by the BIOS of the IBM ThinkCentre computers, so I can use that for backups on those machines. On the IBM ThinkCentre in front of the mahogany bureau, I deleted the second partition that held the Windows 10 Technical Preview that would not boot. Because the Windows 10 installation changed the boot partition, I could not do a Complete PC backup of the first Windows partition, so I am doing an Aoemi backup of the first Windows partition to the Orico external USB 1 TB hard drive. The Orico USB drive is only recognized from a fresh boot up from off and not on a reboot until the operating system boots up. CIO

<888> 01/25/15 Sunday 3:35 A.M. I am installing the Windows 10 Technical Preview 32 bit Enterprise Edition build 9926 on the Asus Netbook. I am using the external DVD drive to install it. CIO

<888> 01/24/15 Saturday 9:10 P.M. I threw out the garbage. There is no snow on the Volvo wagon, but a bit of a sheet of ice is beginning to accumulate. I picked up the mail. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 01/24/15 Saturday 8:05 P.M. I woke up at 6 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 01/24/15 Saturday 1:00 P.M. I have the Windows 10 Technet Enterprise 64 bit beta installed on two partitions on the Lenovo ThinkCentre on the oak dining table. I was not able to get the 32 bit version of the beta to work on the IBM ThinkCentre in front of the mahogany bureau. However, the Windows system on the first partition still works just fine. Its TrendNet USB LAN failed, so I replaced it with the same one from the Dell Optiplex which was redundant on that system. I configured the beta on the Dell E6400 laptop on a second partition. I then did a Windows Complete PC backup of both partitions to the Rosewill external hard drive. It seems the IBM ThinkCentres when trying to do a Windows Restore do not recognize the Rosewill 1 TB USB and the Seagate 2 TB USB hard drives, when booted from the DVD. I will now shut down the primary work computer. Earlier, I ate a blueberry muffin. I will now eat another blueberry muffin and go to bed. CIO

<888> 01/24/15 Saturday 4:45 A.M. I did a Windows Complete PC backup of the Windows 10 Technical Preview X64 Enterprise installation on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower in the bedroom to the Rosewell 1 TB external hard drive. I had to free up some space on the external hard drive to do it. The backups of the first partition on the IBM ThinkCentre in front of the mahogany bureau on the Rosewell external hard for both Windows Backup and the Aoemi backup would not restore, so I deleted them for more space. On the IBM ThinkCentre in front of the mahogany bureau I have the preview installed on a second partition, and I had to restore the first partition with another backup, but using my dual boot method that has work in the past to repair the boot partition is not working, and although the first partition boots, the second beta partition will not boot, and I am still try to figure that out. I do not really need a beta on that computer, and I might just go back to the old Windows partition on the first partition. On the Dell E6400 laptop, the upgrade install on a second partition failed twice, so I did a new install of the beta on the second partition which seems to work just fine, but I still have to configure it. I have the beta installed on two identical partitions on the Lenovo ThinkCentre to the right of the FIC server. I am now backing it up to Seagate FreeAgent external USB hard drive. I will then restore the backup to the Lenovo ThinkCentre on the oak dining table which is pretty much the same machine. I have not yet had time to eat dinner. CIO

<888> 01/23/15 Friday 11:55 P.M. The Windows 10 Technical Preview Enterprise 64 bit edition installed just fine on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower computer, and it runs just fine with all device drivers installed and no more tweaking except to change the computer name which I did to make the Windows Complete PC backup to the second hard drive saving the earlier version backups which backup is now complete. I am now doing a Aoemi backup to the second hard drive. It still does not do product activate, but possibly as a beta which expires on April 15, 2015, it does not need to be activated. The install on the Dell E6400 laptop did not work, and it returned the system to its original state, so I am now trying it with more disk space freed up. The new beta installs besides the boot partition and install partition another third restore partition. I am installing the 64 bit edition on the Lenovo ThinkCentre to the right side of the FIC server on the first partition as an upgrade. I am installing the 32 bit edition on the IBM ThinkCentre in front of the mahogany bureau as an upgrade on the second partition. CIO

<888> 01/23/15 Friday 10:30 P.M. I chatted with a relative. The install on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower is almost completed. After I tweak it, I will do backups to the second internal hard drive. The new installation does not requiring sending email to receive a security code which was a nuisance. To get the install upgrade to work on the Dell E6400 laptop computer, I had to disconnect the USB devices except the wireless mouse and the SD card and free up some disk space. CIO

<888> 01/23/15 Friday 9:15 P.M. The card reader works just fine. One has to insert SD cards upside down. I am installing the Windows 10 Technical Preview Enterprise X64 version on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower in the bedroom and with a second DVD I burned, I am also installing it on the Dell E6400 laptop computer in the living room. Both are being installed from the current versions booted up as upgrades. CIO

<888> 01/23/15 Friday 8:35 P.M. I have the Rosewill card reader installed in the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower computer on the right side of the bedroom desk. It is slightly recessed in the case, since it does not fit past through the front panel of the machine. I plugged in the 16 GB PQI Readey Boost pen drive into it, and I took the 4 GB SdCard out of the PogoPlug to device to put in the card reader. I have not tested it, but it should work plug and play. It came with a long SATA motherboard cable, so I did not need to use mine, and it also came with a long Molex cable, so I did not need to use the second Molex Y-splitter power cable. I chatted with a relative. CIO

I stopped by the Greenwich Tobacconist, and they don't sell Havana Cigars yet. I stopped by the Verizon Store, and they were too busy to chat with me. The construction project on lower Greenwich Avenue, where the Thataway Patio used to be is proceeding, and they are doing foundation work. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar store, and I bought an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I chatted with someone from the www.hrc.com in front of Saks Fifth Avenue. I stopped by CVS, and I chatted with a few people. I stopped by the www.chase.com bank at the top of Greenwich Avenue. <888> 01/22/15 Thursday 9:10 P.M. I finished the backup on the Dell Optiplex in the bedroom. Last night I had taken out the SanDisk 16 GB USB pen drive that I was using for Ready Boost, but before that I copied some backup files to it to have available for other computer installations. I just now put in the PQI 16 GB pen drive with 4 GB for Ready Boost, and the rest of the pen drive space I used for backing up key files. I put clean linens on the bed. I took out the six inch stack of laser printer receipts from the black plastic paper shelf rack on the mahogany bureau in the bedroom, and I put them in a large plastic bag on the center bedroom shelf with another smaller plastic bag of paper work to their right. I moved the little two foot artificial Christmas tree and artificial wreath in their large plastic bag from underneath the bedroom desk to on top of the receipts on the center bedroom closet shelf. The bedroom desk chair now pushes in all of the way, and there is room for a small person to sit on it. I normally sit on the side of the bed behind it when using the bedroom desk computer setup, which is more comfortable for a larger person. I took the www.arrowdirect.com shipping box that was on the bedroom closet shelf, and I threw it out along with the Krups coffee machine box. I also threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I picked up the mail. I watered the plants. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

I installed the PCI Express 1 USB card and the Rosewill PCI LAN card. I connected a third LAN cable to the Rosewill LAN card. I also added a second Molex power cable Y splitter and a longer SATA motherboard cable, so when I get the Rosewill card reader, the cables will be long enough to reach it. The new devices were recognized by Windows 10 Enterprise Technical Preview. I had to reinstall the SIIG PCI 5.1 audio card drivers. It all seems to work just fine. I have a 10 pin USB connector on the motherboard and the free floppy drive space to install it in. However, to connect up the card reader feature, I will have to disconnect the second DVD/R drive, since I am using two of the four SATA connectors for my two hard drives, and the third one for the DVD/RW drive which only leaves one SATA port left for the Rosewill Internal Card Read. <888> 01/20/15 Tuesday 10:15 P.M. I came up with an interesting technical problem with the Windows 10 Technical Preview on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower computer setup. I hooked up the 15 foot HDMI cable from the video card in the Dell setup to the switch box for the Haier 32 inch LCD TV in the bedroom, but plug and play did not recognize the Haier LCD TV as an additional monitor in Windows 10 Technical Preview, like Windows 7 and Windows 8.1 does. However, on the same switch box, my Roku 3 device was recognized by plug and play and it installed the hardware driver for it, but as far as I know there is not program that plays in Windows with the Roku device installed on it. There is a Windows app for remote control of a Roku device. CIO

<888> 01/20/15 Tuesday 8:55 P.M. I chatted with a relative. I put in a second DVD/R drive in the Dell Optiplex 740 Tower Computer beneath the DVD/RW drive. card, when I put it in. I also plugged into the back USB port of the case a new SanDisk 16 GB USB pen drive, 4 GB of which is used for "Ready Boost".

<888> 01/20/15 Tuesday 4:05 P.M. I chatted with neighbors. I went downtown to CVS on Greenwich Avenue, and I picked up a prescription. I paid 50 cents for 40 minutes parking. I stopped by MacInspires, and I told them about the Microsoft demo tomorrow. I also stopped by at the www.chase.com bank at the top of Greenwich Avenue, and I got $3 of parking quarters. I chatted with a local politician. I then drove further downtown. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I stopped by Zen Stationary, and I bought an Ace's High Scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I stopped by the www.apple.com computer store, and I chatted about Chicago. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts Center. I chatted with a local business person about business in the Caribbean. I went into the Greenwich Hardware store to warm up. I toured CVS again, and I chatted with a local tech person. I sat out for a while at the top of Greenwich Avenue. The former sight of the People's Bank at the top of Greenwich Avenue at the Pickwick Plaza is being remodeled into another People's Bank. I went back by CVS again, and I bought buy one get one free of 120 count 1200 mg. Fish Oil capsules for $9.99 both bottles and .63 tax for $10.62 total. I used the bathroom at CVS. I then returned back down Greenwich Avenue, and I sat out enjoying a slow cold day. I then went by the Stop and Shop on West Putnam Avenue, and I bought a 42 ounce Quaker Old Fashioned Oats for $3.84, a six pack of various colored day old apples for $1.68, bananas for .49 a pound for .84 for $6.36 total. I then returned home, and I chatted with neighbors, and I put away my purchases. CIO

It is suppose to work with Windows 8, so hopefully it will work with the Microsoft Windows 10 Technical Preview. I moved the deluxe Lenovo headset to the Dell Tower in the bedroom plugged into the front headset ports. I moved the Logitech USB headset from there to the Lenovo ThinkCentre to the right of the FIC server. I installed the drivers on the second partition on the Lenovo ThinkCentre for the new devices. I also switch the video to the motherboard VGA, since Intel PCI Express card was not always working properly in the CMOS settings. It might have been one of the CMOS settings that I had wrong, but for now it works just fine. I ate a ounce of mixed nuts earlier. CIO <888> 01/19/15 Monday 6:35 P.M. I woke up at 7:30 A.M. this morning. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I chatted with a relative. I showered, and I cleaned up. On the primary work computer on the Vista partition, I updated the drivers with Driver Booster. I then installed 110 Windows Updates which took a while. I then ran Advanced System Care. I then ran registry cleaner and registry compactor with the Norton Utilities.

While doing that I took the NEW MSI ATI 128MB X600 Pro PCI-E Express x16 DVI VGA - eBay (item 220650048125 end time Sep-05-10 20:54:28 PDT) for $18.95 with free shipping, November 2012 out of the Dell Optiplex 740 Tower Computer, and I put in the SAPPHIRE Radeon HD 5450 1GB 64-bit DDR3 PCI Express 2.1 x16 HDCP Ready Low Profile Ready Video Card (100292DDR3L) for $29.99 with free shipping, December 26, 2014 from the Lenovo ThinkCentre in the living room to the right of the FIC server. I put the Intel PCI Express Card that came with the Lenovo ThinkCentre back in it. I moved the AOC 23 inch LED monitor from the same Lenovo ThinkCentre to the Dell Tower in the bedroom. I moved the 19 inch Acer LCD monitor from the Dell Tower in the bedroom the Lenovo ThinkCentre. I also switched the Logitech web cameras between the computers, so the Dell Tower has a better web cam. I installed the drivers for the devices on both computers. The ATI web site has a program that installs the Catalyst program for the Sapphire card. I also had to put the larger bracket on the Sapphire card. On the Dell Tower, I did a Complete PC Backup to the second hard drive. I then did an Aoemi backup to the second hard drive. I will now do a Complete PC backup of the primary work computer to the third backup hard drive. CIO <888> 01/18/15 Sunday 3:00 P.M. I ate 8 ounces of Dannon vanilla yogurt before going to bed. A friend called at 9 A.M. to tell me there was lots of ice on the road and there were a lot of accidents on I-95. At 10 A.M., I got the reverse telephone number from the Greenwich Police Department telling me there was ice on the roads, and to stay inside until it warmed up. I finally woke up at 1 P.M.. I chatted with a relative. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I will now shower and clean up.

I installed the Windows Updates on the FIC server, and I am now updating the drivers, and then I will run Complete System Care before starting up the FIC server. <888> 01/18/15 Sunday 2:10 A.M. Well, the Dell Tower in the bedroom is running just fine.

<https://insider.windows.com/>

It says here <http://windows.microsoft.com/en-us/windows/preview-faq#faq=tab1> that the Windows 10 Technical Preview will expire on April 15, 2015. At which time, I can put Windows 7 back on the beta machines or install some other operating system of convenience until the next beta of Windows 11. I think I have pretty much been fiddling around the Windows Operating systems since about DOS 2 about 25 years ago or when ever I bought a PC and started volunteering at the used computer shop downtown off Greenwich Avenue near where the current www.apple.com store is. I still send them email, but I am not sure what they are doing anymore. I suppose they are still helping out newbies to PCs. I had a certain benefit in home computers, when I started 25 years ago, in that I knew how to type. I had access to the computer information at the Greenwich Library, and I was somewhat familiar with computer having programmed a spread sheet in Cobol while at Polaroid in the summer of 1971 which ran on an www.ibm.com 360. Alas, once I returned from Europe and graduated from www.lfc.edu in the summer of 1972, I tried going down south, but www.nasa.gov was not interested in me, and the stock market crash and oil embargo of the fall of 1973 left a lot of tech people at lose ends. At Polaroid they had the internet back in 1971 on 200 baud teletype machines. I was not experience enough on my trips to California between October 1978 and November 1980, but I once tried using a Fortran terminal at the University of California as Santa Cruz, but I did not know the commands. I guess California was sort of amused by me, but I did see a bit of the Pacific Coast while out there. It never occurred to me to check out <http://www.caltech.edu/>, and having lived around the ocean most of my life, I was more interested in checking out the waterfront areas which are quite expensive. I left California for the last time shortly after Ronald Reagan was elected President selling my two door Burgundy Volvo Coupe near Disney Land and flying back east with a friend. We though my friend's father lived in Santa Barbara, but he lived in Santa Rosa, and we never looked him up. I did meet the head of <http://www.parc.com/> who had a nice house on the beach in Laguna Beach which he shared with his roommate who was in charge of Camp Pendleton, so he had good security and nice climate. They also took me to lunch in Dana Point near the sailing Marina. When I got back east I had to face some cold winters after Mount St. Helens had erupted making for colder weather in the Northern Hemisphere. As I recall the first IBM PCs were about $7,500 with two floppy disks and the first Apple Lisas were about $2,500 which were beyond my cigarette budget. About 1992 after two years of a $250 286 PC, a relative paid a $1,000 for me to buy a clone 386 computer at the used computer store which was a lot of money at the time, when IBM stock was at the bottom of the barrel so to speak. CIO

<888> 01/18/15 Sunday 12:30 A.M. I started up the Windows 10 Technical Preview on the Dell Optiplex 740 Tower Computer. The Audio would not work. I tried plugging in another pair of speakers in the front panel with the motherboard audio enabled, but the audio still would not work. I then did a System Restore to when I had first finished configuring the system, and the audio still would not work. I then did a Complete PC backup restore of the system, from when I first configured it, and the audio still would not work. Then I discovered, I had the Logitech 2.1 Speaker Control switch button turned off on the little control switch box beneath the Acer 19 inch LCD monitor, so the Logitech 2.1 speaker system now works. That might have been the problem with the Windows 10 Technical Preview on the second partition of the Dell Latitude E6400 laptop, when I had the same set of speakers hooked up to it, and the audio would not work. Why the Jensen speakers did not work off the front panel, I do not know unless they were not enabled in the settings. Well after all that the speakers now work. I am now installing the SetiPoint drivers for the Logitech wireless keyboard and mouse. The keyboard works off the PS/2 connector in the back of the computer, which I plan to remove when I get the USB card. However, I have a PS/2 to USB adapter for that. CIO

US-Cuba travel and trade: New rules start on Friday

When I was last in Cayo Hueso back in February 1982, they though I was crazy for wanting to run Hydrofoils from Key West to Havana like they do across the English Channel. It took 33 years for them to make up their minds, so I guess they are in no rush down in Florida. Cuba is also a good place to look for antique automobiles, if one is in that business.

<888> 01/15/15 Thursday 5:10 P.M. I picked up the mail, and I chatted with a neighbor. I chatted with a relative. I put clean linens on the bed. I started two loads of laundry, and I have 10 minutes to go on the wash cycles. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I watered the plants. CIO

<888> 01/15/15 Thursday 3:45 P.M. I called up www.microsoft.com at 1-800-MICROSOFT, and they answered in the Philippines. They told me that the Windows 7 Home Premium Product Key that I have for the Dell Tower Computer, should work with my Windows 7 Home Premium SP1 X64 DVD, should I ever chose to install it on the Dell Tower. I chatted with the tech rep a bit about tech. On the Lenovo ThinkCentre behind the primary work computer chair with two partitions with Windows 10 Technical Preview setup in dual boot, the second partition does not boot unless one selects it, and when it does not work turns off the computer, and then when it boots again, it does boot the second partition. This has not happened before on it. I could restore the backup, but that is not that important at the moment. Right now I am installing the Windows Updates on both partitions, to see if that fixes the problem. I ate a blueberry muffin with a glass of cold filtered water. CIO

<888> 01/15/15 Thursday 1:05 P.M. I setup the Ricoh laser printer to the right side of the FIC server connected to the Lenovo ThinkCentre behind the primary work computer chair. I had to install the Ricoh 64 bit English printer drivers from the CD that came with the last printer. The drivers work just fine with the Windows 10 Technical Preview on both partitions. I left the instructions and other paperwork that came with the Ricoh laser printer on top of the Ricoh laser printer. I threw out the Ricoh laser printer box and the garbage. I sat outside briefly. <888> 01/15/15 Thursday 11:15 A.M. I chatted with a relative. I chatted with www.arrowdirect.com about the Windows 7 Product Key, and they told me if my Windows 7 Home Premium DVD does not work with the Microsoft Product Key, I can check with Microsoft about it. I will not be installing Windows 7 Home Premium on it, until the Windows 10 Technical Preview expires, if it expires. www.arrowdirect.com is a good source for value priced refurbished computers. CIO

<888> 01/15/15 Thursday 9:30 A.M. I ate 7 ounces of mixed nuts before going to bed. I woke up at 8 A.M.. <888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 9:15 P.M. I took off the generic USB keyboard from the Dell Tower, and I put on the older white Microsoft PS/2 Ergonomic keyboard with USB ports connected to the back of the Dell Tower. CIO

<888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 8:20 P.M. Windows 10 Technical Preview X64 is working just fine on the Dell Tower. I have to finish configuring it. The Intel PCI LAN Card will not work with it though, and it did not work with the Lenovo setup either. So I don't have to use the motherboard LAN I installed the TrendNet USB LAN device that works just fine. Windows 10 Technical Preview gives one the chance to install one's apps and setting from previous setups, so one does not have to do all of that, but one still has to install the regular programs and data files. I chatted with a relative. CIO

<888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 6:00 P.M. The restored backup of Windows 10 Technical Preview on the Dell Tower will not work, so I have to do a new install and configuration which will take a while. CIO

<888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 5:35 P.M. I put in a new #2032 CMOS battery in the Dell Tower. I moved the Dell Laser Printer to the small computer table on the right side of the bedroom desk connected to the Dell Tower. Its power turns on with the same power strip that controls the Dell tower. I reconfigured the CMOS settings. I chatted with a relative. I moved the paper work from that location to another small oak folding table on the left side of the bedroom desk in front of the Rubbermaid colored clothes laundry hamper. I moved the cardboard box with Premier cigarette tubes from that location to the bedroom window. I put the unused AT&T two line telephone at that location underneath the right side of the bedroom desk. I started up the Dell Tower with the Windows 10 Technical Preview that I restored to it. It so far has taken about an hour to reconfigure itself, but the hard drive light is still flashing. There is no video yet. I threw out the garbage, and I chatted with neighbors. I picked up the mail. CIO

<888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 3:05 P.M. On the Dell Tower, Windows 7 Professional was installed on it, but the product key on the case is for Windows 7 Home Premium, which I could install, if I ever need it. I backed up the drive to the Rosewill 1 TB external hard drive, and I am now restoring the dual boot mirror Windows 10 Technical Preview 64 bit. The Dell Tower has two 250 GB SATA drives in it. On startup of the CPU, it says the CMOS battery is low, so I have to look into that. CIO

<888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 2:05 P.M. I chatted with a relative who is recovering from knee surgery, but seems to be doing well. I put the cards in the Dell Tower. It also a PS/2 adapter for mouse and keyboard which I won't be using. It also has two hard drives, but I don't know what size yet. It has a DVD/RW drive too. I only booted so far to the setup screen. I filed my energy assistance application. I will now backup the Windows 7 partition on the Dell Tower. I will then restore the Windows 10 Technical Preview dual boot backup to the Dell tower for beta testing. CIO

<888> 01/14/15 Wednesday 11:45 A.M. Greenwich K-9 officer adjusts to life after the job

When I was living with the family from the Kaiser of Germany's consulate in New York City in 1980, I made my first trip to Germany. I stay in Frankfurt, Germany for three days at the local Y.M.C.A. there for about $20 a night. They had good security with two big friendly German Shepards that kept a watch on things. The owner of the Y.M.C.A. in Frankfurt, Germany looked like one of my Uncles from Holland, Michigan; so I guess I might have a German look being Dutch for better or worse. My friends in Manhattan had a white German Shepard in the apartment on West 74th Street, so the friendly German Shepards in Germany probably smelled its scent. However, down in Key West during the winter of 1978, they had K9 Security to protect the <http://casamarinaresort.com/> where I was living with a member of the same family while the old hotel was under reconstruction. However, the K9 Security never bothered us because of the 200 stray Hemingway cats with six toes around the hotel. However, at the seafood restaurant on the west side of the island, there was an African American fisherman with a big German Shepard, and when I tried to pet it, it almost took my hand off, so not all German Shepards are that friendly. When my family lived in New Canaan back in 1966, we had a German Shepard that we raised from a puppy, and I was supposed to train it to be a guard dog for when we next were supposed to move to the Turkish embassy in Mexico City, but when my father's failed business venture failed down there, because the Mexican Government wanted 51% of the business, and he returned home, the German Shepard bit him in the rear end, so my father was not too happy with that German Shepard, and we later gave it away with the dog house that I had built for it. We might have also had the same German Shepard when we lived on Baldwin Farms North here in Greenwich, because that is where I built the two piece dog house. The roof would come off from the bottom enclosure, so it could be carried out the basement door in two pieces that fit the enclosure, where I built the dog house. In the summer of 1967, I also helped build our new house on Baldwin Farms South, when we decided to move back from our new house in New Canaan. The new house in New Canaan had lots of sulfur in the water which is supposed to help one live longer, but it smells. I think in New Canaan in the second house which was new, we also lived around someone from www.ibm.com and someone from International Telephone and Telegraph. When in 1962, we used to carpool to Greenwich Country Day School from Stamford, we rode with a British family that owned a computer software company called "Online Decisions". Besides offices in Elmsford, New York; they also had offices at 666 Fifth Avenue in Manhattan. They did not hire me after college in 1973, since I did not know the Fortran programming language. CIO know whether I will use it in the Dell Tower or not. The Dell tower has a DVD drive, but I don't know whether or not it is RW or not. Also when I took the DVD drive out of the most recent Lenovo desktop, I did not check if it was DVD/RW or not. I did put a new DVD/RW drive in it though. I got a promotional coupon for <http://www.omahasteaks.com/> and one can enter "42866WNA" for this promotion <http://www.omahasteaks.com/servlet/OnlineShopping?Dsp=268&AID=106810&ITMSUF=WNA&SRC=BA5299&IID=42866> , but with all of the money I pay to www.geico.com insurance for the Volvo wagon that does not travel too far, I can not afford their $50 offer, so I threw the promotion in the paper recycle bin in the bathroom. One of my trips across country in the late 1970s, I drove through Omaha, but I could only afford to eat at www.mcdonalds.com on the east side of town. Their homeless shelter in Omaha is suppose to serve very good food. I guess there are no more meat packing families left nearby at www.lfc.edu like in the old days. <888> 01/13/15 Tuesday 1:45 P.M. I threw out the garbage. I moved my Volvo wagon to its usual place. My Volvo Wagon says it is 34 degrees Fahrenheit outside, but my apartment weather station says it is 24 degrees Fahrenheit outside. This <http://forecast.weather.gov/MapClick.php?CityName=Greenwich&state=CT&site=OKX&lat=41.0613&lon=-73.6368#.VLVIZcnlzQA> says it is 21 degrees Fahrenheit outside. Thus it is probably a bit too cold outside for old people to exercise walk. I have noticed the younger people around here do not even dress warmly, so they are used to it. My last two observers in Manhattan besides a relative have left Manhattan over a week ago for a cruise from Fort Lauderdale to Auckland, New Zealand, so they are out of touch in the middle of the Pacific Ocean on Holland American Cruise Lines. They say they will be back in Manhattan the first or second week of February 2015. My only relative in Manhattan left

<888> 01/13/15 Tuesday 1:05 P.M. The new juice bar is now opened on the south side of the www.apple.com computer store on Greenwich Avenue. I can not remember its name now. The www.apple.com computer store is also across the street from the Greenwich Financial Center where <https://www.bankerstrust.com/> has some small financial offices. Back in 1973, when I interviewed with vice chairman of Banker's Trust at their offices on Park Avenue, he wanted me to keep an eye out for FALN terrorists in Manhattan who had just bombed their building plaza. I also use to play golf at the Greenwich Country Club with the Chairman of Banker's Trust in the old days. Donald www.trump.com is able to borrow money from Banker's Trust for his construction business. They are now part of www.db.com. One can still smoke cigarettes in their outdoor patio on Park Avenue across the street and just south of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel which is now owned by the Chinese and undergoing renovations. Franklin Roosevelt's old armored railroad car is still on the basement railroad siding of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, if one wants to renovate a secure ground transportation vehicle. CIO

The new www.chase.com bank on the west side of the Greenwich Library has a <http://www.generac.com/> generator in their lower garage in case they ever lose electricity in this storm torn area of the world. Also www.cvs.com on Greenwich Avenue sells a cheaper snow brush with a 3 foot wooden handle for $7.99 if it ever snows during this warmer winter weather. After watching the www.pbs.org presentation on the garden around Buckingham Palace, I noticed something wrong with their local environmental gardening. They are using horse manure and mulch for composting around their garden beds. However, with all the sheep in the United Kingdom and Commonwealth, they should be using sheep dip on the grass to fertilize the lawn. Although it smells horribly, it makes for a nice soft green lawn. I tried to get the www.whitehouse.gov to use it around their lawn, but they turned a blind eye to the suggestion. CIO

<888> 01/12/15 Monday 8:25 P.M. After the last note. I threw out the two www.arrowdirect.com shipping boxes and the two APC control panel boxes, and the Krups coffee maker shipping box. I put the Krups box on the top left bedroom closet shelf. I cleaned the center kitchen counter. I put the two old single cup coffee machines that were there on the top center bedroom closet shelf. I put the new Krups coffee machine on the center kitchen counter to the left of the wooden cutting board. I put the instructions to the far left counter on top of the Oster Blender instructions. I picked up the mail. I went out, and I went by the www.chase.com bank on the west side of the Greenwich Library. I took the long way around up Valley Road to Glenville Road to the Lake Avenue Circle to Deerfield Drive which is easier to enter and exit the new Chase Bank. I noticed they have a generator in their parking garage, so their ATM machine would work, if the power goes off in the area. I then went downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I chatted with a young fellow from Westport. I stopped by the www.apple.com store, and I chatted with a senior sales associate. I chatted with a sales associate at www.brooksbrothers.com about the Wool Business in the Commonwealth. Alas I no longer wear Brooks Brothers clothes, because I don't feel like looking prosperous and getting mugged. Also I am not prosperous anyway. I stopped by CVS, and I bought https://www.grabbag.com/ for $14.99 less $3 off with a CVS coupon machine coupon and .76 tax for $12.75. They may be hard to find when this new law goes into effect http://www.greenwichtime.com/local/article/Plastic-bag-ban-could-be-coming-to-state-6006820.php . I left it in the back of the Volvo wagon. I chatted with somebody from Naples, Italy outside the Italian Prepared Food Place. I stopped by Zen Stationary, and I bought an Ace's High Scratch Card for a dollar, and the prize was a $1,000, and the dealer only had a 10, but none of my four numbers beat it. I told a customer at Starbucks about CVS having the Grab Bags. He mentioned he was Dutch from Palm Beach, and his family were involved with http://www.colgatepalmolive.com/ . I mentioned a few things about Florida. I then went by the Greenwich Library, and I chatted with the reference librarian. I then returned home. CIO

<888> 01/12/15 Monday 3:50 P.M. By Greenwich, Connecticut standards, I am just an average size male at 6 feet tall and 227 pounds. However, the largest man that I have seen in Greenwich, Connecticut was when Ronald Reagan went to the G8 Conference in Maastricht in the Netherlands, a large white Dutch man showed up here in our local A&P that looked like Prince Charles. He was about 7 feet 2 inches tall dressed in traditional Dutch costume trying to sell 500 pound wheels of Dutch Gouda Cheese. I would say he was easily over 350 pounds weight. Thus there are probably some other large people in the Eastern Hemisphere, besides the small people that one sees in their urban environments. Locally in the New York City area, about nine years ago, when I went to the Microsoft Conference in Hauppauge, Long Island at the Hyatt Hotel out there, there was a large white man about six feet wide and six feet tall, and I would say he probably weighed over 600 pounds. Thus there are probably other large people in the world, we do not see amongst the mostly skinny house wives shopping on Greenwich Avenue most of the time, where they seem to think I am some sort of a giant, which is far from the truth by any stretch of the imagination. Maybe Paul Bunyon does exist up in Canada for all I know. CIO

<888> 01/12/15 Monday 11:15 A.M. I ate a clementine before going to bed. I have noticed recently that on Friday evenings at the Stop and Shop on West Putnam Avenue, they have old apples in the clearance section opposite the deli. I might try to eat some of them in the future. Apples are suppose to be healthy, but they tend to be a bit hard to eat. I finally woke up at 11 A.M.. CIO

<888> 01/11/15 Sunday 11:20 P.M. After Downton Abby, I watched on www.pbs.org Channel "The Queen's Garden" about Queen Elizabeth II's 40 acre garden around Buckingham Palace <http://www.royal.gov.uk/>. I guess the Royals have so many visitors with 18 million tourists a year visiting London, England, they are use to seeing a constant crowd of people visiting there area year round. I suppose this time of year, they get visitors from the colder areas of the world whom enjoy the warmth of London. While watching the television, I ate 10 ounces of mixed nuts. I don't know where in the world the mixed nuts come from, but we have a lot of trees in this area that might produce some of the nuts in mixed nuts, but I don't think the Brazil nuts come from this area. Down south in the old days, Woolworths used to sell a lot of nuts, so maybe mixed nuts come from down south. I know pecans come from Georgia. I think almonds come from California. There are no walnuts in my mixed nuts, but they can come from this area. I think the cashew nuts come from down south. The Macadamia nuts come from Hawaii. I have noticed over the years that the grey squirrels seem to survive the winter, so they probably put away a lot of the local nuts and berries. I once read that grey squirrels migrate though. I think in England they also have red squirrels. We also have a few black squirrels here too. For some reason we do not have many birds around here anymore. I do see predatory birds around here like hawks, possibly falcons, and the occasional eagle, and owl; so that is probably why we don't have as many song birds as other areas. I have a theory that the birds don't like the automobile fumes in this area, so they avoid the area. I also learned from "The Queen's Garden" that herons eat baby ducks, which I did not know. We do have herons around here in the warmer months, so that might explain the decline in the duck population. I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will go to bed soon. Stay warm. <888> 01/11/15 Sunday 7:50 P.M. The beef in Canada is suppose to taste better, since it is grain fed instead of grass fed, but because of mad cow disease, one is not allowed to import Canadian beef into the United States of America.

CIO

<888> 01/11/15 Sunday 7:20 P.M. I ate 8 ounces of reheated Perdue grilled Italian chicken strips, a baked sweet potato or yam with steamed baby carrots with Smart Balance spread and extra virgin olive oil on the vegetables and a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale and a cup of green tea with Equal sweetener and Stop and Shop lemon juice.

A local walker that I chatted with today on the telephone asked me where the <http://hearstcastle.org/> , and I told him it is on the Pacific Coast Highway about 20 miles north of <http://visitslo.com/> . Also they have a Nantucket Cove Village on the Pacific Ocean opposite the Hearst Castle for tourists to visit and some farm stands along the Pacific Coast Highway. South and East of the Heart Castle, there is about 75 mile two lane road with oil wells and cattle on both sides of the road that <http://www.76.com/> owns. I am not sure if it is the Hearst Ranch or the Bixby Ranch <http://articles.latimes.com/2007/may/13/magazine/tm-bixby19> . Also if one has money which a lot of people do not have anymore, one can order beef from the Hearst Ranch <http://www.hearstranch.com/> , but it probably would raise one's cholesterol. Locally the <http://www.greenwichtime.com/> is owned by the Hearst Newspapers, so they are always trying to get people here to move to California, where without money, one just ends up just sleeping in their car, until one has to drive back east to start all over again. In the summer, I do see a few cars here from California and the West Coast, but they do not spend very much time here, and continue their journeys. CIO

<888> 01/11/15 Sunday 5:35 P.M. I took the passwords off the Dell Latitude 4600i computer, and I decommissioned McAfee Internet Security on it. I removed the email setups for my personal email on it. I then disconnected it, and I put it on the left rear floor of the bedroom closet behind the Turkish tobacco mason jars. I then switched the Eizo 19 inch LCD monitor to the IBM ThinkCentre upper control panel and CPU. I will put the Eizo 19 inch LCD monitor on top of the Dell Tower to the right hand side of the desk, and I will have the Dell Tower connected to the center Acer 19 inch LCD monitor on top of the IBM ThinkCentre. I put the Hercules woofer speaker and its left speaker on the right side of the bedroom window shelf, and I have it connected to the power strip for the Dell tower on the right side of the control panels. I thus have the Dell Tower ready to install, once I receive it and install its hardware cards. However, with the confusion on the bedroom desk computer setup, none of its computers are available for use at the moment, until I have the Dell Tower installed on the right side of the bedroom desk. Earlier I mailed a letter to a relative in the mail room downstairs. CIO

<888> 01/11/15 Sunday 3:45 P.M. I chatted with a friend and a local walker. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with neighbors. Not much happening out here in the wilderness of greater South Western Connecticut. I guess the Movers and Shakers are down south staying warm leaving behind a skeleton crew of loyal retainers to keep an eye on the local environment, until they return in the late Spring. There might be some tourists or investors in nearby New Amsterdam whom venture out this way to see whatever they have left behind in this area. CIO

The Tweakers Speaker system is about the size of four packs of cigarettes. I put it on the left side of the Dell Latitude E6400 laptop system above the mouse pad. It works quite well. It came with a travel case that I put on the computer desk to the right side. Thus the Tweaker Speaker system is available to travel, when I travel up to Kennebunkport in the summer, which is the only time I travel. I will now make cigarettes. In the line with my previous notes about remote friends. I have another friend whom is a <http://www.nyra.com/aqueduct/> investigator. His father was one of the original www.cia.gov agents during World War II, when it was the Office of Strategic Services. His Uncle was http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/W._Averell_Harriman oldest sister's son. I have another friend from Sao Paulo, Brazil who owns a million acres of coffee plantation knows the <https://www.facebook.com/AgaKhanIV> . Of course these are friends that do not live in

Greenwich. Having lived in Greenwich, Connecticut most of my life, I know quite a few people whom are more private and do not have many friends or connections outside of Greenwich, since they do not trust people from out of town that they do not know. Of course I now quite a few other people, but since I am low income, they do not bother trying to network with me anymore. CIO

<888> 01/07/15 Wednesday 11:45 P.M. Of course, when I returned to Greenwich, Connecticut in December 1983, I had to return to being part of the establishment of the Town of Greenwich, Connecticut. They were in the process of rebuilding the Mianus River Bridge, which had fallen down the spring before. During that period, somebody that looked like a relative bought me a seafood dinner at the Showboat Hotel. He was from Oklahoma City, and he told me to keep working with computers. He owned the process of the moveable highway barricade machine, they use to move short sections of concrete barricades to temporary change lane directions on highways during highway or bridge construction. The machine use to be parked underneath the Mianus River Bridge. Thus possibly he was a relative of my relative from Tulsa, Oklahoma. A neighbor of Helen Clay Frick's up in Bedford, New York also bought me quite a few prime rib beef meals, until my doctors put me on cholesterol medication about eight years ago. He is still in the area, but at age 72, he no longer drives at night because of poor night vision. Since his Dutch family have lived in New York State since the first Dutch arrived, he knows quite a few old time New York families, but his family's claim to fame is that his grandfather invented aluminum solder. Also his mother was one of the pioneers of communications with AT&T, so possibly knows somebody at one of the various phone companies around here. From April 1982 until February 1983, when I was building the garage apartment out at Plandome Manor, Long Island, I did not have time to follow any media. About the only thing I noticed was the local Plandome Manor or Manhasset or Port Washington, Long Island New York Telephone book in the house had an aerial photograph of www.nantucket.net island on the cover. They did not believe in modern communications technology in the house, and I think they had one of those old black steel telephones. They recycled their www.nytimes.com papers for the bird cage for the parrot. The parrot did not like it, if you ate any of its cashew nuts. For television viewing they only had one of those $29 8 inch RCA rabbit ear televisions, and the only thing they watched was http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Louis_Rukeysr Wall Street week on www.pbs.org . Since it is third wealthiest zip code in the United States, there must be some important financial information in those two media outlets. Their claim to fame was that they were related to the http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Thomas_Cadwalader family which the Kelsey family here of the Greenwich Hardware store fame is also related to. The former husband of the house was a Canadian geologist from the University of Toronto that explored North America for the oil companies. I think he also discovered the oil in the Middle East. The drift of my typing this is that all of the old families pretty much know each other over the years http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Old_Philadelphians and http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Thomas_A._Scott. Tom Scott also gave John D. Rockefeller, the exclusive monopoly on his railroad of hauling oil from Ohio back East, and he was partners with William K. Vanderbilt. He had a falling out with John D. Rockefeller, so Rockefeller built a pipe line from Ohio back east. It was rumored that John D. Rockefeller was behind the Pittsburgh Railroad Strike. CIO

<888> 01/07/15 Wednesday 10:00 P.M. I chatted with a relative again. The relative told me that besides oatmeal, avocados are good for reducing cholesterol. I used to use avocados in my summer salads. They are also high in vitamins E. Back in the fall of 1976, when my unemployment pay checks from Daniel Construction in Greenville, South Carolina did not come in for six months, because I had filed for Interstate benefits first in Stamford, Connecticut, and then in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and finally in Key West, Florida, I was a little low on money, so I was quite hungry, and I went from 185 pounds in Greenville, South Carolina eating Winn Dixie steaks to 125 pounds by the time I left Key West in April of 1977 with James Edward Eldert from Syracuse, New York whose grandfather that I never met was Richard Nixon's neighbor in Key Biscayne, Florida. I did not commit any crimes when I was starving most of the time on peanut butter sandwiches, but one morning on Thanksgiving Days in 1976, it was 21 degrees Fahrenheit at 7 A.M. according the bank sign next to the Swimming Hall of Fame. Wiley Middleton whose family had the <https://www.middletonplace.org/> enjoyed drinking Southern Comfort whisky, at the first of the month, when he got his social security check, so later in the month, he was low on money, and he would collect food from the <http://www.publix.com/> dumpsters and try to give it to all of the homeless people on the Fort Lauderdale Beach. Not too many people were interested, however. That Thanksgiving morning, he had a large grocery cart full of slightly old Florida produce, so I happened to find a large old aluminum pot, and I gathered up a lot of old charcoal from the barbecues on the south end of the beach, and I put the pot on a barbecue grate outside of <http://www.bahiamarhotel.com/default-en.html>, and I added water from the beach showers along with native Florida produce, and started a fire underneath the barbecue grate, and I boiled up a large vegetable stew. I do not recall if it had any meat or not. When I tried to get some of the local homeless people to eat some, none of them were interested, but I left the 10 gallon pot of stew on the grate simmering after I ate some, and I took off. In my wildest imagination, I dreamed a boat load of refugees came ashore and enjoyed a good Thanksgiving meal. The following winter, I graduated to being a dishwasher at Le Vielle Maison restaurant in Boca Raton, Florida, which was the most expensive restaurant in Florida at $200 a meal price fixed plus liquor. None of the skinny women ate much of their food, so as a dishwasher, I enjoyed eating lots of filet mignons and lobster tails that came back on the plates from the dining room. The Haitians that worked in the kitchen weighed from 300 pounds to 500 pounds, so they were fairly well fed. I only got $2.15 an hour for those three months in Boca Raton, but the food was good. To get back to Fort Lauderdale, sometime in that period I was very hungry, so once when I was walking over to <http://pier66.hyatt.com/en/hotel/home.html> , I spied an avocado about the size of a football on a tree in somebody's front yard, so I picked it, and I ate it with a friend shortly there after. The friend's father worked for the John Hancock Insurance Company in Connecticut. As I recall that was the only crime, I committed. Later, in 1980, when I was out in California, I met Otis Chandler Junior, and he showed me his Buckmaster Fuller House in Oceanside, California, and it was on a hill overlooking the ocean with 40 acres of Avocado groves around it. He did not object to me smoking cigarettes in his house. When I was also in Santa Barbara, California in the same period, they also had large amount of avocado groves. I never noticed any avocado groves in Florida, but maybe, since avocados are green on green trees, I just thought they were out of season orange trees. CIO

<888> 01/06/15 Tuesday 11:55 P.M. I chatted with a relative earlier. I have been busy playing musical computers again. Since I will not be getting the 18th computer, I moved some units around. I took the APC control panel off the 19 inch Seiki television in the living room, and I put on a regular power strip. I put the APC control panel on top of the Belkin control panel on the oak dining table with the IBM ThinkCentre. I then moved the Lenovo ThinkCentre from the bedroom to on top of the IBM ThinkCentre on the oak dining table. I hooked it up to the APC control panel, and the right Acer 19 inch LCD monitor. I moved the Logitech 2.0 speaker from the bedroom to the Lenovo ThinkCentre. I put a new Logitech C210 web cam on it along with a new Logitech RCA jack headset on it. Thus its hardware is setup, and it has both Windows 10 Technical Preview partitions. I also have the Microsoft Wireless 5000 keyboard and mouse on it. I have the IBM ThinkCentre setup the same with only the left 19 inch Acer LCD monitor. In the bedroom, I set up the Dell Latitude 4600i computer on the right side of the desk, the same as it was before connected to the power strip on the right side of the control panels. It has a Logitech USB headset, but no speakers. The Abit computer is the same. I have the center IBM ThinkCentre in the bedroom setup with the Acer 19 inch LCD monitor on the VGA port, since the HDMI port did not work. I have Lenovo USB speakers connected to it. Otherwise, it is still the same. This all took some time, and I am quite hungry at the moment. CIO

<888> 01/05/15 Monday 10:20 P.M. I used to have a tall square white vase that somehow has disappeared from the apartment over recent years. i no longer frequent the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop. More of my spare funds are spent on my computer ventures. Alas, nobody here in Greenwich, Connecticut knows how to communicate in English, so I guess they are a different cup of tea. Everyone sees everyone, but nobody communicates, so possibly they are held here in some sort of diplomatic limbo that is beyond my reality. Nobody that I chat with is interested in anything to do with the Midwest, so they must all be focused on New York Media. However, it is so long ago that I was last in the Midwest, what I once knew is possibly no longer relevant in today's more modern communications and more modern world. CIO

<888> 01/05/15 Monday 9:40 P.M. I did a communications check with Scotland Yard over in England, and it works well enough for 2 cents a minute. I probably don't know anyone in England anymore, since I am 64 years old, and some of the few English people I used to know were older, they might have retired outside of the United Kingdom to warmer areas elsewhere in the world. Although I speak English, I have a different formal education than my British contacts had. They might have me confused with the Michael Scott from England who is my age and has traveled on the Cunard Line to America every summer for his entire life. It is a very common name, so more than likely which ever Michael Scott they might have heard of, they are not interested in me Michael Scott the personal computer nerd who has never been in the United Kingdom. A lot of theatre people and actors pretend to be people whom they are not, so possibly that is the confusion. I did accidentally get a bit of public attention with the British on July 5, 1976, when I was walking up Third Avenue in Manhattan the day after the Tall Ships festival, and a police man motioned me to walk into Bloomingdales Department store that I was familiar with and there was a reviewing line that I stood in and about fifteen minutes later Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip showed up in a tan Rolls Royce with sun roof waving at the crowds and reviewed the department store, so I did get to see them in person, when they walked into the store. I had met someone the night before that owned the McCormick spice company from Newport, Rhode Island, but I did not meet anyone else as I recall during those festivities. The following day on July 6, 1976, the Royal Yacht Britannia left Manhattan and sailed along Long Island Sound to New Haven, and when I walked downtown, the other living soul around was the old Golden Retriever outside of the former deli at the top of Greenwich Avenue, so I guess a lot of Greenwich people were away on vacation, so after that I traveled up to Nantucket hoping to see some more of the Tall Ships, but none showed up. I have been a wharf rat most of my life. I have many times in my travels seen individuals that look like Queen Elizabeth, so a number of other individuals have the same appearance. Alas, nobody seems to be interested in Scottish immigrants in America let alone Dutch immigrants. However, I do have an English connection in that my paternal grandmother Scott was from the Gard family from Devonshire, England that were the first settlers of the George's Plantation in York, Maine, so that makes me one fourth English. So There. CIO

It has a new toner cartridge, and I have two spare new toner cartridges for it, so it is available for primary work. I put the Samsung color laser printer on the back side of the white bookcase at the kitchen entrance connected up to the Dell Latitude E6400 laptop computer. I never use the Samsung color laser printer except for my Christmas letters. I was in the bathroom, and I heard something fall. I looked all over the apartment, and I could not figure out what it was. I finally noticed that the Radio Shack NOAA weather radio had fallen off the white book case at the kitchen entrance, and when I looked down on the floor behind the bookcase, I also saw that the Glade automatic scent machine had fallen out of the Chinese vase from Macau. I guess its round bottom was not stable in the top of the vase. I put the NOAA weather radio back up on the top of the white bookcase, and I put the Glade automatic scent machine on top of the rear of the Samsung color laser printer.

It is suppose to get colder as I was told today

I had turned the living room thermostat down two degrees in the warmer December weather, so I turned it back up to 78 degrees Fahrenheit, and since the living room thermostat is not accurate, the actual temperature in the living room will be about 70 to 72 degrees Fahrenheit.

<888> 01/05/15 Monday 6:00 P.M. For dinner I ate a rotisserie chicken leg, thigh, wing, and two 1/4th inch thick slices of white breast meat with Frank's hot sauce, a baked sweet potato or yam with steamed baby carrots and steamed sliced zucchini with Smart Balance spread and extra virgin olive oil on the vegetables and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale and a cup of green tea with Equal sweetener and Borden's lemon juice and a sliced tomato seasoned with garlic powder, ground black pepper, Italian seasoning, celery salt, grated parmesan and Romano cheese and extra virgin olive oil. I threw out the garbage. I picked up the mail. The order for the Retractable Universal Silvery New Touch Screen Stylus Pen for $3.30 with free shipping from Hong Kong, Hong Kong arrived. I already gave my neighbor, a spare on that I had, so I will keep the new one as a spare. I chatted with a new neighbor that I already know. It seems since the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge returned to England, they took some of the local British residents back with them. I noticed, when I was downtown today that the <http://www.jackwills.com/> has closed, but they have other stores in the area. CIO

<888> 01/02/15 Friday 9:20 P.M. I sat outside briefly on a cool night. I picked up the mail. I got my rent statement from the Greenwich Housing Authority. CIO

<888> 01/02/15 Friday 8:55 P.M. I chatted with a friend. I updated the CMOS on the Lenovo ThinkCentre in the bedroom. I moved the 19 inch Compaq LCD monitor to the IBM ThinkCentre beneath the Ocosmo TV in the living room. I used two more Encyclopedia Britannicas to raise up the Ocosmo TV another three inches, so the Compaq monitor will not block it. I moved the Acer 19 inch LCD monitor from there to the Lenovo ThinkCentre in the bedroom. It is a higher resolution monitor that works better with the Windows 10 Apps. I also installed the 15 foot HDMI cable from the video card to the Haier TV in the bedroom, and it works just fine. The only flaw in the Lenovo ThinkCentre on booting up, there is an Intel password also that I don't have that controls the motherboard LAN, which I am not using, since I have the TrendNet USB LAN device installed. However, the basic hardware and software configuration on the Lenovo ThinkCentre in the bedroom is just fine and works great. There is no network printing on it, since the Windows 64 bit does not support the TrendNet Router USB Print Server. However, the IBM ThinkCentre beneath it is 32 bit and prints out just fine on the network. Anyway the Lexmark E238 laser printer on the network is not available until I get the toner replacement in the mail. I chatted with a relative. CIO

<888> 01/02/15 Friday 4:55 P.M. Configuration on the new Lenovo ThinkCentre went just fine. The only problem was the new video card would not work in the new Lenovo ThinkCentre, but the other video card from the other Lenovo ThinkCentre works in the new Lenovo ThinkCentre, so I put that in, and I put the new video card in the other Lenovo ThinkCentre where it works just fine. I was not able to do a Complete PC backup of the Windows 7 Home Premium SP1 partition, since I think the Restore partition keeps the Complete PC backup from working, so I did an Aoemi backup of the new Lenovo ThinkCentre to the Rosewill 1 TB USB external hard drive. I am now restoring the dual installation of Windows 10 Technical Preview to the new Lenovo ThinkCentre, and it is restoring just fine. I installed the video drivers of on both partitions of the other Lenovo ThinkCentre, and it works just fine with the new video card. I put the Compaq 19 inch

LCD monitor that was on the Epox computer on the new Lenovo ThinkCentre in the bedroom. I have one of the Eizo 19 inch LCD monitors on the Epox computer. I stored the shipping box on the bedroom closet shelf. CIO

<888> 01/01/15 Thursday 2:45 P.M. I put in a new Photoconductor Kit in the Lexmark E238 laser printer in May 2014. Perhaps the reason, I use so much toner is that I mostly only use it for printing out my notes every four months. However, I print out the notes in TimesRoman Bold 12 pt. Font, which might use a lot of toner. Since it is a work horse of a laser printer, 5,600 sheets printed out since I bought it December 2005 from Staples for $72.62 after a $80 mail in rebate is not a lot of usage. CIO

PM Harper and Bill Gates renew call to advance global Maternal, Newborn and Child health priority

February 25, 2015
Ottawa, Ontario

Introduction

Prime Minister Stephen Harper today met with Bill Gates in Ottawa to discuss how to further leverage the strong leadership that Canada has demonstrated in promoting maternal, newborn and child health (MNCH) in order to ensure that it remains a global development priority and a prominent feature of the global post-2015 development agenda. They were joined by Christian Paradis, Minister of International Development and Minister for La Francophonie, as well as global health leaders representing Canadian and international organizations that are committed to advancing significant progress and achieving results on MNCH.

While tremendous progress has been made to save the lives of the world's most vulnerable citizens – women and children – much work remains to be done. To this end, the Prime Minister and Mr. Gates together renewed the call for focused global political leadership and sustained financial commitments to ensure that MNCH remains a central development priority as the world moves beyond 2015.

The Prime Minister also reaffirmed Canada's commitment to support immunization as a key pillar of Canada's MNCH strategy by announcing new investments toward improving access to vaccines for mothers and children. These investments are aimed at eradicating polio and eliminating tetanus, as well as providing support to 20 implementation research teams, made up of African and Canadian researchers, who will contribute to improving maternal and child health in Africa.

During a moderated discussion, the Prime Minister and Mr. Gates discussed the unprecedented global progress that has taken place since the establishment of the United Nations' Millennium Development Goals in 2000. Fifteen years later, the world stands on the verge of ending the preventable deaths of mothers and children under five within a generation, in large part due to the leadership and commitment of international partners such as the Government of Canada and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

Quick Facts

- Canada and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation have a long history of successful collaboration in support of international development. In June 2010, under Prime Minister Harper's leadership, world leaders launched the Muskoka Initiative on Maternal, Newborn and Child Health, which focused on saving the lives of mothers, newborns and children under the age of five in developing countries.
- During the Saving Every Woman, Every Child: Within Arm's Reach Summit in May 2014, Canada committed to support MNCH between 2015 and 2020, creating renewed global momentum to advance MNCH as a global priority and prioritized Canada's commitment to three areas: strengthening of health systems, improving nutrition, and reducing the burden of leading diseases.
- Canada's commitment aims to tackle emerging challenges, by providing greater emphasis on nutrition and better reaching children in the fragile first month of life, stepping up immunization efforts and building civil registration and vital statistics systems.
- Canada is a proud supporter of immunization programming to ensure that every child has access to important life-saving vaccines. This includes commitments made at the 2013 Global Vaccine Summit towards the eradication of polio, which the polio "endgame strategy" expects to achieve by 2018.
- In May 2014, the Government of Canada also launched the Innovating for Maternal and Child Health in Africa program, a partnership between Foreign Affairs, Trade and Development Canada, the International Development Research Centre and the Canadian Institutes of Health Research.
- The lives of more than five million mothers and children have been saved in developing countries since 2010 due in large part to the global effort to improve maternal, newborn and child health.

Quote

"Canada's top development priority remains eliminating the preventable deaths of mothers, newborns and children in developing countries. While significant progress has been made, more can and must be done to sustain the momentum and end these preventable deaths within our lifetime. Our Government and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation have been steadfast partners in championing this cause, and remain committed to ensuring that all women and children can live healthy and productive lives. Together, we will continue to call on the international community to renew their commitment and support to ensure our global efforts remain focused on eliminating preventable maternal and child deaths.” – Prime Minister Stephen Harper

I boiled up a 7 ounce box of Ronzoni #21 shell noodles, and I put half of them on a large dinner plate, and the other half in a Rubbermaid container with lid in the refrigerator. I heated up in the microwave oven the last cup of beef stew that I put on the shell noodles, and I ate it all with a 12 ounce glass of A&W root beer and a cup of green tea with Splenda sweetener and America's Choice lemon juice. I dumped the hot water that I boiled the shell noodles in down the bathroom sink to clean out the bathroom sink drain. <888> 02/24/15 Tuesday 10:20 P.M. I figure in the New World Order, where people are not allowed to make a profit, if <http://www.drambuie.com/> costs https://www.varmax.com/websearch_results.html?kw=drambuie&button=Search $47.99 and $3.54 New York Sales Tax <http://www8.tax.ny.gov/JRLA/jrlaGateway> for that area of Port Chester, New York is 7.375% for a liter $51.53 total, and there are 33.81 ounces to a liter, a ounce of Drambuie should cost $1.524. Of course the Scottish probably make a profit off the $48 as does the alcohol tax. In England Drambuie costs 25.50 pounds for 700 ml http://www.mysupermarket.co.uk/brands/drambuie_in_tesco.html . That means it is 3.64 pounds sterling per 100 ml. There are 3.3814 ounces in 100 ml, and 3.64 pounds sterling equal $5.61, so an ounce of Drambuie in England costs $1.66, so that means it costs 13.6 cents an ounce more in England than the U.S.A.. Thus a New World Order Bar should charge about $3.05 for a two ounce glass of Drambuie with or without ice, but a real Scotsman would never water down his drink with ice, and in the New World Order tipping is not allowed. I don't know if there is a sales tax on alcohol in England or not. CIO

<888> 02/24/15 Tuesday 4:15 P.M. One can call up 1-202-456-1111 at www.whitehouse.gov and give them suggestions about how to run the country. I chatted with a friend that has had intestinal problems for the last two days. I suggested that he wash his hands with antibacterial soap every time he wipes himself after doing a bowel movement. Also frequently restaurants to save money do not use enough hot water which is expensive for sanitary purposes such as washing the dishes. I threw the garbage down the garbage chute. I chatted with neighbors. When I lived in Florence, Italy in the winter of 1972 at the Pensione Adria by the Santa Trinita Bridge near the Medici Palace, one had to put a 100 lire coin which is about 20 cents for every minute of hot water from the gas hot water heater for the shower sprayer in the bath tub. Also the Italians like eating bone marrow which is very healthy for one. It does snow in Italy. When I skied at Carerra north of Pisa where the marble comes from, we had two feet of fresh powder snow up in the mountains that day. Chianti wine is cheaper than bottled water. The Italians only drink bottled water, since the local water has bacteria in it than give one diarrhea. Since Chianti wine is cheaper than bottled water, a lot of Italians prefer to drink Chianti wine. They even return the fiascos for bottle deposit. The more expensive Italian wine is also available for those whom can afford it. In Italy and France, they have had coffee shops like Starbucks for a long time, but they also serve liquors and liqueurs besides coffee, if anyone needs a pick me up. The coffee is also stronger in Europe. Nescafe owned by Nestle is the largest coffee importer into Europe, so with a half billion Europeans drinking coffee, somebody must be making money off of it. Of course the European coffee machines in coffee bars are very expensive and highly developed, but because they are under high pressure steam, one needs to know how to maintain it for safety reasons. In Spain where they did not have too much refrigeration, they used sterilized milk that came in triangle shaped cartons. Thus in Europe the lifestyle is different than more modern America. I guess when Europeans come here, they like to investigate how we manage to get by in our over developed country that we frequently take for granite. Also the toilet paper in Europe is like waxed paper for some odd reason. The French like eating horse meat. The Spanish have a lot of food, that is not too expensive. Of course the old days of Europe on $5 a day are now gone, but if one were careful, one could probably get by on $50 a day, if one knew where to go. CIO

<888> 02/24/15 Tuesday 3:00 A.M. I chatted with York University Security at 1-416-650-8000 <http://site.info.yorku.ca/> , and they agreed with me that nobody knows what is going on anymore. York University used to be next to a <http://www.rcf-arc.forces.gc.ca/en/index.page> with a large <http://www.adidas.com/> warehouse next to it. I guess the large group of Canadians who used to be in this area can no longer afford to live in this area, so they all returned to Canada. From what I know, the group of engineers that somebody is looking for got old, and they are now retired to other parts of the small planet earth. I ate a blueberry muffin. CIO

<888> 02/23/15 Monday 9:45 P.M. Not much going on out here in the sticks of Connecticut, but as opposed to networking with people that I never see again, I have been getting a bit of work done out here over the years to no avail, since the local Manhattan people out here seem to have a different perspective than whomever actually controls the area. From what I can tell, which is not much, we have to wait until around the first of June, when the movers and shakers from down south return up north to their Country Club Play Grounds in this area. There is no aviation traffic from what I can tell, so we are just maintaining the local community until we thaw out in the spring. It costs money to explore this area, and the younger people seem to have different programming from their educations versus the poorer older generation whom no long freely move around this area. I have not been in Manhattan, since the www.microsoft.com conference about six years ago or more, and then they were hostile toward me, because I smoked cigarettes. I guess there is nothing to do out here but continue to be a keyboard jockey as best as I can afford to do on my limited income. I guess after ten years around Manhattan, until I moved away in February 1982, none of the people that I once knew ever got further ahead in life, so there is a new group of adventurers in Manhattan, whom have different perspectives. I guess the high tech people are mostly on the west coast, and what few people www.ibm.com has in the area have some sort of monopoly going that does not permit outsiders to invade their local Armonk turf. I used to talk to somebody in Manhattan about thirty years ago who was excited about selling wireless laptops for IBM, so more than likely a lot of people that I once knew have retired to warmer areas or where ever old computer people hang up their hats in retirement. It is sort of confusing that the Manhattan people do not seem to know much about their local business community, and seem to expect the money to keep flowing in like they were the U.S. Mint. Obviously since a lot of the people in the suburbs around Manhattan work in the City, the people in the suburbs have a bit of influence that some of the younger generation do not know. More than likely a few people my age still have some influence, so I let them move around the City for better or worse, and nobody ever bothers me out here, since I am yesterday's news. CIO

Back in the old days during secret conflict in America, one could use lemon juice to write a letter, and it would not show up until held up against a warm light bulb, and the lemon juice writing would appear as brown ink on the paper. So much for secret intelligence. Thus if any clandestine organizations get blank pieces of paper in the mail, they should do that to see if there are any secret messages on the blank paper. CIO

<888> 02/22/15 Sunday 12:15 P.M. My neighbor left the Pyrex casserole bowl outside my apartment door. I cleaned off about five inches of loose snow off the Volvo wagon. I chatted with neighbors. I will now shower and clean up. There is no point going downtown on a warmer day, since I figure on a Sunday when the Town of Greenwich has to pay overtime, they have not cleaned the snow off Greenwich Avenue. There is no point in risking breaking a hip just to "People Watch" downtown on Greenwich Avenue. CIO

<888> 02/20/15 Friday 11:10 P.M. I installed the wireless door bell sending unit on the right outside of the front door, and I removed the old sending unit. One configures the door bell chime unit by plugging it into an electrical outlet. Then one presses the volume button for five seconds. Then one uses the other button to select one of over 50 chimes. I selected the "War of 1812 Overture". One then presses the outside sending unit to set the chime on the base unit, and then one removes the base unit from the electrical outlet, and then one plugs it back in. I placed the base unit on the hallway floor power strip by the sweater closet, with the highest of four volume settings. I tried the Logitech C270 web cam on the primary work computer, and the primary work computer will not boot with it plugged in. It does not work with Skype either. Possibly when I can afford it, I might get a better Microsoft web cam. However, I never use Skype, so it is not that important. <888> 02/19/15 Thursday 9:40 P.M. Lets see if I can remember this by date:

Leave Greenwich, Connecticut first week of January 1976 for Greenville, South Carolina via Eastern Airlines to work for Daniel Construction.

Visit Atlanta, Georgia on weekends. Other side trips to Plains, Georgia, Hilton Head South Carolina, Summerville, South Carolina, Aiken, South Carolina, Columbia South Carolina, Ashville, North Carolina, Chapel Hill, North Carolina, Duke University, Calhoun College, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Return to Greenwich, Connecticut with 1966 Chevrolet Biscayne first week of July 1976 and stop by tour Washington D.C. on the way up north.

After seeing the Tall Ships in New York harbor and Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip during the bicentennial. I drove up to Nantucket. After a couple of weeks in Nantucket, tour Provincetown, and I return to Greenwich.

I leave Greenwich third week of September 1976, and I drive down to Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Halloween 1976, I first visit Key West with a Fort Lauderdale friend from Cheshire, Connecticut.

First part of January 1977, my 1966 Chevrolet Biscayne is impounded in Fort Lauderdale for too many parking tickets at the park in front of the Swimming Hall of Fame.

I hitchhike down to Key West. About two more times, I hitchhike back and forth between Key West and Fort Lauderdale.

February 1977, Jim Eldert shows up in Key West out of the University of New Hampshire after having visited Moscow, Russia.

March 1977, Jim Eldert, and I hitchhike to Naples, Florida a day and back to Key West.

April 1977, I take the bus from Key West to Fort Lauderdale, and I get my old Chevrolet out of the pound. I returned to Key West, and I picked up Jim Eldert, and we drove up to Fort Lauderdale. We then drive and tour Disney World. We visit St. Augustine, Florida. We stop by Jacksonville, Florida, and we visit Hurley Harris Haywood. I put Jim Eldert on an Eastern Airline plane to Boston. I then drive to Plains, Georgia and tour. I then stop by Atlanta, and visit relatives. I then return to Greenwich, Connecticut. I pack up a U-Haul Trailer, and I move my belongings in Greenwich to a barn in Norwich, Vermont. I visit Jim Eldert at the University of New Hampshire. We tour Dartmouth College and stay at White River Junction, Vermont and Exeter, New Hampshire. I returned to Nantucket, and I give away the 1966 Chevrolet Biscayne. I leave Nantucket, and I visit Jim Eldert again at the University of New Hampshire, and I travel as far north at Bowden College, Maine with a night at the Y.M.C.A. in Portland, Maine. I go to the Seabrook Demonstration. I hitchhike back to Greenwich, and then I hitchhike down to Williamsburg, Virginia for a few days. I then return to Greenwich and then back to Nantucket. I then leave Nantucket for Boston, then Cambridge, Stowe, Vermont, Cambridge, and back to Nantucket. Before the season gets busy, I once leave Nantucket for a couple of days in Provincetown. Thanksgiving Time 1977, I leave Nantucket with a friend for Woods Hole, where I rent a U-Haul pickup truck. We stop by Cambridge, Hanover, pick up my belongings in Norwich, Vermont, stop by New Haven, Princeton, and unload the U-Haul truck at a relative's house in the Philadelphia area and stop by Manhattan, and leave the U-Haul truck in New London, Connecticut part company, and I hitchhike down to Key West around the first of December 1977.

April 1978, I leave Key West with a friend from Manhasset, Long Island, we hitchhike to Atlanta, Georgia, and we take a bus to Ashville, North Carolina, and we walk the Appalachian Trail for four days. We then hitchhike to Hilton Head, South Carolina and Huntington Island, South Carolina, and we get a ride with Jimmy Buffet back to Key West. We leave Key West at the first of May 1978, and we camp out at Sebastian Inlet, Florida, and we hitchhike to Washington D.C.. We take an Amtrak to Stamford, Connecticut. We stay a few days in Greenwich, Connecticut and take the Amtrak to Providence, Rhode Island and the bus to Hyannis and the boat to Nantucket.

I leave Nantucket for a Taft Tenth Reunion that I take the bus and train to Waterbury and hitchhike back to Hyannis to Nantucket. I leave a second time to take the bus and train to Greenwich to have a sebaceous cyst removed at the Greenwich Hospital, and then return the same way to Nantucket.

I leave with the same friend from Nantucket the first week of October 1978 in a 1971 yellow Subaru station wagon. We drive down to Greenwich and Manhasset, Long Island, Philadelphia to visit with relatives, Champaign, Illinois to visit with relatives, Tulsa, Oklahoma to visit with relatives, and across Interstate 10 via Houston, Midland, Grand Canyon, Death Valley, San Diego, to Dana Point, California where we rest for a week. We then drive up the coast arriving in San Francisco on Columbus Day. We drive as far north as Fort Bragg, California. We return to Laguna Beach, on the Pacific Coast Highway. We camp out in the mountains east of Dana Point, and tour San Clemente down to San Diego and as far north as Huntington Beach. We leave Laguna around the first week of December 1978, and we head East to Las Vegas, Salt Lake City, and drive through the Rocky Mountains in a blizzard to Vail, Colorado. We stop at the Denver airport for a day and drive across country across Colorado and Kansas to Tulsa and down through Louisiana and Florida to Key West, and back up the east coast to Manhasset, Long Island and Greenwich, Connecticut for Christmas 1978. After Christmas 1978, we drive back down to Key West for a few days, and then spend the winter in Daytona Beach, Florida, with one side trip back down to Key West. We returned back up north to Port Washington, Long Island in May 1979 until the Fall of 1979 with a few side trips to New Canaan. We return back to Nantucket for a couple of weeks in May 1979, and then return to Greenwich in June 1979 until August 1979. We then visit Kennebunkport, Provincetown, Hanover, New Hampshire, Burlington, Vermont, Montreal, Canada, Toronto, Canada, Detroit, Michigan, Chicago, Illinois, Lake Forest, Illinois, Champaign, Illinois, St. Louis, Missouri, Denver, Colorado, Laramie, Wyoming, Reno, Truckee, Squaw Valley, San Francisco, Palo Alto, Santa Cruz, Carmel, Santa Barbara, Laguna Beach to San Diego and up and down the coast a couple of times. We drive back east the same way, as I recall stopping by in Champaign, Illinois and Philadelphia and returning to Port Washington, Long Island in the mid Fall 1979. I then built the basement playroom at a relative's house in Philadelphia in October 1979. I then drove back west by myself across country in the yellow Subaru stopping in Champaign, Illinois, and down across Interstate 10 to California taking Interstate 40 West into San Francisco and visiting Palo Alto, Santa Cruz where Jim Eldert was, Carmel, and as far down the coast highway as Laguna Beach and back up to San Francisco. I then drove down the inland highway to Interstate 10 back east picking up two hitchhikers from Byram near Las Alamos and getting arrested in Fort Stockton, Texas for a night and onto San Antonio, and back down to Key West for a few days and back up to Port Washington, Long Island. We spent the winter in Port Washington, Long Island with side trips to Manhattan and New Canaan, Connecticut. I drove up once to the Canadian border on the New York State Thruway, and I stopped by Lake Placid on the way down. We spent some time house sitting in New Canaan too. I visited Kennebunkport, Maine in July 1980. I then flew out to Newport Beach, California, and I visited Laguna Beach, Santa Cruz, San Francisco, Palo Alto, Hawaii, and Maui. I flew back east that same month at the end of August 1980. I then drove with my friend from Manhasset in a 1971 Burgundy two door Volvo sedan up to Provincetown, and then up to Hanover, New Hampshire, Montreal, Canada, and down to Key West, Florida, and across Interstate 10 to San Diego, California, up to Santa Cruz, California on the Pacific Coast Highway. We drove that route a number of times stopping in San Francisco, Palo Alto, Santa Cruz, Santa Barbara, and Laguna Beach. We camped in the camp ground east of Santa Barbara. On the week after election day in 1980, we sold the Volvo, and we flew back east to Manhattan from Las Angeles.

I made a three day trip to Frankfurt, Germany in December 1980.

January 1981, I attended Ronald Reagan's Inaugural.

February 1981, I flew down to Washington D.C. for a day.

I stayed in Manhattan until February 1982 living at West 74th Street near Riverside Park.

I then flew down to Key West in February 1982 returning in April 1982 to Plandome Manor, Long Island where I built the Garage Apartment until February 1983. I then visited Newport Richey, Florida, Vero Beach, Florida, Washington D.C., New Haven, Connecticut, and Oslo, Norway returning around Easter 1983. I returned to Nantucket then.

I stayed in Nantucket until around the week before Halloween 1983, when I drove down to Vero Beach, Florida with a relative from Kennebunkport, Maine, and then to Fort Lauderdale, Newport Richey, Fort Lauderdale, Vero Beach and back to Nantucket. I finally left Nantucket in the end of November 1983, and I flew from Hyannis to Manhattan, and I took the train to Toronto, Ontario, Canada for a couple of weeks. I returned to Manhattan, where I was homeless for a couple of weeks in early December 1983. I came out to Greenwich twice with swollen ankles and for a weeks stay twice at the Greenwich Hospital, and after the last Greenwich Hospital visit, I settled back into Greenwich just before Christmas 1983.

Thus I was traveling quite a bit when I was younger. CIO

<888> 02/19/15 Thursday 7:20 P.M. I reheated and ate half of the cooked Dutch eggs noodles with half of the defrosted beef stew, which I ate with a 12 ounce glass of A&W root beer and a cup of Lipton green tea with splenda sweetener and Stop and Shop lemon juice. As I recall, when I attended the Boston Science Fair in the spring of 1977, after I spent the night with the www.harvard.edu student that lived west of Kenmore Square, when I was next in Stowe, Vermont for a couple of weeks, when I cleaned up the bar Sister Kate's after the ski season, I stayed in the basement bunk room at Sister Kate's. At the time there was no snow on the ground in April 1977 in Stowe, Vermont. I just remembered on the way back to Nantucket, I spent the night at Harvard again, and as I recall I slept on a cement bench at Corbusier Design Center which was left opened all night long. I think I might have returned to Nantucket, and then gone up the Seabrook demonstration and visited Jim Eldert at the University of New Hampshire, but I think that was before I went to Stowe, Vermont. I hitchhiked to Stowe, Vermont, and when I went to see Jim Eldert, I still had the old 1966 Chevrolet Biscayne, which I gave later to the Nantucket Hospital Thrift Shop. Thus on the trip to the University of New Hampshire, the first time, I also visited www.dartmouth.edu , and we stayed at the Wilder Motel just south of Norwich, Vermont. We also stayed at the Exeter Inn at Exeter, New Hampshire. Thus it is after that trip that I returned to Nantucket and got rid of the old Chevrolet. From what I know, the Boston Science Fair was later. In the season of 1977, I worked briefly at a number of Nantucket restaurants, but mostly at the Gordon Folger Hotel as a pot scrubber next to a very hot cast iron stove. I think it was in the summer of 1978, after working for a while at the Gordon Folger Hotel again, I quit, and I started working at Le Languedoc restaurant. Also in that period, I also worked briefly at the India House. In Nantucket, depending on the visitors, sometimes people switch jobs around to avoid conflict. I left Nantucket in October of 1978, with a friend from Manhasset, Long Island on our first trip to California. I returned briefly in the spring of 1979 with the same friend, where we worked carpentry. I then spent the summer in Greenwich for two months, until August 1979, when we visited Kennebunkport, Cape Cod, Hanover, New Hampshire, Burlington, Vermont, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, Chicago, Illinois, Champaign, Illinois, and drove out west through the Rocky Mountains on another trip of California. I think we toured the west coast, and returned back east stopping by Champaign, Illinois again, and back into the New York area again. I recall driving down to Key West with the same friend, but we spent that winter in Daytona, Florida with the friend's sister. I think it was the Christmas of 1978 that I was in Greenwich with the same friend before returning to Florida. I recall one fall building a basement playroom in Philadelphia during Three Mile Island, but with the funds from that job I drove to California by myself. I returned during the Iran Contra Hostage rescue on Interstate 10, and drove down to Key West, and back up north to the New York City area to stay with the same friend. It is so long ago, I get the various trips mixed up. CIO

Prime Minister of Canada Bill Gates Announcement:

PM to welcome Bill Gates to Canada

February 19, 2015
Ottawa, Ontario

Introduction

Prime Minister Stephen Harper today announced that Bill Gates will visit Ottawa on February 25, 2015.

The visit will provide an opportunity to take stock of the productive and longstanding partnership between the Government of Canada and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, and to discuss opportunities for future collaboration, especially in the area of maternal, newborn and child health (MNCH).

More specifically, the two are expected to discuss ways of ensuring that MNCH remains a global priority, including as a prominent feature of the post-2015 development agenda, and the need to develop clear, measurable objectives to end the preventable deaths of women and children.

Quick Facts

- The Government of Canada and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation have a long history of successful collaboration in support of international development, including in the context of the G-7 and G-20. In addition to working closely together on Canada's 2010 Muskoka Initiative for Maternal, Newborn and Child Health, the two continue to collaborate on global health and food security issues, including immunization, polio eradication and agricultural development.
- In June 2010, under Prime Minister Harper's leadership, world leaders launched the Muskoka Initiative on Maternal, Newborn and Child Health. The initiative focused on saving the lives of mothers, newborns and children under the age of five in developing countries.
- In May 2014, the Prime Minister hosted the Saving Every Woman, Every Child: Within Arm's Reach Summit, during which Canada committed to support MNCH between 2015-2020 and renewed global momentum to advance MNCH as a global priority.
- Together, these initiatives have achieved tremendous progress toward saving the lives of the world's most vulnerable mothers, newborns and children, and galvanized efforts through significant financial commitments and strategic partnerships.
- Since 2010, Canada alone has committed over $6 billion to the cause.

Quote

"Civil society organizations, including foundations, continue to play a critical role in improving maternal, newborn, and child health around the world. As a global leader on these issues, Canada has had the opportunity to forge partnerships with dynamic organizations such as the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, resulting in the pooling of knowledge and resources for the greater good of humanity." – Prime Minister Stephen Harper

Back in the mid 1970s, when I came out of Key West in the spring, I used to work with the Stowe, Vermont ski patrol at the Le Languedoc restaurant in Nantucket. They told me in the winter it was minus 40 degrees below zero Fahrenheit on top of the mountain in Stowe, Vermont. It is next to the Smugglers Notch ski resort that the Watson family of www.ibm.com started, so there are some cold weather people around IBM. When I used to drive up to Armonk, New York to IBM in the winter, a couple of times I saw the big white helicopter at the entrance which is like Marine One. Since it was white, I called it the "Flying Milk Truck". I guess that is why Tom Watson got to be Jimmy Carter's ambassador to Russia which attracted all of the Russians to Greenwich, Connecticut over the years. Of course IBM is not the only Fortune 500 Company in the area. CIO

<888> 02/18/15 Wednesday 9:05 A.M. I woke up at 8 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. <888> 02/17/15 Tuesday 9:40 P.M. It is a well known fact that China only has six thousand years of history, where as India has ten thousand years of history, so since www.yale.edu was started by a wealthy Englishman from India, possibly there might be something in Yale's reference library about how to fix the planet and make it warmer. However, from my viewpoint this is the normal weather for this area, if we are in truly in the New York City area. I do know Ben Franklin went to www.harvard.edu and his mother was a Folger from www.nantucket.net , so possibly there is something to prove the normal weather in this area at the <https://www.fi.edu/> and <http://learn.fi.edu/weather/data/> and <http://learn.fi.edu/weather/data2/index.html> . CIO

<888> 02/17/15 Tuesday 9:00 P.M. If our associate that taught physics were still alive somewhere on the small planet Earth, one would have to look for someone that smoked Tiporela cigars and wore an old olive green tweed jacket and looked a bit like Gerry Ford. He knew a lot of the scientists that invented the modern computers, and he pretty much thought the internet was a waste of time, one of the last times I spoke with him. He was of German back ground, and I think he knew a few things he never told other people. I do know he volunteered at the local astronomy club, and when I first returned to Greenwich in December 1983, I lived at 100 Milbank Avenue for four months across from the local observatory, before moving to Grigg Street for two months and then to 700 Steamboat Road which was warm for 4.5 years with a Swedish family, and for over 26 years here at 71 Vinci Drive. I guess even with www.ibm.com in this area, not many people are interested in computers, and they are more preoccupied with more ordinary daily events. With all of the complicated homes in this area, it does take quite a few people to build and maintain them, if you have not noticed. My best guess since people whom smoke cigars frequently have Latino connections, and since olive tweed jackets are common around the www.army.mil more than likely if the physics associate were still alive, he might be working at <http://lanl.gov/> which a lot of people used to know about. However, that is just a theory. I have another theory as to why it might be colder this time of year. The sun solar flares have gone into remission in their fifteen year cycle, and this is just the normal weather. Also the planet earth's orbit might widening further away from the sun making it become a dead planet sooner or later, but that usually takes a long time. Another theory is that based on what I know Greenwich, Connecticut in the United States of America was just a Potemkin Town like many others around the world, and we are now in a similar place like Greenwich, Connecticut; but somewhere in the world, where it is cooler and more secure, like Greenwich, Siberia. With the Aga Khan hanging around Greenwich, Connecticut a lot, we might be in Greenwich, Mongolia, since the Aga Khan is supposed to be the King of Mongolia. CIO

<888> 02/17/15 Tuesday 8:10 P.M. I have not been over to Old Greenwich, Connecticut to get a hair cut since around April 2014, although I did get a hair cut in late August 2014 in Kennebunk, Maine. Although my hair is a bit long, the way I figure it, the longer hair that I am lucky to have keeps my head warm when it is cold, so I will not be going to get a hair cut which I can not afford anyway anytime soon. Somebody should check out the Weather Station at Tod's Point though, since it is an important piece of equipment in this area. For all I know somebody is living in the new restroom at the southwest picnic area. I figure it is probably heated to keep the pipes from freezing, but it might be a bit drafty out there. It is the responsibility of the younger coastal observers in this area to keep an eye on the waterfront in this area on a year round basis, so I imagine there are some young fit individuals still moving around this area keeping an eye on things. One could always call up Starbucks on Greenwich Avenue and see if any of the local gurus whom hang out there know anything that we have not figured out. Nobody in this town communicates with me, so I am pretty much out of touch with their way of thinking. I know since a lot of the police personnel have local connections with the Greenwich Hospital personnel, perhaps some expert at the Greenwich Hospital knows more than I presently know. I do not want to bother the Greenwich Police Station to see if anyone is stranded in their lobby during this extended period of cold weather. Alas with a busy office environment, I am not prepared to put up any guests, since I no longer have any sofas in my apartment, and the apartment is a quite complex working environment, which I would prefer not to be disturbed, by somebody hoping to have a cocktail and watch television. I think I have expressed my viewpoint many times in that television is just a short summary of world events, and one has to read more to know what goes on. I do know with the internet one can read more content that is recent, but as usual one is powerless to change the course of events, unless one has money or some sort of political influence, neither of which I have. Even during the two years that I used a friend's apartment near the www.un.org at 420 East 49th Street, I was pretty much ignored and left starving and walking around in circles on very cold nights being ignored by most everyone. I have been told by a diseased professor from www.columbia.edu that had a PHD in Physics from www.harvard.edu and taught physics at Columbia University for 50 years that people in this area, do not like people with my look, so that might be the problem. I do know when I first arrived in Oslo, Norway in February 1983, there was six feet of snow on the ground which quickly melted when it became warm and sunny, and Ronald Reagan and Casper Wineburger were at the West Hotel in Oslo, Norway, behind the Norwegian Royal Family palace, so maybe the California people control such a satellite system that people do not believe exists. I use to know somebody from Sao Paulo, Brazil <http://mikelouisscott.com/photo/mike-scott-and-friend-new-york-1987.jpg> that knew the His Highness the Aga Khan's 76th Birthday - Mowlana Hazar Imam's 76th Birthday - December 13, 2012 Salgirah Khushiali Mubarak! , but he has not visited me since I moved to 71 Vinci Drive 26 years ago, but he did tour the building with me the summer, before I moved in. Thus there has been a real Brazilian in this building at one time, not that it makes it any warmer.

If one does not mind cooler weather than the Florida Keys and points South, there is always the Elbow Beach (Paget, Bermuda) | Expedia or in Tampa, Florida Don CeSar Beach Hotel | St Pete Beach Hotel | Loews Hotels - Loews or in Fort Lauderdale for one's yacht at the Fort Lauderdale Beach Hotels Bahia Mar or Pier 66 Fort Lauderdale Hotels & Florida Luxury Resorts - Hyatt Regency Pier Sixty-Six Resort and Spa where the <http://www.forbes.com/> used to keep their yacht "The Highlander". In February 1982, when I finished the garage apartment in Plandome Manor, Long Island, I spent several weeks in Oslo, Norway at the Y.M.C.A. across the street from Hotel Oslo. Book the stylish Radisson Blu Scandinavia Hotel, Oslo. and the Best Western West Hotel Oslo, Norway . I thought about moving to Oslo, Norway to have a quiet more peaceful life amongst my native Nordic people, but my family insisted I come back to his country to live around the hodge podge of various people from around the world. Burkhalter Travel / Travel Headquarters / Olson Travel . There was six feet of snow on the ground in Oslo, Norway, when I got there, but by the time I left around St. Patrick's Day, it had all melted. <888> 02/16/15 Monday 4:10 P.M. I threw out the garbage. I chatted with a neighbor. I chatted with a relative.

The cheapest place I know to stay in Caribbean is on the government state park on St. John's in the Caribbean is <http://www.cinnamonbay.com/> , but it is probably fully booked this time of the year, and the St. Thomas airport is the second most dangerous airport in the world. Of course one has to get along with local natives. When I went to www.lfc.edu , there was an alumnus who owned the Yacht Club in St. John, and he had two sons that were on the United States Olympic Sailing Team. Also locally here in Greenwich, Connecticut I used to talk to Roy frequently who was from Jamaica, and he was the most frequent walker in Greenwich, frequently in a snow suit in the winter, but I have not seen him recently. My Caribbean connections are somewhat limited having not been down in Key West, since February or March 1982, but I have visited Vero Beach a number of time since then. Alas, I just keep busy in my warm and comfortable apartment in the winter. Since the New York City area with over 25 million people always has people moving around, there is more than likely a few people stranded on I-95 at the two Darien rest areas with car problems or financial problems or lack of direction in this very frigid cold weather. If one were without funds, there is a Shelter in Stamford, Connecticut that the town of Greenwich gives $50,000 a year to, and there is a small shelter in Westport that fills up fast next to the Westport police station. There is also a shelter in Norwalk and the Volunteers of America used to have a shelter at the Westchester County airport, but one is supposed to be referred by Westchester County Social Services to stay there. There probably still is the red leather couch in the basement of the www.yale.edu law school which is quite comfortable, if one can sneak in. Stamford, Connecticut has a Y.M.C.A. with inexpensive accommodations, and there is always the Vanderbilt Y.M.C.A. near the United Nations in Manhattan or the McBurney Y.M.C.A. in the Chelsea section of Manhattan on West 23rd street, but those cost money. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 2:40 P.M. My weather indicator outside my apartment window is messed up. It says it is 36 degrees Fahrenheit outside, when it is currently 16 degrees Fahrenheit outside
<http://forecast.weather.gov/MapClick.php?CityName=Greenwich&state=CT&site=OKX&lat=41.0613&lon=-73.6368#.VOJGRCzlzQA> . I think the sun in the afternoon reflecting off the white snow on the roof outside warms up the weather station, so it gives a false reading. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 2:35 P.M. I chatted with a local friend that has a relative in Stowe, Vermont, where it was 25 degrees below zero Fahrenheit last night. I am not sure if that was actual or wind chill. The local friend wants to go to Cayo Hueso this March with a friend from Brazil, so I guess he has cabin fever. Even at Easter Time, it can be a bit cold in this area. It does not start to warm up in this area until the first week of May, when I put my air conditioners in the apartment windows. I still have not found any big strong individual to help put in my bedroom air conditioner for free, but I manage by a simple step process of leverage movements, and sooner or later after about an hour and a half I get the bedroom air conditioner back in the window for the warmer period of the year. I think the local younger people are so affluent, they don't like helping out the older people whom have worked hard all of their lives. The Greenwich Housing Authority will not put the air conditioners in until the first week of June, and I don't feel like living in a hot apartment for a month. I guess the Italians in Greenwich politics get hot later in the season than the Nordic people whom have lived here much longer for centuries. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 1:05 P.M. I woke up at 10 A.M.. I chatted with a friend. The friend told me there is a sale of 50% off at www.llbean.com in Orange, Connecticut. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I will next shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 3:20 A.M. I ate a blue berry muffin. Basically, the primary computer does a lot of weird things sometime, so I have learned to maintain it based on my experience as I know it and built it. It would seem to be that even newer computers which would be faster would even have more extreme problems, since they would process the information and errors and defaults faster. I do not intend to ever change my routine based on what some fly by night individual may think. If one lives in an area for a long time, one has built up a large number of friends and associates that I would rather not leave behind for new terrain out in the wilderness somewhere. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 3:10 A.M. I checked with the <http://www.thedelamar.com/> , and they do take people with dogs for the Dog Show. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 3:05 A.M. I used to try to be friends with and keep the cold weather people I knew in this area around for colder weather in the winter, but the local Palm Beach crowd in the summer kept getting rid of them, because they did not have Palm Beach Etiquette. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 2:25 A.M. I hear a lot of advertising news which is not always the real story, but meant to try and sell someone something. From what little I know based on my little experience, the reason the north country here is having colder weather and more snow further up north is that if one looks at this http://www.volcano.si.edu/reports_weekly.cfm , there are two active volcanoes on the Kamchata Peninsula in northeast Russia, which might make it colder in this area of the small planet they call Earth. Alas if the Star Trek Enterprise is anywhere in this galaxy, they are probably too many light years away to help us out anytime soon. I have my second wind after having a cup of coffee. If one ever read the credits on the Star Trek Enterprise productions, it said it was produced by "Norway Productions". Alas there are other theories which might also make sense, such as the earth's axis changing and this part of the planet is up around Hudson Bay where the Polar Bears are. Also there might be some ancient engineering that is out of whack. I have a theory that the Skull and Bones Society at www.yale.edu control some ancient mechanism such as some sort of water lock that controls the colder water into Long Island Sound from the Connecticut River that makes Long Island Sound Current effect the Gulf Stream thus changing its flow and warming some areas and cooling other areas. Of course that might also happen down in Cayo Hueso, but that is all theory. Perhaps, some well read inexperienced individual is messing with someone else's systems unknown to the chief engineer that is busy elsewhere in the world. I do not have the answer at this moment. Of course from my experience in this part of the country, this is pretty much the weather I observed this time of year in the 1960s, 1970s, and early 1980s, until it seem to get warmer for a while during the winter. However, I am so busy on systems works on my 17 active computers, I do not look at much content on the internet, but just maintain the systems that nobody seem to use anyway. I am not sure how accurate the information is anyway. All I know nobody likes using the telephone around here, so maybe the large group of www.ibm.com people in this area are using some sort of other communications besides telecommunications as we know it today. Batteries on cell phone might not be too good in extremely cold weather, but I am not familiar with their battery technology. CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 1:05 A.M. It is 1 degree Fahrenheit at the moment <http://forecast.weather.gov/MapClick.php?CityName=Greenwich&state=CT&site=OKX&lat=41.0613&lon=-73.6368#.VOGG1SzIzQA> . My weather indicator outside my apartment living room window says it is 4.2 degrees Fahrenheit and 49% humidity. I am not sure if I should try to stay up through the long cold winter's night or turn over control of the New York City environment to the younger inexperience locals whom only know Hollywood. Should I or Should I not try to have a cup of coffee and stay away. I will toss a Washington Quarter. Heads I stay awake, and Tails I go to bed. It is "Heads", I stay awake and have a cup of coffee and wait until "Hell Freezes Over." CIO

<888> 02/16/15 Monday 12:45 A.M. I chatted with www.llbean.com up in Freeport, Maine. They are very smart up there. The reason I plan to survive here at 71 Vinci Drive in Byram, Connecticut is one of the former house men looked like a relative of George Washington working for an old Dutch lady; so more than likely he has other friends. Since I have lived here most of my life, I am used to our relatively short winters compared to other parts of the country. Winter is actually very peaceful around here, and one gets a lot more inside work done, instead of people watching downtown during the warmer time of the year. Actually it is so hot here in the summers, I spend more time by the air conditioners than most people realize. The fall and the spring have moderate weather, so I try to get out a bit more. CIO

I threw out the garbage, and it is extremely cold outside. I let a neighbor know there were packages for the neighbor. I looked outside from the community room, and the ice skating rink parking lot is full of automobiles of Nordic people braving the extreme cold weather. I chatted with another neighbor. I have cold weather clothing, but I have limited funds, so there is no point in going downtown to sit in the Greenwich Library or Starbucks looking at the more affluent people braving the cold weather. I guess if one were elderly and frail and in distress, one could sit in the lobby of the Greenwich Hospital, which I have seen people do on cold days, if one could make it there. People tend to become disorientated in extreme cold weather, and as one's body gets colder, one gets a sense of euphoria that one is all right, when one is not. Back during the winter of 1980 or 1981, I took the train from Manhattan with a friend to Darien at night, because the trains were not running to New Canaan, and there were no taxi cabs in Darien, so on a minus 20 degree below Fahrenheit night, we walked from

Darien to New Canaan, and we hitchhiked the whole way and dozens of British Land Rovers passed us by not giving us a ride, but we made it to New Canaan, so the local population in this area are not always as sensitive to cold weather situations, as one might think. My friend's father was once posted in the www.state.gov embassy in Saudi Arabia, so they might have had other friends that could afford to travel, and his grandfather on the mother's side was a geologist from the <http://www.utoronto.ca/> that explored North America for the oil companies, so they were a bit established. At least in Greenwich, Connecticut, we have more facilities available in extreme cold weather, that can be useful, particularly if one is not familiar with the area. It takes money and experience to move around the North Country in the winter, and only the foolish would try to travel on low budget. I once picked up a hitchhiker in this area at the I-95 entrance ramp, when they allowed hitchhiking, and the hitchhiker was from Bangor, Maine, and I drove the hitchhiker to the Stamford train station, and I gave the hitchhiker $20 that I could ill afford. Coming down from Kennebunkport, Maine this fall, I gave two United States Navy www.navy.mil personnel from New London in distress on the Merritt Parkway $10 gasoline money, so they could make it to Rye, New York, which I could ill afford. CIO

<888> 02/15/15 Sunday 3:05 P.M. In extreme cold weather the wildlife in the area will probably be foraging around, and they can be dangerous, when they are that cold. We should probably activate the Russian Wolf Hounds in the area. We also have some Alaskan Samoan dogs, Huskies, St. Bernard's, Newfoundland, German Shepard, Scottish Elk Hound, Labrador, Golden Retriever and a few other cold weather dogs in this area. We used to also have some Inuit Indians in the area too. The <http://www.westminsterkennelclub.org/> is always on one of the coldest days of the year. Of course 77% of the private money in the United States of America is controlled by little old ladies over 70 years old, and a lot of them like tiny lap dogs. CIO

<888> 02/15/15 Sunday 2:20 P.M. I chatted with a local Scottish walker, and we agreed it is too cold for the Scottish to be walking around in a wind-chill factor of minus 30 degrees Fahrenheit below zero this evening. I guess we have to turn the town over to the local Norwegians, Swedish, Finish, Danish, Polish, Russians, Canadians, and Koreans whom are used to the colder weather. I walked downtown on cold weather in this town for 31 years, so I know there are always a few cold weather people around. Vermont usually comes out of the wood work on cold nights. Of course the electric company employs a lot of French Canadians. Well, later on this evening, we will see how cold it actually gets. One should be prepared in case we lose electricity in the high winds. More than likely, if one loses electricity, if one has a car, it might not start up, when one is trying to make it to the cold weather warming station at the Greenwich Police Station to take refuge. Of course Big Buck people could always seek refuge in one of our many local hotels. This time of year, we are never too busy up here in the tundra of Greenwich, Siberia. Of course there are a lot of old cheap Yankees who will just throw another log on the fire place and go back to drinking whatever they drink to stay warm. CIO

<888> 02/15/15 Sunday 1:00 P.M. I woke up at 11:45 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50%

<888> 02/15/15 Sunday 4:00 A.M. Town of Greenwich, Connecticut USA, I still think it is USA here, Extreme Cold Weather Advisory:

Good evening. This is an important weather advisory for all Town of Greenwich residents. Today is Valentine's Day, February 14th, 2015.

The National Weather Service has issued a mix of wind, winter weather and wind chill advisories for various periods between now and Monday morning for areas in southern Fairfield County, including Greenwich.

Temperatures are predicted to drop well below freezing overnight tonight and remain only in the high teens all day tomorrow. Winds will steadily increase during the day tomorrow and Sunday afternoon and evening will be bitterly cold.

The overnight period tomorrow night into Monday morning will be even colder with gusty winds and dangerous wind chills. Temperatures Sunday night are predicted to be just below zero with wind chills of 30 below zero considered likely.

While it will snow on and off during the next 48 hours, accumulations in Greenwich are not predicted to be more than a few easily managed inches, however the bitter cold and gusty winds tomorrow afternoon and overnight into Monday morning will be truly dangerous for those outdoors without proper protection.

There is a small possibility that localized power outages could occur due to the wind. Eversource Energy (formerly Connecticut Light and Power) will have crews on standby to resolve any problems quickly.

Officials from the Town's Public Works Department and all three of Greenwich's Emergency Services Agencies will be monitoring this extreme cold weather event and the Town is fully prepared for any problems the bitter temperatures may bring.

The Greenwich Public Safety Complex lobby will remain open 24 hours a day for use as a warming center. Residents are encouraged during this period of extreme cold to remain indoors and avoid any prolonged exposure to the outdoors.

Routine weather related problems can be reported to the Police Department's non-emergency number at 203-622-8000 and, as always, any emergencies should be reported promptly by calling 9-1-1.

Please stay warm and stay safe.

Capt. Mark Kordick

When I was down in Cayo Hueso back during the winters of 1976 - 1977 and 1977-1978, there were a lot of long haired hippie types in cut off blue jeans with holes in them. They told me that if one did not watch oneself, one could be killed for $5, so I decided to maintain a low key presence. Back in February 1983, when I was last down there for a month of two, it was minus 26 degrees Fahrenheit in Manhattan, when my roommate with the State Department Connections asked me to move out, but it was busy in Key West, and since I did not recognize anyone that I knew, I had to stay with a few strangers or sleep on the beach, until I returned up north under Federal Protection of the Old Guard, whom did not approve of me roughing it down there, once it had become more affluent. I heard on Bloomberg News yesterday that the Hilton Hotel chain bought two more hotels in Key West besides owning the vintage Casa Marina Hotel. A lot of people prefer to not have a single retirement or winter home, and they prefer to move around with the seasons or economy or whatever motivates them, so they like having brief stays in comfortable places as opposed to the expense of maintaining a year round residence, which they might not use very much. Of course a lot of people live in the State of Florida, so they do not need to go to Key West to escape the winters, but plenty of them venture up north during their hot summers down south. A real Florida person never goes out in the daytime, but sits by the air conditioning all day, and ventures out during the cooler evenings. It all depends on what one is use to. CIO

However, when trying to do a Windows Complete PC backup, only the Dell Latitude E6400 laptop original install backup is recognized, and none of the other Complete PC backups are recognized. However, on the primary work computer, the two Complete PC backups for it on the Seagate external USB hard drive are recognized, and nothing else. Also on the primary work computer in the CMOS, I reset the MTU to 184, which recognizes its AMD Sempron 3000 CPU. I will test the Seagate 1.8 TB external USB hard drive on other computers at a later date, to if any of their backup are recognized. CIO

I then put in two tablespoons of extra virgin olive oil and a tablespoon of Smart Balance extra virgin olive oil spread in my seasoned omelet pan, and I heated it over medium high electric burner heat, and once the fat was hot, I added the egg mixture, and I lowered the heat to medium. Then once the egg mixture became a little bit solid underneath on the bottom, I mixed it up off the bottom with a large plastic cooking spoon several times over a few minutes, until I had soft scrambled eggs. I then put the hot pan on the dinner plate to warm it, and then I put the scrambled eggs on the warm dinner plate, with a toasted English muffin with olive oil, and I ate it all with a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale and a cup of coffee with splenda sweetener and milk. I finished configuring the first partition on the IBM ThinkCentre on the oak dining table. <888> 02/09/15 Monday 3:20 P.M. I did an Aomei backup of both partitions of the primary work computer to the Rosewill 1 TB external USB hard drive. While doing that I cat napped for a while. I ate an apple and 10 Rosemary and extra virgin olive oil Triscuit crackers. I chatted with a relative. When I was in Fort Lauderdale, Florida in the fall of 1976, I met an elderly lady I chatted with once, and she told me her name was Mrs. Triscuit, which I thought was sort of a strange name. Since on that first trip to Florida on my own back in the fall of 1976, I drove down in my 1966 Chevrolet blue 4 door Biscayne sedan with South Carolina license plates on my car, since I had worked the first half of the year in Greenville, South Carolina for Daniel Construction. Thus instead of appearing as a

"Snow Bird", with some recent Southern experience, I appeared to be just another Southern person in Florida, and even my Southern Accent started to come back. Alas, the Yankee money did not follow me down to Florida, so I went from 185 pounds to 125 pounds on that trip below the Mason Dixon Line. I guess I am better off up north, where I can keep busy with my computer network as opposed to bird watching or wave watching, or whatever one does, when one is stuck on the beach during a cold winter in Florida. I did meet a few other people in the same predicament as myself. I remember the headlines in the Fort Lauderdale Sun Sentinel were always about how much snow there was up in Buffalo, New York. There were a lot of yachts around Fort Lauderdale, but people did not appear to use them during the colder weather. Key West was quite a bit warmer than the mainland of Florida. Back then they were just introducing the heat pump into homes into Florida, so people could have both central air conditioning and heating. When I came north in mid April 1977, it was quite cold up north outside, but after spending the winter outside in Florida, I had a bit of tolerance to the cold. I am having a problem falling asleep. <888> 02/07/15 Saturday 8:15 P.M. A neighbor rang my door bell and wanted me to help install Norton Internet Security, and I told the neighbor, I would do it later. For dinner, I boiled a 16 ounce box of linguine for 13 minutes, and I strained it in a colander. While doing that I brought to a boil and simmered for about 25 minutes in a sauce pan with lid a 24 ounce jar of Prego garlic tomato sauce which I added a chopped medium Bermuda red onion, garlic powder, Old Bay Seasoning, celery salt, ground black pepper, Italian seasoning, and Frank's hot sauce. Toward the end of the time, I microwave a 24 ounce Mama Mancini cheese stuffed meatballs with tomato sauce. Once they were all done, I put half of the linguine on a dinner plate, along with four of the eight meatballs, and I mixed the meatball tomato sauce with the Prego sauce, and I put half of the sauce on the meatballs and linguine. I put the other half of the food in a flat large Rubbermaid container with lid in the refrigerator. I put grated Parmesan and Romano cheese on the dinner plate meal, and I ate it all with a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale. I chatted with a relative. I will now take a nap. CIO

I put the Y-splitter on the SIIG audio card on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower, so both the Logitech 2.1 speaker system and the Lenovo headset are plugged into it, instead of using the Dell motherboard audio for the Lenovo headset. That way one does not have to switch audio settings around.

<888> 02/06/15 Friday 2:05 P.M. I chatted with a relative. Not much happening out here in the frontier of New England. I had an idea a few years ago to make money in this area. We could let Canada annex New England, and then this area in Byram would be full of Duty Free shopping from all of the New Yorkers nearby. Another thing we could do, is make Greenwich a sovereign country like Monaco and make it a tax free investment area like "The City of London" in England, where people put their money safely. Since the residents of Greenwich pay over $3 billion a year in Federal and State taxes, it would seem we would get better services and money back from the larger governments that get the money, but I all I ever see is a lot of traffic and people from out of town trying to make more money off of us. Thus the poor residents of Greenwich bare the brunt of our neighbors whom are more opportunistic. CIO

Anybody here from Texas, Florida, or California in the old days, it is probably too late in one's lifestyle to return to the warmer lifestyles of your former climates. Once one becomes used to the routines of a colder climate, it is hard to adjust to a lifestyle in a warmer climate again. Also the people in the warmer climates generally do not like to see their former residents return, unless they have quite a bit of money or wampum, which is rarely the case after adjusting to a lifestyle up in the North Country. Much could be said for people trying to return back up north after finding out the hard core facts of southern living. I will now shut down the primary work computer. One can always call up their automobile insurance person and chat with them, if you do not believe me. They obviously have a vested interest in keeping one safe and off the road. Of course insurance money is not going to do one any good, if one is pushing up tulips so to speak. When I used to know the founder of General Motors Acceptance Corporation, he knew how dangerous driving can be, and he did not own a vehicle, and he preferred to push a Publix grocery store cart around Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and if he had to travel he took a dog better known as a Greyhound Bus. I am very cautious in my driving habits, and I wait for the roads to be cleared no matter how long it takes. Also for local pedestrians in this section of Byram, the sidewalks on West Putnam Avenue are not always plowed right away, since the snow from the roadway covers them deeply, so pedestrians have to risk their lives walking on the snowy roadway, which is too dangerous for common sense people. A neighbor who has had car trouble recently knocked on my door to tell me that Microsoft is working on a new Contact Program. He wanted a ride to work tomorrow morning, but I might not be awake, and I do not go out in this cold weather unless I absolutely have to, so I am not going to drive him. I chatted with a relative. Apparently www.costco.com sells chicken salad made with rotisserie chickens. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. <888> 02/04/15 Wednesday 7:40 A.M. Well not much happening out here in the Tundra of Greater Southwestern Connecticut. As a sign of the cold weather in this area, I saw a famous Norwegian at the A&P Fresh yesterday that none of the local people whom are from warmer climates working here recognized. He probably knows a few things that he is not telling us, while he smells the orchids, which certainly are not from Norway. However, since the famous Norwegian is in the transport business, more than likely he has taken off to some place else. From what I know about Norway which is not too much, is that they have a lot of their culture based on old folk lore which might not be relevant to this area. I did not noticed whether Norwegian salmon was any cheaper or not, but the last time I saw it, it was $8.99 a pound for filet of Atlantic salmon, but I think Norwegian salmon is about twice as expensive, and even more if it is smoked. Thus I learned, when I visited Oslo, Norway in the winter of 1983, and I did not eat any food for two weeks, that the Norwegian are not really that hospitable at home. I lived off Swedish Wasa Crips which were the cheapest thing that I could buy in Oslo. Possibly with the cheaper prices of oil, also the Norwegian and the Scottish oil tycoons are coming back down to earth in reality versus their long run at higher priced oil. I will now shut down the primary work computer. I will eat an old apple, and then I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 02/04/15 Wednesday 6:15 A.M. I chatted with Scotland Yard at 011442072301212, and I chatted briefly. They told me they are handling a lot of life and death situations in London, but it is currently not the weather that is a problem over there <http://www.weather.com/weather/tenday/l/London+United+Kingdom+UKXX0085:1:UK>. It is probably a lack of experience help in dealing with certain situations that the old time people whom are retired would know how to deal with. I guess with all of the people in London from warmer parts of the world, they might not be used to the British way of life which is quite frugal and simple. All I can figure out, if one were in a life or death situation in London, one might try to have a cup of tea and relax and think about it in a more calm perspective, which is why I prefer to stay at home and not travel at an older age. I ate 13 rosemary and olive oil Triscuit crackers with 1 inch by 1 inch by 3/16th inch thick slices Norwegian Jarlsberg cheese on them. In the old days in Greenwich, Connecticut, the rich people could afford to keep a lot of Norwegian help around to deal with the colder weather problems, but now that the Norwegians are so rich, they are no longer available for cold weather duty. When I paid my rent today at the Wells Fargo Bank on Havemayer Place to the Greenwich Housing Authority, the woman bank teller was from the island of Jamaica, which is suppose to be warmer than this area, but I have never been there, since when Michael Manley was Prime Minister, he confiscated all of the private property from the white people that once lived there. Thus nobody is interested in me, and they are just living off what little bits of money they have left and their past glories. The town motto of Greenwich, Connecticut is, "Frugality and Fortune". That means not to spend money like a drunken sailor. I do things based on my experience and not based on the local

Chamber of Commerce experience. Frequently a lot of the people around here are from other parts of the area or the world, so we don't share the same experiences. I can remember when the stock market collapsed in the fall of 1973, and stockbrokers were working as bus boys for $20 a day. In the recession of 1978, I remember a Saudi Arabian resident down in Key West that drove around in an old rusted out www.gmc.com Jimmy convertible with three other friends, but they did not have much money, so the Saudi hung around Mel Fisher's children at Louie's Patio windsurfing dock while Mel Fisher looked for the Treasure of the Atocha <http://www.melfisher.com/> . A lot of electronics like batteries do not work well in very cold weather and do not last as long, so one's mobile devices might not work if out in the cold too long. When I traveled around in the cold when younger, I found out the www.army.mil Cold Weather Studies Program was at www.dartmouth.com college. <888> 02/04/15 Wednesday 2:30 A.M. Actually I visited the <http://taftschool.org/> in the spring of 1977 for my ninth class reunion after having spent the winter in Key West and south Florida, so I might have been darkly tanned at that reunion, and there might be a photograph of me at that reunion. I recalled talking to an African American Federal Judge from Washington D.C. at that reunion who was in my class, and I also chatted with Senator Bob Taft who was a couple of classes before me. Maybe I was so darkly tanned, nobody recognized me. I was back living in Nantucket by that spring, so I might have paled out. I had visited Jim Eldert at the University of New Hampshire and the Seabrook demonstration and I also visited Exeter, New Hampshire and Dartmouth College and afterwards Williamsburg, Virginia. I had gone to the Science Fair at the Prudential Center in Boston at the time of the Boston Marathon. That is where I met the www.army.mil major that looked like Ronald Reagan recruiting for the army, and the www.harvard.edu student that looked like Bill Gates that lived west of Kenmore Square in Cambridge put me up for the night. I also spent a couple of weeks in Stowe, Vermont cleaning up the Sister

Kates bar after it had closed for the season. The Stowe Ski patrol have to endure temperatures of minus 40 degrees Fahrenheit on top of the mountain. I also recall visiting Portland, Maine, and traveling to the gate of Bowden college. After the Taft Reunion, I returned to Nantucket, but later that spring, I went down to the Greenwich Hospital to have a sebaceous cyst removed from my right forehead that was bulging, and it was removed by a Jamaican intern at the old Greenwich Hospital outpatient center. I then returned to Nantucket that same day in time for work, and I bumped my head on the ceiling of the Languedoc restaurant back steps ceiling which messed up the stitches, so the scar still shows. Later in the summer of 1977, I worked at the Gordon Folger Hotel, and there is a staff photo of me taken that summer. In the spring of 1978, I returned from Key West to Nantucket with a friend from Long Island that I met in Key West, and I resumed work in the various restaurants that I worked at. The Taft reunion and the out patient surgery might have been in the spring of 1978, but at the moment, I do not recall having left the island back then. CIO

<888> 02/04/15 Wednesday 1:45 A.M. When my United States passport and travel funds were stolen in August 1980, I was told a couple of years later by American Express that somebody was using my passport in Amsterdam in the Netherlands. I did visit Frankfurt, Germany in December 1980 with the new passport that I had gotten recently at the United States State Department at Rockefeller Center. The passport that was stolen I had gotten in August 1980 at the United States State Department at Stamford, Connecticut. From what I know about my own investigations into the matter, someone locally in this area was impersonating me in Europe, and the matter was covered up, either by the Europeans or someone here locally. Possibly the individual was a foreign national that never returned back to this country. I do know that Europeans keep a lot closer track on visitors than most visitors realize, so somebody out there in the wood work knows something, they are not telling us. If somebody were using my passport, they would have to have looked something like me back then, so possibly the individual still looks like me somewhere in the world and is still impersonating me. Not many pictures of me were taken in that period as I recall. There was a picture of me in the Key West Citizen sitting in the Monroe County Library back in the winter of 1978. The only other picture that was taken of me in that period was three years later in Kennebunkport, Maine <http://scott-mike.com/mike-scott-kennebunkport-maine-august-1983.jpg> . Thus since I have a Dutch, Scottish, English look, it could be somebody that used my passport and funds to flee the country. All I know is that I never got any feed back on the situation. I was told by the United States State Department that they have no way of tracking lost passports. At the time I was living with a United States State Department family, so possibly somebody with Federal Government connections used my identification for some other purpose. Since I am a relatively private individual with neighbors who have other contacts, it is still a mystery to me. At the time, I was about six feet tall and 135 pounds, and not tanned, since I was living up north, but I had been to Laguna Beach, California and Hawaii earlier that summer, so maybe I was a bit more tanned than I realized. Just like when I came off Nantucket in December 1983 shortly after that picture, and I visited Toronto, Ontario, Canada after visiting Fort Lauderdale, Florida and returning to Nantucket. CIO

During the winters of 1976 - 1977 and the winter of 1977 - 1978, when I was homeless on the beach in Fort Lauderdale and Key West, I ate peanut butter sandwiches and coffee and later that first winter sesame seed sandwiches and orange juice, and the second winter, when I knew somebody with a little bit of money, it was Cuban bread and cheese sandwiches and Cuban beans and Cuban rice and a glass of water. The third winter, when I stayed with a friends from the United States State Department and the www.airforce.mil in Daytona during the winter of 1978 - 1979, it was corn flakes and milk and twice a week a four ounce can of tomato paste shared with a 16 ounce box of spaghetti noodles at the Spirit of 1776 motel on Daytona Beach. During the spring break that year, they give away free boxes of four Marlboro cigarettes on the beach. I used to try fishing, but I never caught anything. Towards the end of the winter in 1979 in Daytona, we finally applied for an got about $40 in food stamps, and when we returned back up north in the old yellow 1971 Subaru from www.nantucket.net, we stopped by a relative's apartment at Putnam Green across the street from where I currently live, and I drove over to Bonjournos in Stamford, and I bought a seven pound prime rib of roast beef for about $20 in food stamps, but we left shortly there after for Nantucket I think, so I don't know if we

<888> 03/31/15 Tuesday 5:20 A.M. I got up at 5 P.M., and I picked up the mail. The order with tracking of https://tools.usps.com/go/TrackConfirmAction?qt_c_tLabels1=9400115901094080297931 on the order for 25ft Telephone Handset Receiver Cord Phone Curly Coil Cable 4P4C RJ22 - Black for $4.17 with free shipping arrived. I hooked it up to the new Panasonic telephone. Also I used a telephone line 2 splitter and a 25 foot telephone line, and I hooked up the OpiTalk device to the third line on the new Panasonic telephone line. I chatted with a relative, and the relative said the new Panasonic telephone is louder, and I can be heard better. I went back to bed. I woke up at 8 P.M.. I ate a bag of microwave popcorn, 8 Rosemary and extra virgin olive oil Triscuit crackers, a Kashi trail mix bar, and a 6 inch by 1.5 inch by .25 inch piece of Norwegian Jarlsberg cheese. I went back to bed until 4:45 A.M., when I just got up. CIO

<888> 03/30/15 Monday 3:45 P.M. I went downstairs, and I chatted with neighbors. I sat outside for a while. I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will eat a blueberry muffin. I will then go to bed. CIO

<888> 03/30/15 Monday 1:55 P.M. The new four line Panasonic is the 4100 model and not the 4300 model like I already have. The 4100 model does not have a phonebook, so I setup 15 speed dial buttons on it. It is all set up on the right side of the IBM ThinkCentre along side the Ethan Allen recliner. It works just fine. I put the manual underneath it. CIO

<888> 03/30/15 Monday 12:20 P.M. I woke up. On one of my last trips to Manhattan, I once met the owner of Baker Furniture in Manhattan, and he used to have a store just south of St. Mary's on Greenwich Avenue, but I have not noticed if it is still there or not. He told me his family used to own the Three Bricks in Nantucket and also the Hope Diamond. They also have this clearance web site <http://www.bakeroddsandends.com> . I think some of their furniture is made in Grand Rapids, Michigan where Gerry Ford was from which is about 20 miles from Holland, Michigan, where some of my relatives are from. CIO

<888> 03/30/15 Monday 7:45 A.M. It was snowing out a little bit a little while ago. I chatted with a friend. I moved the Buckingham Palace model from the right side of the IBM ThinkCentre along side the Ethan Allen recliner to in front of the Cambridge Sound bass woofer to the left below the living room LED TV. I will put the new Panasonic KX-TS4300 four line telephone where the Buckingham Palace model was. I also moved the two DeLonghi oil filled radiators from the living room to underneath the bedroom desk. Generally I do not install the air conditioners in the apartment until the first week of May, but with the colder weather this year, it might be later. CIO

I then went downtown to Greenwich Avenue. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I stopped by the Greenwich Cigar Store, and I played an Ace's High Scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. They are still remodeling the Pickwick Plaza at the top of Greenwich Avenue. I think it is owned by a Chicago real estate firm that bought it for over $400 million over ten years ago. I stopped by CVS, and I bought two 4 ounce Bumble Bee shrimp for $2.29 each for $4.58 total. I then bought a 16 roll 2X bundle of Charmin extra strong toilet paper for $9.99 and .63 tax for $10.62 total. I then finished my rigorous morning stroll without too many people around. I then went by the A&P Fresh, and I bought a four pack of blueberry muffins for $3.79 and bananas for .79 a pound for $2.43 for $6.22 total. I then bought a five pound bag of Idaho potatoes for $4.99 and a Bermuda red onion for $1.99 a pound for $1.17 for $6.16 total. I then returned back home to Chez de Vinci in the Buy Rum section of Greenwich. I put away my purchases. CIO

<888> 03/25/15 Wednesday 1:15 P.M. If any old guard American families worry about being disturbed in their summer vacation plans up north by curious people from the Eastern Hemisphere, they could always try vacationing in the Dutch American town of <http://www.holland.org/> which can be colder in the summer than back east. However, the surf on Lake Michigan can be as dangerous as the oceans. Also the Dutch in Holland, Michigan are very religious and they like to keep track of everything happening in their neighborhood, even when the summer tourists are there. For a more cosmopolitan lifestyle in the summer in Michigan, further north there is <http://www.mackinacisland.org> which does not allow motorized transportation except emergency vehicles. Of course, one might have to put up with the indignity of meeting people from the Midwest, which the last I knew was still part of the lower 48 states of America. Of course it is very dangerous driving out there with all of the traffic on the interstates, and one might have to put up with more primitive summer camps, but one probably would not be disturbed by too many foreign visitors with hostile intentions. Of course, we do know back east if the information we get on our local televisions and news media is accurate or not. CIO

I saw a SUV from Washington State, so maybe a www.microsoft.com guru drove out here. I then sat out further downtown. I chatted with a regular at www.starbucks.com . I drove down by the waterfront on Steamboat Road. The new condominium project on Steamboat Road in

Manero's old parking lot is proceeding along. No parking is allowed at the pier on Steamboat Road after sunset. The Indian Harbor Yacht Club seemed busy. I saw a charter bus driving around. The <http://www.thedelamar.com/> was busy. I then went by the Putnam Shell at 401 West Putnam Avenue. I bought $7 of self service V-Power premium gasoline with a dime a gallon off with my Stop and Shop card for $3.049 a gallon for 2.295 gallons at odometer reading of 110046 miles for 32.1 miles driven since Monday February 23, 2015 for 13.987 miles per gallon in mostly local traffic. I then returned home to Chez de Vinci. CIO

<888> 03/24/15 Tuesday 1:40 P.M. I ate a ham and Swiss cheese sandwich on toasted 15 grain bread with Hellmann's olive oil mayonnaise and a dill pickle slice and Utz wavy potato chips with a sliced tomatoe seasoned with ground black pepper, celery salt, garlic powder, Italian seasoning, grated parmesan and Romano cheese, balsamic vinegar, and extra virgin olive oil , and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. I will now take a nap. CIO

<888> 03/24/15 Tuesday 12:30 P.M. I threw out the garbage. I went by www.cvs.com on Greenwich Avenue. I tried to get credit for the defective gallon jug of CVS distilled water, but they would not offer credit, since it was four years old. I bought another one for $1.77. I then went further down Greenwich Avenue. I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various places. I stopped by Zen Stationary, and I bought an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I chatted with the window cleaner at Tonic and Herbs. I toured the Greenwich Train Station lobby. The two Italian restaurants just north of Richard's on either side of the street are out of business. I used the bathroom at the Senior and the Arts Center. I stopped by the <https://www.greenwichhardware.com/index.php> and CVS again. I sat out at the top of Greenwich Avenue. <http://www.boastusa.com/> seems to have moved one store further north to the top of Greenwich Avenue, where Mike's Putnam barber shop used to be. I stopped by the variety store. I stopped by <http://www.makerbot.com/> . I sat out for a while enjoying the day. I then went by the Stop and Shop. I bought two six packs of Stop and Shop English muffins for .99 each, a 9 ounce box of Triscuit balsamic vinegar and basil crackers for $2.50, a 42 ounce Quaker old fashioned oatmeal for $4.99, two 15 ounce Chef Boyardee ravioli for $1 each, a 12 ounce Perdue Italian breaded cutlets for $3.34, and bananas for .49 a pound for $1.32 for $16.13 total. I then returned home, and I put away my purchases. CIO

<888> 03/24/15 Tuesday 7:35 A.M. I will now shower and clean up. It is 24 degrees Fahrenheit outside right now
<http://forecast.weather.gov/MapClick.php?CityName=Greenwich&state=CT&site=OKX&lat=41.0613&lon=-73.6368#.VRE1rY7lzQA> . I will then go downtown to do a few errands. CIO

<888> 03/24/15 Tuesday 5:30 A.M. One interesting fact that I discovered, when I was down south, if one happens to come north around the first of May, and one happens to be in Atlanta, Georgia, one can take a <https://www.greyhound.com/> from Atlanta, Georgia to Ashville, North Carolina at sunrise, and the bus lets one off at the entrance to www.biltmore.com . One passes tens of thousands of acres of peach trees in bloom, so I guess the Vanderbilts like peaches. A lot of the streets in Atlanta, Georgia have the word "peach" in them. Maybe we should rename Doubling Road in Greenwich, Connecticut "Peach Tree Drive". CIO

<888> 03/24/15 Tuesday 5:10 A.M. I woke up at 3:30 A.M.. The gallon jug of CVS distilled water at the kitchen entrance had leaked out all of its distilled water, so it was a bit wet at that location. That is the second time those particular jugs have leaked. I will complain to CVS next time I visit. Possibly they will give me another one. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with Splenda sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 7:40 P.M. I did a telephone computer survey from the Philippines.

$83.29 with free shipping Panasonic KX-TS4100B 4-Line Integrated Phone System expandable up to 16 stations with Speakerphone

I bought it refurbished here for $29.99 with free shipping http://www.amazon.com/gp/offer-listing/B000JLA3XE/ref=dp_olp_refurbished?ie=UTF8&condition=refurbished . I will put it in the kitchen on the little black table just inside the kitchen on the left. It will be loud enough to hear over the kitchen stove fan, when I am smoking a cigarette. I have both telephone lines in the kitchen. I will now shut down the primary work computer. I will eat a blueberry muffin, and then I will go to bed. CIO <888> 03/23/15 Monday 6:25 P.M. I went outside, and I picked up the mail.

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 6:25 P.M. I chatted with a friend and a relative. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 5:15 P.M. For an older person like myself with arthritic hands, I order three Multi Opener Jars Bottle Rubber Lid Handy Twist Container Flexible good Tool SWB for $1.52 each with free shipping for $4.56 total, and for a relative, I ordered two more for $3.04 total. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 4:35 P.M. For more than one cup of coffee, I put the Braun 12 cup coffee maker back out on the counter to the left side of the www.ge.com stove.

For individuals with reciprocal guest privileges, the <http://www.greenwichcountryclub.org/> should be open for guests to stay out in the country in the wilds of mid country Greenwich, Connecticut. I doubt if the golf course is opened yet, but they have other hospitality features. The <http://www.johnsislandclub.org/> has guest privileges with them, for anyone coming up north early from Florida. Of course most of the "Old Guard" follow the Azalea Trail when coming north taking two to three months to move north slowly with the season arriving here around the first of June. The first sign of movement down south is the <http://www.masters.com/index.html> and then <https://www.middletonplace.org/> and then

I called the large group that move into this area from down South in the Summer, the Army of the South. I have frequently met relatives of "http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Robert E. Lee" in this area in the summer. A lot the people from down south have www.army.mil connections which is why they like to walk and play golf. Of course now if one is a United States Citizen and traveling into Canada, one needs a pass card of passport which can take two months to get. The information is available online at:

<http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/do-i-need.html> . If one is over 16 years old, one needs a U.S. Passport Card <http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/card.html> and <http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/first-time.html> . It says it takes 4 - 6 weeks for a passport card, and costs $55. <http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/first-time.html> .

Of course if one only goes as far north as Maine Kennebunkport, Maine , one does not need a passport. Of course since it is 31 degrees out at the moment, I think we pushing the summer season. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 3:40 P.M. I chatted with a relative. The new Krups one cup coffee maker has a water cap that is hard to open for old people with arthritic hands, so I put the Brew 1 one cup coffee maker back out next to it. Its coffee basket is in the spice rack behind it. I will now do some bottom fishing on the internet <http://scott-mike.com/bf.htm> . I really don't have any money to buy anything, but one never knows what cheap internet bargains might show up. Bottom fishing is like going to the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop <http://www.greenwichhospital.org/directions/greenwich-hospital-> auxiliary-thrift-shop in the old days. Of course, one might have to pay shipping for purchases off the internet, where if they happen to have it in the Greenwich Hospital Thrift shop, one does not pay shipping. Of course one needs a car to get there now. If one comes out from New York City to our local train station, it is about a mile west walk from the train station through the Italian neighborhood in Greenwich which can be interesting. The have a good pizza place near it <http://grecohellacucina.com/> which seems to use very good olive oil, if one knows olive oil. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 2:45 P.M. I threw out the garbage. I am just about ready to have a cup of www.lipton.com green tea with Ginseng and Splenda sweetener and America's Choice lemon juice. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 2:10 P.M. I ate 6 ounces of white cheddar Cheez-its. I woke up from my nap at 2 P.M.. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 9:45 A.M. I ate a 10.1 ounce Bertolli chicken Florentine Alfredo dinner with a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes ginger ale. I will now take a nap. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 9:00 A.M. I called up the Connecticut Department of Social Services SNAP Food Stamps program, and since they sent me the letter about my documentation for redetermination not being received, they have received it. Thus that is all taken care off. They had me on hold waiting for one hour and 20 minutes, so I listened to their music on my speaker phone, and I did other internet activity. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 7:25 A.M. On the FIC server, the Skype webcam does not work either. Since both the primary work computer and the FIC server have VIA 400 USB ports, there must be some problems with DirectX and the VIA 400 USB device drivers. I worked in setting up some www.skype.com settings using Windows 10 Technical Preview on the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower, which runs just great. Alas nobody ever communicates with me outside family members and a few friends, so I am obviously over connected in telecommunications from my viewpoint, but it keeps me busy. I setup a Skype number to call for long distance phone calls which one can do, and also I activated it on my two telephone numbers and my three cell phones. I guess from my viewpoint on a mostly night schedule, not too much ever happens in the world. I guess the writers in the daytime are the ones that seem to make things happen in the news media. Well with 13 desktop computers and five laptop computer and two tablets and three cell phones, I obviously have to work at maintaining them all. However, I do not use them all most of the time. Most of the media writers around here are trying to get the more affluent people in the local neighborhood to spend some money. Alas, if one has no product or service to sell, one is pretty much left on the fringes of society waiting to see what the next sales person tries to sell one. Before personal computers and the internet 25 years ago, I knew more people and I ate better, and I traveled more. However, as I got older personal computers and the internet fit into my current lifestyle. I guess some people still like sitting in airport lounges looking for signs of intelligence in the universe. I obviously have spent more than my share of time in our local www.greenwichlibrary.org , but the local gurus seem to have a different point of view as it pertains to our local politics, which since I do not pay any attention to our local politics, pretty much leave me out of touch with whatever the locals seem to think is going on in our small suburban community. Judging by the different patrons that I see at our local Starbucks many of whom use their free wireless, the locals like sitting around drinking coffee and ignoring each other. However, since they are out in the general public they must enjoy people watching or being watched. I guess with 25 million people in the New York City area, there will always be one or two curious visitors to our local downtown shopping area. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 3:40 A.M. I will now shower and clean up. In watching the BBC News on the television, they said there are shortages of corn flour and cooking oil in Venezuela, but I happen to know there are supposed to be ample supplies of both commodities in Illinois. Maybe Illinois could trade some Venezuela oil for corn flour and cooking oil. CIO

<888> 03/23/15 Monday 3:00 A.M. I chatted with a friend at 8 P.M.. I woke up at 1 A.M.. I did a Complete PC backup of the FIC server to the Toshiba SATA 1 TB drive in the Roswill external USB SATA hard drive holder. I will next do an Aomei backup to the same device. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 03/22/15 Sunday 2:55 P.M. I ate a bag of microwave popcorn. I will now shut down the work computers, and I will go to bed. CIO

I am now doing a Complete PC backup of the FIC server to the second internal hard drive. I will then shut it down.

I will now send out my weekly notes. CIO

<888> 03/22/15 Sunday 12:05 P.M. On the FIC server which I probably will not be using anymore, I installed the McAfee Security suite, and I am now installing the Windows updates. The Hostaway server is a lot faster. I ate a 16 ounce Marie Callender corn chowder chicken pot pie and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes ginger ale. CIO

<888> 03/22/15 Sunday 9:40 A.M. I went out, and I threw out the garbage. I went to the A&P Fresh. I bought a 59 ounce Tropicana orange juice with calcium for $3, two yams for $1.49 a pound for $2.83, a four pack of blueberry muffins for $3.99, a 10.1 ounce Bertolli chicken Alfredo dinner for $3, a 33 ounce bag of Eight O'Clock Columbian Peaks coffee beans for $8.99, a 12 pack box of Orville Rickenbacher microwave popcorn with butter for $4, two 20 count boxes of Bigelow green tea with lemon for $2.50 each, four 6 packs of Thomas' English muffins for $2.50 each six pack and 20 cent can return for $40.61 total. I then went by the central Greenwich Post Office, and I mailed my lease agreement to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I then went by CVS, and I bought two 7 ounce boxes of white cheddar Cheez-its for $2 each for $4. I then bought two 8.75 ounce CVS deluxe mixed nuts without peanuts lightly salted for $3.49 each, less a $1 with the previous purchase bonus bucks coupon for $5.98 total. Greenwich Avenue is posted with "no parking" signs for the St. Patrick's Day parade which begins at 2 P.M. this afternoon. I next drove further downtown, and I sat out for a while. I said "Go Morning" to a regular at Starbucks. I stopped by Zen Stationary, and I played an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I then returned home, and I put away my purchases. CIO

<888> 03/22/15 Sunday 6:35 A.M. I signed my Greenwich Housing Authority lease documents, and I have them ready to mail, when I go out in a little while this morning. I will now shower and clean up. I will then go out and do errands. CIO

<888> 03/22/15 Sunday 5:45 A.M. I woke up at 4 A.M.. I chatted with a friend. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 10:40 P.M. I chatted with Optimum about my tech problem. Someone was still trying to upload files to the FIC server. I also could not log on to www.optimum.net with the FIC server to download the McAfee security program. I redirected my server address <http://mikelouiscott.com/> to my remote Hostaway server, and I shut down the FIC server. I chatted with a relative and two security people. They gave me a web address <http://ic3.gov/> to contact. I chatted with a relative. I chatted with Optimum Web Hosting at 1-800-504-5710, and they told me, since I hosted the web server at home, they would not be able to know what was causing the problem. I am extremely tired, so I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will eat a blueberry muffin, and then I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 6:00 P.M. I put the four new cordless telephone batteries in the four cordless phones that I still use. The battery on the AT&T cordless 2.4 GHz phone in the bedroom still has to charge up. The other batteries were charged. In the mail, I also got my new lease contract from the Greenwich Housing Authority that I have to sign and return to them. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 5:25 P.M. I went downstairs twice, and I chatted with a neighbor and a neighbor's relative. I picked up the mail. <888> 03/21/15 Saturday 4:00 P.M. I chatted with a relative. On my home FIC server, I think I found why it was so slow to work. I keep the server folder on a separate hard drive which I upload a few files to a week. I found out somehow there were hundreds of new folders since mid October 2014 up until today with 20 gigabytes of html files 23 to 26 Kbytes long. It took a while to delete them all. I also found out from Optimum Web Hosting that in my DNS record, someone had entered a second IP address, so half my web traffic was going to another web address. I opened one of the html files, and it was in an Asian language that I do not read. Also some web sites do not work on the server, so I guess it has been hacked again for the umpteenth time, so after the files are cleaned out my www.ccleaner.com, which is taking a while for over a half million files, I will restore the server backup. I can not figure out with all of the servers in the world, why anyone would even bother my simple home server, unless it is one really cheap SOB from some remote part of the planet. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 12:55 P.M. I woke up at 12:30 P.M.. I went outside, and I fixed the rear window windshield wiper on the Volvo wagon. It turned out to be a warmer day. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 9:50 A.M. I ate a 13 ounce Marie Callender orange chicken dinner with a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. I will now take a nap. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 9:15 A.M. I made 239 Premier Lights 100 MM filter Peter Stokkebye Turkish pipe tobacco cigarettes while watching series 3 episode 6 and 7 of "Jeeves and Wooster". CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 5:45 A.M. I will now make cigarettes. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 4:30 A.M. I cleaned five inches of snow off the Volvo wagon. On the rear windshield wiper blade, the end rubber part of the blade came out of its twin metal strips, so I have to reattach that in the daytime, when I can see better. I sat outside for a while. I picked up the mail. I received a letter from the Connecticut Department of Social Services Scanning Center in Manchester, Connecticut that they have not received my Food Stamp EBT SNAP redetermination application form due by March 5, 2015 which I mailed in the mail room downstairs on Sunday February 22, 2015. This is the second time in about five years, they have not received it, so there is obviously something wrong with the mail system or their processing system. I will call them up on a week day between 7:30 A.M. and 4 P.M. at 1-855-626-6632 to have them send another form. I have to have the form submitted by April 20,2015. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 03/21/15 Saturday 3:05 A.M. I woke up at 1:30 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 03/20/15 Friday 3:40 P.M. I think the Global Warming Crowd are out to lunch, if they have been in this part of the country recently.

I chatted with an associate. I will now shut down the primary work computers. I will eat a blueberry muffin, and then I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 03/20/15 Friday 2:35 P.M. I chatted with a relative. It started snowing about 2 P.M.. Since the snow storm was eight hour late in arriving that means it might be a slow moving front, ergo a slow moving front might mean more snow tha forecast because it will linger over this area longer dropping more snow. I am still installing updates on the IBM ThinkCentre along side the Ethan Allen recliner. CIO

<888> 03/20/15 Friday 1:05 P.M. I am installing the Logitech C270 webcam software on both partitions on the IBM ThinkCentre along side the Ethan Allen recliner. I am also installing the Windows Updates. I have never used the www.apple.com product except my first personal computer, the Apple IIE, but I know the Apple product is much more expensive to buy versus my home network of computers <http://scott-mike.com/computer.htm> . I treat the Microsoft Personal Computers like they are church office computers and not high security types of computers that a better funded group of individuals might use. Still it takes all of my time with little reward, but over all of these years, I have learned a bit about the technology for better or worse for what it is worth. In the old days, I used to have a lot of people hanging out around me from the Royal Canadian Air Force base outside of Toronto near York University where the Scott Library is located, but one of the first people I had contact with on the internet over 20 years ago told me they all returned to Canada, because too many of their people were being killed working this far down south. I think the individual was from around Calgary. You know those big tall dark haired men with beards. I once chatted with somebody from Whistler Canada who told me about the Crown Princess of Sweden that I had just chatted with. I also have kept in touch with a French Canadian Indian whose family have property on the Vermont U.S.A. side and the Quebec Canada side of the border, so more than likely since the individual is not too swift in English, he might chat a bit of French Canadian. A lot of the Electric Company employees in this area seem to be French Canadian. The individual who was from Vermont told me his grandfather worked for Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Plant and his mother worked for the IBM Clean rooms in Burlington, Vermont, where they used to make the 386 processor. Outside of that most of the local www.ibm.com people in this area ignore me, since they expect to be paid a lot of money for chatting. Thus I have pretty much learned to do things simply and inexpensively on my own on my very limited budget. CIO

<888> 03/20/15 Friday 11:45 A.M. I chatted with neighbors. The <http://www.schindler.com/us/internet/en/home.html> elevator people are back here again working on the new Swiss freight elevator. I guess they are anticipating us moving a lot of freight in this building in the near future. If one wants to see a really old historical building in disrepair in this town, one should tour the Board of Education building across the street from the Greenwich Senior Center. I suppose there are a lot of other old run down facilities in this neck of the woods. About 40 years ago, when I checked out the U.S. Customs office at Westchester County airport, there were only three things in it. A standard issue metal government desk, metal chair, and old black metal dial telephone. Knowing the United States government, they still have not upgraded it in the last forty years. It takes time to get one's own politician elected, and then for that politician to pass some sort of expenditure bill, and then to set up some sort of government office to administer the bill, and then to figure out how to carry out the provisions of the bill, by which time the politician is no longer around, and some other politician wants to do things differently based on their constituency. I threw out a old Schweppes Ginger Ale carton. One of my recent contacts with Schweppes Ginger Ale was about 25 years ago, when I bought my first personal computer. Over at the Chinese computer store at High Ridge and Long Ridge road in Stamford near Radio Shack, I met Roger Schulz who was a software engineer for Schweppes. He told me he was a personal friend of Nancy Rockefeller, and since Roger easily weighed over 500 pounds, I figured somebody could afford to feed him. I once drove over to Rockland County with him in my old www.ford.com Escort that never started in the winter, and we visited the Egghead Software store clearance center. The last time I recall being in Rockland County was when I bought my 22 inch Acer LCD monitor at www.bestbuy.com there, when it was on sale for $140 back in July 2007. I recall I might have visited once more shortly there after, and I recall there was a railroad salvage store there in one of the strip mall complexes. I noticed on my Volvo Station wagon, there were beech tree seeds blocking the drain plugs underneath the front windshield wipers, so I cleared them out. One of my primary sources of information in the old days before the internet, when the locals used to gossip on the waterfront was the Maytag repairman from Partridge and Rockwell who did not live in

Greenwich anymore but Danbury. He seemed to know a lot of the old timers around town who could not be bothered with high technology. Of course at the time the younger kids were also around the waterfront with some sort of software company called the Beagle Brothers Software Company that made shareware disks for floppy disk personal computers that they sold at the various Chinese computer stores in the area. Of course we have come a long way since then, but alas we still do not know anymore than we did before. CIO

I noticed the last time I was in the A&P Fresh that three rib eye steaks now cost over $40, so beef has gotten more expensive in this neck of the woods. I like the beach tree along the sidewalk of the Greenwich Common on Greenwich Avenue, there used to be another one at the other end of the common that was knocked down over ten years ago by a storm. I think if one were rich and had a view to the future, one could plant a long straight formal driveway lined with similar beech trees

The British have a major food presence in our local grocery stores. I think <http://www.twiningusa.com/> , <http://www.leaperrins.com/> , and <http://www.walkersshortbread.com/uk/> all have the Royal Warrant. Of course if one visited some of many liquor stores such as <https://www.varmax.com/> , one would see many British distilled products available for sale. Locally nearby by we also have a <http://used.astonmartin.com/> dealer, and about 10 miles east of us in Darien, there is <http://www.landroverdarien.com/> and <http://www.minifairfieldcounty.com/> and 20 miles east of us, there is <https://www.virginamerica.com/> in Norwalk, and on Greenwich Avenue, there is also <http://www.zara.com/us/> and <http://www.jackwills.com/> in New Canaan, and about 10 miles west of us, there is <http://www.jaguarlarchmont.com/> . <888> 03/20/15 Friday 2:25 A.M. I woke up at 11:30 P.M.. On the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower, I did a Complete PC backup to the Toshiba SATA drive in the Rosewill external USB drive holder. I then did an Aomei backup to the same drive. I am now doing a Complete PC backup of both partitions on the Lenovo ThinkCentre to the right of the FIC server to the same external drive. I will then do a Aomei backup of the same computer to the same external hard drive. I put a new Lysol disinfectant hand cleaner refill in the electric dispenser on the bathroom sink. I tried installing Windows 10 Technical Preview updates on the Dell Latitude E6400 laptop with no USB devices attached, but none would install. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

One enters the product key from the Settings page of Windows 10 Technical Preview. The Dell Latitude E6400 laptop must be slower, since the upgrade is only 30% complete. I also found out that by making the background page light on the desktop, one can see the slider bar better on the apps popup. They should make the slider bar red or orange, so one can more easily see it. CIO

<888> 03/19/15 Thursday 12:50 P.M. I have the Windows 10 Technical Preview Update 10041 installed on the first partitions of both Lenovo ThinkCentres in the living room. For some reason it would not install on the second partition on the Asus Netbook. I switched the Dell 20 inch monitor with the line on the display on the Lenovo ThinkCentre to the right of the FIC server back into the bedroom on the IBM ThinkCentre. I moved the identical good monitor from there in its place on the Lenovo ThinkCentre to the right of the FIC server in the living room. I took the new Logitech C270 webcam off the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower, and I moved it to the Dell Dimension E6400 laptop. I don't have caller ID, so all I can do is possibly press *69, and see if I can get their telephone number to file a complaint, but I don't know how to do that. Anyway the Panasonic headset works just fine, but it only has a short 4.5 foot long very thin cable, so one has to be very careful, when using it. CIO

<888> 03/14/15 Saturday 9:50 P.M. I was awoken again by the computer person from India trying to fix my computer again. I told them not to bother me, but they keep bothering me. I woke up at 7:30 P.M.. I chatted with a friend and two relatives. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with equal sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 03/14/15 Saturday 11:55 A.M. I ate a red velvet muffin which is similar to a German semi chocolate cake muffin, but without the coconut frosting. I chatted with a relative going out to breakfast. The reason there is nothing going on in oceana is that the powers that be do not pay writers enough to see what is going on in their environment. More than likely with billions of pages of content on the internet, people are fed up with the literary world version of home movies. I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 03/14/15 Saturday 11:05 A.M. I chatted with a local walker. I ate a bowl of the apple and pineapple mixture. <888> 03/14/15 Saturday 1:30 A.M. I ate a ham and American cheese sandwich on toasted 15 grain bread with Hellmann's olive oil mayonnaise and a dill pickle slice and Lays low salt potato chips, and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. CIO

<888> 03/13/15 Friday 11:40 P.M. I moved the three old packages of hot dogs off the shelf of the freezer door into the main part of the freezer, and I put in two white and one robins egg blue plastic ice trays with water on the lower shelf of the freezer door, so we will once again have ice available in my New York City Metropolitan Area Pied A Terre apartment in case it ever gets warm here, and somebody wants ice in their beverage refreshment on a hot summer's day. Although we have had a long cold winter, it has been my experience here that sooner or later it gets hot in the summer, so it does not hurt to be prepared. One could also use my new Oster blender with ice to make slushies or some other refreshing beverage. I think in Florida, they call them slurpies, particularly around the 7-11 stores. I also found another one inch thick slice of frozen uncooked prime rib off beef on my freezer door, that I think is about two years old. The young fellow from India that keeps calling me up from Jupiter, Florida trying to fix my computer called up again this evening, and I tried to explain to him why I don't need him to fix my computer, if that is what he actually does. CIO

<888> 03/13/15 Friday 11:05 P.M. <888> 03/13/15 Friday 9:40 A.M. I broke three extra large A&P eggs in a mixing bowl, and I added two tablespoons of milk and a tablespoon of extra virgin olive oil and two tablespoons of grated parmesan and Romano cheese and two tablespoons of bacon bits, and I seasoned it with garlic powder, ground black pepper, celery salt and Italian spices, and I whisked it all together. I put my seasoned 8 inch omelet pan on a medium heat electric burner, and I added two tablespoons of extra virgin olive oil, and once the olive oil was hot, I added the egg mixture. Once the egg mixture was thick enough on the bottom to flip, I flipped it very carefully, and I added three deli slices of Danish ham and two slices of white American cheese, and I fold one side over the other and put it on a dinner plate, with a toasted bagel thin with extra virgin olive oil on it. I ate it with a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale. I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 03/12/15 Thursday 11:25 P.M. I chatted with a relative. I threw out the garbage. I went out into the wilderness of greater southwestern Connecticut. I went by the A&P Fresh. I bought a large package of reduced produce tomatoes for $3.44, a package of six reduced produce apples for $1.64, bananas for .79 a pound for $2.67, two 10.1 ounce Bertolli chicken Florentine meals for $3 each, a four pack of blueberry muffins for $3.99, two .95 ounce bags of Utz wavy potato chips for $3 each, and 50 cents can return for $22.24 total. I then went to the Stop and Shop across the street. I chatted with a local computer person that is having system problems. I told him the most common computer problem is a hard drive cable problem, which the individual did not know. I bought a large chunk of Norwegian Jarlsberg cheese for $6.99 a pound for $11.18, a 16 ounce package of Stop and Shop deli sliced Swiss cheese for $5.49, four 16 ounce Marie Callender corn chowder chicken pot pies for $2.50 each, two quart jars of Vlassic kosher dill spears for $2 each, a 42 ounce Quaker old fashioned oatmeal for $4.99, a 9 ounce balsamic vinegar and basil Triscuits for $3, a 9 ounce rosemary and extra virgin olive oil Triscuits for $3, three 15 ounce Chef Boyardee ravioli for $1 each, a quart of Stop and Shop lemon juice for $2.39, a one liter bottle of reduced produce Listerine Total Care for $3.24, a 9 ounce tub of Stop and Shop deli sliced smoked ham for $2.99, a 9 ounce tub of Stop and Shop deli sliced smoked honey turkey for $2.99, two one pound bags of baby carrots for $1.66 each, and four sweet potatoes for .99 a pound for $3.61 for $63.20 total. I then returned home. I carried up my groceries, and I put them away. Now I don't have to go out on Friday the 13th, and one probably should not go out on March 15 which is the Ides of March. CIO

<888> 03/12/15 Thursday 6:40 A.M. In the bedroom, I installed the Ricoh laser printer on the front lower USB port of the Dell Dimension 4600i computer. On the Abit computer, the Microsoft Wireless 800 keyboard and mouse were not working properly, so I removed them and put them in a white plastic garbage bag on the right side of the desk. The wireless senders are scotch taped to the bottom of the keyboard. It probably works, but not on the Abit setup. I put a generic USB mouse and a generic USB keyboard on the front USB ports of the Abit computer. I used a USB extender, and I installed the Ricoh laser printer on the Abit computer, and then I installed the Windows updates. Thus to use the Ricoh laser printer in the bedroom, one can easily move the USB cable to any of the three computers. I left it plugged into the IBM ThinkCentre. Basically as far as I know for now, I have done pretty much everything I can do on my current computer network setup. When I get the 1 TB Toshiba SATA drive, I will use the Rosewill SATA drive USB external holder to make Aomei backups of most of the systems, since the Windows Complete PC Backup restores are not always recognized. When any of my computers get messed up for any odd reason, I don't try to fix them, I just restore backups of new configurations. I save any data and other files that might have changed to other drives. CIO

<888> 03/11/15 Wednesday 1:05 A.M. I setup the Dell 4600i tower computer on the right side of the bedroom desk where it was before. I have a Rosewill switch power strip to turn on the computer and monitor. The front switch turns on the CPU, the second switch back turns on the Eizo monitor. The third switch back turns on the laser printer that can be plugged into any of three computers at that locations on their front USB ports. All three computers are also connected to the Lexmark E238 laser printer in the living room through the network. I connected a generic Logitech USB web cam to it along with a wired PS/2 keyboard and a wired USB mouse. I have a generic headset connected to its audio card. I did not use a USB keyboard, because the key strokes on a USB keyboard were too rapid causing errors. The Dell 4600i has both Windows XP Professional and OpenSuse on a dual boot configuration. I connected the center IBM ThinkCentre to the 20 inch Dell monitor on top of it. On the IBM ThinkCentre I had the audio plugged into the wrong sound card jack. The Lenovo USB speakers now work on it and I used a Y-splitter to also connect the Logitech headset to the audio card. I am now installing the Windows Updates on it. I will now install the TrendNet USB LAN that I took off the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower on the

IBM ThinkCentre on the oak dining table in the living room. Mickey Mouse computer maintenance does take a bit of time. CIO

<888> 03/10/15 Tuesday 7:30 P.M. I had two telephone calls of people trying to seed me a fax. A local computer person called me up, and I called him back. He had the Windows Update virus, and we figured out he should use a McAfee or Norton Internet Security CD to scan the computer to remove the virus. I had a computer person from India call me up again, and he was very insistent about trying to fix my computer which has no problems. At 6:30 P.M., a neighbor rang my wireless door bell, and he wanted me to help him with a cell phone problem. I was tired, so I could not help. Thus I am awake after a lot of interruptions. CIO

<888> 03/10/15 Tuesday 8:45 A.M. I solved the Skype problem in the primary computer work area by a very complicated method. I felt sorry for my poor step child Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower in the far corner of the bedroom on the bedroom desk. I disassembled its setup, and I moved it to the primary work computer area placed in between the two monitors connected to the Hannspree 23 inch touch screen monitor. I also connected it up to the Logitech 7.1 speaker system using the 2.1 speaker system from the bedroom setup on the primary work computer. I also connected it up to the Brother Laser printer on top of the FIC server. Both computers in the setup seem to work just fine. I have the two different wireless mice to the left side of my work seat, and of course I have to shift around the two different wireless keyboards. I guess I will setup the old Dell 4600i computer backup on the far right side of the bedroom desk, when I have time maybe, after I sleep today. I put in a switch power strip connected to the center monitor switch on the control panel of the primary work area, and the front two switches turn on the Dell Optiplex 740 and its monitor. The third switch back turns on the primary work computer speaker system. Of course the power strip has to be turned on for them to work. Thus Skype with all of its glory is now available in the primary work computer area. The Dell Optiplex has the Windows 10 Enterprise 64 bit technical preview on it. I also hook up the good Microsoft LifeChat LX 3000 USB headset to it and the Lenovo wireless headset W770 to it along with the good Lenovo wired headset. I also have the good Logitech QuickCam s5500 hooked up to it. I think my older Logitech webcam is better, but I could try the two new webcams, when I have the time. They should work just fine. The Logitech webcams have facial recognition and motion detection. The new Microsoft web cam is high definition, but so is the current Logitech webcam. Once the beta of Windows 10 Technical Preview expires, I have a spare new copy of Windows 8 that I could put on it and upgrade it to Windows 10, but we have a while to do that yet. CIO

<888> 03/10/15 Tuesday 5:00 A.M. I ate 4.5 Perdue chicken tenders or 5.6 ounces, steamed baby carrots and a microwaved sweet potato with Smart Balance spread and extra virgin olive oil on the vegetables and a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale and a cup of Lipton green tea with ginseng with Spenda sweetener and America's Choice lemon juice. CIO

<888> 03/10/15 Tuesday 4:15 A.M. On the primary work computer with the Logitech C270 webcam attached, I found a registry fix that supposedly would fix it, but although the computer would boot with it attached, in the device manager it gave a error 19 that it could not start as well as the other web cams that I tried. I found this that looked interesting http://www.nirsoft.net/utls/usb_devices_view.html to try to remove old USB devices, but the webcams kept giving an error 19 start problem. I then did a system restore to yesterday, so the old Logitech webcam now works, but not with Skype. I could try to remove the old USB devices again, to see without the registry fix if DirectX would recognize my webcams, so they work in Skype. CIO

<888> 03/10/15 Tuesday 12:20 A.M. I fiddled with some other webcams on the primary work computer. Whatever keeps the primary computer from booting with the Logitech C270 webcam attached, is what is probably causing my Skype Video problem. I do not feel like restoring the backup from July 2014 to see if it worked then. Also that would take two hours, and if it did not work, I would have to restore the backup from early February 2015 which would take another hour. Since I never use Skype, it is a minor technical annoyance that I have not been able to trouble shoot.

I did come up with this Facebook Video conferencing, but I have no one to test it with, although I installed it.

<888> 03/09/15 Monday 7:50 P.M. I woke up at 7 P.M.. I chatted with a neighbor. I picked up the mail. The order with tracking of https://www.fedex.com/apps/fedextrack/?tracknumbers=9261299998620277624257&cntry_code=us on the order for 3XL Big in Crimson Plaid <http://www.kingsizedirect.com/large-size/Double-Brushed-Plaid-Flannel-Shirt.aspx?PflId=447855&DeptId=24528&ProductTypeId=1&prefine=Clothing%20Size,1|Size%20Type,1&ppos=13&SplT=1&StyleNo=1452> for $11.24 and in crimson 3XL big <http://www.kingsizedirect.com/large-size/Double-Brushed-Solid-Flannel-Shirt.aspx?PflId=154429&DeptId=24528&ProductTypeId=1&PurchaseType=J&pref=npC&rec=Certona> for $11.24 and also in Winter Blue for $11.24 and free shipping with coupon code "KS27238" on over $25 order for $33.72 total arrived. They fit me just fine. However, the flannel is not too heavy, but they are good quality shirts. I also got a post card from Puertorico, Gran Canaria from a Danish internet pen pal. CIO

<888> 03/09/15 Monday 10:20 A.M. I tried testing video messaging on the primary work computer with www.camfrog.com, but it would not work either. I ate 15 balsalmic vinegar and basil Triscuits. I tried copying DirectX files from one of the other Windows 7 computer and also a Windows 10 Technical Preview computer to the

C:\Windows\system32 directory on the primary work computer, but that did not enable the webcam in DirectX 11. I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 03/09/15 Monday 5:40 A.M. I took a 15 ounce can of Chef Boyardee lasagna, and I put it in a plastic microwave proof pot with lid, and I seasoned it with garlic powder, celery salt, ground black pepper, oregano, and Frank's hot sauce, and I heated it in the microwave oven on 60% power for 4 minutes. I then put it in a soup bowl, and I put grated parmesan and Romano cheese on it, and I ate it with a 12 ounce glass of Canada Dry Ginger Ale and a bowl of the apple and pineapple mixture. CIO

<888> 03/09/15 Monday 5:00 A.M. I tried booting the primary work computer in Vista, but DirectX 11 still does not recognize a webcam. I have USB 2.0 ports. I tried disabling USB 2.0 in the CMOS, but that still did not make a difference. At this point with all of the computers I have configured, I am not sure if a webcam ever worked with Skype on the primary work computer or not, since I never ever tried to use it. It obviously works on all of the other computers. CIO

<888> 03/09/15 Monday 3:25 A.M. I tried to figure out what the webcam with Skype problem is on the primary work computer. All I can figure out is that when I run "DXDIAG" with any of various web cams attached, the DirectX 11 does not recognize any of the webcams. Thus they do not show up in Skype. I can not find a fix for it anywhere on the internet, except to do a reinstall. I could try doing a System Restore to say last July 2014, but I would lose my Symantec programs and have to reinstall them, and I am not sure if they would be considered the same or another copy. I ate a red velvet muffin. I moved the Microsoft LifeCam HD-3000 business webcam from the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower in the bedroom to the IBM ThinkCentre along side the Ethan Allen recliner and installed it on both partitions. I moved the High Definition Logitech webcam from there to the Dell Optiplex 740 mini tower in the bedroom. I ran the PC Cleaner Pro utility on the primary computer. CIO

<888> 03/07/15 Saturday 11:55 P.M. I chatted with a relative earlier. I installed the web cams on the webcams that I moved around in the living room and also their Windows Updates. It said on Bloomberg News yesterday that up until 20 years ago, the Ukraine had the third largest stockpile of nuclear weapons, so I hope there are not any rouge nuclear weapons around. From the old days, when we lived in fear underneath the nuclear umbrella, I thought a good place to hide out from mass extinction in America might be to walk around in the 40 miles of underground streets in

Toronto or Montreal. Alas one would have to wait 4 to 6 weeks for a passport to go there, so that probably is not an option. The best place I know to hide out in the Northeast would be the place mentioned in this book

Alas, nobody seems to be interested in my personal computer efforts for the last 25 years, so I guess people are doing something else somewhere else in the world. They probably still don't trust white European males living in the Western Hemisphere for hundreds of years. I am trying to figure out what we are doing here too. The food and the weather is pretty much the same as over there, but we think we are a bit more modern from what we watch going on over there. However, I have been over there, and it is really not that much more modern from what I could tell. CIO

<888> 03/04/15 Wednesday 12:20 A.M. If one looks at <http://scott-mike.com/computer.htm> . I have five X86 Pentium 4 IBM ThinkCentres that I have used for 32 bit beta testing in the past. I also have them configured when not beta testing with OEM Windows 7. I have them backed up on their original configurations with Windows 7 Complete PC backup to the smaller Seagate and Western Digital USB external hard drives and other older external USB hard drives which restores do work. However, the latest backups of them to the Seagate 2 TB and the Rosewill 1 TB external USB hard drivers are not recognized by the Windows 7 DVD restore process, although the two external USB hard drives are, once one changes the BIOS setting to slow boot from fast boot and Plug and Play Operating System and presses F12 to see if the external USB device is recognized. The backups are recognized with the Windows 8 and Windows 10 DVDs, but one can not use them to restore a Windows 7 backup. When I have time, I have to delete the unrecognized backups to free up space on the drives and make Aomei backups of the current state of the IBM ThinkCentres. The Aomei backups are recognized. I did not know about this problem until recently. Thus in deleting the unrecognized backups, I will free up external hard drive space, so I don't think I need to buy another external hard drive to use. I try to keep two working backups of each of my 18 systems original installs and one or two backups of their current state, which uses up a lot of external hard drive space on backing up relatively simple systems. I also keep backups of a lot software and operating system downloads including some betas which I probably have deleted by now, although I have lots of CD and DVD copies of many earlier betas of various operating systems including Microsoft's since Vista. I did not beta test Windows 98, although I did use it. One of these days, I should try to sort out all of the various CDs and DVDs, but I really do not have room or shelf space to organize them better.

Now that I have nothing to do in the daytime, I probably will get back on a night schedule which I have done for many moons in this neck of the woods including the nearby Dutch trading post on the Hudson River. I chatted with a local Italian resident in the grocery store today, and I told the resident that the Italian olive oil here does not taste like the olive oil in Italy, but the A&P used to carry Goya Spanish olive oil which tasted like real European olive oil, but it only came in inexpensive small 12 ounce bottles. Since there are not many Hispanic individuals around here anymore from what I can tell, I don't see the Goya product line in our local food stores like I used to see. I know they sell a large variety of beans. Also this winter, CVS has not had any Campbell's Chili, so I guess since beef as gotten so expensive, they can not discount it on sale. CIO

<888> 03/03/15 Tuesday 7:55 P.M. I chatted with a relative. On my first trip to Europa in the winter of 1972, I bought a vintage Swiss Army backpack for $15 in the Florence, Italy flea market by the Medici boar in downtown Florence, Italy. It was similar to these <http://www.ebay.com/sch/i.html?from=R40&ghostText=&sacat=0&nkw=vintage+swiss+army+backpack&sop=15>, but it had a metal frame. I think it was most like this one http://www.ebay.com/itm/Antique-Canvas-Leather-Metal-Swiss-Army-Packpack-Preppers-Backpack-Salt-Pepper-/161619217261?pt=LH_DefaultDomain_0&hash=item25a1418b6d. You can buy a new version of the vintage version here http://www.ebay.com/itm/American-Eagle-Outfitters-Green-Cotton-Canvas-Leather-Backpack-Swiss-Army-NEW-/131442968305?pt=LH_DefaultDomain_0&hash=item1e9a9c86f1. I have a fairly new red and black Swiss Army back pack that I use to carry my large load of vitamins, when I travel; but that is about all I use it for. It is similar to this one http://www.amazon.com/SwissGear-Travel-Gear-ScanSmart-Backpack/dp/B007R6JPC4/ref=sr_1_2/183-2676665-3444641?ie=UTF8&qid=1425429477&sr=8-2&keywords=backpacks+swiss+army. Thus when I traveled out of www.lfc.edu, where I went to college from 1968 to 1972, I appeared as a Swiss traveler, when I traveled through southern Europe and Turkey. I even drove a red and white German Opel car in Greece and Turkey. I have five years of high school French, so I can get by when I am in Europe and Switzerland. Of course the internet also started in Geneva, Switzerland. When I was on a train from Grenoble, France to Barcelona, I even met a 40 year old Swiss Organic Chemist that had three PhDs in Organic Chemistry. He told me he had 22 wives around the world, and he was spending most of his fortune visiting his various wives all of whom had children by him. He could afford it being a successful chemist for Swiss Pharmaceutical Companies. He even told me to take a Swiss pill called "Bustaid" which contained vitamins, caffeine, methamphetamine, and Phenobarbital, when traveling to stay awake on trains. It was sort of like a "Truth Pill". I used it for writing exam papers. Spain had no pharmaceutical laws, so anyone could buy a package of it for about 40 for about $3. It was like the European version of NoDoz. CIO

I did not commit any crimes while I was down there as far as I know other than too many parking tickets at the park across the street from the Swimming Hall of Fame, which I paid off before leaving Florida the following spring. Alas I am not allowed to go out in the hot sun anymore. My dermatologist here in Greenwich, Connecticut <http://health.usnews.com/doctors/richard-connors-16049> told me about twenty years ago, I should never go out in the sun again until after 3 P.M. in the afternoon, so I guess I was a bit darkly tanned, when I was down south below the Mason Dixon line almost forty years ago for what it is worth. As we all now know sun exposure can come back to haunt one many decades after exposure.

Since not many people but a couple of old veterans bother to chat with me around here, I try to network outside the area. They told me that if a child is born of Canadian parents outside of Canada, that child or its parents have to apply for Candian citizenship for the child. I used to know relatives of Lord Stanley <888> 03/02/15 Monday 9:55 P.M. I chatted with a neighbor over the telephone. I was told by the night person at www.llbean.com that a United States Citizen does not need a passport to return from Canada but only a birth certificate. That is wrong, unless one is under 16 years old.

<http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/do-i-need.html> . If one is over 16 years old, one needs a U.S. Passport Card

<http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/information/card.html> and

<http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/first-time.html> . It says it takes 4 - 6 weeks for a passport card, and costs $55.

<http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/english/passports/first-time.html> . I have an old expired passport from 1992 which would not help, I guess. The one problem is that I only have copies of my birth certificate and not the original one with the embossed stamp. That might be a problem. However, I do not plan to travel anytime soon, since disabled people do not have the money to travel and disabled people do not feel comfortable going outside their normal routines. Thus the person that told me the information at www.llbean.com must be under 16 years old. CIO

<888> 04/30/15 Thursday 8:50 A.M.. I ate a bag of microwave popcorn. Not much happens out here in the suburbs with nearby Manhattan grabbing all of the attention. I think half the town of Greenwich, Connecticut is under 16 years of age. Thus more than likely a lot of the younger generation are watching children's programming on television. When I lived at 700 Steamboat Road from June 1984 to December 1988, Jim Henson of the Muppets fame was also a neighbor. Across the street from me was also one of the head judges in this area. In my life as a recluse except in this area, I seem to have been around a number of judicial individuals which is why I always try to observe the law as I know it. However, since a lot of people have told me that I look like the former ABC News anchor, Peter Jennings, quite a number of people when I used to be in public were always telling me news stories. Most of them seemed to be coming from CNN. Since I did work as a $85 a week clerk typist for the commercials' paper work at the CBS Broadcast Center on West 57th Street for the three months of April to June 1973, and I told quite a few people that I was working for them, a lot people in Manhattan probably still thought I had some sort of connection with them. I do try to keep abreast of the news, but alas all of the computer technical work that I have done for the last 25 years leaves me a bit behind in keeping abreast of a lot of the news. Since I have a Bachelors' Degree in Economics, I watch the Bloomberg News, when I wake up on weekdays and have breakfast for about an hour. On weekends, since I am a republican party member, I watch Fox News for breakfast. Since I can look at the other news sources on the internet quickly, I do not use the time watching their broadcasts or programs. Alas on a limited income he $100 a month that goes to Digital Cable Television in my apartment setup is under used. I think the Cable Television people should only charge for those stations that one wants to watch, which would save me quite a bit of money. There is not much the retired people on limited income can do in the suburbs, but go to the library and read or go to a local senior center and network with other seniors. However, in my particular situation, unlike the urban environment, there are not a lot of people awake all night in the suburbs, and the ones that are, don't want to be bothered. I have tried to network with the eastern Hemisphere in the early morning hours, when they are awake, but they have shown no interest in somebody on the east coast of the western hemisphere. I guess we have different experiences. Also since I once had a news media connection, most people seem to want to remain private and avoid the media. Since I don't watch much of the media, I do not recognize most of the media people, when I see them. There used to be a few pubs in Manhattan, where some of the media people would frequent, but in my day, the younger generation could not afford them. I have been around media events, since moving away from Manhattan, but alas I do not try to cover media events, since the Greenwich people try to remain aloof from them, since over half the town is foreign nationals with no interest in American media. From my viewpoint some days are busier, when something might be going on, and other days are pretty ordinary, when not much seems to be going on. I think that Conde Nast, Colliers publishing, Gannett News, Time Life, Look, New York Times, Hearst News, Chicago Tribune, Times Mirror, Cambridge Press, Forbes, Readers Digest, Fawcett Publishing, CNN, NBC, ABC, and CBS people used to live in this area. Thus they obviously are pretty well networked to together in their business. Also Donnelly Publishing is in this area. There are also a number of other smaller publications in this area. CIO

Possibly they will install dormer windows on the attic level with apartment on the third floor. I would imagine it might be hot up there in the summer though. <888> 04/29/15 Wednesday 7:05 A.M.. On West 74th Street a half block east of Riverside Park, where I lived from December 1980 to February 1982, it was a very noisy neighborhood with lots of commuter traffic off the West Side Highway. The Riverside Park was good for walking the dogs. The Van Dusen townhouse where I shared a second floor one bedroom apartment with the mother of a friend of mine was behind the playground of a boys private school on West 75th Street. My roommate was the former secretary to the head of the business school at www.nyu.edu and at the time was the head of word processing in Cyrus Vance's law firm after he was secretary of state in the Carter administration. His law office was on Madison Avenue at East 57th Street and Madison Avenue. I would frequently walk through central park and walk around the <http://www.metmuseum.org/>. In the evenings, I would frequently catch a bus downtown and walk around Greenwich Village and visit student pubs in the West Village. At the time Ronald Reagan's son lived in that neighborhood on West 9th street, so there were a few young republicans in that neighborhood which is unusual for Greenwich Village. Turner construction which built the new Greenwich Hospital at the time also built the new annex to St. Vincent's Hospital. I also would walk around the Upper East Side and the East 50s including Fifth Avenue. Those were very cold winters after Mount St. Helen's erupted, and all I had was a $5 blue and black street vendor parka. The Saudi Arabian flag was always flying at the Waldorf Astoria, and it was warm inside the hotel lobby. There were a lot of street vendors on Fifth Avenue around Rockefeller Center selling all sorts of items like nuts and dried fruit and various bric-a-brac. On snowy days, the curb areas of the cross walks would fill up with slush, so one frequently was walking around with web feet. A lot of the wealthier women were wearing those full length duck feather stuffed down coats. The west side in the winter is a lot colder and windier than the east side. I never looked up Fred Von Mierers, since I figured he would not get along with my other friends, although they also had German connections. I did see Fred once in a Greenwich Village pub. I also went to a New Year's Eve Party on January 1, 1982 at Bobby Culver's Greenwich Village apartment. I brought a bottle of Johnny Walker red Scotch that I borrowed from my roommate's apartment, but I only drank a little champagne. I think everyone at the party except myself and Bobby were from some Wall Street brokerage named Solomon Brothers. I think it was the brokerage firm that had recently fired Michael Bloomberg, so he might have been at the party. They were all wearing tuxedos, and I was just wearing grey flannel trousers and a blue blazer. Still, I was once invited to a party. In my West 74th street neighborhood, the Newport Jazz festival officer was in the townhouse just on the east side of the Van Dusen townhouse. Just to the east of that was the townhouse where Sidney Biddle Barrows ran her escort service, so there were a lot of good looking young women coming and going in limousines. I would do my laundry at the laundry mat at the Ansonia Hotel lobby. There was a www.mcdonalds.com near Lincoln Center, but they had overcooked dried out hamburgers. I would frequently eat a roast beef sandwich with mayonnaise on a Kaiser roll that I would get at the deli at Gristedes on West 72nd Street for $2.75. I also would shop at that Gristedes. I did visit the www.columbia.edu area about a dozen times, but I would walk there, so once I walked the forty blocks, I would be a bit worn out as to what to do. I also frequently would walk downtown from West 74th street to Greenwich Village and walk around. In the summer of 1981, which was the only summer that I was in Manhattan besides the early summer of 1973, I saw a lot more tropical people. However, the apartment on West 74th Street did not have air conditioning, so it was too hot with lots of automobile fumes from the nearby West Side Highway. I did buy a used air conditioner at a Norwalk thrift shop for $25, and I brought it into Manhattan, but it never worked. I was once locked outside, and I was able to scale the front of the building to get back inside the second floor apartment window. During the winter, when it was down to minus 26 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, there were what appeared to be homeless people sleeping around the West 79th Street Boat Basin area, so they were not Happy Campers. One person looked like John Cooper from Blue Eyed, Missouri that I knew from www.nantucket.net. It was on the evening after he was first elected when Ronald Reagan had first showed up in Manhattan that I walked the white German Sheppard over to the Waldorf Astoria, and the secret service photographed the dog with a Polaroid camera. On the way back through Central Park at West 72nd Street there was a police presence, and that was shortly after John Lennon had been shot outside the Dakota apartment building in that neighborhood. My roommate's daughter worked at the Liquor Store at the Dakota. That began to get me to think the neighborhood might not be too safe. There was the Fairway produce market on Broadway, where one would frequently see John Lennon and Yoko Ono.. Also Zabars deli was a little further north on Broadway. I once stood outside Lincoln Center with a small crowd to see Prince Charles arriving for some event. I once stood outside the Metropolitan Museum, and I watched the VIP crowd show up for Andwar Sadat. I noticed one well dressed visitor looked like my roommate, so I thought the roommate might be leading a double life. My roommate also lived with the doorman of the Carnegie Tower on the upper east side. In February 1982, I had to move out of the west 74th street apartment, when it was minus 26 degrees below zero, so my roommate's son could move back in. I met Bobby Fink at a east side pub, and he put me up for a week above an apartment above an Episcopal church in East 52nd street. He had cable TV, and they kept running the movie Dr. Zhivago during those cold days. Bobby had to leave town to go to St. Barth's, so my former roommate gave me a $100 bill, which I used to fly down to Key West, which was quite busy with the cold weather up north. It had changed since 1978. Steve Bahl put me up for a few day along with someone with an apartment near the Key West Police Station and a Canadian. My adventures down there were later disrupted by a computer error, so when I got back up north I remembered that. Up north from April 1982 to February 1983, I built the garage apartment in Plandome Manor, Long Island for my New York roommate's mother. I worked every day for about 10 months with over 12 hours a day. I was paid $8,500 for the entire project which works out to less than $2.50 an hour, but times were rough, and I had a roof over my head and food to eat. I also got to see a more interesting group of people out there on Long Island. After the garage apartment was finished in February 1982, I visited my father in Bayonette Point, Florida for a week. I then visited Washington D.C. for a week and New Haven, Connecticut for a week. I then bought a $800 ticket at S.A.S. at J.F.K. airport which was suppose to be for a round trip to Stockholm, Sweden and a week's stay at the S.A.S. hotel, but the jet landed at a military airport in Oslo, Norway, and at the S.A.S. hotel, they told me the ticket was only a one way ticket to Stockholm, an no hotel. I stayed for a few days at the Y.M.C.A. across the street from the S.A.S. hotel in Oslo. I then was evicted for lack of funds, and they kept my luggage. I walked around on a freezing night, and I finally walked into the West Hotel behind the palace, and I gave them my passport, and I told them the situation. After about two weeks of not eating food and walking around Oslo, the United States Embassy had contacted my father, and he paid $2,000 for the hotel bill and for me to fly back to America. They gave me a $100 bill which I spent at the airport in Copenhagen for two cartons of Prince Cigarettes duty free. I then spent about a week walking J.F.K. airport at Easter Time living by the S.A.S. terminal. Finally I went out to Plandome Manor, Long Island on the Long Island Railroad, and my friend there gave me a $100 bill that I used to fly from J.F.K. to www.nantucket.net. I worked there until Halloween, when I flew off Nantucket, and I met a relative in Boston, and I went to Kennebunkport. I then drove down to Vero Beach with the relative stopping by in Greenwich. After about two weeks in Florida mostly in Fort Lauderdale during the Grenada Invasion, I returned to Nantucket until the end of November 1983. I flew out of Hyannis to LaGuardia in a plane with Jackie Onassis as a passenger. I then took the Amtrak to Toronto. I stayed there for about two weeks at the Anglican Seminary at the University of Toronto. I then returned on Amtrak to Manhattan. I walked around Manhattan for about a week staying up late at night in pubs and the East Side airline terminal. I then came out to Greenwich with swollen ankles, and I was in the Greenwich Hospital for a week. I then returned to Manhattan for another week of walking around, and then after a complete physical in the Greenwich Hospital that cost the State of Connecticut $7,500 that said I was disabled. Social services got me a small apartment in Greenwich near Christmas Time December 1983, and I have been here ever since for better or worse. CIO

<888> 04/29/15 Wednesday 5:25 A.M.. Polar bear settles into new Highlands home. When I was in Oslo, Norway back in February and March 1983, I noticed when walking around the Royal Palace in downtown Oslo, there were a number of security people with automatic weapons or machine guns. I guess up in Norway, they might have a problem with Polar Bears that some tourists do not seem to know, but I think that is outside of downtown Oslo in the more northern parts of the country. When I last lived in Manhattan from December 1980 to February 1982, my roommate had a Doberman Pincher and a white German Shepard. I would regularly walk the dogs. It seemed when I walked the white German Shepard around the Central Park Children's Zoo with the Polar Bear, that the two white animals identified with each other. However, I also noticed in the monkey building the monkeys in the zoo were eating better than I was. CIO

I took a fourth of a head of Foxy iceberg lettuce, and I ripped it up into small pieces in a large soup bowl with two sliced plum tomatoes. I seasoned it with ground black pepper, Italian spices, celery salt, garlic powder, Montreal spicy steak seasoning, McCormick southwest Salad Toppings, a quarter cup of grated parmesan and Romano cheese, and I put www.kraft.com blue cheese dressing and Zesty Italian dressing on it and extra virgin olive oil. I ate it with a deli sliced chicken and Swiss cheese sandwich on toasted 15 grain bread with Hellmann's olive oil mayonnaise and a dill pickle slice and Lays jalapeño kettle potato chips and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale.

<888> 04/28/15 Tuesday 11:30 P.M.. For the absent minded people, the <http://www.kentuckyderby.com/> is this Saturday May 2, 2015. About 25 years ago, I was drinking at the Homestead Bar in Port Chester a few days before the Derby with a friend from North Salem, New York. I chatted with an African American with a blue www.cadillac.com with Connecticut License Plate "KENNY" who was a timer on the back side at Belmont. He told me "Go for Gin" was going to win the Kentucky Derby, so I told all of volunteers in the Greenwich Hospital Thrift Shop <http://www.greenwichhospital.org/directions/greenwich-hospital-auxiliary-thrift-shop> , and I called up a Canadian acquaintance that lived near OTB in Times Square, and left that person a message; so possibly somebody made money off that bet. Alas at the time <http://www.interbets.com/> did not exist. Thus they seem to think I am some sort of expert on horse racing, but I have a friend that is. The only time I attended Saratoga in August about 25 years ago, I randomly placed a $5 bet on "Corporate Report" in the Travers, and I won $40. I just happened to like the name. CIO

<888> 04/28/15 Tuesday 11:05 P.M.. For Night Owls, I know one night job in the area that might be available. Over 20 years ago, when I was sitting downtown at 4 A.M. on an August morning, and I felt a seismic vibration, I drove up Lake Avenue and along the west side of the Greenwich reservoir, and I was coming off the road by the dam which I checked out for a breakage, some sort of wild animal that activated my cat allergies jumped on the roof of my slow moving vintage white Volvo sedan. I thought it might be some sort of wild cat like a Mountain Lion, and since my Volvo driver's side window was broken, I could not put up the window. I remained calm as possible, and instead of driving down Lake Avenue which is pretty dark and remote at that hour of the morning, I drove west on Clapboard Ridge Road and up Round Hill Road and west on Porkchuck Road and then west on Cliffdale Road. Around that time at Tudor Farm, somebody was driving in from the opposite direction into Tudor Farm, so they would have seen whatever was on the roof of the old white Volvo sedan. I then drove slightly south on King Street into Westchester County airport and just south of the passenger terminal, I drove into the www.hertz.com rent a car return booth which was staffed at that hour of the morning, and knowing that they might have cameras at the airport, I asked the attendant who was somebody I knew if there was anything on the roof of the old Volvo wagon, and he said "No". Thus that job might still be available. However, I have a neighbor who used to be a parking lot attendant in the parking booth at Westchester County airport, and the neighbor became disabled, when a snow plow in a blizzard hit the parking booth causing bodily damage. Technically a mountain lion could be sneaky enough to sneak on an unguarded aircraft and cause some sort of disruption. Of course it might be some of special forces personnel in the area that had parachuted in and was just catching a free ride. CIO

<888> 04/28/15 Tuesday 10:30 P.M.. I threw out the garbage. I sat outside observing the warmer evening. The lights are now out in the entire parking lot area of Vinci Drive. I noticed there is a lot of jet traffic at the nearby airport, so maybe the Jet Set people down south are returning early for their summer adventures in our northern habitat. I think a lot of the jets come out of the Atlanta, Georgia hub. Of course whether any of those visitors ever dare to visit the simple humble folk in Greenwich, Connecticut is opened to debate. From my viewpoint at night, we just get a few tired travelers off the highway at our local www.starbucks.com on Greenwich Avenue. Of course at night, when I am sitting outside, people can not tell what I really look like in the dark versus what I look like in the daytime. There are always a few younger people moving around our local pubs, and towards the end of the week and weekends we tend to get a lot of people dining downtown at our various dining establishments. Alas www.mcdonalds.com on West Putnam Avenue is undergoing remodeling, but www.wendys.com just west of that about a half mile is still opened. I peruse my own activities in town based on my long time experience and budget and not based on other people's viewpoint of reality. This morning I woke up and ate three ounces of mixed nuts. CIO

<888> 04/26/15 Sunday 11:55 P.M.. Having walked Greenwich Avenue frequently since June 1962, when my family first moved here; it is usually pretty peaceful. Sometimes at night, one hears the sound of what sounds like gun fire, but it usually is a young teenage boy jumping up and down on his skate board on the sidewalk. Greenwich Avenue is a nice down hill slope from north to south about three quarters of a mile long which makes for excellent skateboarding when no one is around. However, behind me on Sherman Avenue near the Byram Ice Skating rink, is a killer hill, which I don't think many teenage boys would risk their lives on with their skate boards unless they want to visit the emergency room of the new <http://www.greenwichhospital.org/>. The snow version of the same sport might be equally risky. CIO

Food is not yet cheap, and I have www.geico.com automobile insurance payment. However, usually around the first of June, the summer residents return from down south, and they take all of the jobs and money from the cash strapped local residents here year round. About 25 years ago, I tried to get the young company www.microsoft.com to buy the office building at 600 Steamboat Road for $20 million, and a couple of years ago, it recently sold for $400 million, so it would have been a good deal for Microsoft. I even tried to get the Greenwich Library to relocate to 600 Steamboat Road instead of building their new $25 million Peterson addition at their current location. One figures www.starbucks.com closed at 10 P.M. this evening on Greenwich Avenue, and if any of my deja vue neighbors were stranded downtown, on a warm 50 degree Fahrenheit evening, they could walk west on West Putnam Avenue, but since www.mcdonalds.com is closed for remodeling, they could stop by the all night Shell gasoline station and watch the television the gasoline pumps, and then further west is the www.wendys.com restaurant that is opened later for a bite to eat and further west is the 24 hours CVS near my neighborhood. Also there are the 24 hour www.mobil.com and the 24 hour www.exxon.com gasoline station in my neighborhood. The 24 hour Mobil station has a Dunkin Donuts shop. I have not checked out the Exxon station since it changed from a Sunoco station. Where Cumberland Farms 24 hours store once was in Port Chester on the Connecticut border of U.S. 1, there is now a small grocery store, but I have never checked it out, so I don't know their hours. If one drinks liquor further west is Quinn's neighborhood bar near a 24 hours laundry mat. I don't venture into New York State, because the political perspective is different. <888> 04/26/15 Sunday 10:00 P.M.. I happen to know why a lot of adventurers show an interest in Nepal. It is well known that the Royalty of India have a lot of precious jewels in their treasure hoards. More than likely the gravel of the river beds and streams and mountain slopes of Nepal might contain some precious stones that turn out to be precious jewels. When I knew Fred Meyer alias Fred Von Mierers living at 420 East 49th Street in Manhattan, when I visited his apartment there from October 1973 when the stock market crashed and the Arab oil embargo started until February 1975, he always paid his bills, when a lot of people were broke. One of the first people he introduced me to was Bill Barker who was one of the first seven Americans to enter Rome, when the allies took over Rome at the end of World War II. At the time I met him Bill Barker was running a discothèque in Katmandu, Nepal and a lot of the flight personnel from around the world stayed at the nearby Barclay Hotel on East 49th street just behind the Waldorf Astoria. Possibly they had access to the precious jewels from Nepal and were distributing them around the world in their Jet Set network. CIO

Of course there might be other people that look like him in the world. I noticed during my past evening stroll near the top of Greenwich Avenue on the west side of the street, there is an eye glass shop, and in their display window, they have a whole lot of little plastic miniature dolls of Queen Elizabeth II <http://www.royal.gov.uk/>. I guess if I were ever lucky to go the United Kingdom, I might be able to fiddle with their computer over there, but I am not too familiar with 220 volt electricity which I think they use over there. Besides, since nobody over there can be bothered to communicate with me over here, and since it is cheap enough to communicate anymore, more than likely they have newer younger people more adept at doing activity like I used to be able to do. Since I am 25% English, 25% Scottish, and 50% Holland Dutch, I try to keep an eye on that part of the world, but alas when they come over here, they seem to think I look German. I would suppose some Dutch people might have a German look. The only Royal that has spoke with me since I returned to Greenwich, Connecticut in December 1983 was H.R.H. Crown Princess Victoria, but I might have spoken with other Royalty in the area, and not known they were Royalty, since a lot of time since I am out in the general public frequently, I chat with visitors from around the world, and I frequently say whatever happens to come off the top of my head at the moment, which may not have any relevance to the local activity or situation. CIO

<888> 04/26/15 Sunday 5:35 A.M.. Since the tectonic plates of the earth's surface go deep within the earth's crust as do the lava formations within the earth's crust, that possibly when a volcano erupts in one part of the planet earth, another area of the planet earth connected to the same geological rift can have an earthquake. Maybe that is what happened with Chile having a volcano erupting and the shortly there after Nepal having an earthquake. It is just a theory, and I have no way of proving it. CIO

<888> 04/22/15 Wednesday 6:35 A.M.. See what is happening in Corn Country <http://www.news-gazette.com/> . Of course the Lake Side view <http://www.chicagotribune.com/> . I did not read any news stories about Federal Income Tax Day which was April 15, 2015. One time at the Black Sheep pub in Port Chester, New York over 25 year ago before my internet activity, I met a pair of twin Dutch brothers from Greenwich who told me their step father was the editor of the Chicago Tribune which I thought sort of strange that he lived in Greenwich. Twins cause confusion, but we also have a set of triplet brothers here in town which causes even more confusion depending on which one, one chats with. It seems some of the local village color has disappeared from downtown Greenwich Avenue, so more than likely they are shopping elsewhere. My best guess is www.costco.com in nearby Port Chester, New York. CIO

<888> 04/22/15 Wednesday 6:10 A.M.. Having grown up in an household with sisters and a mother that like to shop, I know women are not particularly keen in purchasing merchandise off the internet, but prefer to actually to visit the stores and compare prices which uses a lot of energy, and then they frequently return the merchandise. I suppose any local area in this area that has a lot of discount outlet stores is seeing a lot of the customers that forsake the high end stores on Greenwich Avenue. Maybe www.apple.com should open a discount outlet store at the Kittery, Maine outlet center, and all of the Boston people, when they go on vacation will flock to it looking for bargains. Alas, www.ibm.com does not sell any hardware anymore that I know of that costs less than a million dollars or more such as main frames and super computers. They probably do still services on older legacy equipment. Somewhere out there in the world, they are probably still maintain and old IBM XT with twin floppy disks that cost $7,500 originally and tech support was $400 an hour. CIO

<888> 04/22/15 Wednesday 5:35 A.M.. I chatted with three out of town security agencies, and I emailed a local security agency. The general public do not have much defense against random acts of disorder. From my viewpoint the local traffic problem is more of a security risk than planned acts of disruption, since most of those come from people whom watch too much television and probably drink too much alcohol. I ate a blueberry muffin. Recently I have been munching on tiny jelly beans while the supply lasts. I think the real resentment is that people watch too much television and expect some sort of reward for what they watch, and when they only get another cablevision bill, and they are poorer; more than likely they can not get a refund for their television watching experience. The last time I was at the local www.cablevision.com in Norwalk, Connecticut; there was a large group of African Americans running the place, so more than likely what we see on the local Cablevision network reflects their viewpoint and not the viewpoint of the general Yankee population as I see it in this area. I guess they have computers that monitor Cablevision usage in this area to figure out what people are watching. It seems that Bloomberg News in the early morning hours covers the London Financial Markets and later in the day covers San Francisco. They do not pay much attention to nearby Manhattan. Fox News covers nearby Manhattan, but they seem to be orientated towards house wives. I guess with the internet, well educated white males of retirement age can finds other activities to cover, but without wampum they are not going anywhere anytime soon. Besides, when one travels, it gets to be very expensive, when one goes out of one's ordinary routines. I suppose the local business community thinks they have everything worked out, but with the competition from an informed public on the internet, more than likely people are able to share their viewpoints and compare them with other family and associates. Thus the general soap commercials to the mass viewing public of the past do not work the way they once did. CIO

Alas the simple minded people out in the country like www.microsoft.com do not have any idea as to what it is like living in a big city area like the New York City Metropolitan Area. All they know is the television broadcasts. From experience in the New York City area, I know when it is quiet for a period of time, the urban residents are just waiting for a counter attack. They are probably planning a May Day surge of in your face activity. They really do not like free speech or other people's viewpoint, since a lot of them like us here in the country are living from day to day as best we can. CIO

<888> 04/22/15 Wednesday 2:50 A.M.. I no longer cover the waterfront, because with the new high tech laser sniper rifles, one can be a sitting duck, when around the waterfront. I blend in with the local population going about my simple shopping routines. However, even with the excellent security here in Greenwich, Connecticut; yesterday when I was about to cross the street at the northwest corner of Greenwich Avenue and Arch Street crossing east, when the traffic officer motioned me to cross, a woman with a child in a black SUV ran the intersection driving too fast narrowly missing running me down in the cross walk. Thus even when the traffic officer motions, one to cross the street, one should also make sure that the traffic has come to a complete stop before entering the cross walk. CIO

<888> 04/22/15 Wednesday 2:20 A.M.. When I attended http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/George H. W. At the Connecticut inaugural ball, I chatted with an older woman [http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jean MacArthur who was surrounded by eight Joint Chiefs of Staff Marine Honor Guards in Dress Pinks. I drank two Vodka and Tonics, and the ball room was so huge that one could hardly see the new Presidential Couple across the way, when they arrived at one of eight Presidential Inaugural Parties. I wore a $5 used navy blue tuxedo from the New Canaan, Connecticut visiting nurse thrift shop. The previous day at the Dan Quayle http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dan Quayle reception at the Smithsonian Air and Space museum, I wore a used $5 Ralph Lauren suit from the New Canaan, Connecticut visiting nurse thrift shop. However, all of the years that I spent in Lee blue jeans nobody ever seemed to notice me. I guess not many people wear blue jeans anymore. Some rich people wear white cotton pants and blue blazers, and I can do that look, since I have a pair of white corduroy pants and a blue blazer. Alas with the low income people of Greenwich, Connecticut without the huge federal budget of Washington D.C., we tend to dress down, so the many visitors from nearby New York City do not mug us. During the inaugural festivities, I also visited http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Chris Shays office, and he let me smoke a cigarette there, and I admired his bust of Abraham Lincoln. It is very hard to open a quart pickle jar. To do that I take a 20 inch long round carving knife sharpener and I tap around the quart pickle jar lid a number of times, until I loosen it enough to open it with my hands. Since Holland, Michigan has the world's largest pickle factory which is owned by Heinz, they should come up with a pickle jar or container that easier to open, so more old people with frail hands can eat pickles. Also this time of year, Holland, Michigan becomes one of the wealthiest towns in the United States when all of the tulips begin to come out.

Locally there about six red or white tulips that have become to come out at the tulip bed at the veterans monument across the street from the senior and the arts center. We should probably have the local youth guard the tulip beds in town 24 hours a day during the tulip season. Back in the 1970s, when the Dutch were allowed to visit Manhattan, the center islands of Park Avenue were always full of tulips at tulip time. Alas the Dutch are too busy out in the country making ends meet, so there are very few tulips left in Manhattan anymore. CIO

I installed it on the HDMI switch box connected to the Ocosmo TV in the living room. I replaced the six outlet power strip at the that location with the Rosewill six outlet power strip with the individual switches. The rear two switches turn on the HDMI switch box and Chromecast Media player which is on Port 2 on the HDMI switch box and HDMI 2 on the Ocosmo TV. I installed the software for it on the Dell E6400 laptop Windows 7 partition and the ChromeCast app in the Chrome web browser. To use it after turning it on the Ocosmo TV, one has to disable the LAN port on the Dell E6400 laptop from the Network Icon, and then one has to turn on the Netgear Wireless and its wireless extender in the apartment and press the Connect Button on the Netgear Wireless extender and then the Connect Button on the Netgear Wireless USB device on the Dell E6400 laptop. Then one connects to Netgear Wireless network on the wireless extender which has a familiar name. Then one connects the ChromeCast App in the Chrome web browser sends the contents to the Ocosmo TV. Thus pretty much anything in the Chrome Browser can be broadcast to the Ocosmo TV setup including Netflix. One can also send the contents of an Android Tablet or Cell Phone to it also with the available apps. There are many other ChromeCast Apps, but a lot of them cost money to use.

<888> 04/20/15 Monday 12:05 P.M.. For my bird watching friends down by the waterfront here in Greenwich, Connecticut, if one looks at <http://mikelouisscott.com/mlsnote9.pdf> and searches "Microsoft Developers Conference", one will notice the last time I set food on Long Island was March 1, 2007. That was where I saw the six foot tall six foot wide white man, when I got to the conference early at the Hyatt Hotel at Hauppauge, Long Island. Besides the free Microsoft Office Suite, they only gave away free popcorn to eat. Around here www.ibm.com does not give away anything for free, unless one has free Medicaid for the Watson pavilion at the Greenwich Hospital <http://www.greenwichhospital.org/>. The town of Greenwich, Connecticut does give $50,000 a year to the homeless shelter in Stamford, Connecticut. CIO

<888> 04/19/15 Sunday 9:50 P.M.. I took a 10 inch frying pan, I added a couple of tablespoons of extra virgin olive oil, and I heated it over medium high electric burner heat. Once the oil was hot, I put in a 8 ounce Hatfield honey ham steak, and I seasoned both sides with Montreal extra spicy steak seasoning and celery salt on both sides, and lowered the heat to medium, and I flipped it every minute for eight minutes total. I put it on a dinner plate with Grey Poupon Dijon mustard on it. I ate it with a sweet potato that I microwaved for eight minutes with fork holes in it all around with Smart Balance Spread and extra virgin olive oil on it, and Birds Eye Teriyaki vegetables with Smart Balance Spread and grated parmesan and Romano cheese on them and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. CIO

<888> 04/19/15 Sunday 8:40 P.M.. I went downtown, and I picked up a prescription at CVS. I then went further downtown, and I walked the entire length of Greenwich Avenue and the train station area. I sat out at various locations. I stopped by Zen Stationary, and I bought an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar, and I won $2 for a dollar profit. On the way up Greenwich Avenue, I stopped by CVS again, and I bought two 64 ounce Clorox bleach for $2 each and .25 tax for $4.25 total. The new construction of the children's park on the Greenwich Common is coming along. They cut down two nice trees on the northeast side of the Greenwich Common which I disapprove of. Trees take a long time to grow. I then went by the Stop and Shop. I bought three 8 ounce Hatfield honey ham steaks for $2 each, bananas for .49 a pound for $1.15, and a head of Cello iceberg lettuce for $1.49 for

$8.64 total. I then returned home, and I put away my groceries, and I chatted with a relative. CIO

<888> 04/18/15 Saturday 11:45 P.M.. I went out the A&P Fresh. I bought three 16 ounce Marie Callender chicken pot pies for $3.50 each, and I got one free for the one they charged me for this past Thursday, and eight 18 ounce America's Choice small jelly beans for .84 each, and .36 tax for $16.60 total. I then bought a 12 pack of Thomas' English muffins for $2.99. I then chatted with a relative on my wireless telephone. I then went downtown. The first four parking places on the south side of the board of education parking lot are now handicap parking places. I walked a short distance. I then sat out downtown chatting with a few locals. I stopped by briefly at Starbucks. I then returned back home to Chateau Da Vinci in the Buyrum section of Greenwich, Connecticut in the greater southwestern section of the very small state of Connecticut in the larger country of the United States of America in the smaller Western Hemisphere on the medium small planet Earth in the remote solar system of the Milky Way galaxy in an even more remote part of the Universe. In the old days before the internet, the local astronomy club like hanging out at night for their interstellar observations. CIO

<888> 04/18/15 Saturday 8:00 P.M.. In the good old days, when I was around Manhattan from January 1973 to February 1982 living there frequently, a prime rib roast beef dinner with Yorkshire Pudding and broccoli with rolls with butter and iced tea was $7.50 at this joint <http://www.metmuseum.org/visit/plan-your-visit/dining-at-the-museum/the-cafeteria> . Now they are afraid to tell the prices, so it must be more expensive. I have a Dutch friend out here in the boon docks of Connecticut that grew up next to <http://www.frick.org/> in Bedford, New York. However, although he can afford to eat in Manhattan, he is elderly at 72 years of age and 5 foot 7 seven inches tall and 135 pounds, so he does not feel like risking his life going into the Big City where all of the hungry young giants are. He is probably starving this winter, since he was not able to shoot a deer during the deer hunting season. Maybe now that it is warmer, he will try his hand fishing on Long Island Sound. Another relative of a friend on Long Island made a substantial bequest to an art museum in Santa Fe, New Mexico; but I am not sure which museum it is. Possibly it is this one <http://nmartmuseum.org/> . Of course they are not as famous as the <http://uffizi.firenze.it/en/index.php> which was in my neighborhood, when I lived at the Pensione Adria in Florence, Italy in the winter of 1972, when I was not traveling. I know a lot of old people take up bird watching which is not too expensive of a hobby providing the birds cooperate. I was told by a relative that cigarettes are only $5 a pack in Texas where as in Manhattan, they are about $14 a pack. I guess cigarettes smokers in this area are keeping the local economy going. I chatted with a retired couple at the Senior and the Arts Center. I stopped by CVS again, and I bought two 17 ounce Cottondale spiced jelly beans for $1.49 each for $2.98 total. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought buy one get one free of six packs of Thomas' English muffins for $4.39 both, a quart of plain Dannon yogurt for $3.04, a 10 ounce bar of Cracker Barrel Vermont extra sharp cheddar cheese for $3, a 42 ounce Quaker Old Fashioned oatmeal for $4.99, two 26 ounce Stop and Shop tomato pasta sauce with garlic and onion for $1.25 each, a 8 ounce Stop and Shop grated parmesan and Romano cheese for $3.99, two 8.5 ounce Lays Kettle Jalapeño potato chips for $2.50 each and 65 cent can return and bananas for .49 a pound for .55 for $26.81 total. I then returned home. I said hello to a dog walker with two fit German Shepards. I picked up my mail. I put away the groceries. I put one of the 17 ounce containers of Cottondale spiced jelly beans in a Steuben style glass bowl, and I put them on the little mahogany telephone table at the apartment kitchen entrance. CIO

I can hear and see more of the Wright Brothers' invention coming and going at <http://www4.passur.com/hpn.html> , so I guess the Air Force of the large Southern Population down south is returning back up north, now that we have started to get warmer here. I hope they brought some "wampum" along with them, since there does not seem to be much left in this area after a long cold snowy winter. A relative told me, after a long snowy winter, when there is lots of salt and sand put on the roads, one is suppose to take one's car through the car wash a couple of times to have the under carriage washed off of any salt and sand, so critical items like brake lining do not rust. <888> 04/09/15 Thursday 2:25 A.M.. I ate two slices of deli honey ham and two slices of white American cheese. Having lived in the Greenwich, Connecticut area since June of 1962, I have visited Tod's Point in Old Greenwich many times. It has been greatly improved over the recent years. However, when it flooded in Hurricane Gloria http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hurricane_Gloria in September 1985, I happened to see a black wolf with orange mane by the Old Greenwich Railroad station, so there might still be wild life out there. Also at the end of May 2000, I was shot at by a sniper while I was bird watching in the southwest picnic area. That case was never solved or even investigated. All the Greenwich Parks and Recreation did was replace the "No Clamming" signs with rifle shot holes in them with new signs, so it seems other people might have known, and it was either a cover up or a common occurrence. I was told years later by one scuba diver that www.navy.mil seals can shoot from under water surfacing briefly, so maybe someone in this area made enemies down in Cayo Hueso where they are suppose to train the Seal teams. <888> 04/08/15 Wednesday 10:10 P.M.. When I was out at Tod's Point in Old Greenwich this morning and on this past Sunday afternoon, I noticed they are totally remodeling the concession building and its museum at the north end of the beach. I think at one time that building might have been an old stone barn. Frequently when the Army of the South is not here during the colder months, the town of Greenwich is involved in doing a lot of its usual maintenance and improvement which is very costly and time consuming. Believe it or not people actually live here on a four seasons basis, and we get a lot of winter visitors from colder areas enjoying our warmer weather by Long Island Sound. Unfortunately this past winter was not that much warmer, and it was one of the coldest winters that I remember since 1982, when it was down to minus 26 degrees below zero Fahrenheit after Mount St. Helens erupted almost two years earlier. I guess people in this area are used to it. I have learned to spend more time inside as I get older, instead of risking exposure in the frigid weather of the winter. When I was younger, I used to spend a lot of time out in the very cold weather. Alas the Greenwich Library is about the only free place to sit inside and stay warm, and they are not always that user friendly, since in the New York City area, they are always bothered by a large variety of patrons many of whom do not like the colder weather. I have a number of friends from even colder areas than this area, but when they are in this area, they are so busy they do not communicate with me, since I am frequently on a night schedule, and they have no interest in what I do. CIO

I put the three soda glasses that I bought earlier today in the bar glass area on the lower cabinet of the center hallway bookcase. I have noticed that nobody is interested in me on the internet, because I supposedly have no product or service to sell. Alas, I have read and done a lot of research in my life, so my viewpoint might be different that a 30 second infomercial trying to sell somebody some gadget. I have learned to simplify my life by never visiting nearby Manhattan at night, since most people there seem to be enjoying a lot of cocktails at night, and I do not drink alcohol. It would seem to me that a lot of Manhattan people may have money and connections, but they do not always do their home work as to the reality of some situations versus the media hype. <888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 4:40 P.M.. On New Years Eve in 1993 when Thomas J. Watson Jr. died http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Thomas_Watson_Jr. , Richard Van Marter had taken me to New Years Eve dinner nearby the Watson family home in the Belle Haven section of Greenwich at the <http://www.homesteadinn.com/> where New Years Eve dinner was $200 a person. The restaurant was quite full. I can not recall what I ate for dinner, but it might have been rack of lamb. I recall there was a strolling violinist in the dining room, and I asked the violinist to play "Turkey in the Straw". The headlines in the Greenwich Time on New Years Day in 1994 was that Thomas Watson Jr. had passed away at the Greenwich Hospital. I guess since it was winter time on a holiday, the old hospital was not fully staffed which was frequently the case with the old hospital on holidays and weekends. I recall another friend had died of a heart attack at the old Greenwich Hospital on the Thanksgiving weekend. The Greenwich Hospital is not a major metropolitan hospital, so they are not as fully prepared for emergencies as a larger hospital. I know a lot of the heart patients are transferred to Yale New Haven Hospital, but what has me confused is that there are two major hospital nearby in White Plains, New York which are fully staffed 24 hours and a lot closer to the patients in Greenwich than Yale New Haven which can be a lengthy route if I-95 is crowded. CIO

<888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 3:55 P.M.. I once read that besides Tom Watson of www.ibm.com being ambassador to Russia during Jimmy Carter's administration, his brother Arthur Watson was once ambassador to France. Locally not much is known about the Watson family anymore, but one wharf rat on the waterfront told me Arthur Watson's son Bob Watson has a 150 foot yacht that he once sent out on voyage on Long Island sound just to pick up his dog somewhere, so more than likely despite the fact that IBM is not doing well recently, the Watson family probably have a little bit of money left from other investments like the <http://www.greenwichhospital.org/> which is suppose to be delivering lots of babies in this area. I think another Watson family member from Norwich, Vermont is the current ambassador to France. I read recently that IBM employs 450,000 people worldwide, and they all have six figure incomes. My joke is, "Is that to the penny or the dollar." What has me confused if one looks at their web site, it is very high tech, and it is not clear how the average person can buy a product or service from them without dealing an expensive IBM Technician or Representative.

I heated and ate a 15 ounce can of Chef Boyardee ravioli which I seasoned with Old Bay Seasoning, garlic powder, ground black pepper, celery salt, Italian spices, paprika, Frank's hot sauce, soy sauce, Lea and Perris Worcestershire sauce, and grated parmesan and Romano cheese. I ate it with a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. CIO

<888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 3:05 P.M.. According to my friends from Manhattan, a great many Manhattan people openly smoke http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Skunk_weed around the <http://www.metmuseum.org/> now that cigarettes are so expensive there. CIO

<888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 3:00 P.M.. <888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 2:30 P.M.. I went downstairs, and I chatted with the mail person. I sat outside for a while. I chatted with the building custodian. The three pairs of boxer shorts are plaid blue, black, white, and pink. I put them with my other boxer shorts on the drawer of the mahogany bureau of the living room. The Zippo lighter refills came with Zippo cases that had been engraved. I put the two refills in the www.usmc.mil and the <http://www.greenwichcountryclub.org/> Zippo lighter cases. One lifts the cotton flap on the bottom of the refill to fill them, and I filled them with Ronson lighter fluid. I put them in the <http://www.cremaillere.com/> ash tray on the small brass and glass table at the hallway entrance in case any pipe smokers show up in this neck of the woods. In the old days President Gerald Ford http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gerald_Ford smoked a pipe, so there might be other important people that smoke a tobacco pipe. I sure have enough Turkish pipe tobacco along with three packs of Sir Walter Raleigh pipe tobacco that have been aged over five years. Admirals in the www.navy.mil used to be well known for smoking pipes. Also a lot of government intelligence gurus are known for smoking pipes in the old days. The Greenwich Country Club used to have golfers that looked like http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dwight D. Eisenhower who smoked cigarettes. I put the small chartreuse BIC lighter in the same ashtray on the white bookcase at the apartment entrance. I put the broken Zippo refills with the new engraved Zippo cases in the cardboard box on the far right of the large bedroom bookcase that has other lighters and lighter parts. CIO

<888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 12:55 P.M.. I chatted with a relative twice. It was on www.foxnews.com that this happened <http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/watch-bees-attack-children-as-barack-obama-reads-to-them-at-annual-white-house-easter-egg-roll--video-10159199.html> . It is really simple to get rid of bees. All one has to is find the bees' nest or hive and then find the Queen Bee, and very carefully move the Queen Bee to another more congenial spot and all of the other worker bees and drone bees will follow. An experience bee keeper would know how to do that. I think one has to smoke the bee hive with smoke to keep the bees from attacking. However, that is only with honey bees. The same procedure might not apply with other bees like African Killer bees that have been spreading out in this country for about four decades. Of course it is good to have honey bees around, because they pollinate the flowers and plants, so they bloom and yield fruit and vegetables and flowers. Of course African killer bees can swarm and attack in extremely large numbers, and be lethal to the person or animal they attack. Cigarette smoke tends to keep bees away, so if everyone went back to smoking cigarettes, and they took away all of the taxes on cigarettes, there would be no bee problem. Eleanor Roosevelt's plan to secure the White House against invaders was to plant Poison Ivy around the White House. It was on Bloomberg news this morning how much each crop in California uses in water per unit which is quite substantial. To save water in California, they should only grow figs and date palms, and in the rest of the country, we would have to get use to eating only those two products figs and dates. CIO

<888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 11:45 A.M.. I went downstairs, and I chatted with neighbors. They are putting up sheet rock on the Swiss freight elevator enclosure. It has started to rain outside. CIO

<888> 04/07/15 Tuesday 10:35 A.M.. I called up <http://www.millermotorcars.com/> , and I told them about a few automobile contacts that I have made over the years. However, I do not pay much attention to automobiles anymore, because with all of the traffic in this area, I do not consider it safe to drive on our local highways. I was once told the www.dupont.com family buy 10 each of each exotic car that comes out, and do not drive them, but store them away in their collection which is quite vast. I just chatted with two friends. CIO

Massachusetts and out to either Martha's Vineyard or Nantucket, and everyone I chatted with was headed to a pig farm in upstate New York which did not sound too interesting compared to the beach. However, when I was on my www.lfc.edu foreign study program in Greece during the late spring of 1972, I got to see the movie Woodstock at a local theatre out in the country of Greece also the movie "Nicholas and Alexander". I could never afford to buy music, and I once had a Learjet 8 track player and about a dozen eight track tapes that I played over and over again. When I left for Europe on my first trip on January 1, 1972, the song "Bye, Bye, American Pie" was very popular, but the Europeans could not make sense of it. CIO

<888> 04/06/15 Monday 1:30 P.M.. The Warburg family finally came up with an internet presence <http://www.warburg.com/> . It looks like they are now a group of Swiss Mountain Climbers. I ate a 16 ounce Marie Callender mushroom chicken pot pie and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes ginger ale. I will now take a nap. Back in the old days when Nelson Rockefeller was Vice President of the United States of America, and the Republican party threw fund raising events at the Plaza Hotel in Manhattan, they only served chicken pot pies, so you know the republican party knows how to stretch a buck. Of course up until about 1975, five Morton chicken pot pies only cost a dollar or 20 cents each, and Morton pot pies were better than Swanson pot pies, since the Swanson pot pies did not have crust on the bottom. <888> 04/05/15 Sunday 8:05 P.M. I broke four extra large eggs in a large mixing bowl and I added two tablespoons of milk and a tablespoon of extra virgin olive, and I seasoned it with Italian seasoning, celery salt and ground black pepper. I used a whisk, and I mixed it all together. I then took a ten inch frying pan, and I heated two tablespoons of extra virgin olive oil over medium electric burner heat. I then added a package of 7 ounces of Jones' flavored sausages, and I sautéed them over medium electric burner heat for eight minutes. I then removed the sausages to a plate, and I pour off the cooking fat into a cooking fat jar, and I put the frying pan back on the medium electric burner and added two tablespoons of extra virgin olive oil. Once the oil was hot again shortly thereafter, I added the egg mixture and then the sausages, and I scrambled the eggs and sausage mixture until it was cooked but still soft. I put the pan on a dinner plate to heat the plate, and I then put the scrambled eggs and sausage mixture on the heated dinner plate, and I added a toasted English muffin with extra virgin olive oil. <888> 04/05/15 Sunday 6:55 P.M. I sat for a while briefly downtown. I bought an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar at Zen Stationary, but I lost. I went further east, and I picked up my guests at 3:30 P.M.. We drove out to Tod's Point. We parked at the southwest picnic area and viewed the New York City skyline. There is now a very tall thin apartment building on 57th street that looks to be about 50% taller than the Empire State building, but it is very thin. We then got out at the southeast concession area. I used the bathroom. We walked out to the south a little. A couple of young teenage girls took a video of my guests reading paragraphs of "Romeo and Juliet". We then toured the new Kings grocery store in Old Greenwich . We then drove back west on the Boston Post Road. We stopped by the A&P Fresh, and my guests bought a few items. I dropped my guests off at the Greenwich Train Station, and they caught the 5:42 train back into Manhattan. I then returned home. I sat outside briefly. I chatted with a relative. For some narrow minded reason, they think we are a private community, because they rarely go out in public. <888> 04/03/15 Friday 4:10 P.M. I went out. I chatted with a local security officer. I went to my 1:30 P.M. appointment. I then went by the Stop and Shop, and I bought a loaf of Pepperidge Farm 15 grain bread for $4.29, a 15 ounce Smart Balance lite extra virgin olive oil spread $3.39, deli sliced Stop and Shop White American cheese for $4.99 a pound for $4.74, deli sliced Stop and Shop honey ham for $5.99 a pound for $6.05, a 42 ounce Quaker Old Fashioned oatmeal for $4.99, a five quart box of Stop and Shop powdered milk for $7.29, a 64 ounce Ocean Spray crangrape juice for $2.50, a 64 ounce Ocean Spray cranraspberry juice for $2.50, two 12 ounce generic honey for $2.50, bananas for .49 a pound for .76, one sweet potato for .69 a pound for .71 and 80 cents can return for $53.16 total. I then returned home. I carried up my groceries. I chatted with a neighbor who wanted me to make a State Visit to Port Chester, New York to buy cigarettes, but I declined. I picked up the mail. I put away my groceries. CIO

My www.cl-p.com electricity bill for March 2015 was $214.54 for 1032 kWh for 35.59 kWh per day for 29 days with an average temperature of 34.8 degrees Fahrenheit.

For March 2014, it was $180.88 for 1045 kWh for 37.32 kWh per day with an average temperature of 36 degrees Fahrenheit. I will now get ready to go out for my 1:30 P.M. appointment. CIO

<888> 04/03/15 Friday 11:25 A.M. I chatted with a relative. I ate a smoked turkey and Swiss cheese sandwich on toasted 15 grain bread with Hellmann's olive oil mayonnaise and a dill pickle slice and Utz wavy potato chips and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. CIO

<888> 04/03/15 Friday 10:10 A.M. I opened the living room window, and I turned on the fan to air out the apartment. I sorted out the old magazines from the magazine rack along side the Ethan Allen recliner, and I threw out the old magazines. I chatted with a neighbor. CIO

<888> 04/03/15 Friday 8:50 A.M. I threw out the garbage. I sat outside for a while. All Quiet on the Western Front. CIO

<888> 04/03/15 Friday 6:55 A.M. I woke up at 4:30 A.M.. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with Splenda sweetener and milk. I made my bed. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 9:15 P.M. I will now shut down the primary work computer, and I will go to bed directly. I have a 1:30 P.M. appointment tomorrow. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 8:55 P.M. I've been there. It is also at the north entrance of Camp Pendleton www.marine.gov military base Nixon's Western White House for sale at $75 million , so it has pretty good security if you don't mind "Jar Heads". I did not catch any fish there surf casting. They used to have one of the three beacons for the <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/LORAN> navigation system. The other two beacons were on www.nantucket.net and down south in Hobe Sound, Florida. The west coast is not too good for surf casting, since the shore line drops off too deeply. One needs a more gradual long sandy beach, where the fish come into feed. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 7:55 P.M. I ate two 3 ounce Perdue chicken Italian cutlets, steamed baby carrots and a microwaved sweet potatoe with Smart Balance spread and extra virgin olive oil on the vegetables and a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale and a cup of Lipton green tea with ginseng with Splenda sweetener and America's Choice lemon juice. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 6:35 P.M. I went outside, and I chatted with neighbors. I picked up the mail. I went downtown to the www.chase.com bank on the west side of the Greenwich Library. I then went by the Wells Fargo Bank on Havemayer Place, and I paid my rent to the Greenwich Housing Authority. I then sat out downtown for a while. At Zen Stationary, I played an Ace's High scratch card for a dollar, but I lost. I chatted with a couple from Turkey. I then went by the A&P Fresh, and I bought a 18 ounce Tony's cheese pizza for $2.99, two 14 ounce Bird's Eye frozen Brussels sprouts for $2 each and a four pack of blueberry muffins for $3.79 for $10.78 total. I then returned home, and I chatted with neighbors. I put away my purchases. The order for the Turkish pipe tobacco is in process of shipping. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 11:55 A.M. I will now take a nap. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 11:40 A.M. I trimmed the dead leaves off the two miniature palms and the golden pathos plant in the apartment. The golden pathos plant by the window did not have any dead leaves, since it gets more sunlight. I ate a 10.1 ounce Bertolli chicken Florentine Alfredo dinner with a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes ginger ale. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 10:40 A.M. I threw out four garbage bags of computer part boxes and other electronic parts boxes. The dumpster on the right is now for cardboard only. I sat outside for a while on a warm morning. I chatted with neighbors. CIO CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 9:15 A.M. I moved one of the boxes IDE hard drive cables to behind the bedroom door. I put out my pipe smoking supplies on the upper middle shelf of the left hallway bookcase. I have a Greenwich Country Club Zippo lighter and a www.marine.mil Zippo lighter that have not been used in a long time. I tried to repair them by putting in new Ronson flints, but they still would not work, so I put them in the black www.microsoft.com coffee cup on the top right of the new bookcase at the hallway entrance. I put a small chartreuse BIC lighter in the <http://www.cremaillere.com/> ash tray just beneath it on the small brass and glass end table. That location is by the www.harvard.edu chair and near the two air purifiers, but I would not recommend smoking while sitting on the Harvard chair, since it is also just below the central building fire alarm smoke detector.

I ordered two NEW FULL SIZE CHROME ZIPPO INSERT for $4.99 each and $4.37 shipping for $14.35 total.

I ordered $5.93 with free shipping Zippo Lighter Replacement 6 Value Packs 18 Authentic Flints & 3 Authentic Wicks CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 5:10 A.M. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with Splenda sweetener and milk. I will now shower and clean up. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 3:25 A.M. The new dumpster are here. The new garbage service is www.canmancarting.com . I have 45 minutes to go on two dry cycles. CIO

<888> 04/02/15 Thursday 3:05 A.M. After the last note, I hung the mirror that I took down. I put it on the right side of the bed behind the lamp. I moved some more bric-a-brac on to the top of the new CD case in the living room. I chatted with a friend. I will be picking up my friends on Easter Sunday afternoon at 3:30 P.M.. I went to bed at 7 P.M., and I woke up at 1 A.M.. I put clean linens on the bed. I started two loads of laundry. I threw out the garbage and the old periodical literature. I watered the plants. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 4:15 P.M. I will now shut down the primary work computer. I will eat a blueberry muffin, and then I will go to bed. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 3:25 P.M. I moved some of the more important CDs and DVDs from the bedroom entrance bookcase and wire shelf at the bedroom entrance to the top two shelves of the new bookcase at the hallway entrance. They are sort of hap hazardly organized. I also put some bric-a-brac on top of the new bookcase at the hallway entrance. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 2:40 P.M. I went out to throw out the garbage, and the building garbage and recycle containers were not there. Apparently, we are going to have a new garbage and recycle service. I chatted with neighbors. A neighbor threw out a medium height narrow bookcase, so I retrieved it, and I put it behind the www.harvard.edu chair at the hallway entrance. When I have time, I will use it to store computer CDs and DVDs. I have a lot of them. I put away my knits caps, gloves, mittens, and scarves in the hallway sweater closet. I took down a small mirror where the bookcase went, and I put it behind the bedroom door. I chatted with a friend. I picked up the mail. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 1:20 P.M. I heated and ate a 15 ounce can of Chef Boyardee ravioli which I seasoned with Old Bay Seasoning, garlic powder, ground black pepper, celery salt, Italian spices, paprika, Frank's hot sauce, soy sauce, Lea and Perris Worcestershire sauce, and grated parmesan and Romano cheese. I ate it with a 12 ounce glass of Schweppes Ginger Ale. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 12:40 P.M. It says here <http://www.dot.gov/highway-trust-fund-ticker> , the U.S. Highway Trust Fund is bankrupt, so don't expect any big time construction projects anytime soon. There might be a few pot holes in one's driving experience. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 12:25 P.M. It says here http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Long_Island_Sound , there is a lot of seaweed in Long Island Sound, so maybe some local entrepreneur could try raking some of it up, and selling it to the local Japanese with lots of money that like eating seaweed. It also says that Long Island Sound is 250 deep at its deepest point, but if it is a rugged canyon out there, more than likely one could not build towers for a suspension bridge. When Al Gore's father designed the United States Highway System in the early 1950s, he sat down one night with a bottle of whisky and drew lines between various cities and towns of his various political allies, which is why the United States Highway System might not make any sense to more modern people. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 11:50 A.M. I tried to chat with some other people, but nobody is interested in a person that just reads obscure facts off the internet. I was told by one waterfront fisherman that they can not build a bridge across Long Island Sound from Long Island to Connecticut, because there is a deep under water canyon in between. Thus if one looks at http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_longest_suspension_bridge_spans , it is technically impossible in terms of today's technology. However, in a military event, they could probably build a network of pontoon bridges across Long Island Sound, but I don't anticipate any military events anytime in the near future in my life time. Thus one still has to drive through the New York City area to get out to Long Island. The Long Island landscape is not that dynamic, it is just flat and sandy unlike the rough rocky terrain of New England. Long Island is so flat that it reminds me of the Midwest. Also it is about six times more crowded out there, so people are always in a hurry as they try to navigate on and off Long Island. I think a Scott family member once owned all of Long Island until about 1706, but he sold it and moved to Jamaica which apparently was more profitable. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 9:45 A.M. I called up and wished a friend Happy 65th Birthday. I guess he is now officially retired. I will turn 65 years old on May 9, 2015; and I will be officially retired in Greenwich, Connecticut for whatever it is worth. I guess the younger generation for better or worse have taken over the country. Having observed a lot of younger people, when they were younger; I sort of wander what their viewpoint and outlook on the local situation is. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 8:50 A.M. I called up www.pipesandcigars.com about my order which has been back ordered, and they said it might be a week to two weeks before it is delivered. I think I have enough tobacco to survive until then, but I might have to smoke some of my cigar cigarettes. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 8:15 A.M. I made a couple of telephone calls regarding a very old case which is long since forgotten. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 6:45 A.M. I ate breakfast of oatmeal with honey and milk and a sliced banana, a toasted English muffin with olive oil, a glass of 50% punch and 50% cold filtered water with vitamins and supplements, and a cup of coffee with Splenda sweetener and milk. I made my bed. CIO

<888> 04/01/15 Wednesday 5:05 A.M. I woke up ate a bag of popcorn at 8 P.M., and then I went back to bed. I woke up at 4 A.M.. I paid my <http://optonline.net/> Digital Cable TV, Optimum Boost Plus, Optimum Voice, and my <http://www.cl-p.com/> electricity bill and my www.verizon.net bill. My current Optimum bill was about $198, which is about $65 for high speed Cable Modem, $35 for Optimum Voice long distance and about $98 for premium Cable TV. However that includes $25 in discounts for all three packages which covers the two cable boxes which are about $12 and taxes other fees. I ordered 80 ounces of <http://www.pipesandcigars.com/pipe-tobacco/40011/peter-stokkebye-84-turkish/#p-106299> for $1.46 an ounce for $116.80 total with free shipping. CIO
